Fights for Policies

It's a 'State Of the Planet' Talk for Ike

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today actually will be a state-of-the-world analysis keyed to the struggle against communism.

Much of the emphasis, the White House indicated Thursday, will be on the President's previously stated determination to maintain financial integrity at home while carrying on the battle for enduring global peace.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that Eisenhower also is determined to carry a fight for his legislative program and foreign policy proposals directly to the people — if the heavily Democratic new Congress balks at going along with administration plans.

The President will deliver his State of the Union message personally at a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m.

(The 40-minute report will be telecast at 12:30 today by WTVJ (Ch. 4), WCKT (Ch. 7) and WPST-TV (Ch. 10). It will be broadcast on radio by WCKR, WGBS and WKAT.)

Eisenhower canceled a National Security Council meeting which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, kept his other engagements to a minimum, and devoted much of the day to final work on the message.

"It will be not only a State of the Union message but a state of the world message," Hagerty said.

He added that Eisenhower will deal in broad terms with world and domestic problems, leaving most specific legislative recommendations for outline later in a series of special messages.

For example, his budget proposals will be put before the lawmakers Jan. 19. The White House already has announced the budget to be submitted for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and will call for spending about 77 billion dollars.

That is less by about two billion dollars than estimated spending this year. Some Democrats already have criticized the new lower figure as unrealistic and too little for adequate national defense.

The last of the President's three major messages, the economic report, will go to Congress the day after the budget, Jan. 20.

There will be messages later on specific subjects — quite likely one dealing with civil rights. Indications are the administration is preparing legislation bearing on school integration and related problems.

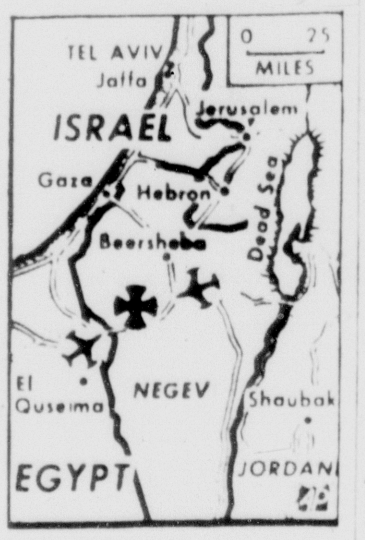
There probably will be another special message on the problem of ousting racketeers from the labor-management fields.

As to Eisenhower's plans to carry the fight for his program to the people if necessary, Hagerty said the President is ready to set forth his views through all media — newspapers, radio and television, magazines, theater newsreels and at news conferences.

"I would think that he would take occasion, every time he can, to discuss, to elaborate on these programs that he will be presenting, starting Friday," Hagerty said.

Asked about specific plans, Hagerty said those would be ready for announcement soon.

Some indication of the reception among Democrats came in a start-of-the-session speech by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader. Johnson said the Eisenhower administration lacks boldness and freshness.



Where Jets Clashed

Israeli, UAR Jets Slug Again

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Israeli and United Arab Republic jet fighters clashed Thursday for the second time within three weeks.

The U.A.R. claimed one Israeli plane was shot down and another damaged. Israel said all its planes returned safely.

An Isaeli army spokesman announced in Tel Aviv that Israeli pilots, flying French-built Mystere fighters, intercepted four Egyptian MIG17s 20 miles from Beersheba, in the Negev desert, and drove them off after a brief battle.

U.A.R. army headquarters in Cairo declared the fight took place over the Egyptian Sinai desert after six Israeli planes violated U.A.R. air space.

It was the second air clash between planes of Israel and the United Arab Republic in little more than three weeks.

Four Israeli fighters clashed with eight U.A.R. MIGs Dec. 20 and claimed they shot down one. Israel said the planes flew over the Negev desert. Cairo on the other hand, said the four Israeli jets had flown over the Sinai desert, were intercepted and forced to flee.

Star's Estate Disputed

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Tyrone Power's widow estimates his estate at $500,000, instead of the five million figured by ex-wife Linda Christian.

The $500,000 reckoning is in a petition by Power's widow, Debbie, for a family allowance for herself and her unborn child.

Miss Christian made the five million estimate in a petition last month for $650 a month support for her two daughters by Power.

"Believe me," said a representative of Power's estate, "the sum will be much closer to $500,000 than the larger estimate."

Stern Path Pledged by De Gaulle

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle became president of France Thursday and pledged to use his strong executive powers to keep the new Fifth Republic on the stern path he outlined as premier. He declared he will do what has to be done for the nation's good.

Immediately after historic inauguration ceremonies, De Gaulle set the new republic in motion. He named as premier Michel Debre, longtime Gaullist lawyer and an unbending nationalist.

There followed an unmistakable sign that De Gaulle intends to continue his strict control over French affairs. Debre said cabinet consultations would take place in De Gaulle's presidential palace, and the list of members should be ready today.

De Gaulle took office in the residential palace, then drove to the majestic Arch of Triumph.

About 200 of France's top figures ringed the gilded Salon des Fetes in the presidential palace, where Coty proclaimed that "the first among Frenchmen is henceforth the first ranking man in France."

Airliner Is Missing: 11 Aboard

BLUFF CITY, Tenn.—(UPI)—A Southeast Airlines plane with 11 persons aboard was reported missing Thursday night somewhere in the vicinity of the Tri-Cities Airport near here where it was supposed to land.

The plane radioed the Tri-Cities tower at 8:32 p.m. and said it was making a routine approach turn before landing. The plane was between five and eight miles from the field at that time.

Southeast reported that the plane was an eastbound DC3 with enough fuel to stay aloft three more hours.

Names of those aboard the plane were not immediately available.

Castro Walks Alone Amid Havana Throngs

City Takes Day Off To Watch

Foes Are Facing Swift War Trials

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — Fidel Castro, 32-year-old rebel leader who ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista in a grueling two-year revolt, entered Havana in triumph Thursday to the salute of booming guns, pealing church bells and the cheers of hundreds of thousands.

Business, commercial and industrial establishments shut down throughout the city at 11 a.m. to enable their staffs to take part in the hero's welcome to Castro.

Guns at La Cabana fortress which dominates the entrance to Havana harbor boomed out a 21-gun salute and church bells throughout the city pealed out a hymn of triumph.

Castro marched into the city limits to the screams of the populace two hours later, as automobiles wheeled through the streets draped with Cuban flags and Castro's rebel red and black standard.

The bearded, long-haired rebel leader, who landed from Mexico in a small yacht Dec. 6, 1956, at the head of 82 men, 70 of whom were killed in the first encounter with Batista's troops, entered the city at the head of a two-mile long column of armored vehicles and troops.

Castro stood in an open jeep, four guards flanking him. Eight tanks and armored cars preceded the jeep. Warplanes flew overhead.

As the triumphal march reached Havana's famous waterfront promenade, the Malecon, Castro got off the jeep and walked three blocks to the Presidential Palace, where he was greeted emotionally by Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

As he spoke to Urrutia at the palace, Castro held a tommygun in one hand and drank three bottles of soda pop with the other. The provisional president broke into a wide smile at Castro's evident thirst.

The rebel hero then stood combing out his wind-tossed beard in the palace's Hall of Mirrors where foreign diplomats traditionally present their credentials to the head of the Cuban state.

Later Castro and Urrutia delivered brief addresses from the balcony to the roaring thousands massed in front of the palace.

Urrutia spoke first. He eulogized Castro as being "without dispute the most modest leader and combatant in history; After defeating the tyranny with an admirable effort, he has not taken power in his hands but instead put it into the hands of a man in whom he has faith."

"We vow to make ourselves worth of this gesture of this great leader," the president said.

In his reply, Castro said he had come to the palace—"a building which I have never liked—because I wanted to salute our president, offer him our respects and reiterate once more that he can count unconditionally on our support."

Castro then announced he intended to walk alone to Camp Columbia, for years the headquarters of Batista's unchallenged power.

"I want to ask the people of Havana to do something for me . . . Without a single soldier ahead of me, I am going to ask the people to open the way as I am going to demonstrate. I am going to walk alone, we are going to show the world . . . the disipline and civic spirit of the Cuban people. I am going to pass through you to demonstrate that not a single soldier is is needed to keep me from the public."

The massed throng opened a path, singing Cuba's national anthem, while Castro and Ur-

50 Persons Held In Gambling Raid

by TONY PATRUS
Herald Staff Writer

Police and state attorney's raiders cracked a lush gambling casino in a North Dade mansion early today and arrested 50 well-dressed men and women at crap and blackjack tables.

The surprise raid on what was called one of the largest casino operations ever seen in South Florida, came shortly before 1 a.m.

Seven agents from the Golden Beach police department, the state attorney's office and the state attorney general's office swooped down on the casino after a week's stakeout.

The raid, coming less than a week after State Attorney Richard Gerstein's men smashed into another gambling "fortress" in North Dade, pointed to a resurgence of gambling activity in Greater Miami.

Arthur Huttoe, chief of the state attorney's misdemeanor division, said the casino was a plush operation set up in a two-story mansion at 277 Ocean Blvd., near the Broward County line.

"This is one of the largest gambling casino operations I have seen in South Florida," said Huttoe.

The raiders used a caravan of cars to hustle their 50 prisoners — including four women — to the Dade County Jail in Miami, where they were to be booked for investigation of gambling charges.

Hauled in with the customers, said Huttoe, was a man identified as Harold Stanger of Fort Lauderdale, who was to be booked for operating a gambling house.

Huttoe said Stanger had leased the mansion — a lavish home surrounded by a fence. The layout included chefs, waiters, bars, and crap and blackjack tables.

No force was needed to enter, Huttoe said despite a lookout stationed on the property.

"We just knocked on the front door and they opened it," he said.

Elephant Who Forgot Kills Friend

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — (AP) — An elephant who forgot trampled a former handler to death Thursday.

Harold B. Cannon, about 40, was killed when he sought a reunion with Sally, an Indian elephant.

He had been one of her handlers at the Seneca Park zoo. A year ago, he left to take another job.

Cannon came back to work at the zoo on Tuesday, this time as a maintenance man.

He was warned to stay away from Sally.

But Thursday, the screams of a woman visitor to the zoo brought workers rushing to Sally's enclosure. They found Cannon lying in a corner with his head crushed. The woman told them that Sally had attacked him.

Now Sally must die herself. City officials ordered her destroyed. "It just isn't worth the chance that it might happen again," one said.

Curator Earl Wells of the Seneca Park zoo said Sally, who is about 40 years old, could be handled only by persons she knew well.

"Elephants don't have the long memory some people think," he said.

"Cannon probably thought she'd remember him."

No One Was Left To Mind the Store

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — All the home folks except a few left-over Batista boys and their guards went to the wildest street party in Cuba's history Thursday.

Nobody was left to mind the stores — they were all closed.

And everybody tried to outdo everybody else in hailing their hero. If anyone wasn't sold on Fidel Castro, he did a good job of hiding it.

When the guest of honor—ruggedly handsome Castro — rode into view, the roar was like the take-off of flight screaming jets.

Black-eyed girls, wearing scarlet blouses and full skirts, surged around the ragged, bearded rebels, kissing their hands and feet and snatching at their patchwork uniforms.

A dozen tanks — prizes from Batista's army — crawled at the front of the parade, scattering hysterical Cubans.

Planes whipped through the skies and a maddening din of whistles from trains, boats and factories lent a shrill magnificence to the scene.

Daredevil rebel drivers with shrieking sirens darted in and out of the throng, occasionally knocking down a spectator.

The weary soldiers held their guns high and fired them with the abandon of children armed with cap pistols.

A dark-haired two-year-old ran with a flag, shouting his favorite word in a singsong rhythm: "Castro, Castro, Castro."

And everywhere in the city excited people laughed and sang and praised their hero.

Castro had come home from the hills.

'Our Nancy' Gets Opera Role

Diva's Heart Hits Bad Note

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music Editor

The German coloratura who was to sing Gilda in the Miami Opera Guild's "Rigoletto" has been forbidden by her doctor to perform — and the step-daughter of a Miami druggist will take her place.

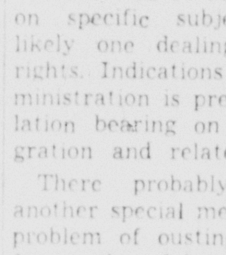
Erika Koeth, who was to sing in the Jan. 26-28-31 productions is suffering from a heart ailment and her Munich doctor has forbidden her to come to the U.S. at all.

She had to cancel her Metropolitan Opera and all other commitments for this winter.

But Dr. Arturo diFilippi, the guild's maestro who is used to last-minute crises, isn't worrying as he did in other years when Jussi Bjoerling canceled because of illness, and Roberta Peters backed out to have a baby.

He thinks Miss Koeth's replacement is absolutely tops.

She's Patricia Cali to the Italian opera world. To Miamians, she's Nancy Firszt, who grew up here and sang with Miami Junior Opera Guild six years ago.



NANCY

For the Gilda performances here she's being imported from Milan, where she is now a regular member of the Teatro Nuovo, the company next-in-rank to the La Scala Opera Company. She'll arrive Jan. 21.

She sings Gilda regularly there opposite Tito Gobbi. She's also sung the role many times in Venice, Naples, and Madrid.

She adopted the Italian name because it goes over better with Italians.

Nancy — or Patricia, as she is now called — went to Italy to study in 1953. Her Italian venture was backed by Florida patrons, Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield of San Marco Island.

She began to make good immediately. She made her

Hoffa Deals Here May Get Airing

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Jimmy Hoffa's financial connections in Miami are expected to get a full airing when Senate Rackets Committee investigators, led by Counsel Robert Kennedy, move into Miami next week.

In Washington, aides to Kennedy announced the investigative team is coming here to tap Miami sources for information in its nationwide probe of the coin machine industry.

However, a close Miami friend of Kennedy's declared:

"He wouldn't come down if the investigation was concerned only with hoodlums in the juke box industry.

"They're probably using that as a front to investigate Hoffa's deals here."

Hoffa, Teamsters Union czar, has frequently been the subject of withering questioning by the committee headed by Sen. John McClellan (D., Ark.).

Hoffa admittedly has invested millions of Teamsters funds in Miami deals, including a million and a half dollar loan to operators of the Castaways Motel.

Ralph Mills, committee investigator in Miami, said that while the probers were interested in the vending machine setup, "it is just part of the reason for the visit here."

He said he was not fully acquainted with the extent of the Miami investigation.

"I do know that Bob (Kennedy) intends to question some witnesses here prior to their appearance at Washington hearings," Mills commented. "Other than that, I honestly don't know too much about it."

There will be no hearings held in Miami, committee spokesmen reported.

It was learned that three Miamians scheduled for questioning are Meyer Lansky, a former Havana gambling power linked to the juke box rackets in New York by the Kefauver Committee; Joe Massei, once with the Detroit "Purple Gang" and Joe "Scootch" Indelicato.

Italian debut as Gilda in Mantua.

"Miamians ought to take Patricia Cali to their hearts," declares Dr. diFilippi. "She's our very own — returning after five years of success in Italy, the land of opera."

"It's lucky that she's been able to cancel two performances with her own company to do it for us."

The Miami coloratura will sing the Gilda role opposite Giuseppe Taddei, leading Italian baritone, and Flaviano Labo, Italian tenor. She is the daughter of Mrs. James Boyle, 545 NE 55th St. Her stepfather owns a pharmacy on Biscayne Blvd.

Five Nieces, Nephews Also Perish

Mother and 10 Children Die As Flames Devour Cottage

BOSWELL, Okla. — (UPI) — Flames devoured a four-room cottage here before dawn Thursday and a Negro mother, her 10 children and five nieces and nephews were burned to death as they huddled together in a bedroom without an outside door.

Bodies of the 15 youngsters were found piled atop one another near the body of the mother, indicating the children had rushed to her for protection. Her husband, Booker Gardner, 45-year-old farm laborer, was away on a coon-hunting jaunt.

Firemen blamed the tragedy on an ancient wood-burning heating stove, pending a check by state arson investigators. The fire had engulfed the house before neighbors discovered it, and the volunteer fire department of this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,000 population arrived too late to save the walls or roof.

Mrs. Aire Gardner, 40, had hugged new-born twins to her breast as she succumbed in the bedroom.

Funeral services for the mother and her children, the eldest a 15-year-old girl, were to be held at Oberlin, Okla., 13 miles south of Boswell near the Red River boundary with Texas.

In addition to Mrs. Gardner, dead were her children, Juanita, 15, Easter, 13, Isaac, 11, Louise, 9, Larry, 6, Joe 2, Omie, 3, Gwendolyn, 5, and six-month-old twins, Patricia Ann and Terresa Jan; three nieces, Bobbie Woolbright, 11, Peggy Sue Ward, 7, and Linda Ward, 4; and two nephews visiting from Oklahoma City, Freddie Webb, 13, and Herschel Frazier, 10.

Chester Stringer, arson division chief in the State Crime Bureau, Oklahoma City, sent two men to check the theory of Boswell City Marshal Stanley Shoemake, who blamed the fire on the stove.

Shoemake said Mrs. Gardner's body was found across the smoking remnants of a mattress, and it appeared at least 11 of the children had "piled on top of each other on the bed."

The Gardner house was three blocks past the town's last water main, and when the tank in the fire truck ran dry, the firemen had to drive back to town for a re-fill.

Gardner had planned to spend the night in the woods. He appeared at the home of Vernon Love, 12 miles south of Boswell, about 5 a.m. Two teenage hunting companions were with him.

Love said he drove Gardner back to Boswell by automobile. He said Gardner became suspicious as they neared Boswell, and Love broke down with the story.

He said Gardner shook him by the shoulders and started repeating, "It can't be so, it can't be so . . ."

Casino Boss Lansky Subpenaed by Senate

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Meyer Lansky, a deposed baron of gambling in Cuba and a former major figure in gambling in this country, has been subpenaed by the Senate Rackets Committee for questioning late this month.

LANSKY

Lansky fled from Cuba after the collapse of the Batista regime. On landing in Miami Wednesday, he said he was going to his home in Hollywood, Fla., and had returned to this country for medical attention.

The rackets committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), disclosed that Lansky was served with a subpena last spring while he was visiting in New York City. It said he agreed at the time to testify any time the committee wanted him.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Lansky will be called as a witness in hearings the committee plans to start about Jan. 20 on alleged underworld influences in the juke box and vending machine industry.

Lansky reportedly has had extensive juke box operations around New York and Miami. He was one of those who came under investigation in the Senate Crime Committee hearings conducted by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) in 1950 and 1951. Lansky was described in them as a big-time gambler and an associate of New York and Brooklyn gangsters, including big shots in the old Murder Inc. mob.

Monitor to File Action To Have Hoffa Ousted

NEW YORK —(AP)— A petition aimed at ousting James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union will be submitted to Federal Court in Washington in about a month, Godfrey P. Schmidt, one of three court-appointed monitors for the union, said Thursday.

Schmidt disclosed plans for the move at a luncheon of the Young Republican Club.

He assailed the Teamsters Union as a "stern dictatorship." He deplored what he termed fear and lack of courage among most rank-and-file truckers, who, he said, were not protecting their rights.

"I am at present working on a petition which would oust Hoffa," Schmidt said.

He said that another aspect of the effort would be to "try to get a genuine receivership" to set up a fair election.

He told reporters that he would submit the petition to Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. Judge Letts has been sitting in the controversy between two factions of the union. The dispute led to the creating of the board of monitors.

Reporters And G-Man Are Struck

DETROIT —(UPI)— Some Some 500 angry pickets hurled eggs, snowballs and insults at Russia's deputy premier, Anastas Mikoyan, and his party for about 45 minutes Thursday night.

Two demonstrators were arrested but released without charges as a State Department security agent and several newsmen were struck by eggs aimed at Mikoyan.

The crowd of pickets surged forward as the Soviet Union's No. 2 man stepped from a limousine to enter the exclusive Detroit Club where he was feted at a reception and dinner. But police reinforcements, called earlier when the pickets began to mass, held firm.

Once Mikoyan was inside, the pickets crowded the streets chanting, "Butcher go home," "Remember Budapest" and other insults.

Earlier Mikoyan engaged in repartee, and "rolled with the punch" on rough questions from businessmen in a whirlwind visit to Detroit.

He preached the peace theme hard, and blamed the U. S. for forcing continuance of the armaments race by ringing Russia with military bases.

In Washington, President Eisenhower, disturbed by hostile demonstrations against Mikoyan at Cleveland Wednesday, and fearing new ones in Detroit and other cities Mikoyan is scheduled to visit, issued a plea for Americans to show the Russian No. 2 man "traditional courtesy" wherever he goes.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, relaying Eisenhower's request, said "the President wants Mr. Mikoyan to see the real America so that when he returns home, he will be able to convey an accurate picture of our good manners, as well as our strength, our confidence and determination in the cause of freedom and peace."

After a quick trip to Dearborn, protected by police all the way, Mikoyan and his party toured the Ford assembly plant and its new 150-million-dollar engineering and research center before sitting down to a luncheon attended by leading Detroit industrialists and businessmen.

When introduced to General Motors President Frederic G. Donner, at a Ford luncheon, Mikoyan quipped, "I can see that you have 'coexistence' in America. Maybe that's because neither of you has an H-bomb."

In the question period that followed the luncheon, Mikoyan parried many "rough" questions from the businessmen.

He said Russia could not produce automobiles for all workers for a long, long time. But it would be speeded up if — as he put it — the U.S. would stop the armaments race.

Ford Board Chairman Ernest R. Breech asked why Russia thought the U.S. wanted to start war. Mikoyan replied — because the U.S. rings his country with military bases.

"You say we are wrong, we say you are wrong," he continued. "Solomon would probably decide to split the blame down the middle."

Raft Not Natural After Cuba 'Fade'

Raft in the Ring, 1D

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Movie tough guy George Raft relaxed in Miami Beach Thursday night, not feeling so tough after playing a bit part in Fidel Castro's unfilmed Cuban extravaganza.

His renowned poker face was still pokerish as he told—with gestures—how armed rebels whisked him off the boarding ramp at the Havana airport Thursday, marched him into a private office and ripped the linings from his two suitcases.

"They were yelling and waving at me and I didn't know what was coming off," said Raft.

"I didn't have a thing . . . just a few pictures . . . socks and shirts . . . then when they finished, this Captain Nunez explained he was just a soldier doing his duty and asked me to autograph a picture he stole."

Raft complied, willingly.

The plane got away 40 minutes late. The other passengers, white-faced and shaking, probably will never see a Raft movie as long as they live.

At the Americana Hotel a few hours later, Raft said he liked the place and hoped to go back.

He made no predictions about the gambling business. He is Havana's most famous casino greeter and hand-shaker; officially, his title is "Director of entertainment" at the Capri Hotel.

"A whole bunch of people own the casino," he explained nonchalantly.

"I can't say anything about reopening."

In superb Hollywood form, Raft personally kept hoodlums from smashing up the casino: Nary a slot machine was dented.

"I stood at the door, raised my arms, and said: 'No!' " They mumbled and went away."

He was unarmed—no gat and no klieg lights.

"I never told anyone I am an actor," he said, "but I guess I fooled a lot of people."

When the rebels arrived two days later, 175 bunked out in unaccustomed splendor on the fourth and fifth floors, "guests of the house."

"Nicest, quietest guys I've ever seen," said Raft.

Raft is 63. Despite receding grey hair and slight paunch, he looks 15 years younger.

His next movie, as yet unreleased, is "Some Like it Hot." He doesn't.

rutia passed through unguarded.

The triumphal procession of tired grimy Castro troopers who had crossed four-fifths of the island, from the jungles of Santiago to Havana was expected to last well into the morning hours.

Sharing the hero's welcome with Castro were his two chief lieutenants, Argentine-born Physician Ernesto (Che) Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, newly-appointed commander at Camp Columbia.

But behind the wild jubilation of the city were the grim realities of revolution's aftermath.

Urrutia's regime Thursday carried out plans for swift war crimes trials against followers of Batista, who has fled to exile in the Dominican Republic. He compared the promised trials to those at Nuremberg after World War II.

At least 20 police and military officers of the Batista regime already have been executed by the rebels following courts-martial.

Look Who's Talking on Filibusters!

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D., Ore.), runner-up champ for filibuster honors, delivered a four-hour and six-minute speech to an empty Senate Thursday night on the evils of permitting too much talk in the chamber.

Morse and other senators on both sides of a filibuster fight spent the day expounding on how long they should be permitted to talk throughout the life of the new-born 86th Congress.

The issue forced the Senate into an overtime night session, almost-unprecedented for so early in the life of a Congress. It recessed at 10:10 p.m. on a motion by Morse to Sen. Herman E. Talmadge (D., Ga.), who was in the chair.

Before the night session began the senators agreed to hold their first test vote today on the effort of the Senate liberal bloc to change the chamber's rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters—and thus pass civil rights bills.

Three Men Lost in Cave Rescued

WHITLEY CITY, Ky.—(AP)— State police Thursday night launched a search party for three men reported lost in a little-explored cave have been rescued unharmed.

The three, whose car was found at the cave entrance, are John Fraim, news director of Cincinnati Radio Station WSAI; Jim Jordan, a free-lance writer, and photographer Jim Brown.

A State Police patrol unit had said a note was found at the entrance to the cave saying the three would be out at noon.

They left in the morning and were supposed to call the radio station no later than 1:30 p.m.

Troopers called in extra patrol units and collected lights and other equipment needed to search the cave.

The cave is located in a hilly terrain covered by thick woods and undergrowth.

Boys Admit Bomb Calls

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — (AP) — Two 17-year-old boys have pleaded guilty to telephoning false bomb threats to Central High School last month and have been given temporarily suspended sentences to the State Training School.

Juvenile Court Judge Burrell W. Barker ordered Ray Duncan and Ralph Hodges committed until they are 21, but he suspended the order for two weeks pending conferences "to consider whether or not to carry out these committals."

Police had accused the pair of conspiring to deliver the threats to the school, Chattanooga's largest, on Dec. 16 and 18. The school was evacuated as a result of one call.

Papers Reject Hearst's Bid

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Hearst Corp. announced Thursday that it had been unsuccessful in efforts to buy The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner and The Nashville Tennessean. The announcement said the offered price was more than 9½ million dollars.

The two newspapers are corporately and editorially separate, but operate otherwise under a joint agreement through a third corporation, of which James G. Stahlman is board chairman. He also is president and publisher of The Banner.

National Summary

Temperatures in the 70s warmed southern Florida at mid day and 60s were scattered to the South Carolina coast and westward to New Orleans but cooler northwesterly winds have been following in the wake of a low pressure system over Alabama.

With warm and cool air clashing, occasionally heavy rains developed over portions of northwestern Florida and along the Georgia, Alabama border. Over an inch of rain collected during the forenoon at Pensacola, Florida and a pattern of rains extended northward into Kentucky and Virginia.

The southern rain pattern will spread eastward ending along the coast from the Carolinas to Georgia during the day and continuing in central Florida with showers across the southern part of the state. Cold air crowding south and eastward will send freezing temperatures into the mid south Friday morning and give much colder weather in the Ohio Valley.

The cold air will continue snow shower activity through the Great Lakes to the northern Appalachians while maintaining fair weather through the northeastern states.

Fair weather from the western Great Lakes to the southern Rockies and West Texas will include 15 below readings in northern Wisconsin and warming during Friday afternoon in the western plains.

Mao Insists on Taking Over Ideological Leadership

Soviet and Red China Relations Growing Icy

LONDON — (UPI) — Authoritative diplomatic sources report an ominous cooling off in relations between the Soviet Union and Red China.

Tension is said to have been caused by Peiping's growing insistence on taking over ideological leadership of the Communist camp.

The diplomatic sources said there is no likelihood of an open break between Moscow and Peiping since the two nations are largely interdependent. But they said relations are somewhat icy.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, also head of the Soviet Communist Party, has decided to call a halt to Chinese aspirations and to reassert Moscow's leadership of the Communist world, the sources said.

Khrushchev's current moves for a summit conference with President Eisenhower and possibly other Western leaders are called one of the immediate results of this development.

A few months ago Red Chinese Leader Mao Tse-tung vetoed a summit meeting to which Khrushchev already had committed himself.

Khrushchev now is reported ready to go it alone—against Red China's wish—and hold such a meeting.

Ignored Order Banning Cigaret Claims

Lorillard Fined $40,000 for 'Purity' Ads

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — (AP) — The P. Lorillard Co.'s continued use of advertising claims that its Old Gold cigarets contain less nicotine, tars and resins than other leading brands has cost it a $40,000 contempt of court fine.

The penalty was set here following a hearing before the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. The court found that the company had violated a previous order restraining it from making the claims.

The Federal Trade Commission originally had ordered the cigaret firm to discontinue the advertising. The Lorillard Co. took the order to the Appeals Court, which refused to set it aside.

The FTC charged last June that the company was continuing to make false advertising claims. The court found against the firm in proceedings at Richmond in November and ordered the hearing to determine the fine.

The FTC's general counsel, Earl W. Kintner, charged that the company had continued the forbidden advertising since the original order banning it was issued.

FTC authorities reportedly sought a $250,000 fine. Company representatives mentioned $10,000.

The latter figure, commented Judge Morris Soper, the presiding jurist, "seems rather insignificant for a company of this size."

Following further questioning, the court announced a $40,000 fine.

Sitting with Judge Soper were Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of Baltimore and Judge Clement F. Haynesworth Jr. of Greenville, S.C.

Not Too Soon, Not Too Late

Recognizing The New Cuba

OUR RECOGNITION of the Castro-Urrutia government in Cuba came neither too soon nor too late.

In the interval between the New Year's Day flight of dictator Fulgencio Batista and Senor Urrutia's firm assumption of the presidency, the United States, as the State Department put it, was able to > note with satisfaction the assurances given by the new government of Cuba of its intentions to comply with the international obligations and agreements of Cuba.

These are the usual assumptions of diplomatic recognition. Traditionally, they imply neither approval nor disapproval of a recognized government. In the case of Cuba, our closest island neighbor among the republics of the Americas, they at least suggest satisfaction with the manner in which the new government has restored order and assumed responsibility in a situation that could have rocketed bloodily out of hand.

Indeed, for a revolutionary government, President Urrutia's operation has the look of an eight-day wonder.

●

IN RETROSPECT it is fairly shocking how poorly the outside world anticipated what came to pass so swiftly in Cuba.

The popular strength of the Castro government was seriously underestimated by nearly all news media and, apparently, by foreign diplomats.

The flow of arms to the rebels was far more substantial than the detectable trickles, here and there dammed up by seizure and confiscation.

The loyalty of Batista troops, who seemed to have a vast numerical superiority, appeared questionable only after the event. Indeed, what has happened to Batista's 30,000-man army? Further, did it ever participate in any real battles?

There are many unknowns in this most dramatic and fast-moving of Caribbean developments in which the United States was so heavily enmeshed.

And they all took place right at our doorstep!

IT CANNOT be repeated too often that Cuba's finest opportunity may lie just ahead of her. If the Castro movement is sincere in its determination to root out corruption, this rich island can come to full flower with the wise use of public funds that heretofore went to one plunderbund after another.

If our Cuban policy is wisely conducted, it will treat with friendship but also with friendly critical appraisal the redevelopment of Cuba under the new regime.

For the time being, the important thing is the restoration of order and the fulfillment of the many obligations Cuba has in the sisterhood of the American republics.

One of these, we trust, is the restoration of free elections under a democratic constitution at the very earliest opportunity.

Chief Headley's Wise Decision

POLICE CHIEF Walter E. Headley acted wisely in denying permission for Miami adherents of Cuba's Fidel Castro to stage a victory parade through the central business section.

Events in Havana following the collapse of the Batista regime demonstrated how exuberant celebrants tend to get out of hand. Nobody wants that to happen here.

Miami, with a large Cuban colony that includes political refugees, was touched by the tides of revolution in the nearby island. Officials took a lenient attitude toward demonstrators, as long as they remained peaceful and orderly. The issue now seems to be settled.

Whatever our individual sympathies may be, we recognize that Chief Headley was right in avoiding a situation which might serve as an excuse for the release of pent-up emotion.

There, Too, Coffers Are Bare

BUDGETS are blossoming in the gardens of federal, state and local governments. Hard-pressed administrators are scratching their heads and wondering where their next tax dollar is coming from.

The cry is for more government services of all kinds, and the dollar costs are pushing up steadily.

If there is any sympathy remaining after the lowly taxpayer, whose contributions support them all, gets his meed and due, it should go to state governments caught in the middle of increasing competition for tax revenue.

In our own state, for example, the budget makers are trying to balance $850 million of requests for the next biennium with $700 million worth of expected revenue. The legislative leaders have taken a monastic vow of austerity and have promised there will be no new taxes. With pressures mounting from special interests, they have a hard job ahead.

FLORIDA, with a tax structure based heavily on tourism, is luckier than some of her sister states.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is wrestling with a $220 million gap between revenues and expenditures and there is desperate talk of such devices as legalizing some forms of gambling and withholding state income taxes from payroll checks.

Michigan is near bankruptcy and Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who is launching on his sixth term, faces a grim fiscal future.

Even golden California has serious trouble, with a tax deficit of $250 million in the current year. It was this circumstance that caused Gov. Edmond G. Brown to seek the talents of our own Metro County Manager O. W. (Hump) Campbell to help him to solvency.

Pennsylvania needs $300 million more, Wisconsin has a $100 million deficit, Illinois and Missouri are talking about new and burdensome taxes. It's a common complaint—in fact 36 of the 49 states face almost certain tax increases in 1959.

Here, indeed, is a sore and perplexing problem, but there are some glimmers of light. The National Governors' Conference, under the leadership of Gov. LeRoy Collins, has begun a highly significant move to study federal-state tax relationships and try to extract some sense from a highly confused situation.

First concrete proposals are that the federal government rebate to the states some of the taxes it collects on local services, such as telephone calls, and to increase the state's share of federal estate taxes.

In return the states would assume a larger share of such joint state-federal undertakings as vocational education and sewage treatment plant construction.

●

THIS is no final answer. But it is a start, and a good one. There must be clarification of fields of government responsibility for tax-supported services and clear ground rules on tax sources available at all levels of government.

The Governors Conference has one interesting suggestion — abandon the system of earmarked federal grants in favor of "block" grants usable for any purpose.

The state executives recognize, however, that the seriousness of their situation demands more drastic action than that. They promise an early report on sweeping tax revisions and suggestions for "appropriate adjustments of program responsibilities."

If they can come up with some real answers it will be a brilliant service to their nation and their people.

Senseless Pranksters

DISCHARGE of fireworks, except at public displays under strict supervision, is illegal in this state. Yet each year, during the holiday period, persons are injured in this way and some are maimed for life.

A Miami attorney faces the loss of his right eye because some prankster tossed a firecracker in his face. An 11-year-old girl was painfully burned by a cherry bomb at the Orange Bowl. These are but two of many reported this year.

It is a senseless type of injury that runs counter to law as well as personal consideration. Parents and schools should point out the dangers to youngsters and the police should act promptly against delinquent adults.

No Open Arms, But No Rocks

NO ONE expects Anastas Mikoyan to be welcomed with open arms on his tour of this country's industrial centers.

After all, he is the No. 2 man in a Soviet government that has much to answer for in the court of world opinion. Crimes in the name of international Communism cannot be brushed aside lightly just because the Soviet deputy premier is our guest.

But he is our guest. Thus, the demonstrations against him are not in order. They smack of the rock throwing, spitting and rioting that Vice President Richard M. Nixon encountered last spring in Peru and Venezuela. We even had our Marines alerted when it appeared the Vice President and his wife couldn't be assured protection from the Caracas mob.

There is no question about our protecting Mikoyan. We can. But howling and rock throwing mobs have no place in our scheme of things.

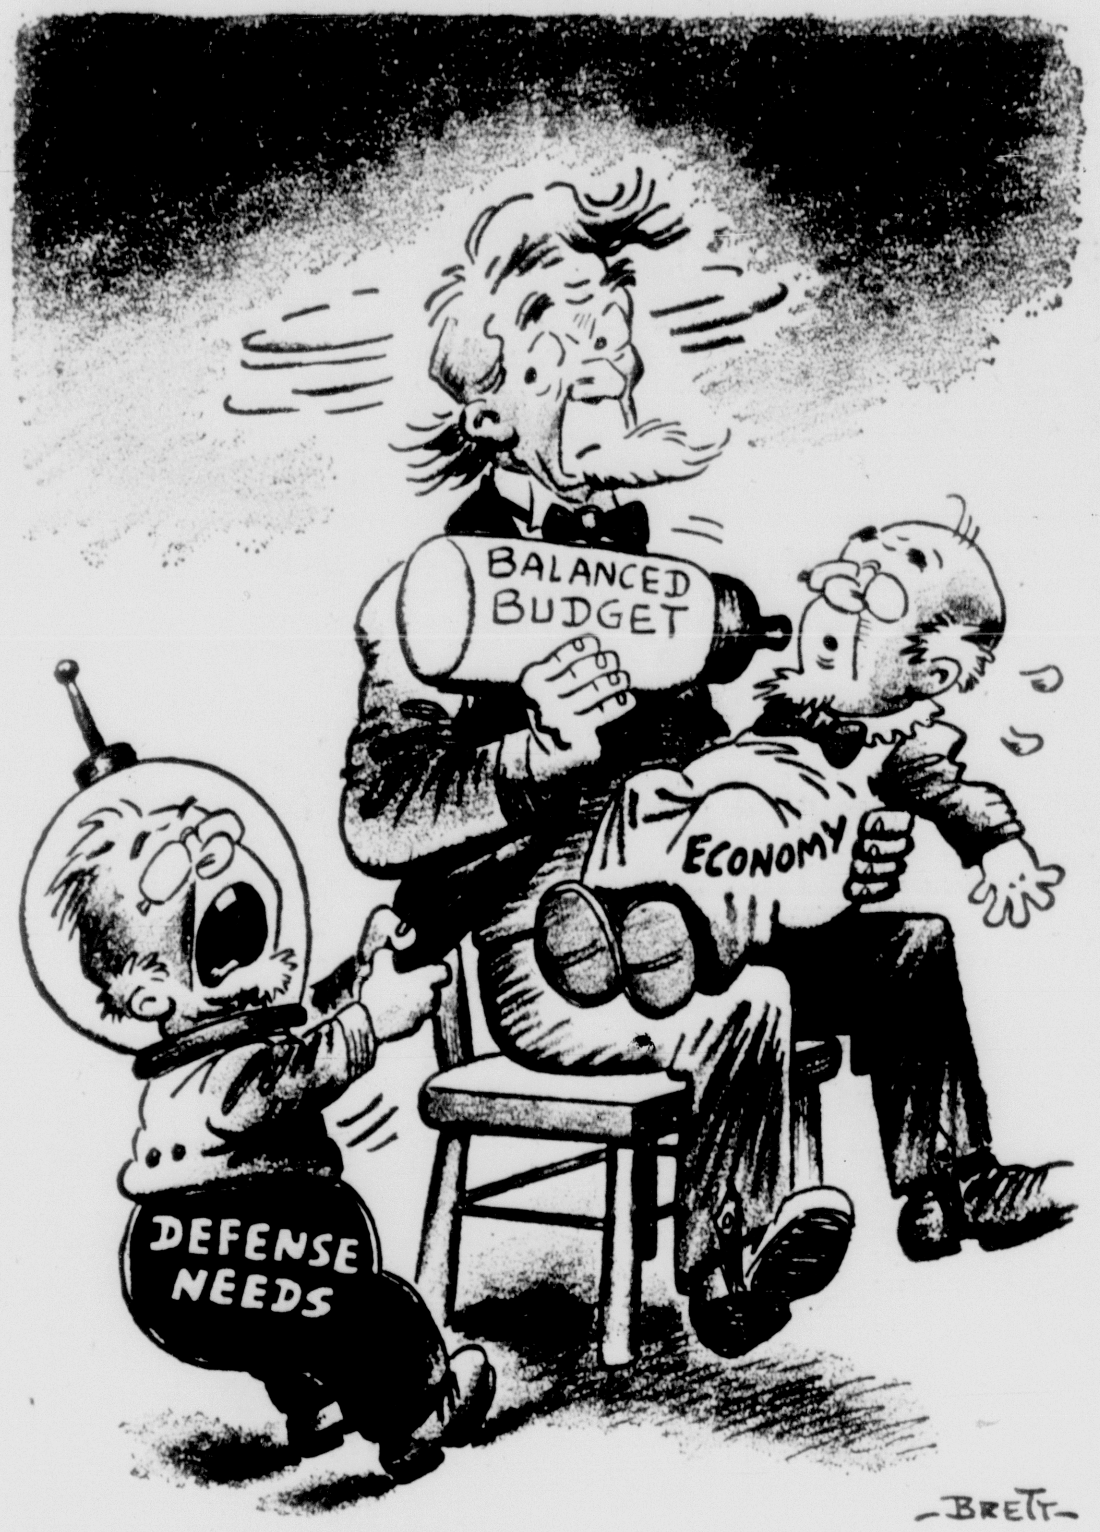
●

TRUE, MOST of the demonstrators are refugees from Communist oppression. They know what it is to suffer under Kremlin rule. Many have not been out from behind the Iron Curtain long enough to gain United States citizenship.

Their resentment is natural. But their conduct is the way of the Communists, who inspired the anti-Nixon demonstrations. It is not our way.

Mikoyan should be given a cold smile and a not-too-warm handshake. He knows we disapprove of everything for which his government stands.

State Of The Union



Voice Of The People

New York Now, Then Nation

Editor The Herald: As a daily reader of The Herald and former resident of Hyde Park, N.Y., I have been interested, from time to time, in the articles of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

A recent one deals with the latest attempt by a union to organize the fire and police departments of the City of New York. The union would replace the fire protection and law enforcement agencies in their prerogatives of local government. Should this occur, New York would only be the stepping stone; from there, gradually, the nation.

It would seem to me that John Q. Citizen should remonstrate strongly against this type of usurpation. Who is running the nation, duly elected legislators or a group of dictatorial union heads?

As a vestryman in St. James Episcopal Church, Hyde Park, I have had the pleasure of conducting Mrs. Roosevelt to her pew in our church. Although I do not subscribe to her opinions in many things, it is refreshing to note her stand on this issue.

Long Tradition Behind Hopkins

Editor The Herald: This is what Lindsey Hopkins means to me and thousands of other pupils who attend the school. We come from all parts of the world seeking knowledge of the American language and trades and skills.

After building an adult education program for 16 years, the school is now being threatened by people who would break up the program by assigning classes to various schools throughout the city instead of keeping them all together in one building.

Sixteen years have gone into building the Lindsey Hopkins Adult Education Center tradition. Let us keep up the fine standard it has set for all this time.

Well, Red Methods Are Tricky, Too

Editor The Herald: On page 2-A of The Herald for Jan. 6 a headline says, "Mikoyan In Capital: There Will Be Peace." (The spelling is yours.)

On a later page another story is headed, "Mikoyan Trickery Familiar." And still again, an 8-column banner asks "Is Mikoyan Paving Way for Visit by Nikita?"

So we find all in one momentous day that Mikoyan is bringing us peace, but it is well known that he is tricky, and come to think of it, is he only an advance guard for the big boss?

IF it wasn't one of your New Year's resolutions, let's all resolve now to put the United Fund over the top.

He Was Done In On Dunn's Dash

Editor The Herald: Harry H. Young criticized a letter written by me referring to the telecast of the Florida-Mississippi football game.

In my original letter I mentioned that the 56-yard run by Jimmy Dunn of Florida was missed because we were having the commercial.

I would like to mention that I am an avid football fan and attend most of the games. I watch the games on TV, Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Young must not be a football fan. If he is he would have been plenty sore about missing this thrilling dash by our Florida boy.

SORRY YOU MISSED THAT FIFTY-SIX YARD RUN-

I do not smoke cigarets because I smoke cigars. I use another shaving lotion because it is better in my opinion. The reason that I paid $400 for a TV, was because I like football.

NORMAN E. BROWN

A Black Plague On Both Parties

Editor The Herald: In reading a recent Congressional Quarterly release in The Herald headlined "Platforms Shortchange Public," it was most surprising to find that both the Democratic and Republican parties had promised tax reductions, especially for low and middle income groups. No such reduction occurred during the last Congress.

I am a Democrat first, last, and always — but if our two major parties continue to give misleading vote-getting promises to the electorate, surely they will rise up in self defense and request more than just words or empty phrases. They will demand action!

May the voice of the people be heard in the next Congress and may the politicians adhere to the will of the people.

Local Handling Still The Best

Editor The Herald: Praise to Roscoe Drummond for advocating local handling of possible future bombing incidents.

Local law enforcement agencies which keep their finger on the pulse of local goings-on are the only media through which such affairs should be managed.

The governing men of Washington, D. C., should stick to maintaining a harmonious and helpful liaison among the local units of people by whom they have been elected, or by whose elect they have been appointed, and leave local affairs in control of local hands.

We Sure Are Cultured Now

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

MOZART LIES buried in an unknown grave, Schubert expired in the bleakest of poverty and neglect, but we may be proud that modern-day America is more respectful of its composers.

Harris

A heartening cultural note was struck last month, when Syracuse University proclaimed its permanent possession of the original manuscripts of songs—by Jule Styne.

From henceforth to eternity, the musical compositions of Mr. Styne will rest securely in the George Arents rare book room of the university—another triumph for higher education in 20th century America.

The dedicated student of music may now examine at his leisure the original scores of such trail-breaking films as "West Point Story" and "Pink Tights."

★ ★ ★

IN A QUIVER of academic light, he may pore over such treasures as "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend," from that masterpiece of lyrical splendor, the musical comedy, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Perhaps, a thousand years from now, some archeologist will stumble across the ruins of the George Arents rare book room, and, delving among the rubble, come up with a find that is comparable to our recent exhumation of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Imagine the excitement of musical connoisseurs in 2059, when they bring to light the original scores of "Bye, Bye, Baby," "Hold Me, Hold Me, Hold Me," "How Do You Speak to an Angel?" "Papa, Won't You Dance With Me?" and "Money Burns a Hole in My Pocket."

★ ★ ★

CAN YALE boast of any distinction to match Syracuse? Does New Haven have the original manuscript of "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round"? — not a Styne song, to be sure, but an equally distinguished contribution to counterpoint.

Has Harvard ever managed to get its hands on the score of "I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate" or "Take Me Back to Nagasaki, Where the Men All Chew Tobacco, and the Women Wicky-Wacky Woo"?

I have lately heard rumors (possibly untrue) that the University of Chicago is bidding hotly for the first folio of "Purple People Eater," since it feels that its collection of stale old Bach fugues and Beethoven trios puts its music school hopelessly behind the times. This acquisition ought to show Syracuse it isn't the only college on its toes.

Behind The Front Page

State's Schools Are Common Obligation

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

"HOW CAN it be possible," writes Claude Colton of Fort Lauderdale, "Escambia County can get $8 million and only raises $2 million for its schools while Dade County gets $26.5 and raises $33 million?

"I would like to have a real explanation of the school fund distribution by the state."

★ ★ ★

Before 1947 the situation in Florida schools was not unlike that in Dade County at an earlier date.

Pennekamp

There were 10 school districts in the county, each called upon to provide the major portion of its own financing.

Two — Miami Beach and downtown Miami — were wealthy. Miami Beach schools had so much money that they operated almost as a separate system. Miami's growth had caused removal from close in of many families with children of school age resulting in plenty of money where schools were no longer needed.

The other eight districts suffered. They were dominated by homes, many exempt from real estate taxes. Thus they could not raise the money with which to build schools.

Residents of the whole community recognized the education of the children as their common responsibility. The Legislature combined the districts into one, thus ending the unbalanced situation.

IN 1947 the state adopted the minimum foundation program.

Under it the state recognizes its common obligation to give to each boy and girl in the state an acceptable minimum education.

After that objective is met the individual counties may, if they wish, contribute further to additional educational opportunties for their children.

However, the formula is involved.

The state first decides what will be the total cost of its minimum program, using the number of children and the teacher salary schedule which is based on training in the computation.

Then the state calculates its wealth as compared with the wealth of each county to determine how much each county must contribute to its local school program.

The state makes up the difference between what it finds the county must pay and the estimated cost of the minimum program in each county.

★ ★ ★

EACH COUNTY'S share of the state's wealth is figured on:

1—Its sales tax returns.

2—The number of employed workers excluding government and farm workers.

3—Value of its farm products.

4—Assessed value of railroad and telegraph property.

5—Automobile tag registrations.

Counties like Dade with large numbers of seasonal visitors get hurt by the sales tax return. The others fairly balance each other out.

★ ★ ★

HERE ARE SOME other comparisons, taken from the 1957-58 budget:

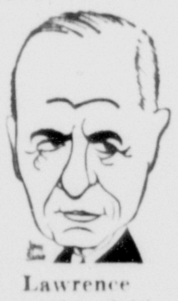
Some Hard Questions For Visiting Fireman

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — As the deputy premier of the Soviet government, Anastas Mikoyan is entitled to a courteous reception by the officials of the United States government. The American people however, are under no obligation to embrace a man whose hands are dripping with the blood not only of his fellow-countrymen but of the people of Hungary and the other captive nations in Eastern Europe.



Lawrence

Indeed, this is the opportunity of a lifetime to do something for the millions of persons imprisoned even now in slave labor camps in Russia and for the millions who are denied freedom behind the Iron Curtain. For, as Mikoyan travels around America, questions can be asked him publicly concerning the conditions inside the Soviet Union for which he, as a part of the Kremlin apparatus, is responsible.

★ ★ ★

WHEN, for instance, will censorship be removed so that the Iron Curtain can be lifted for the more than 300 million people who today are being forbidden to learn the truth of what's going on in the world around them or outside their countries?

WHEN will the millions of innocent men and women under Kremlin control who have been thrust into jail, without a hearing or a trial, be given a chance to regain their liberty?

WHEN will the elderly persons in the Soviet Union who have children in the United States and other countries be permitted to leave their native land so they may visit their families abroad?

WHEN will the people of the Soviet Union be given a chance to vote in a free election—an election in which more than the government's own party is allowed to put up candidates?

WHEN will the right of self-government be given once more to Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and East Germany?

WHEN will freedom of expression be permitted for the writers of the Soviet Union, and when will an author like Boris Pasternak be allowed to accept an award such as the Nobel prize for literature?

WHEN will the Kremlin withdraw its troops from the smaller countries contiguous to it and let their peoples enjoy complete sovereignty?

ABOVE ALL, when will the Soviet government begin to honor its pledges and its promises as written in treaties, agreements and documents of an international nature in the 13 years since the close of World War II?

For there can be no assurance of peace if one of the powerful governments, with a vast military machine at its disposal, can at any time violate its written word and plunge the world into war.

There can be no trust, moreover, as long as the basic principles of freedom and a free society are ignored by the tyrants and autocrats in the Kremlin.

★ ★ ★

ANASTAS MIKOYAN is a symbol of dictatorship. This very week Americans generally —especially those on the "liberal" side—have been enthusiastically acclaiming Fidel Castro and expressing satisfaction that Batista, the dictator, has been overthrown in Cuba. Americans ought not to adopt one rule for dictators in this hemisphere and another for the dictators in Europe.

Anastas Mikoyan is not deserving of the social embraces which some short-sighted Americans are giving him. He could mistake this for approval of Communist methods and customs.

Will Communists Gain?

West Germans Worried About Possible 'Deal'

By DAVID M. NICHOL

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN — There is a sense of uneasiness and foreboding these days among those West Germans who ponder much about their international future.

NICHOL

Among other items, they don't share the rosy-tinged optimism about Berlin which Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan's visit seems to have produced in Washington.

Fear of a deal at Germany's expense still lurks in the back of many minds no matter what official assurances may be given.

★ ★ ★

THEY HAVE suffered a damaging blow in the Middle East as well and this is a region where the West Germans felt they exercised important influence.

United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser's ostentatious reception for East German Premier Otto Grotewohl and his agreement to exchange consulates with East Berlin are only one step removed from official recognition of East Germany's Communist regime, it is felt here.

★ ★ ★

MORE DISTURBING than these individual happenings, however, is the feeling that they represent an emerging new trend in world affairs which will end with official acknowledgement on all sides of the existing status quo and final division of Germany itself, in law as well as in fact.

This is the goal towards which Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has been striving ever since he became an important star in the Kremlin constellation.

Thoughtful Germans fear now that he is within striking distance of achieving it.

★ ★ ★

WEST GERMANY'S claim to be the only legitimate government for Germany is complex and only poorly understood in many places.

In addition and particularly among so-called "uncommitted nations," as one German writer points out today, this struggle is beginning to be a bore.

If recognition of Communist East Germany is the only bar to world peace, their argument runs, then let's get on with it.

Uncommitted nations generally are those most in need of economic assistance which cannot be forthcoming in necessary amounts while major countries are struggling with armaments burdens.

★ ★ ★

ACKNOWLEDGMENT of the existing status quo by the Western world would have far more sweeping implications than many appreciate.

Above all it involves moral and legal surrender of any concern for the peoples within the Soviet sphere in Eastern Europe and acceptance of the present Communist regime as permanent and correct.

The western world until now has viewed the Communist rule as a temporary and unacceptable aberration. This is rankling in the Kremlin itself and is a course of continued potential unrest and danger in the rest of the Soviet sphere.

Martin Spurned By Ike

By DREW PEARSON

DESPITE PRETENSES of neutrality, the White House did not remain aloof in the bitter battle between Joe Martin, 74, of Massachusetts, and Charlie Halleck, 57, of Indiana for the GOP leadership of the House.

PEARSON

Ike et al pulled wires vigorously behind the scenes for Halleck.

In fact, the drive for Halleck was launched about six weeks ago at a secret White House meeting attended by Halleck and presidential aides Jerry Morgan and Jack Anderson.

Edward A. McCabe, assistant counsel to Eisenhower, also present.

They planned the strategy for the Halleck campaign, decided to canvass the 153 House Republicans for the necessary votes to unseat Martin.

The canvassing job was then turned over to three Halleck adherents — GOP Congressmen Robert Wilson of California, Gerald Ford of Michigan, and John Byrnes of Wisconsin.

This trio began a barrage of long-distance telephoning to GOP colleagues, most of them at home for Christmas.

★ ★ ★

THE ANTI-MARTIN campaign reached a climax at a big "pep" session several days ago at the Congressional Hotel, attended by 35 Halleck supporters.

Halleck showed up as the secret confab was ending, with a press statement he had already written, announcing his candidacy.

★ ★ ★

MARTIN FORCES were also busy — belatedly. Martin phoned numerous colleagues, pleading for support. He even went to the extent of phoning GOP Rep. Frances Bolton of Ohio while she was eating lunch in the House restaurant.

But the situation looked so desperate it was decided to negotiate a "truce."

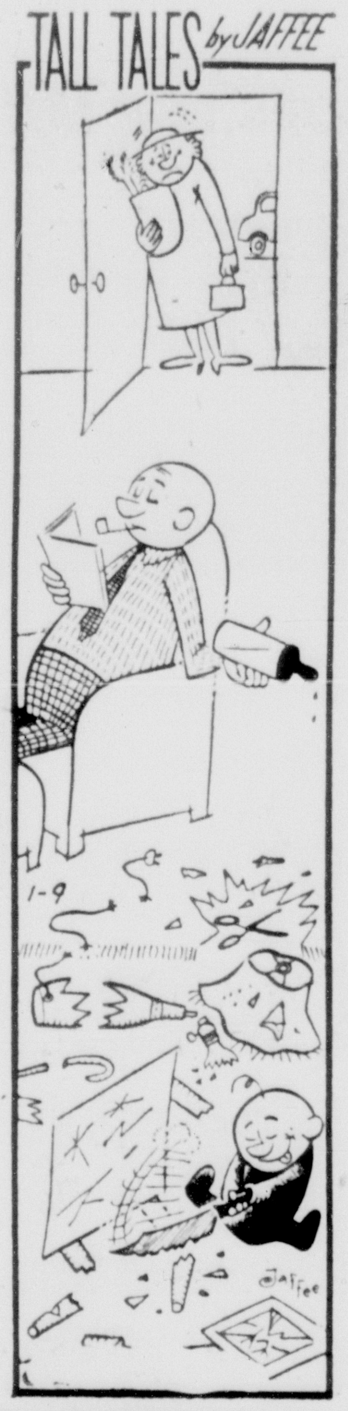
Following a strategy session in Martin's office, House GOP Whip Les Arends of Illinois called on Halleck with a proposal that Martin would step down as chairman of the GOP policy committee and agree to name Halleck assistant floor leader — if the Hoosier would get out of the race.

Halleck turned the offer down.

At another Martin strategy session, Rep. Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania angrily told Pennsylvania Republicans that Martin was a victim of "White House connivery."

★ ★ ★

NOTE — Vice President Richard Nixon, like the White House, denied to friends that he had any hand in the House leadership battle. However, one of the principal Halleck supporters, Rep. Wilson of California, is a Nixon protege who seldom makes a move without calling Dick.



Life, Death Mystery Is Quite Beyond Us

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

SOME MEMBERS of my family had come to visit me and we were all gay, when a telephone message came in to say that my friend and colleague, Seymour Berkson, publisher of The New York Journal American had died suddenly of a heart attack.

SOKOLSKY

Seymour was a young and valiant newspaperman who rapidly reached the top of his craft.

Berkson had his warning but would not stop.

He worked up to the last moment without regard to his health. He dictated 10 pages of instructions about news and then he died.

★ ★ ★

THERE IS NOTHING amusing in the news of the day and yet, if we are not to be bored, there must be something going on that is amusing, even if it is only an old lady robbing a bank.

Women who rob look so sweet and casual.

But the reporter devotes himself in this era to the big criminals who head governments and die in bed, poisoned by their successors as Lenin and Stalin probably were.

It is a mad era and the madness is among the great as among the simple people who believe that they can still get rich and live fabulous lives by cheating on their income taxes or the rich who hide their money here and there until one day, Congress will abolish green money and print purple money.

A newsman, like Seymour Berkson, was on the top of all this and it worried him and he was everlastingly in search of a story until his heart grew tired and gave out.

★ ★ ★

ONE THINKS OF SO MANY things, lying on one of those hard hospital beds that seem never to fit just right in spite of all the winding up the nurses do.

And one thinks of man and God. What does a man think about who has no God?

The pain is great. The night is dark.

If one complains too much, the nurse will give him another shot.

What can one think about to avoid the shot? About oneself? What is oneself?

On that stretcher, king and beggar are equal. Both are in a deep sleep. Both are pushed about and mauled and cut into. Truly both are "stiffs." And either can die.

Before one goes to be operated upon, these thoughts, in one form or another, run through the mind as they did through mine and as I am sure they ran through Seymour Berkson's for he was of a philosophic turn.

★ ★ ★

IT BECOMES SO CLEAR as the days pass and the eyes open to sunlight that the will to live is so important as part of the cure.

Not everyone has the will to live, for so many know of no reason why they should continue to live.

But if one feels God's presence, that is, if one is so passionately a believer in God's gentle mercy and if one believes that prayer does aid, prayer has therapeutic value because it strengthens the will to live.

If one does not live any longer for himself, he lives in response to his prayers to God.

But to live every person who has been ill must sacrifice much. He must learn to restrain himself. He must learn not to get tired.

Suddenly one is well when nobody understands why he is so quickly recovered, except that in the patient's own mind, he has never really been what is called sick; he has had an accident but he is a well man, a whole man and to prove it he smiles.

It is such a marvelous feeling — that smile. For it is life restored. Dead men do not smile.

But the live man, if he is a heart patient, must learn self-restraint. That becomes the essence of his living.

The mysteries of life and death are beyond us.

Quarrels and Cooperation

86th Congress Plays Tune With Eye on 1960 Cotillion

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

WASHINGTON — There will be a little bit of everything in the political game as it will be played by the 86th Congress.

McGAFFIN

It opened amid intraparty quarrels that had Capitol Hill wits wisecracking about "our four-party system."

There will be more quarrels before its two years are over. But there will be cooperation along party lines, too.

And there will also be times when the old coalition of Southern Democrats and Conservative Republicans lines up against Liberal Democrats and Liberal Republicans.

The reason for both the quarrels and the cooperation will be the same—the pull of 1960 on the thinking of the 436-member House (283 Democrats, 153 Republicans) and the 98-member Senate (64 Democrats, 34 Republicans).

The Republicans on both sides of the Capitol got into a donnybrook over who was to lead them these two coming years because of the lacing the party suffered in the last election.

A vital need was felt to put a new face on the party in anticipation of the 1960 presidential election campaign.

The Republican "Liberals" in the Senate gained a voice in policy making by putting Thomas Kuchel (Calif.) in as whip, or assistant minority leader.

But Republican "Conservatives" took over the four other party jobs, including the important position of minority leader won by Everett Dirksen (Ill.).

★ ★ ★

WHATEVER the Republicans do in the House and Senate, however, they will always have one eye on 1960. That goes for the Democrats, too.

Each party is anxious to make a good record it can run on. That is why there will be cooperation along with the quarrels.

The quarrels will be over what's the best thing to do, the cooperation will be to get it done, once the course is decided.

With the Senate Democrats, the opening fight—over an attempt to curb the filibusters—is connected with the Liberals' desire to get stronger civil rights legislation through and the Southern Democrats' anxiety to block it.

Party lines are being crossed in this fight, with Liberal Democrats such as Paul Douglas (Ill.) and Liberal Republicans, such as Jacob Javits (N.Y.) combining against a coalition of Southern Democrats and Conservative Republicans.

THE DEPTH of the quarrel among the Senate Democrats is demonstrated by the fact that the Democratic steering committee, chaired by Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (Tex.), has not yet met to decide committee assignments and chairmanships.

It is possible that Douglas, who is in line to once again be chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, will be punished for leading the fight against the filibuster with his job going instead to John Sparkman (Ala.).

The Liberal Democrats are also negotiating to get increased membership on the judicial and other key committees — in an effort to curb filibustering of bills in the committees.

But it remains to be seen how far they will get with this when the steering committee finally meets.

Twins Travel Well

Choo-Choo Loafs Into Sun

By JIM BISHOP

MIAMI, Florida—We met the Champion at Newark. The Red Cap studied the pile of luggage, the infant twins, the strollers, and us. "Let's not even count it," he said. "Just call it a truckload."

BISHOP

So we called it a truckload and he piled the typewriter, the hat boxes, the valises, etc., on a handtruck and somehow, we, the baggage and the babies all made the train.

Mr. Brown was the porter in car A-151. He knew more about how to take care of five month-old twin girls on a train than the parents. He isn't young, but he has a memory for babies.

He opened a berth across the compartment, and laid them crosswise on it. "That way," he said, "when the train start and stop, they can't fall."

All afternoon and all night and part of the next day, the Florida East Coast Champion emitted a subdued roar. The cars swung around the big curves at Baltimore and Washington and Richmond.

In the middle of the night, Rocky Mount and Charleston and Savannah went by the big windows like stereopticon slides. In the morning, Jacksonville.

★ ★ ★

DID THIS BOTHER the tender little girls? They slept like kittens and ate like tigers.

Ginny and Charlie were afraid that the heating of bottles and vegetables might be a problem. It wasn't.

Bill Campbell, a stocky man with a big smile, was chief steward in the dining car.

"Twin girls?" he said to Charlie. "What's their names? Robin and Pamela? Okay. We'll refrigerate the bottles and the vegetables. You give us a 10-minute warning and we'll heat whatever you want. In fact, if you need anything at all, we'll do our best."

Charlie Frechette grinned. "You must be the father of girls," he said understandingly.

Campbell shook his head. "The reason I love baby girls, is that I'm the father of boys. I have four. Starting with the youngest, they are six, eight, 10 and 23."

"Why the big gap?" said Charlie.

Bill Campbell slapped his thigh and roared laughing. "Train was late," he said.

★ ★ ★

THE CHAMPION LOAFED into Miami in the afternoon. Tom Ferris met us and looked at the luggage and said: "Maybe we better get a cab for that." We got a cab and drove to Key Biscayne Hotel.

The Key is five miles south of Miami Beach, and less noisy.

The Frechettes and Gayle and her father drew Villa 66, a three-bedroom beach house with kitchen, air conditioning and a view of the ocean.

The bellman said that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nixon had lived here a few weeks ago.

"Which bed?" said Gayle Peggy. "I want to sleep in the vice president's bed."

"If you don't stop talking," Ginny said, "you'll be sleeping in a crib. Help me with the babies."

Gayle is good with her nieces.

THE TEMPERATURE is 71. Skies are sunny. The roast beef is beautiful. This is my first vacation with my tiny girls. We understand each other . . .

Bomb Bill Proposed

From Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — An anti-bombing bill, giving the federal government jurisdiction over dynamiting cases, has been introduced in the house by Rep. Dante Fascell of Miami.

The bill would make it a federal offense to transport explosives to be used in the destruction of educational, religious or charitable institutions.

It also would outlaw the use of explosives to intimidate persons working in behalf of educational, religious or charitable causes.

Penalty provided is $1,000 fine or one year in jail. The law would allow the death penalty if anyone is killed in an explosion.

Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: What do we mean when we say someone who's had too much to drink is "three sheets to the wind?" That he has fallen out of bed on a windy night? But where does the third sheet come from?

—C.H.K.

ANSWER: The expression is a nautical one and the word sheets does not refer to bedding or even — as a landlubber might be forgiven for thinking — to sails.

In nautical terminology a sheet is a rope or chain fastened to the lower corner of a sail by which the angle of the sail is controlled. To avoid a long technical explanation, horribly stuffed with salt-water jargon, "in the wind" means that these controlling ropes or chains are loose in a gale and the vessel, in consequence, is lurching and reeling.

The gait of a drunken man has much the same rolling, pitching and veering course as a ship so disabled would have.

Cuban Chiefs Dance 4-Step

By FRED SPARKS

BATISTA, the deposed Cuban overlord, was as realistic as brass knuckles — and had a hopping sense of humor.

Interviewing him during the revolution I asked if he feared assassination. He drew a revolver faster than Matt Dillon and grinned:

"They're lousy shots. I can hit a pigeon's eyeball at 50 yards."

"Well, then," I asked, "are you afraid of execution?"

"What!" he said. "With Miami an hour away."

He asked me to strike the last crack from the record. And when the game was up he fled to the Dominican Republic.

MAYBE CASTRO'S crowd is different, but usually the first thing a new Cuban president does on taking office is:

(1) Arrange a hasty departure. (2) Open bank accounts in New York and Paris.

When three Latinos sit down for coffee there are four political parties.

Politics is the national pastime and every mother hopes her son grows up to lead a revolution.

The pattern is always the same. The new president is first called a "Liberator."

After three years in office he's a "Politician."

After four years he's a "Dictator."

After that he's a poor insurance risk.

A WISE POLICE official told me one reason why the teamsters—who make most of New York's deliveries — backed down from their plan to picket New York's cops:

"It's almost impossible," he said, "to make a daytime delivery in Manhattan without violating some kind of a traffic law. Usually, we look the other way. But if we want to get tough . . ."

The U.S. Senate might not worry Jimmy Hoffa—but he's scared to death of a traffic ticket.

Broker Sells Reds U.S. Auto Steel, Buys Chromium

NEW YORK —(AP)— A New York export broker confirmed Thursday that he is shipping 20,000 tons of American automotive steel to Russia in exchange for 80,000 tons of Soviet chromium ore.

Ara Oztemel, president of Greg-Gary Corp., said he obtained the wide, cold-rolled sheet steel from Republic Steel Corp. of Cleveland. He said this is the first major shipment of American steel to the Soviet Union in several years.

The steel is being shipped via the port of Halifax, Nova Scotia, the New York broker said, and the chromium ore from Russia will be delivered at Newport News, Va., and Baltimore.

Oztemel declined to identify the U. S. firm or firms to whom the ore is being sold. Chromium is used in the manufacture of stainless and other alloy steels.

The Russians intend to use the American steel for the manufacture of automobile bodies, Oztemel said. His firm plans to make further such shipments to the Soviet Union from Republic and other major U. S. companies, he declared.

No outright barter is involved in the exchange of American steel for Soviet ore, he pointed out. The steel is being sold in the conventional manner and the chromium ore will be obtained in a "counter-purchase" deal.

Oztemel said his firm has been licensed by various U.S. government agencies to ship steel to Russia. He said chromium ore is the only Russian product being brought in.

In Washington Commerce Department officials said the Greg-Gary shipment was authorized in the July-September quarter of 1958. It is part of 33,000 tons, with a value of $5,578,535, licensed for export to Russia in that period. The officials said no such shipments were licensed in the fourth quarter.

Appeal Made For Orphans

DAMASCUS — (AP) — Baghdad Radio has appealed to parents in the Arab world to adopt homeless Algerian orphans. The broadcast said many Algerian children "deprived by French imperialism from parental care" await adoption. The appeal came from the Algerian republic bureau in the Iraqi capital.

Burglar Has 'Profession'

DES MOINES, Iowa —(AP)— An admitted bank burglar said he considers burglary "a profession if you make money at it."

Linford R. Fitch, 31, of Omaha, Neb., testified in the Federal Court trial of two companions that "if one is going to do that (burglary) for a quite lengthy time, it would be a profession if you made money at it."

Fitch has pleaded guilty of burglarizing the State Savings Bank at Fontanelle, Iowa, and the adjoining post office last Oct. 8.

Raymond P. Gearhart Jr., 28, and Larry C. Glouser, 23, both of Omaha, are similarly charged and are on trial.

Hog to Get Fit Burial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (UPI) — San Antonio residents donated $19.32 and a 75-pound tombstone so a white hog that drank itself to death in England can have a decent burial.

The hog broke into its master's wine cellar in Rottingdean, England, drank too much wine and fell over dead.

Doug China, a disc jockey, read a dispatch about the hog and named him "Grover."

He started a burial campaign and asked for contributions of not more than three cents. A tombstone dealer who loves hogs donated a tombstone by himself.

Balky Blonde Quizzed, Released In Hunt for Kidnaper of Infant

NEW YORK —(AP)— A slight blonde in toreador pants caused a flurry of excitement Thursday in the police hunt for the kidnaper of a new born baby girl.

The woman, who weighed about 100 pounds, was picked up, questioned and then released in the Jan. 3 kidnaping of Lisa Rose Chionchio 2½ hours after she was born in St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn.

The woman's name and address were not made public by police. She vaguely resembled the description of a blonde woman seen loitering around the hospital prior to the kidnaping.

Two young girls on a subway saw the woman muttering to herself as she read a newspaper story about the kidnaping. The girls followed when she left the subway in Brooklyn and hailed Patrolman Thomas Sheridan, on duty outside.

Pentagon Stretches Air Defense Zone Around Us

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — The Pentagon plugged a "leak" in its Atlantic Coast air defense here Thursday.

It acted quickly after published reports that an armed Cuban bomber flew within striking distance of the missile test center at the Cape of New Year's Day.

The bomber, a B26 from the air force of ousted Cuban Dictator Fulgencio Batista, was never challenged.

It landed in Daytona Beach after an unrecorded flight from Havana.

The Pentagon announced in Washington the immediate expansion of the Atlantic Air Defense Identification Zone to include the entire coastline of Florida and adjacent areas of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Pentagon said extension of the defense zone was "in accordance with previous plans" and was possible because of increased air defense capability in the area.

The bomber's pilots said they were unchallenged during the flight and that they made no contact with anyone until they radioed the tower at Daytona Beach from a position over Titusville.

The Air Force admitted the B26 landed without being detected by U.S. radar.

Earlier Thursday, Elbert H. Chambers, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency office at Daytona Beach, said the undetected plane could have turned east at Cocoa and bombed Cape Canaveral.

The plane apparently followed the intra-coastal waterway which is outside the Cape's restricted air space.

"Apparently," Chambers said, "the Air Force doesn't believe the enemy would bomb the Cape, and therefore hasn't put it inside an air defense identification zone."

At Dobbins AFB, Georgia, a spokesman for the 34th Air Division—which is charged with defending the southeastern U.S. — explained the Cuban plane was not detected because Cape Canaveral and most of Florida south of the Cape is not included in an Air Defense identification zone.

At Cape Canaveral, Major James Reid, a fighter pilot who is one of the test center information officers, explained Air Defense identification zones are set up to protect the "industrial heartland" of the U.S.

They are set up like fences around "vital target areas," he explained.

Although Cape Canaveral is America's most important missile test base, it has no industry and no combat forces and doesn't qualify as a vital target, the major indicated.

The southern boundary of the Air Defense zone nearest the Cape lies 80 miles north of Daytona Beach.

Teamster Will Ask New Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. —(AP)— Chattanooga Teamster Boss Glenn W. Smith will ask for a new trial on his conviction of income tax fraud.

A Federal Court jury Wednesday convicted Smith, president of Local 515, but acquitted H. L. Boling, the local's secretary-treasurer.

U. S. Judge William E. Miller withheld sentencing after Smith's lawyer said a motion for a new trial will be filed. Miller has five days to rule on a motion for a directed verdict requested by the defense earlier in the trial.

Smith is free on $1,000 bond. The maximum sentence he could receive is five years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both.

The trial left unsolved what happened to $18,500 in union funds paid out to Smith in 1951. Union records listed the money as attorney fees. But a federal grand jury, a Senate committee and the Tennessee Legislature failed to find where the money went after that.

Death Threats Made in Strike

BOSTON—(AP)—A threat has been made on the lives of union and management officials in the strike of Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. employes, now in its 52nd day.

The threat was telephoned to state police headquarters.

The man was quoted as saying he was disturbed about the strike and how it affected school bus service "at the expense of the kids." He added he will "settle it by killing those responsible."

Husband Killed; Bride Is Held

BOONVILLE, Ind. —(AP)— An attractive German war bride was held Thursday in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband with a German pistol he brought home as a souvenir.

Alva Truman Miller, 37, of nearby Lynnville, was wounded fatally while holding his nine-month-old daughter, Karen, in his arms.

The bullet narrowly missed the little girl and left powder burns on her clothing. It hit Miller in the chest.

Sheriff Robert Shelton said the wife, Helene, 36, told him Miller was shot while scuffling with her for possession of the pistol.

Governor Spurns Raise in Salary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — Gov.-elect Buford Ellington turned down a proposed salary increase and said he is asking his friends in the Legislature to oppose such a measure.

A bill was introduced in both houses of the Legislature Tuesday raising the governor's salary from $12,000 a year to $18,600.

It would become effective Jan. 19, the day Ellington takes office. He is a Democrat.

"I knew what the governor's salary was when I ran and it is the salary I propose to draw during my four years in office," Ellington told newsmen.

Dad Sighs

Oh Brother, What Next?

CARTHAGE, Mo.—(AP)—Mrs. Neona Gorman answered a knock at her door and found seven-year-old Everett Stark looking for help.

Everett said he had lost his little brother.

Lt. Carroll Maxwell answered Mrs. Gorman's call to police. He took Everett home, four blocks away, to report the disappearance of little brother to the parents before starting the search.

But the boy's father, Ellis Stark, wouldn't hear of a search being made. Everett doesn't have a little brother.

Suit Hits Third Port Contract

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

A third Port Authority concession award went under the fire of a "taxpayer's suit" Thursday — the $275,000-a-year janitorial services contract with Airport Maintenance, Inc.

Leo Tepperberg, one of the losing bidders for the job at Miami International Airport, asked Circuit Court to throw out the contract because the Port Authority did not accept the most advantageous bid.

On Wednesday, a similar suit challenged the legality of the airport hotel pact with Saul Cohen. Another Cohen concession, for operation of the parking lot, is being tested in court.

Port Authority concession awards will be reviewed at a special Metro Commission meeting Friday. Commissioner John McLeod said he will also question the findings of special county auditors, Morgan, Altemus and Barrs, who have been critical of Port Authority negotiation methods.

Robert M. Morgan, head of the firm, told the commission Tuesday that Port Authority blunders cost the county 2.5 million dollars on the Cohen hotel deal.

"I question Morgan's figures and findings," McLeod said. "I've had my auditors working on this. And if they show Morgan to be wrong, as I believe he is, I will ask him to tear up his contract with the county."

The Morgan firm receives $16,500 a year to conduct Port Authority audits for the commission.

"I'm happy Commissioner McLeod is getting his own figures," Morgan told The Herald. "But I can't see how they could be any different from mine. If the commission wants my contract back, I'll gladly hand it to them."

McLeod said he has no criticism of Morgan because the hotel report was released to the press before it was presented to the commission.

"That was Commission Chairman Walter Weiss's doing," McLeod said.

Undaunted by criticism of his hotel award, Cohen announced he had awarded the contract to build the 256-room structure to Fred Howland, Inc., low bidder at $1,899,500.

U.S. Sets Capsule Purchase

The Space Race

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is about ready to award a contract for a space capsule as another step toward putting a man into space.

A spokesman for the Administration said Thursday the contract may be awarded within two weeks.

The one-ton space capsule will be of the type that ultimately will carry man on his first flight outside the earth's atmosphere.

But, NASA spokesmen have said, it will not be a true space craft.

Space agency spokesmen declined to give any details of the expected contract award.

Moscow Denies Space Reports

MOSCOW — (UPI) — A government spokesman has branded as false a newspaper story in which Soviet Scientist Antoly Blagonravov was quoted as saying Russia will send manned space ships to Mars and Venus next September.

A spokesman for the Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries said the newspaper story, published in Capetown, South Africa, was a "canard."

Man 'Baked' In U.S. Tests

Catholics to Cut Fire Peril

CHICAGO —(AP)— Fire safety precautions recommended by a coroner's jury of experts will be put into effect in all Roman Catholic parochial schools in the archdiocese of Chicago, says Msgr. William E. McManus, archdiocesan superintendent.

The changes will cost from eight to 12 million dollars.

The jury made its recommendations after studying evidence in the tragic fire at Our Lady of the Angels Grade School Dec. 1. Three nuns and 90 pupils died in the fire.

Two of the recommendations, labeled by the jury as basic, are: Appropriate sprinkler systems, and measures to isolate stairs and flues so fire and gas cannot move vertically from floor to floor.

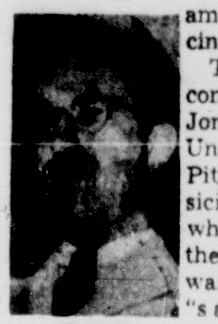
Other Types Reduced

One Polio Strain Erased by Serum, Dr. Salk Asserts

ANN ARBOR, Mich. —(AP)— Salk antipolio vaccine has eliminated completely one of three types of polio virus among the vaccinated persons.



SALK

This assertion comes from Dr. Jonas Salk, the University of Pittsburgh physician - scientist who developed the vaccine that was pronounced "safe, potent and effective" against infantile paralysis less than four years ago.

But the Type II polio, which Salk says now is non-existent among the vaccinated, was one of the two least found cripplers among the three types of viruses that cause polio.

The three types are known as I, II and III. In the before-vaccine days Type I appeared on an average of eight times in 10 cases; Types II and III only once each, in 10.

The vaccine's discoverer told of its progress in an interview.

Dr. Salk and other authorities closely studying degrees of immunity given by his vaccine agree it dramatically has reduced chances of your developing either Type I or III polio and apparently even has resulted in a dramatic reduction in Type II among the unvaccinated.

Why the latter is true Dr. Salk is uncertain, but he suggests that with fewer persons to spread No. II, fewer are likely to get it.

Why his vaccine is not more potent against I and III Dr. Salk also is uncertain. There are various possibilities. It may have been by happenstance, he told a medical symposium at the University of Michigan exactly the right virus strain was used in conversion into vaccine to prevent Type II.

That is known as MEF-1 and he says further investigation may turn up a vaccine strain as potent against No. 1 and No. III.

Even if it doesn't, he predicts that with what he says is the consistently increasing potency of mass-produced vaccine will whip the other two types.

Saying that mass productions methods have failed to produce a vaccine as consistly potent or uniform as his laboratory-produced vaccine, Dr. Salk suggested that a fourth shot would raise immunity, compared with a currently generally prescribed three-shot course.

But he expressed "a hope based on the experience of pharmaceutical manufacturers" that vaccine consistency equal in potency to laboratory vaccine will be mass produced by 1960.

When that so-called optimal is reached, Dr. Salk said, one or two shots should give immunity over many years.

Re-Rezoning On 'Strip'?

A last-ditch fight to hamper construction of new hotels and apartments on Miami Beach's "millionaire's strip" is shaping up.

Attorney Ben Cohen, representing hotels who don't want more competition, asked the City Council for a hearing to again rezone the strip north of the Eden Roc.

He proposed stricter setbacks, tougher building regulations and a lowering of the height limit from 160 to 140 feet.

Cohen said he thought the suggestions might be "controversial."

A hearing has been set for 11 a.m. Feb. 4.

Mormon Plans To Span Pacific

OGDEN, Utah —(AP)— Devere Baker, who skippered the raft Lehi IV when it drifted from California to Hawaii, says he'll try another trip in 1960 — this time from somewhere in the Indian Ocean to Guatemala.

Baker, of Petaluma, Calif., wants to prove statements in the Book of Mormon that ancient Israelites reached America by drifting across the Pacific. He is a member of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church.

Trujillo Next, Castro's Yank Aides Say

CIENFUEGOS, Cuba —(UPI)— Two American soldiers of fortune who fought with the Cuban rebels said Thursday Dominican Strongman Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo is next on the list in their personal crusade against dictators.

The two Americans are William A. Morgan of Toledo, Ohio and John M. Spiritto, of Los Angeles, Calif., both veterans of World War II.

They said they had made a pledge to help the Dominican people oust Trujillo once Cuban President Fulgencio Batista was overthrown.

Batista took refuge in the Dominican Republic last Thursday.

Morgan and Spiritto have been made military commandants of two cities in Las Villas Province.

Nikita's Secretary Reported Suicide

BERLIN — (AP) — A West Berlin tabloid said Thursday Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's secretary has committed suicide by swallowing poison.

Nacht - Depesche identified the secretary as Alexander V. Usov, 39. The paper quoted its informants as saying Usov may have taken his life because he reportedly knew about an alleged plot to overthrow Khrushchev. The sources said Usov feared Khrushchev might suspect his being involved.

Britain Emphasizing Tactical Weapons

LONDON — (UPI) — Leading British and American nuclear experts have recommended to their governments that Britain quit manufacturing H-bombs and concentrate on the smaller tactical atom weapons, the Laborite Daily Herald said Thursday.

The newspaper said the proposal was the outcome of secret talks between scientists and military men of both countries.

The scientists and military representatives suggested the U.S. produce the big bombs because it is better equipped in every way—including financially—to make them, the newspaper added.

Rubirosa Hopes Cuba's Friendly

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Porfirio Rubirosa, ambassador of the Dominican Republic, says his government hopes for cordial relations with the new provisional regime in Cuba.

Rubirosa pointed out the Dominican Republic has recognized the government of Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

"It is our desire to maintain most friendly and cordial relations," he told reporters.

6,000 Africans Face Eviction

PRETORIA, South Africa —(AP)— Six thousand Africans will be evicted from their homes in Pretoria in the next few months under the Group Areas Act.

The act bars all Africans from the whites-only areas unless they are registered as servants of whites.

From Mud To 'Riches'

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Deputy Rupert Loza picked up a piece of what he thought was costume jewelry in the mud near a hotel.

He gave it to his young daughter, who carelessly tied it to her favorite rag doll.

Then Mrs. Loza decided to check the lost and found ads. The loss was advertised—with a $50 reward.

The bracelet was platinum with 21 diamonds, valued at $4,000.

The Lozas returned it to the owner and collected the reward.

After Two-Year Battle

Indians Win Fight to Bar Negroes from Their School

RALEIGH, N. C. — (UP) — North Carolina's Haliwa Indians, outspokenly opposed to sending their children to school with Negroes, have won a two-year fight for their own segregated school.

The school, built by the Haliwas and operated with private funds, was made part of the Warren County Public School System. The action makes it eligible for state support.

The school was constructed after the tribe objected to sending its children to classes with Negroes.

The Indians sought to have the school approved as a private institution. They asked for state grants. The state, however, ruled last year that the building failed to meet minimum requirements. The state gave the Indians time to bring the school up to par.

Baby Starts Second Year Of a One-in-a-Million Life

SHE'S a one-in-a-million baby.

That's the chance for life that Los Angeles doctors gave her when she was born.

But Lorna Luverne Hazelwood started her second year of life Thursday, a plump, healthy 17-pounder.

She was born 100 days prematurely. She was so fragile that she couldn't be weighed. At 10 days she scaled just 1 pound 8 ounces.

Lorna spent her first 10 days in a hermetically sealed incubator in Centinela Hospital, then was transferred to University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center.

She was nourished by transfusions through a vein in the forehead and eyedropper formula meals.

After five months in the medical center, Lorna was taken home.

Doctors say that in five or six years she will catch up in size to children of normal term birth.

On Lorna's first birthday, her mother, Mrs. Howard Hazelwood, cuddled her and said:

"The name my husband picked for our child was the right one.

"Know what 'Lorna' means?

" 'Symbol of Victory'."

Driver Penalty System Urged

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— An insurance company executive thinks authorities should keep score on motorists and send them to the sidelines when they accumulate too many citations.

"My idea is a point system," said John A. Diemand, president of The Insurance Co. of North America. "For infractions of the law a driver's license would be punched. When a given number of points were received — that would end his career behind the wheel."

Wracked With Pain, Says Van Cliburn

Tooth Aching, Pianist Quits Tour

By Herald Wire Services

PIANIST VAN CLIBURN said Thursday in Tucson, Ariz., he has cancelled his concerts for the next 12 days because of a toothache.

"I love playing, but I don't think the audience would enjoy it if I'm sitting there wracked with pain," he said. "And my powers of concentration would not be as good."

Cliburn said he has been bothered in the past four months by his teeth but has not had time to go to a dentist because of his heavy concert schedule.

Roosevelt, GOP Kiss, Make Up

JOHN A. ROOSEVELT and the Manhattan Republican organization, once at odds, are now on friendly terms.

The Republican son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt has accepted an offer to serve on this year's $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner committee of the organization.

It was not always thus.

In 1957, the late Thomas J. Curran, then GOP county chairman, won a court suit to force Roosevelt to remove the word "Republican" from the title of a political organization he had formed.

Fund Raising? Bah! He'll Philosophize

DR. HAROLD TAYLOR, articulate and controversial spokesman for liberal education and academic freedom, has resigned as president of Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N. Y.

The 44-year-old educator had hoped that as president of the women's college here he would be a faculty member with additional responsibilities.

But he says that now—lacking any time for classroom teaching—he prefers to return to the role of philosopher and scholar rather than continue with administration and fund raising.

Reds Will Make War, Says General

A FORMER commanding general of the Strategic Air Command says the Soviet "is going to try to take us some day. If Russia thought it could win hands down, they'd pull the trigger on us right now."

That blunt opinion was expressed in Memphis, Tenn., by George C. Kenney, who retired as a four-star general in 1951.

"They might be able to take us now and we might be able to take them," Kenney told newsmen. "But if they tried it, we could get 300 of their cities and they don't want to risk that."

"That gleam in the sky isn't Sputnik, it's the long reflection from floors glowing with 'Beacon Wax!'"

Collins Won't Ask New Taxes

Existing Revenue Must Do, He Says

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Leroy Collins said Wednesday the program he will recommend to the 1959 Legislature will not require new state taxes.

COLLINS

The governor also repeated an earlier statement that he will hold the Legislature in special session if it fails to reapportion in the 1959 regular session.

The governor said he would fulfill his constitutional obligation but "I don't like to presuppose that they (legislators) will fail to do their duty."

Collins told a news conference that reapportionment is a legislative responsibility and he had no reason to expect the Legislature would fail to reapportion. However, he said he had seen no specific signs of encouragement "that I could mention."

The constitution provides that when the Legislature fails to reapportion in regular session the governor shall hold it in extraordinary session until it does the job.

The 1955 Legislature was held in intermittent session for 122 days without reaching a solution. In 1957 the Legislature approved a 45 senator-114-member house formula in the constitutional revision program.

The plan later was knocked out by the State Supreme Court because the entire revision was presented to the people in a package to be accepted in its entirety or turned down if only one article failed to meet public approval.

Collins said he hopes to meet with his constitutional advisory committee and constitutional amendments committees of the Senate and House before the Legislature convenes in an effort to achieve a united front on revision.

His own committee has set Feb. 1 as a target date for completion of its work. Bartow Attorney William A. McRae is chairman of the group.

Collins declared his intention to present a spending program to the 1959 Legislature that will not require additional state taxes.

He said he expects the Cabinet Budget Commission to recommend a program within the range of existing tax revenues.

He added that he expects his recommendations also would fall within that range.

The 1957 Legislature appropriated a record $701 million dollars and adopted an expanded tax program designed to raise an additional $100 million dollars.

But revenues fell short of authorized spending by more than $80 million dollars because of a severe winter and a business recession, forcing several proposed projects to be curtailed.

Collins said he believed many of the discrepancies in records of the Apalachee Correctional Institute, cited by State Auditor Bryan Willis, had been corrected. The governor said he believes much good has resulted from a policy of his office demanding explanations from officials whose performances are criticized in state audit reports.

Collins said he had not been given any reason to believe Miami Beach was out of the running as a contender to be host city for the 1960 national political conventions.

Flag Is Off To Cold Start

MILWAUKEE, Wis. —(UPI)—Conditions were appropriate indeed when seamstresses at the Eder Flag Mfg. Co. arrived to start work on the new "Alaska-style" 49-star flag.

The steam pipes were frozen and the thermometer read 11 below.

"Use 'Beacon Wax' instead of ordinary wax. Then you won't ask for a tax form to deduct for worn out floors!"

Morocco Bans Writer

PARIS —(AP)— Amelia Aragon, correspondent for Time and Life magazines in Casablanca, has been expelled from Morocco.

Officials of the magazines in Paris said the expulsion followed publication of an article on the Riff uprising. She had helped prepare the article.

Miss Aragon was born in Morocco of Spanish parents and was sent back to Spain by plane. Moroccan officials told her she had acted as a correspondent without proper credentials.

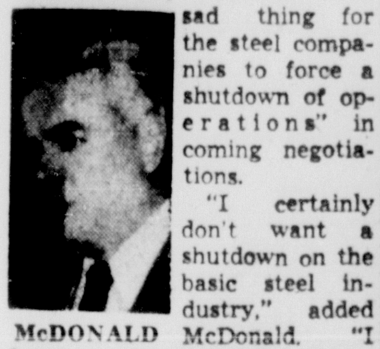
Chief Hopes for Peaceful Contract

Steel Union Asks No-Strike

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire



McDONALD

CHICAGO—President David J. McDonald of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America said, "It would be a sad thing for the steel companies to force a shutdown of operations" in coming negotiations.

"I certainly don't want a shutdown on the basic steel industry," added McDonald. "I hope we can conclude an agreement without a strike."

The steelworkers' contract, covering 600,000 employes in basic (raw steel companies throughout the nation), expires at 12:01 a.m. July 1.

McDonald is here to preside at an executive board meeting of the 1,250,000-member international union. He said the board is acting on member appeals cases, convention resolutions and union reports.

McDonald, who also is an AFL-CIO vice president, said the union's wage-policy committee will meet "sometime in the spring" to map demands for the negotiations.

McDonald added he feels that a strike would be bad for the country which, he said, "is in a bit of peril" over the loss of prestige because of Russian leadership in the interplanetary rocket race.

He also said that a strike would be bad because, "I think there is a start of recovery in our industry."

Missilemen

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. —(UPI) — The Army Ordnance Guided Missile School at Redstone Arsenal will graduate about 7,500 students this year, the school announced.

Cold Water And Cold Feet

MELUN, France — (UPI) — French soldier Georges Pillot had an understandable change of mind when he jumped into a canal with the intention of committing suicide.

"I did jump in," he told police, "but the water was so cold that I swam back out."

FELISA RINCON de GAUTIER, mayor of San Juan; born: Jan. 9, 1897, in Ceiba, Puerto Rico

* * *

Majestic "Mother Felisa" has served since 1946 as mayor of San Juan. She has worked tirelessly to improve health and living conditions. The Christian Science Monitor said after Felisa's first term: "By the simple expedient of having a housekeeper for mayor, more has been done in three years for San Juan than by all the men who have held the office in the past 25."

New 'Bremen' To Sail Ocean

BREMEN, Germany — (AP) — A luxury passenger ship with the proud old name "The Bremen" will be sailing for transatlantic route this summer under the German flag.

Actually, the 32-000-ton liner which goes into service July 9 is the reconverted French troop ship Pasteur, bought by the North German Lloyd Line a year ago.

Russian Man-in-Street Shares Our Hopes for Peace

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

McDERMOTT

MOSCOW — The average Russian — the fur-capped worker and the smiling housewife with the stainless steel teeth—share the hope of most Americans that there will be no war.

These same people, the typical "man-in-the-street," are hungry for information about the U.S. and how American people survive "when there is so much unemployment."

I discovered these facts during a chance meeting outside the Kremlin walls in Red Square, just in front of the mausoleum where lie the preserved bodies of Lenin and Stalin.

A bearded Russian worker — a truck driver from the Urals — stopped to admire my German camera and the K.L.M. Royal Dutch Airline bag I was using to carry film equipment.

Through my interpreter-guide, we began a conversation which encompassed life both in Russia and the U.S. and in the conflicting political philosophies of our separate worlds.

Some 10 or 12 other passers-by, including one soldier and two shawl-draped women, paused to listen and contribute their thoughts.

"Does America want to make war on Russia?" asked the truck driver.

I assured him we did not. But I said we feared Russia might start a war against us.

"We have had too much war," injected an assistant locomotive engineer from Minsk. "My home was overrun by the Germans. We were occupied. War is not good. We want no more of it."

The others nodded their assent.

I remarked that from what I had seen in Russia, I was convinced the people here were as opposed to war as the average American.

"Then, why do we always have trouble with America?" asked the woman with the stainless steel teeth.

I tried to expain that our misunderstandings are on a governmental level — that the Kremlin and Washington frequently have sharp differences of opinion.

"But why do your Washington officials try to make war with us if the people there do not want it?" asked a farmer from the Ukraine. "You elect your officials to do what you want them to, yes?"

Everybody in the group showed keen interest in the American way of life.

"How is it possible," inquired the soldier, "when you have so many people unemployed, for some to live so well — own their own homes, have automobiles, television sets and all the clothes they want — when others are without work and starving?"

They all seemed surprised when I told them the unemployment rate in the U.S. was relatively small, except in periods of acute economic recession, and that most people have jobs and are happy and eating three times a day.

The Soviet Press, day after day, month after month, has given them a different picture.

One thing they did know, however, was that American living standards are so high the prime target of Russia's seven year plan is to attain something approximating them.

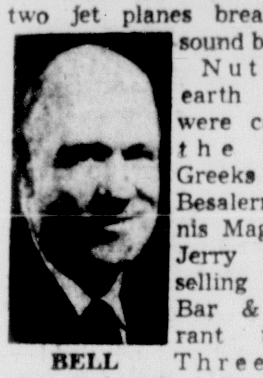
WARMONGER: The man who fights the man who fights for peace.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SCIENTISTS tried to surmise that the earth-shaking crash last week was caused by two jet planes breaking the sound barriers.



BELL

Nuts! The earth tremors were caused by the Three Greeks (Paul Besalernos, Dennis Maginas and Jerry Anninos) selling Biscayne Bar & Restaurant to the Three Jews (Ben Rubin, Saul Ettinger and Henry Hersh).

For 14 long years those Greeks have been running that restaurant. They had small tables 'n' chairs, small aisles, plenty of noise and four scurrying waiters: George, Chico, Al and Clyde, with Busboy Ralph filling in. 'Twas the only restaurant I know wherein the waiters pushed the bosses around. I sort of suspect the bosses got tired of taking orders.

The new owners kept the waiters 'n' cooks. The menu's unchanged — yet. Rubin and Ettinger formerly owned Harry's Bar in New York. Hersh is from Pittsburgh. "If we can keep the customers — ???" sighs Rubin hopefully.

He has lost one already. Eduardo Hernandez, Cuban consul under Batista, has been absent since Castro started marching through Cuba.

Duke Ellington and Sid Kullner have written a musical, "Jump for Joy." Duke wrote the music, Sid the lyrics and script — through long months of writing and re-writing. It goes into Copa City Jan. 20. Barbara McNair, Columbia records singing star, will sing the feminine lead.

The show opens with a number called "Evolution of a Beat." It's Duke's music, starting with music of early savages and scenes to match and moving through to modern music.

Duke, Miss McNair and others will give us a bit of it on the Cerebral Palsy Telethon the night of Jan. 17, Channel 7.

Boss Given a Vacation

He Lives It Up And Employes Pay--Gladly

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

Milton Stein
. . . beloved boss

Call for O. Henry.

Here's a story with a real startling twist in this day of labor-management rhubarbs.

It's about a boss who was forced to take an all-expense paid Florida vacation—with the expenses cheerfully paid by his employes.

They paid for his wife, too.

The boss is 40-year-old Milton (Sunny) Stein of Philadelphia who is living it up with his wife at the Americana Hotel.

Stein is an industrial banker who took over a near bankrupt auto agency a little more than a year ago.

It's the 125 employes of the auto agency who are picking up the vacation tab for the Steins.

Since Stein took over the auto agency, he built it up into one of the largest in the nation.

In so doing, he increased the take-home pay of his employes 20 to 40 per cent.

And he gave them insurance benefits they never had before, plus other fringe benefits.

Christmas time he handed out substantial bonuses, a turkey to each employe, and flipped a whopper of a company party for all.

The employes felt so good about their boss they bought a full page advertisement in a Philadelphia paper to wish his family a Merry Christmas.

Then they decided to send the Steins to Florida.

He didn't want to come—didn't want to take their money. They put up an awful howl. In the interests of happy relationships he accepted.

"Funny part about this," he mused, while lolling at the hotel, "I really don't know anything about the auto business."

Human Transmitter Seized

Man Sends Track Results 'Off Cuff'

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A "human radio transmitter" spotted illegally sending out race results from the seat of his pants was nabbed Thursday at Tropical Park.

John Quartrone
. . . shows how set works

Track authorities said the broadcaster, the first picked up this season, "undoubtedly belonged to a nationwide wire service which sent results to the bookies."

Picked up in the paddock area between the second and third races was John Quartrone, 31, of 1730 NW Second Ave.

Tropical Safety Director Henry Beardsley and Metro Detective Walter Seward said that Quartrone was found with a tiny, transistor-powered transmitter attached to the belt of his pants.

An aerial wire ran down his leg and was pinned to the inside of his pants cuff.

Investigators believe that Quartrone, using a dot-and-dash code system, was relaying the results to a confederate nearby in an automobile.

In such cases, the receiver forwards the information to a clearing house which distributes it by long distance telephone throughout the U.S.

It is illegal to transmit track results for a period of 30 minutes following a race. Bookmakers, however, often employ subterfuge to get the results to their clients faster.

Beardsley said that Quartrone was noticed Wednesday sitting on a bench in a lonely section behind the grandstand facing the parimutuel board.

"He was working in a sitting position with his hands in his lap," Beardsley related.

When Quartrone entered the track Thursday, investigators kept him under close surveillance. When he repeated his suspicious maneuvers during the first two races they placed him under arrest.

Efforts to track Quartrone's cohorts were unsuccessful.

Quartrone, who claims to come from New York, refused under questioning to implicate others in the wire service ring.

"We had information this was going on and were on the lookout for it," Beardsley commented.

Stripper Gets Off the Hook

Miami Beach stripper Jennie Lee Wanick got off the hook Thursday.

She was found guilty and fined $50 on two counts, then had the fines rescinded by Municipal Court Judge Mitchell Goldman.

The 29-year-old entertainer, of 5333 Collins Ave., pleaded not guilty to charges of illegally distributing handbills during New Year's downtown Orange Bowl parade, and of refusing to obey a policeman's order.

First Draft of Ordinance Made

Metro Maps Curb On Water Rates

Bill Aimed At Private Companies

Thousands of $$ May Be Saved

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

Metro officials Thursday hammered out the first draft of an ordinance giving the county government power, for the first time, to regulate rates charged by private water companies.

County Manager O. W. Campbell predicted the bill, by the time it reaches the Metro Commission for action, will authorize a rate-fixing board composed of civilian utilities experts.

"The Metro Commission is not equipped to conduct rate hearings," County Attorney Darrey A. Davis commented.

Rate regulating power would mean thousands of dollars in savings to residents supplied by Dade's 54 private water and sewer service companies. Private companies are charging up to 62.5 cents for 1,000 gallons of water, while city-operated water systems charge as low as 25 cents.

Municipally-owned companies would not be affected by the new ordinance.

The re-study of Metro water control followed repeal by the Metro Commission last Tuesday of a six-month-old "water and sewer registration ordinance." Officials called this law ineffective and unenforceable.

The old law gave Metro only indirect control over water rates. A new water company, or an old one wishing to extend its lines, was required to apply for a commission permit. If the commission did not like a company's rate schedule, it could turn down its application. But the board had no power to adjust existing rates.

Davis revealed that the Metro Public Works Department, headed by Marion K. Boriss, issued 316 water service permits in the last six months without requiring the public hearing before the Metro Commission specified in the old law.

Metro officials estimated there were about 30 private water companies in the county. Campbell said that in December Rader Engineering Co. was hired to make an exact survey, and the answer this firm supplied was much higher than expected—54.

Attorney Foisy Dies at 33

Crash Injuries Fatal To Suicide Driver

Miami Attorney Paul A. Foisy died Thursday afternoon in Dade County Hospital — never regaining sufficient consciousness to explain what police termed his suicide-crash.

His death marked the fourth traffic fatality recorded in Dade County in the first eight days of the new year.

The 33-year-old attorney, who lived with his mother at 2981 SW 12th St., gunned his car Tuesday into the path of another vehicle driven by Henry Newton Moore, 50, of 7401 NW Seventh Ave., Miami bridge tender. Moore was killed instantly.

Police found a suicide note in Foisy's pocket.

His mother, Mrs. C. L. Foisy, denied her son attempted to commit suicide and blamed the Veterans Administration Hospital in Coral Gables and Jackson Memorial Hospital for failing to admit him "when he desperately needed psychiatric care."

Both hospitals Thursday said that overcrowded conditions prevented them from accepting him as a bed patient.

A VA official said the hospital's 450 beds were "completely" occupied when Foisy applied for admission two days before the crash. He had been treated "several times" for acute alcoholism and given psychiatric care, officials reported.

Foisy was transferred to Jackson, where a hospital spokesman said the 100 beds reserved for psychiatry cases were filled.

Foisy was told to go home, return Tuesday morning as an "out patient" to the psychiatric department.

He never returned.

Rosary services for Foisy will be at 8:15 p.m. Sunday at Van Orsdel Coral Gables Chapel. Mass will be at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Michael's Catholic Church and burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Foisy came to Miami eight years ago from Laurelton, N.Y. Survivors include in addition to his mother, a sister, Mrs. Huguette McConnell, of Miami, and a brother and sister from out of town.

School Girl Gulps Pills

A 15-year-old Miami Beach High School girl attempted suicide in class Thursday by swallowing five of her grandmother's sleeping pills, Miami Beach police reported.

When she became dizzy and ill, she told a teacher and school nurse she had taken the pills. An ambulance rushed her to a hospital. Her condition was described as satisfactory.

Police were unable to determine immediately the reason for the attempt.

And Here's The Chief Complaint!

Headley Lights Off Beam, Too

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

Nine of every 12 Dade cars are being flunked by Metro's new headlight-tester, Miami Police Chief Walter E. Headley learned Thursday.

Headley learned it the hard way. He was among the nine.

The chief was perturbed.

Also perturbed were the dozens of Greater Miamians whose cars are being flunked daily by the new machines at 11 testing stations.

But Arthur D. (Bud) Irwin, chief of Metro inspections, said:

"Fact is, there are hundreds of cars on our streets with out-of-focus lights, and for a while there will be a lot of rejections."

The testing device adopted by Metro consists of plastic sleeves that clamp onto headlights.

Said Headley: "I saw one set of lights lined up. Then two people got in the back seat and the device registered the lights out of line.

"What are we going to do, have a law that only one person can sit in a car at night?"

After his visit to the Miami Shores station where his car flunked, Headley talked to Miami City Manager E. A. Evans.

"Somebody must have sold Campbell's office a bill of goods," Evans said.

Sgt. Anthony Hirt of the North Miami station said "We're turning down nine out of every 12 cars."

Irwin said Metro selected the device after it had been recommended by the American Automobile Association.

He said only garages equipped with similar devices can make adjustments, but garages near the Metro stations are equipped. "Suggested price" for adjustment is $1.50, a Metro spokesman said.

Strange Fruit

Us Laugh? We Juiced About Cried

California jokes aren't funny. Not when they involve one of Florida's proudest products — citrus.

Arousing the ire of the local tub thumpers were advertisements on baskets of fruit from the Mission Pak Co., Los Angeles, Calif., to wit:

"You can send one of these beauties anywhere but to Florida. (They are so jealous of these they keep them out)."

"Gentleman," replied C. L. Craig, director of the chamber's better business division, "Your statement is derogatory and tends to mislead the public."

Craig, failing to see any humor in the ad, enclosed an official governmental photostat proving there are "no regulations that restrict entry."

What Craig didn't clear up, however, was who in Florida wants California fruit.

Spoiled Rotten, Egg Men Say

It was so warm in a Miami warehouse that nearly all of a shipment of 17,100 dozen of eggs spoiled, New York shippers complained in a Dade Circuit Court suit Thursday.

The suit asks $6,048.25 damages against National Freezers Inc., 1849 NW First Ave. It was filed by Bender-Gateman Co., Inc., who shipped the eggs to the Miami cold storage warehouse last April 4.

Plea Rejected

Dade County Commissioners Thursday turned down South Miami's request to annex about five acres to square up its boundaries.

About 100 property owners jammed the commission chambers and applauded the decision.

Downtown Diners Duck Under Tables

Headwaiter Shot in Cafeteria

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 terror-stricken customers in Davis cafeteria at 103 SE First Ave. ducked under tables Thursday as a former waiter shot the man who had fired him.

As the gunman, 45-year-old Frank Carter, patiently waited for arrest, the cafeteria's management kept a long line of customers filing past the victim, headwaiter David Burney, who was lying on the floor.

A girl cashier, however, burst into uncontrollable sobs as she stood beside the bleeding man and had to be replaced by a male employe.

Matthew Snell, another waiter and a witness to the shooting, said Carter entered the kitchen from an alley and stepped into the main cafeteria area where he confronted Burney, saying:

"I'm going to kill you. You mistreated me."

Carter fired two shots into Burney's stomach and arm, and then stood over the fallen man pulling the trigger of his 32 caliber revolver.

The gun failed to fire, however, and Carter retreated to the kitchen where he told employes, "I'm not going to run. Get the police."

Customers finally regained their composure and when officers and newsmen arrived were finishing their meals. The cafeteria complained to officers that many customers left without paying when they saw there had been a shooting.

Burney, who lives at 901 NW Second Ave., was said to be in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Carter, of 220 NW Eighth St., was held pending charges to be filed today.

His Wife Totes Old Love Notes Around; So WHAT?

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flare-ups, but I don't think we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

ANN

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a foot-locker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ashtrays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep your lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his seven-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof. I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes. Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude. — Mother of Three Fatherless Children

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deep-freeze. (What are your in-laws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted. He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again. He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you think I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone?" And exactly what would you be showing them—that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

Fite Heads Interfaith Dinner

Robert H. Fite, president of Florida Power and Light Co., was named chairman Thursday of the annual brotherhood dinner of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Co-chairmen of the event — to be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 16 in the Americana Hotel — will be William D. Singer and George Coury.

Bluff Foils 2 Robbers

SEATTLE — (AP) — Two youths drove up to a service station in suburban Renton and pulled a pistol on Attendant Roy Wendt.

"I haven't any money," Wendt said.

"Ok," answered one would-be robber. "Fill up the tank, then."

Wendt did: $3.35 worth.

The robbers drove off — but not until they received their change for a $5 bill one of them handed Wendt.

Henry Clay about to be checkmated in old San Juan. Photograph by Tom Hollyman.

"I brought home a new chess defense from Puerto Rico—and good news about dry rum."

"It almost made up for the shellacking I had just taken when I was handed a daiquiri," reports Henry Clay of Shreveport, Louisiana. "And what a daiquiri.

"It was bright. Clear. Brilliant. And it had a dry quality that I will never forget.

"When I got home to Shreveport, I couldn't wait to tell my friends about Puerto Rican rum. We tried it in all sorts of different drinks.

"Rum Sours. Rum and tonic. Rum old fashioneds. Rum on the rocks. We even invented our own rum drinks. We've found you can't go wrong with the remarkable rums of Puerto Rico.

"And my chess defense has paid off, too."

Daiquiri Recipe: 1½ oz. white Puerto Rican rum—juice ½ lime or 1 lemon—¾ tsp. sugar. Shake well with ice and strain into cocktail glass or serve on the rocks. For free rum recipes, write: Rums of Puerto Rico, Dept. NM-13, 666 Fifth Ave., New York 19.

Disbar Miamian, Board Asks

Clarence Brown, Miami attorney and former FBI agent, Thursday was recommended for disbarment by the board of governors of the Florida Bar for what it called unprofessional practices.

The board also recommended that the State Supreme Court suspend Miami Beach Attorney Sidney Poller, 2925 Prairie Ave., for 30 days.

The board charged that Brown, 47, of 12801 Moss Ranch Rd., South Dade, failed to account for funds received from four clients and refused to turn over to them amounts to which they were entitled.

Last April, the U. S. Attorney's office in Miami charged Brown with passing an insurance settlement check on which he had forged the name of a client, former Miami Policeman Robert Cowart.

Poller was charged with mingling trust funds of a client with his own funds, then converting them to his personal use without consent of his client.

The board reported, however, that Poller eventually made full restitution of the funds entrusted to him.

Poller said Thursday night he would ask the Supreme Court to review his case before the board's recommendations become final Feb. 6. Brown could not be reached for comment.

Also recommended for disbarment was Elmer O. Roberts of Fort Lauderdale. The charge against Roberts was that he filed divorce actions for John F. Sachse and Anelise Rosemarie Armstrong under Florida's 90-day divorce law, knowing at the time they had not met residence requirements. The Bar said Roberts induced them to swear falsely they had complied with residence requirements.

No Spitballs, So Students Hurl Rocks

A Miami school teacher suspended for failing to keep order in the classroom said Thursday her pupils only threw rocks because they were more convenient than spitballs.

"In no case," said Miss Evelyn Gray of her Filer Junior High seventh graders, "were the students fighting."

But school officials gave a different version at an earlier hearing when she was suspended for "incompetence." School Superintendent Joe Hall recommended firing her.

"They just exaggerated the whole thing," Miss Gray said. "I'm not the type of person who ought to be dismissed."

She denied that any pupils smoked in her classes. "Two girls did take out cigarets once," she said, "but I took them away from them."

In some cases, Miss Gray said, she had appealed to the deans for disciplinary help.

"One dean told me to use force," she said, "but those seventh graders are too big to tangle with."

"It's against the rules anyway," she added. "I knew if I tried it, my goose would be cooked."

Miss Gray and a former custodian at the school, Fred Damrau, who is to testify in her behalf, were to confer today with Superintendent Hall.

'All World Feels Our Tensions'

By ADON TAFT
Herald Religion Editor

Racial tensions in the U.S. are just a part of a social revolution sweeping the entire world, Dr. E. Stanley Jones said here Thursday.

The tension here is about the same as in other countries, the famed missionary and author said, and is only an expression of people seeking personal freedom.

"People over the world are alike," he observed. "And they all suffer from the same malady—an inward emptiness."

Here leading an evangelistic mission which ends tonight at White Temple Methodist Church, Dr. Jones based his remarks on experiences in his 50 years as a missionary in India and evangelistic campaigns since then in nearly every country on the globe.

He said he found that the Christ of Christianity is the only thing that can fill that emptiness experienced by all peoples. He added that people of all nationalities and backgrounds are turning to Christianity now at the fastest rate in history.

Rich White Rancher Wills $100,000 to Negro Woman

By Herald Services

SEBRING — Wealthy white rancher Duane V. Palmer, 70, has willed $100,000 to a Negro woman who said she once treated his ulcers and a bad leg with "old-fashioned remedies."

Palmer died of a heart attack Christmas Day, 1957. He owned considerable land in Highlands County and left the $100,000 to Ellen Mae Hansen, nae Hansen, 45-year-old DeSoto City beautician who lives with her husband, Ivan, on the Palmer ranch near here.

Palmer also bequeathed half his estate to his widow, Lillian, and the balance to a nephew, Charles Palmer, and a sister, Lena.

Bolita Play Off In Hillsborough

TAMPA — Overthrow of the Batista regime in Cuba has dealt a heavy blow to Hillsborough County bolita operations, officers said Thursday.

Sheriff Ed Blackburn estimated that bolita play has fallen off from 65 to 75 per cent since the revolutionary forces took over. Because of its cigar industry, Tampa has a large Latin population and the Cuban numbers game has been a major law enforcement problem here for years.

3 Navy Fliers Killed in Crash

PENSACOLA — Three Navy fliers were killed Thursday when two T-28 trainers from Sanfley Field collided in midair near here.

The victims were identified as Lt. Kenneth Hammond, 28, San Pablo, Calif., who was alone in one of the planes; Lt. Merle Merkel, 26 Bowdle, S.C., the second pilot; and Airman Robert Ervin Carter, 21, of Lancaster, S.C., his passenger.

Sales Tax Total 'Disappointing'

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's sales tax poured $11,398,826 into the state treasury during December, but it was not enough to offer any immediate hope for ending the state government's financial pinch.

Budget Director Harry G. Smith said he was "frankly disappointed with the December collections," which are based on the previous month's sales. "The January collections may not be what we would like to see either because the Eastern Air Lines strike undoubtedly had an adverse effect on the economy in South Florida," Smith added.

Collins Mum About Future

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday successfully parried newsmens' questions about his future political ambitions.

Gov. Collins did not say yes, no or maybe when asked if he plans to return to the role of private citizen when his term ends in January 1960.

Mary Welborn Finds Friends

FORT LAUDERDALE — Mary Welborn, her name cleared of a second degree murder charge, entered the Ministering Friends home in Miami Thursday morning.

Silvers' Spontaneity Puts Sgt. Bilko on a Treadmill

By JOHN CROSBY

I HAD A TALK with Phil Silvers the other day on that troublesome problem — longevity in TV. Sergeant Bilko has just rounded out his fourth year on TV and, as far as I'm concerned, he's as funny as ever.

CROSBY

This is not unprecedented but it is unusual. Comedians wear out their welcome awfully fast on television.

Silvers, I discovered, is less optimistic about the show than the CBS brass. "I wanted to get out, you know," he said. "I'm not a career man in the Army. But they told me, Phil, you can't really judge it. We're about two years closer to it than the viewers are.

"Nobody sees all our shows — not even my closest friends. If you're a performer it gets awfully easy to assume that everyone is as familiar with your show as you are.

"You get to thinking you have to be completely new and different every week. And you don't.

* * *

"OF COURSE, one reason for the continued freshness of the show is that we change our camp locale. Eventually we'll go to Europe. The show begs for it. It's a natural.

"We once did send a man to Europe to take a few hundred still shots because we have a great three-dimensional gimmick which makes the scenery look live.

"This guy shot everything, the Louvre, homes, the British Museum. The pictures, I heard, were great. But I never saw them. He took a ship home called the Andrea Doria."

* * *

THE SILVERS SHOW has no set policy on guest stars and that, he pointed out, was a great relief. "We have guest stars from time to time — but're not tyrannized by them. We don't have to have them. Guests come on as themselves — and they have a ball on our show."

Silvers has complete sway over the show, but he seldom exercises it. "They can't hire a page boy without my okay but I can't do it that way. I can't edit films. I don't know anything about lighting — beyond saying: that light's too bright.

"I do stay on scripts though. Sometimes I don't see the scripts until the last minute but I still change them. I always respect the writers but you've got to know the medium.

All the shows can't be great when you're working week to week. But I can promise you that every show will have five minutes in it that are good."

* * *

MOST OF THEM, in my opinion, have more than that. The Silvers show, week in week out, hits an awfully high level of genuine, fast-paced original comedy.

It's one of the few things left on television that the eggheads still speak of with great respect and affection.

Much of this is due to Silvers' own great grounding in burlesque and vaudeville. He keeps the ball spinning in midair even when there isn't much of a ball to keep spinning.

"I don't really know anything much about the Army," he explains. "I was in the USO. I don't really know the proper commands or the protocol of the Army. But I'm an impatient comedian. I can't stand a void."

Persons and Programs

One of the new shows definitely set for CBS-TV next season is a 90-minute, once-a-month program called "Biography." The series will dramatize the lives of famous Americans and probably will start in October.

Roncom, Perry Como's firm, will turn out a 60-minute special for NBC-TV Feb. 28 that'll star Marge and Gower Champion, Ginger Rogers, Louis Jourdan and Elaine and Mike.

It's tentatively titled "A Look at the Lighter Side of Love."

Keenan Wynn has been added to the cast of the Feb. 5 NBC-TV special, Berkeley Square.

CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan flew to Cuba Tuesday to record an interview with Fidel Castro for his Jan. 11 show.

The test film for a new TV series, "The Secret Life of James Thurber," will be shot in Hollywood on Jan. 12 with Arthur O'Connell as star — an independent outfit, Screen Gems, is backing it.

Margaret Truman will guest on ABC-TV's Peter Lind Hayes Show the week of Jan. 12 to 16.

Her father, Harry Truman, is ticketed in for a Jan. 14 appearance on NBC-TV's Today when that show marks its seventh birthday.

The Mariners, a quartet once given the heave-ho by Arthur Godfrey, have been quietly sneaked back on to Godfrey's morning CBS-TV show where they've been performing the past couple of weeks. Two of the original members, however, are no longer with the quartet.

CBS Radio will present a special 55-minute study of prostitution, "The Business of Sex," on Jan. 19 with Ed Murrow as narrator.

U.S. Suit Surprises Opa-locka

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

Stunned Opa-locka Commissioners learned Thursday night the federal government is suing the city for $88,000 plus 6 per cent interest dating back to 1954.

"If the government is successful, and the city is required to pay a judgment, it would have to be paid through a special tax assessment," the city attorney said.

City Attorney Frank Kelly said the damage suit is for electrical fixtures and other equipment the government claims Opa-locka gave to private interests when it took over the 4,066-acre air base in 1952.

The city took over the base from the Navy and leased it to private interests before the Marine Corps took over the base in 1952.

Four bidders also told the commission the city doesn't have enough security to go ahead with a $350,00 street beautification and repair program.

'Hubbub' Won't Stop The Circus

Jim Dooley's circus goes on tonight—angered ladies or no.

The television personality and boys' camp worker said Thursday night "it's unfortunate" the Junior Museum Guild Volunteer ladies created "such a hubbub" over conflicting circus dates.

The gals' circus opens Jan. 16—in the midst of Dooley's 10-day run of the Cristiani Brothers attraction at NW 12th Ave. and 14th St.

"We are both working towards the same goal," Dooley said. "Helping kids." He said he had no way of knowing the ladies' event would clash with his show.

Mrs. Charles E. Grentner Jr., spokesman for the ladies' group, complained Dooley knew they had a showing coming up because he helped them prepare last year's circus.

In an effort to "smooth out" the situation, Dooley said he offered the women 50 per cent "of every dime we take in."

But they balked, he said, and were determined to stay with Carnival Operator David Endy who is setting up their circus.

Homestead Man Shot to Death

John Looze, 50, of 926 NW Third Ave., Homestead was shot and killed at his home Thursday night. Police said it was apparently suicide.

Police said Looze had been despondent because of ill health. He was found shot in the mouth with a .22-caliber pistol.

Highway Patrolmen said they'll resume the search today.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Byron Price, former assistant secretary general of the U.N., Thursday was named director general of the Press Congress of the World, to be held March 2-4 in Columbia, Mo.

James Kerney Jr., former editor of The Trenton, (N.J.) Times, will be secretary general.

The congress will be a high point of the 50th anniversary observance of the University of Missouri's School of Journalism. Earl F. English, dean of the school, announced the appointments.

Gun Blast Hits Home in Gables

A mysterious shotgun blast riddled the door of the home of Vaughn Cannon, 1333 Blue Rd., late Thursday night, Coral Gables police said.

The blast occurred shortly after 11 p.m. in the fashionable section, while Cannon's home was unoccupied.

Milk cartons were on the doorstep and papers were scattered around, said police, who could not locate Cannon.

Cubans Set Big Rally

Cuban patriots gave up their plans for a parade Thursday but scheduled a victory rally Sunday instead.

The entire Latin-American colony of Miami was invited to Bayfront Park to attend the mass meeting celebrating the overthrow of the Batista government in Cuba.

Mayor Robert King High will speak, along with Cuban Provisional Consul Oscar Ramirez and Metro Commissioner Charles Hall.

Spokesmen for the Cubans said they vetoed the parade idea after their application for a permit was turned down by Miami Police Chief Walter Headley. Headley said he feared a demonstration might bring retaliation from other Cuban factions.

Gallup Poll

Ike's Popularity Down for 86th Congress

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute
Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — President Eisenhower's personal popularity with voters is lower today than it has been at any other opening of Congress since he was first inaugurated six years ago.

His present popularity score, however, is somewhat higher than that reported a month and a half ago in the wake of the Democrats' landslide victory in the Congressional election.

Today, 57 voters in every 100 interviewed by Gallup Poll reporters across the country say they approve the way Eisenhower is handling his job as President.

In November, 52 per cent of voters interviewed gave the President a vote of confidence.

Here is Eisenhower's popularity score at the beginning of each session of the 83rd, 84th, 85th and the current opening session of the heavily-Democratic 86th Congress:

EISENHOWER POPULARITY

The Republicans can take comfort from the fact that Eisenhower still enjoys majority support from the voters.

Since he first took office in January, 1953, in fact, Eisenhower's popularity has dipped below the 50 per cent mark only once — at the height of the recession last April.

A glance at the accompanying record of Eisenhower's popularity since he first took office will show significant rises following his "Atoms for Peace" speech in 1954, his "Open Skies" plan at the Geneva conference in 1955 and, more recently, his dispatch of U.S. Marines to Lebanon in August, 1958.

Beach Hotel Offers Brigitte Bardot Free Honeymoon Here

RUMORS are flying from south of the border that one of the recently returned Cuban exiles may end up as operator of one of the big hotels built in Havana during the last two years. His family has had hotel-buying experience, in a manner of speaking . . . Dogs are taboo in the Nautilus Hotel, but in view of the hour management made an exception for the canines of Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane when they visited Leonard Young's broadcast show there at 1:30 in the dawning.

Caller wants to know where he can find broiled buffalo T-bone steak in our town. Says he had some at Club Bohemia in Chicago. We don't know, feller, it seems to be extinct as the buffalo nickel here . . . "The Fifth Season," comedy about the Jewish garment center in New York, will be staged by the North Shore Jewish Center thespians at Golden Gate Playhouse on Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 . . . Montmartre management is said to have offered Brigitte Bardot and Sacha Distel, her current companion, free honeymooning facilities in the event they are wed. But didn't the cable caution Distel to "also bring guitar—for use in Les Girls club"?

Casting Types Needed

SO NOW it appears that Dream Bar's Buddy Rich bought a Mercedes-Benz but he didn't buy it from the auto dealer we reported was a frequent visitor to his club. We hesitate to pass along the new information as to Buddy's point of purchase for fear of erring a second time but we do know a couple of other fellows who bought their Mercedes Benz from Frank Watt. The Cuban revolution helped blow Victor Borge into his Deauville Hotel date. He was skedded to spend the holidays in Havana until things went BOOM.

This is one of those items that are usually misunderstood so please re-read carefully if you are interested: Maxine Barrat, who has offices at the Coconut Grove Playhouse, is casting for some TV commercials being made by a Chicago firm. Matron types, a few children, 4 to 16, and male executive types are needed.

Cecil Wolfson, the industrialist merged with journalist Walter Winchell and sportsman Joe DiMaggio, for a night at the Havana Mardi Gras Revue at the Lucerne. W.W. and DiMag have been a frequent Joe's Stone Crabs duo. Winchell has been Number One Citizen of the Weiss emporium for decades now and has done more for the stone crab than Rockefeller ever did for the oyster! . . . Leo Leary at the McAllister. He's unit production man for "Operation Petticoat" to be made in Key West, with Cary Grant and Tony Curtis starred.

Charlie Spivak Due Soon

THE LINCOLN THEATER on Miami Beach turned up with one of the winners in the Screen Snapshots "identify the masked player" contest which ran some months ago. She's Pat Davis of NW 30th St., who won a trip to California . . . Don't ask us why — but drummer Rufus Cleare of the Curt Harmon Trio at the Pin-Up lounge answers to the name of "Turnip Greens" . . . Charlie Spivak now due at the Gaslight Inn on Jan. 28.

We pointed out in our review of "Stars of the Russian Ballet" that the film was of 1953 vintage but referred to it as one of the pictures in the recent exchange agreement reached between the United States and the Soviet Union. We have now been informed, via the Theater Owners of America office that it is not in that "package."

Eckstine Scores at Eden Roc

MR. B—as Billy Eckstine is known to his followers—is a Triple-A Threat in his current engagement at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii. He sings his romantic song with as much warmth and feeling as ever, he kicks a pretty if not sensational extra dancing point after that touchdown, and then shows his versatility by scoring again with some mighty clever vocal take-offs on his fellow singers, including Bing Crosby, Perry Como and Louis Armstrong.

Opening with "Love Is Where You Find It" Mr. B. charms with "This Is Lovely Way,", "Prisoner of Love," "The Simple Life" "I Apologize" and a number of novelty bits. All of it is in the Eckstine manner.

The Ballet Moulin Rouge brackets the show with two terrific production numbers—the first a dazzling moderne thing with a "Kismet" touch and the closer a smart and dashing bit of modern ballet in modern dress. Comedian Sammy Shore has a good time entertaining his followers in the supporting spot.

Bing Played Wolf in Priest's Clothing

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bing Crosby

Ingrid Bergman
. . . their kiss horrified film's adviser priest

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Bing Crosby has ended a two-year absence from the screen by donning priest's robes again.

The role harks back to Bing's successes in "Going My Way" (1944) and "Bells of St. Mary's" (1945).

The genial groaner is working at 20th Century-Fox for the first time in his long film career. Producer-Director Frank Tashlin has him playing a Roman Catholic priest with Debbie Reynolds and Robert Wagner in "Say One for Me."

"He's a pretty hep character," Bing explained about the role as he relaxed (I've never seen him otherwise) in his dressing room. "His church is St. Malachy's at 47th Street and Broadway in New York, so his flock is largely show people.

"When he came to the parish, he had to acquaint himself with show talk so he could communicate with his parishioners. He also has an early morning mass, as they do in Las Vegas, so the people in shows can attend."

Bing illustrated with part of his sermon, which urged his listeners to drop in at his "late, late show." The padre adds that one of the church members has recovered his health and his act is playing to standing room only — "and I'd like to be doing the same."

Watching over clerical details is Msgr. John Devlin, who also was technical adviser on the previous Crosby priest portrayals.

"He was new then," Bing recalled, "and we pulled a gag on him at the end of 'Bells of St. Mary's.' There was a scene where Ingrid had to leave the parish because of illness. I gave her a real, back-bending kiss.

"Everyone knew about the gag but Father Devlin. Leo said 'cut and print it' and started to walk away. Nobody laughed and Father Devlin was fit to be tied until we finally let him in on it.

"It was Leo McCarey's idea that I could play a Catholic priest, and he was encouraged by Buddy Desylva, who was head of Paramount. When Leo mentioned it to me, I thought he was nuts. All he had was the barest outline of his idea for 'Going My Way.'

"But I went along with it. We had a great time shooting the picture. Leo always spent most of the morning at the piano — he's a frustrated song writer. When he decided what he wanted to shoot, he would tell us and we'd go ahead."

"Going My Way" was the smash picture of the year and netted Bing an Oscar. McCarey then directed him and Ingrid Bergman in "Bells," which was even a greater box office success.

After a 13-year lapse, Bing finds that the church is more liberal in what it will permit the movie makers to screen.

"I think they've loosened up a lot of things," he remarked. "For instance, I saw Helen Hayes in a television play the other night that portrayed the confessional. I had never seen that done before.

"In this picture, the priest takes off his clerical garb and goes to a night club in civilian clothes. Priests often do that when they go hunting and participate in sports. In this case, the priest has to go to the night club as part of his job, and he would be too conspicuous in his church clothes."

Turn on Gas Lights, Felix, It's a Flop

NEW YORK —(AP)— Amid the backstage clutter of one small New York theater is the last trace in town of a bygone era — a gaslight control board.

The cumbersome array of pipes and valves enabled one stagehand to dim the houselights and illuminate the dramatic action prior to the advent of electricity.

The theater, used by the Blackfriars Guild for its annual season of plays, boasts another odd relic. The main curtain, a heavily tasseled golden affair, originally was used at the New York World's Fair of 1939 for a show featuring Gypsy Rose Lee.

Ike Receives List of Soviet Movies to Be Shown in U.S.

Eisenhower Allen

. . . confer with Johnston

Eric Johnston

. . . plans close check

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower has just received a list of seven Russian movies selected for showing in this country beginning next spring.

In exchange, Russia has agreed to show 10 American movies throughout the Soviet Union. Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association, and George V. Allen, director of the United States Information Agency, discussed the exchange program with the President.

Johnson said later that embassies of both countries would keep a check to make sure that no films are cut and that subtitle translations are accurate.

Russian films to be shown here are: "The Cranes Are Flying," winner of the grand prize at the 1958 Cannes Film Festival; "Swan Lake," the classic ballet performed by the Bolshoi Company; Dostoevski's "The Idiot"; the documentary "Circus Stars"; Shakespeare's "Othello"; "Quiet Flows the Don," and "Don Quixote."

Russia has selected "Oklahoma," "Marty," "The Great Caruso," "The Old Man and the Sea," "Lili" and "Roman Holiday." Four additional American movies will be picked in the next week or 10 days.

Bible Helps Job on Job

By MILT FREUDENHEIM
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NEW YORK — The Bible is familiar territory to 35-year-old Pat Hingle who takes the part of Job in Archibald MacLeish's Broadway hit drama "J. B." based on the great Biblical verses.

"When I was a boy of 10 or 12," Hingle recalls, "my mother used to take me to stay with my grandfather, Ernest L. Patterson, in the little mountain town of Saluda, N.C.

"He was a man who probably knew the Bible better than most theologians, although he rarely went to church.

"I used to sleep in his room when we visited my grandfather," Hingle continued. "He was a big Irishman, over 6 feet tall, with a shock of red hair.

"He was a railroad engineer, and he had to be at work at 5. Every morning he would get up at 3 and build a fire. Then he would read aloud from the Bible.

"He slept in long flannel underwear and wore a nightcap with a tassel. He had gone to school only through fourth grade, but he read the Bible from cover to cover, and then started over."

Hingle's grandfather made a practice each year of giving an equal amount of money to each of the four white and one Negro churches in his town.

"When that old man died, they had to hold his funeral five times, with each minister conducting a service," Hingle says.

Naturally enough, Hingle's grandfather gave him a Bible and made him promise to read it through. "I plowed through it all, which is the only reason I'm sure I went through the book of Job."

He began reading Job again when producer Alfred De Liagre and MacLeish, the one-time Librarian of Congress, chose him for the leading role in "J. B.", which also stars Raymond Massey and Christopher Plummer.

Hingle was playing in last year's Broadway success, "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," at the time. His first big stage role was as the greedy elder brother "Gooper" in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

"The secret of my success," quips Hingle, an Actors Studio product with a rich Southern accent, "is being in three big hits that had one thing in common — Elia Kazan directed them all."

Kazan is the co-founder of the Actors Studio famed for his powerful way with a stage or movie drama.

With six wartime years in the Navy (World War II and Korea) interrupting, Hingle got "interested in acting" while studying radio broadcasting at the University of Texas.

He married his first stage manager there, Alyce Dorsey, a Texas girl. They have a daughter, Jody, aged 5, and live on the prairies of West End Ave., Manhattan.

'Made in Japan'—or England, or France...

Foreign Goods Making Us Cosmopolitans

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

A couple of years ago at Christmas our daughter received a most treasured gift—an American-made bicycle. This past Christmas her best friend received her heart's desire — a Japanese-made bicycle.

On New Year's Day in 1958, when my Mother and I went for our customary stroll in the country, she was wearing new walking shoes manufactured by a well-known U.S. company. When we went for our stroll this past New Year's Day she was wearing walking shoes imported from Italy. And she exclaimed several times how comfortable, well-made and stylish they were for only around $8 a pair.

SYLVIA PORTER

Suddenly, this past week, the realization hit me that in recent months we have bought or received as gifts bought in New York stores water glasses made in West Germany, a radio and steak knives made in Japan, a set of breakfast dishes and two sweaters made in England, gloves made in France, a salad bowl made in Holland, ashtrays made in South Africa—and this is only a partial list!

* * *

"EVERYONE KNOWS the success story of the foreign-made car in the American market in the past 18 months," I said to a spokesman for the National Council of American Importers a few minutes after I had made my hasty inventory. "But what about the rest of this stuff? What's the story there?"

The story is that we are witnessing a spectacular upsurge in imports of FINISHED goods into the American market from lands throughout the free world—an influx which directly touches us, America's ordinary consumers, for the first time in our lives.

The overall statistics on imports of foreign goods into our country don't tell the tale. In 1958 we bought from other countries about $13 billion of goods, down moderately from 1957. Our purchases held up remarkably well considering the recession in the United States last year, but the total figure doesn't reveal what's actually going on.

* * *

THE REAL STORY comes through only when you break down the total. Specifically:

A decade ago about 70 per cent of our imports represented raw materials, essentials we needed to buy abroad.

Another 20 per cent represented our purchases of semi-finished products and only 10 per cent consisted of finished goods.

Today our purchases of raw materials have slumped to 50 per cent of the total we buy from abroad. Our imports of semi-finished products are up from 20 per cent to 30 per cent.

* * *

OUR PURCHASES of finished goods — things similar to what our own companies turn out — have doubled to 20 per cent of the total.

It's happening because other nations in the free world are finally back on their economic feet and now have the factories, materials, know-how, to turn out products for sale abroad as well as at home.

It's happening because we in this country have persistently nurtured their comeback with billions of dollars in loans and gifts, with a liberal trade policy, with technical aid and exchange of know-how.

It's happening because many of the products other countries are sending for sale here are of superior workmanship and style and we, the consumers of America, like the workmanship and the styles.

It's happening because many of the products also can be sold in our stores at prices comparing favorably with prices charged by U.S. makers for the same things. "But price is not the key factor in lots of sales," emphasized one department store official I queried. "Quality and style are what the customers are responding to."

* * *

THIS REVIVAL of the economies of the West has been a prime objective of U.S. policy — but now that the imports of goods are skyrocketing, so are the complaints of American manufacturers.

The National Council of American Importers expects 1959 will be one of the roughest years since the '30s for supporters of free trade.

"U.S. businessmen will be asking relief under the anti-dumping law," said my informant. "They'll be demanding relief via the escape clauses of the trade act. They'll be urging quotas on imports, even embargoes."

* * *

PUTTING UP TRADE walls never has been an answer, though, and it never will be. The fact is we are no longer undisputed boss of the world's markets. We have competitors and some stiff ones.

The almost overnight "internationalizing" of the pantry and closet shelves in my home symbolizes the birth of a new boom, a new cycle in world trade. There's room enough in this boom for all of us.

Sea Cargo Rates Going Up; Latin Trade to Be Affected

By Dew-Jones, AP, UPI

Rates on cargo shipped between Atlantic and Gulf ports and the west coast of South America will be raised March 1.

The increases will mean that South Florida importers will have to pay more for products shipped from Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Venezuela and the Guianas.

Representatives of six steamship lines that ply these routes agreed "the increase is necessary to defray higher operating costs. Other shippers are considering increases.

The rate boosts will vary according to the type of cargo and are expected to produce about 10 per cent more revenue. About 70 per cent of all goods shipped over the routes will be affected.

N.Y. CENTRAL Railroad directors decided at a meeting in Palm Beach that the Central's rail facilities should be immediately coordinated with those of the Pennsylvania Railroad, but that a complete merger should be delayed for further study. They suggested establishment of three or four railroad systems of "nearly balanced economic strength" in the East.

BRUNSWICK - Balke - Collender Co. is taking over the manufacture, installation and service of its automatic pinsetter from Otis Elevator Co., starting in 1960, the companies announced.

UNION OIL & GAS CO. of Louisiana, which provides natural gas to North Florida, has announced a 2½-for-1 stock split and increased dividends.

* * *

INLAND STEEL CO. announced plans for 50 million dollars in new bond financing to expand operations and increase working capital. The company just completed a three - year, 300 - million-dollar expansion and rehabilitation program. Capital expenditures of 80 million dollars are contemplated in 1959.

TRANS-CARIBBEAN AIRWAYS has decided to sell to a federal agency some of the D. C. Transit System properties it bought from Louis Wolfson in August 1956. A company official said D. C. Transit will sell the government some old car barns, shops and a car house in Washington, D. C., for $3,320,000.

* * *

AUTO OUTPUT is scheduled to rise to 133,390 units this week from 97,663 last week, a 13.5 per cent increase over the same week of 1958. American Motors said it will cut back output because of a glass shortage growing out of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. strike.

* * *

JOHN MANSVILLE CORP. said it has completed acquisition of L.O.F Glass Fibers Co. and will begin an expansion of glass fiber production looking toward a 14-million-dollar sales increase.

* * *

PHILLIPS CHEMICAL CO. said it is cutting by five cents a pound the price of Marlex, a rigid polyethylene plastic used in making plastic specialties, housewares and hoola hoops.

* * *

FLORIDA STEEL CORP. expects a slight increase in net earnings for the first quarter of the 1959 fiscal year, but a drop in earnings from 28 to around 25 cents a share. The year-old Tampa-based firm is an outgrowth of the merger of eight fabricating and steel warehousing companies in Florida and other South Atlantic states.

Loew's Ups Profits But Loses Director

A Fort Lauderdale millionaire who failed in an attempt to take over the management of Loew's, Inc., announced Thursday he has resigned as a director of the 220-million-dollar motion picture company.

Joseph Tomlinson said, "My opinion of Loew's management is generally known. I have come to the sad conclusion that the management is more interested in perpetuating its own position than in the interest of the stockholders."

Tomlinson added that his two supporters on the board, Louis A. Green and Jerome A. Newman, will probably follow his lead.

At the same time, Loew's president, Joseph R. Vogel, reported at a stockholders' meeting in New York that the company's earnings rebounded to $2,625,000, or 49 cents a share, in the first quarter of the current fiscal year from a $1,290,849 loss in the same quarter of the previous year.

Tomlinson and the two other insurgent directors opened a proxy battle with Loew's management two years ago. The battle ended recently when they sold a large block of their stock to Nathan Cummings

Jets and Jet Props: What's the Difference?

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Pure jet airliners have been making the headlines recently, but don't write off the jet-props.

Many airline officials believe these hold the key to the medium and short haul — the bread and butter service that carries 50 to 70 per cent of the world's air travelers.

If you're confused over terms the jet-prop is known interchangeably as the turbo-prop or prop-jet. Actually it's a plane with conventional propellers driven by jet engines. The pure jets have no propellers at all.

Among the jet-prop manufacturers are Lockheed Aircraft Co., whose Electra will begin New York-Chicago flights of American Airlines Jan. 23, Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp. and two British companies — Bristol Aeroplane Co. and Vickers-Armstrongs (Aircraft) Ltd.

Vickers pioneered the jet-prop field with its Viscount which entered passenger service on British European Airways flights in 1953.

Vickers now has come out with an improved version of the Viscount — the Vanguard — which presently is being put through its paces at the company's Wisley Airfield, near Weybridge, England.

It will enter regular passenger service in 1960. At present 20 aircraft are on order by British European Airways and 20 by Trans-Canada airlines.

The biggest advantage of the jet-props over pure jets is cost — both initial and operating, according to airline officials.

The new Vanguard, for example, costs $2,750,000, compared with $4,500,000 for a Boeing 707. Lower operating costs stem largely from less fuel consumption and less time on the ground for flight maintenance.

The big advantage of the pure jets is their speed. Most cruise at between 550 and 600 miles per hour. The fastest—wps Convair 880 — cruises at 615 MPH.

Federals Boost Deposits 31 Pct. In Two Years

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Savings-minded Miamians, lured by 3½ per cent interest rates and free gifts, have created a 31 per cent increase in deposits of Dade County's federal savings and loan associations in the past two years.

A report compiled Thursday by Julian Langner Research, Inc., showed a 31.4 per cent rise in deposits of the county's 14 institutions of this type.

Assets of the firms increased 31.3 per cent in the two-year period.

Deposits in the 14 institutions at the end of 1958 amounted to more than 677 million dollars. Assets totaled 784 million.

Biscayne Federal led in percentage increase of deposits in the two-year period—284 per cent. But Flagler Federal, with 75.2 per cent rise in 1958 alone, paced the field last year.

Dade County has added one federal a year since 1955.

The newcomers in the field, competing against the older and more established firms like First Federal, Dade Federal and Chase Federal, have embarked on aggressive advertising programs to pull in depositors.

"Free gifts for new deposits," they proclaim, dangling before customers eyes an assortment of items like cameras, cutlery sets, lamps, electric toasters, china sets, and fountain pens.

In some of the associations, the gift fits the deposit. The more you deposit, the more expensive gift you receive.

"That's one way we cam compete against the older institutions," the head of one of the newer federals explained. "Interest rates are the same at all our federals here and all deposits are insured the same way for the same amount. We have to do something to be distinctive."

The older federals, as a rule, frown on the gift-giving and rely mainly on past reputation and institutional advertising.

Miami Beach Federal, which survived last year's widely-publicized federal indictments against some of its directors, wound up 1958 with a little more than 100 million dollars in deposits—a shade higher than it held at the end of '57.

Surprise Move

Treasury To Borrow $3¼ Billion

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Treasury announced it plans to borrow 3¼ billion dollars next week.

In its first offering of long-term bonds in seven months, it will seek to market 750 million dollars of 4 per cent, 21-year bonds to be priced at 99 per cent of face value. At this price, the bonds will yield about 4.07 per cent.

Additionally, it will offer 2½ billion dollars of notes bearing an interest rate of 3¼ per cent but priced at 99¾ per cent of face value to yield about 3.45 per cent.

The 3¼ billion dollars total is 1¼ billion more than the Treasury had been expected to seek at this time.

Officials said one billion dollars was added to the cash financing in order to reduce by a like amount the weekly offersings of regular treasury bills.

The bond sale will feature an installment plan purchase arrangement for savings-type investors.

How's the Market Today?

—United Press International Photo

"Now, how about this AT&T stock split?"

That's not really what five-year-old Richard B. "Ricky" Wright is asking here, but it very well could be.

Ricky, at his home in Wellston, Ohio, is trying to make a million by playing the stock market.

Too big for toy trains (he figures) Ricky, when he was only four, acquired two shares of Chesapeake and Ohio railroad stock (currently quoted at $68 a share). His dad says it was his own idea.

Now, Ricky keeps an eye on "his" railroad, counting the cars as they roll along the tracks near his home.

A good credit risk, he's already swung a one-dollar bank loan, which he paid back out of his dividends.

But he's still a kid at heart. Look at those cowboy boots.

3 Billion Loss Is Canceled

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market did a quick turnabout Thursday.

An advance canceled an estimated loss of nearly three billion dollars in the quoted values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.99 to 588.14, failing to equal its previous record. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .51 to 55.40, also falling short of an historic peak.

All 16 of the most active stocks gained.

Motors, steels and rails were pacemakers as prices rose.

Key stocks advanced fractions to well over a point. Selected issues stretched their gains to several points. American Telephone rose 4½, Du Pont 5 and American Machine & Metals 9¾.

The rise was a dramatic rebound from Wednesday's shakeout, the steepest since Nov. 24. The market now stands where it was Tuesday, at the peak of a rise to seven straight new highs.

CAN YOU SOLVE PROBLEMS IN YOUR SLEEP?
YES☐ NO☐
1-9

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

FALSE. GOSSIP CAN be a good thing in the sense that in some cases, if people didn't gossip, they might do far worse things. Researcher Rebecca Stirling made a careful study of gossip. She feels that the emotional disturbances that cause people to gossip are often the same ones that cause them to start harmful law suits, to engage in vicious attacks upon their neighbors, or even to wage war upon others. A gossip should be seen, not merely as a menace, but as a person who has a disturbance deep within his own personality that needs correction.

2. Yes. Years ago we discovered for ourselves that if we discussed some unsolved problem before we went to sleep, by morning things were clearer. While your conscious mind is asleep your subconscious mind goes right on functioning. Many problems can be solved at the subconscious level during sleep that are blocked while awake. Give your subconscious something to work on before you sleep. But make sure that it isn't too anxiety-provoking, or it may wake you up in the middle of the night.

WOW - $695

THAT'S what I said when I was asked to advertise our 1954 RAMBLER CUSTOM 4 door sedan for only $695. Heres why. It's a standout from the crowd with a beautiful frost white and tropical turquoise finish in showroom condition. There's a smart continental rear tire mount to really set it off. The original factory interior has been sparked with expensive naugahyde and nylon custome tailored to fit seat covers.

There's all the Rambler features and more too—DUAL RANGE HYDRAMATIC, the "8" tube tone control radio, famous WEATHEREYE thermostate heating and fresh air system, TWIN BEDS and airline RECLINING SEATS, clock, directional signals and OK white wall tires. We're giving this one our special "4 star" rating and so will you when you see and drive it. No cash needed—Just trade in your 1950 model for the down payment.

The interior including the doorpanels and headliner is factory original and in excellent condition. One look at the special expensive set of custom tailored to fit seat covers that the former owner had installed, lets you know that this smooth performer has been cared for. LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Bandwagon Well-Filled

THERE IS a striking resemblance between a Cuban revolution and an American election.

The main difference, of course, is that we kick people out of office with ballots.

But there is no difference in the way everyone jumps on the bandwagon of the winner.

The way everyone now is claiming that they were secret agents for Castro or were giving money to the rebels or were helping buy or deliver arms to them, you'd think that Batista was the only man in Cuba who was on Batista's side.

Even Errol Flynn got into the closing act, showing reporters a scratch or a wound and saying he had fought side by side with the patriots in their battle for liberty.

Maybe so, but I am inclined to believe the New York columnist who says that Flynn has a movie of Castro in mind and "enlisted" with a pretty girl and a photographer by his side.

Flynn and most of these others sound very much like a courthouse drone who makes loud noises the day after election, assuring the winner and everyone else that he personally produced the votes that decided the issue.

* * *

ANOTHER CURIOUS THING is the way violence and looting broke out as soon as it was known that Batista had fled. This was no sensible way to express joy that a dictator had been overthrown, neither was it a logical way to welcome a new regime.

Neither was there any logic to the way hundreds of kids who had never taken any part in the movement against Batista grabbed arms and began to roam about the streets, shooting their guns recklessly and without reason.

Castro and Urrutia, the man he put in as president, appear to have checked the mobs and to have full desire to restore peace, law and order.

But mob violence is a fearful thing and it is a fearful thing to see how easily it is unleashed not only in Cuba, but anywhere.

It is better not to think of this, but to chuckle about the antics of the "me too" boys who suddenly unveil themselves as Castro supporters, after keeping their support a dark secret during the days when it was dangerous to be so identified.

Reading of them, it seems just like home, the day after an election.

TRAVELING AROUND the country has in no way diminished the home town spirit of Miss Anna Marie Crane. A native Miamian, she recently was transferred to Honolulu from the Far East and a columnist for the Advertiser gets under her skin. Seems that he frequently takes good natured pokes at Florida weather.

"I see red when I pick up the paper and see his comments on our Gold Coast," writes Miss Crane. "As far as I can see, our beaches are bigger and better, the sun is sunnier, and in all we are so much more than they are!"

You are entitled to an honorary, lifetime card in our Chamber of Commerce, Miss Crane.

She enclosed a clipping from the column of her pet hate, Bob Krauss, in which he advises readers where they can buy coal for their fireplaces and mentions that a lady subscriber was "freezing to death" for lack of proper heat.

Okay, let's hear no more from Honolulu about Miami's shortcomings. We have the goods on you now.

IN CASE, I FORGET it next Christmas season, I want to mention the campaign that Mrs. Donald Demree, Key West, suggests ought to be sponsored by somebody.

Here's her idea:

"Every year there are dozens of memorial and anniversary stamps issued by the Post Office Department. In December, why don't they issue a stamp with an appropriate picture, either with a religious theme or with Santa and his reindeer, so that a Christmas card can be mailed to friends and carry out the Christmas theme?"

It's all right with me. In fact, it sounds like a good idea. Mr. Postmaster General, please take care of this.

FOR UNUSUAL TOWN NAMES, E. H. Platter, Hollywood, suggests Nooseneck Hill, R.I. and for unusual people's names, he mentions a Hollywood surgeon, Dr. Carver.

He Ate And Ate And Ate

PITTSBURGH—(AP)— A sign on a Pittsburgh restaurant read:

"All you can eat for 69 cents."

One customer decided it was quite a bargain.

He entered the restaurant, tucked a napkin under his chin, and ordered a meat loaf dinner.

He ordered a second, then a third.

On his fourth order, he was told there was no more meat loaf. He refused to pay his check.

Police carted him away to the workhouse for 30 days on a disorderly conduct chargle.

He will get only one dinner each night—for free.

Jack Kofoed Says

Strange Religious Leaders Come Along

RELIGION can have strange implications. New sects are invited by chiselers, and gullible people fall for them.

Nowhere are there quainter religious organizations, nor more trusting suckers than in the great city of Los Angeles.

Several weeks ago a bomb was hurled into the temple of one of these sects. The leader, Khrishna Venta, was blown to bits. So were a number of his trusting followers.

The murderers were members of the cult, who had become bitterly resentful at the man who, while calling himself a god, seduced their wives and daughters.

Khrishna Venta's real name was Francis H. Penovic, and he was a real gone no-good, as the beat generation would say.

A gambler and lecher, Penovic had a record of arrests for vagrancy, theft and Mann Act violations.

But, all he had to do was grow a beard, don a white robe, and give out with a flow of devout gibberish in order to recruit followers.

There are thousands of upset, emotionally disturbed people, who have not found whatever it is they seek in the great religions.

They become targets for ruthless promoters like Penovic, alias Khrishna Venta. Whether their aim is money, or unrestricted sexual indulgence, such cult leaders do more than their share of harm. But, Penovic's fate and the expose which followed will be no deterrent to morons, who buy false solace from self-proclaimed deities.

MAURICE Abraham Cohen (called "Moishe" by his doting mother) was born and brought up in the teeming warrens of East London. Few Americans ever heard of Moishe, but he was one of the world's most surprising soldiers of fortune.

When still a young man, he sought adventure in China, and saved the life of Sun Yat-sen, when an attempt was made to assassinate the founder of modern China.

From then on Cohen was closer to the great old man then anyone else . . . became successively a war lord, diplomat, financier and reformer. It was Cohen who arranged Sun Yat-sen's escape to Canada, when the Nationalist government fell.

The boy from the East End became a Chinaman in thought, action and manner, but when his father lay dying he flew 10,000 miles to be at the bedside.

A major general in the Nationalist Army, Cohen returned to the land he had come to love more than his own, and for awhile was financial advisor to Chiang Kai-shek.

No one knows how Moishe's life ended, but the most creditable story is that he was captured and shot by the Japanese.

His philosophy was summed up in one sentence: "There are so many poor victims of aggression. Sympathy without action is a useless gesture. I want to do everything I can for them."

IT'S INTERESTING to note how advertising techniques change to meet changing conditions. Because so many people in the United States are weight conscious, the pitch, when it comes to food, is to minimize the calories each possesses.

In England, during World War II, with many food items rationed, people wanted all the calories they could get. So, in advertising a well known American candy bar, copy writers followed this theme:

"For 2½ pence you can buy 64 calories in eggs, 141 in beef, 190 in milk . . . but you get 270 in a Moon Bar!"

Peddling the same product in 1959, the boys would be shot against a blank wall if they dared mention anything like that.

SAM SHREERO, who is as hot a jai alai aficionado as I am, thinks 1959 may not be as bright as a brush fire, if final moments of '58 are any indication.

At Tropical Park a fellow offered him 5 to 1 that he couldn't pick the last horse in a race. Mr. Shreero took the bet. His selection won, and paid $166.

For two nights he failed to cash a bet at jai alai, and went three afternoons before getting one at Tropical.

Sam received a quarterly bill from Internal Revenue . . . bills amounting to $700 from local stores . . . the roof had to be fixed, and his wife demanded a vacation in Italy and Spain.

"The only thing that'll save me," moans Sam, "is to win a big one on a quiz show."

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♣.

In today's hand, West's apparent extravagance was nothing more than just "casting bread upon the waters."

South could have opened the bidding with one heart had he chosen, but he elected to make a preempt of four hearts, a tactical maneuver which is indorsed by this observer. As partner had already passed, South considered that chances for slam could be disregarded.

West made the normal opening lead of ten of clubs. East won with the ace and when declarer dropped the king, he saw the futility of continuing that suit, making instead the natural shift to the three of spades. Declarer played low and West reflexly reached for the jack, when a guardian spirit tugged at his elbow and induced him to take time out for analysis.

It was not to be expected that he or his partner could win a natural heart trick and the singleton king of clubs had shown up in the declarer's hand. Dummy's diamond holding made it clear that no tricks could be expected from that source, which left the spade suit as the only hope for the defense. That East held the king of spades was highly probable for it did not seem likely that declarer would preempt on a holding that contained very good hearts, the king of spades. But the important consideration was that if East did not have the king of spades, the defenders might as well fold their tents.

On this line of reasoning, West won the trick with the ace and returned the jack. East won with the king and played a third round of the suit. West's queen of hearts could not be prevented from scoring the setting trick.

Mercy Mission Just Too Late

SALT LAKE CITY —(AP)— The mother said her baby couldn't breathe. Police dispatched two officers in an ambulance.

One drove while the other tried artificial respiration. But at the hospital doctors pronounced the baby dead. They said the infant, one-month-old Craig Allen Pistorious, had a congenital heart condition.

One of the ambulance men was asked to break the news to Craig's mother. He was Officer William D. Pistorious—the baby's father.

Pearson Returning to Miami As Golf Champ, Rookie of Year

WHEN HE came here for the National Baseball Players' Golf Tournament last winter, Albie Pearson was practically unknown. He was merely the little fellow who had been sent to Washington in a deal with Boston.

Albie, a personable chap, lost little time making himself known as a golfer. He won the golf championship, defeating John Gray on the 19th hole.

But Pearson's big ambition was to make good as a major league outfielder. Many scoffed at his chances, thinking he was too short and light for the job. Albie not only became the Senators' regular center fielder but on two separate occasions has been named American League Rookie of the Year.

PEARSON

Albie was first chosen for this honor by The Sporting News and now a committee of baseball writers named Pearson in the Associated Press poll.

So, when Albie comes back to defend his golfing title next month, no one will be asking, "who's Pearson?" and my guess is he'll be just as likeable as last year.

It is interesting to note that of the nine players selected as American Rookie of the Year, eight are still in the majors. Harry Byrd, who won the honor in 1952, is now a Marlin.

Medal Awaits Mantle

Lee Evans of the city publicity department, says Mickey Mantle of the Yankees will be presented a medal before the tournament starts . . . Seems that Tourney Director George Jacobus decided upon an award for the most improved golfer in the tournament . . . All hands agreed this distinction was earned by Mickey.

Colt Victory Inspired Tears

A FUGITIVE from Baltimore's cold weather, Ralph DeChiaro, Tropical treasurer, chatted about the Colts winning the pro football championship. He said it was true about their supporters going wild.

"Why my wife cried for joy, when the Colts beat the Giants in the sudden death playoff," Ralph reported. "I was pretty excited, too. It was a happy occasion for the city."

DeChiaro recalled that he and Saul Silberman, his partner in ownership of Tropical, almost backed the Baltimore team in the NFL. Then Carroll Rosenblum and associates took the franchise and DeChiaro said, "the team is in good hands."

★ ★ ★

Stewart Impressed by 'Battery'

DURING HIS umpiring days, Bill Stewart saw a lot of great baseball batteries in action. He departed Miami for the colder clime of Boston, still talking about Buddy Humphrey, the pitcher, and Billy Stacy, the catcher, in the Shrine All-Star game.

"I never saw a better combination," said Stewart. "They tell me the pros drafted Stacy for his defensive football ability. I'll bet they have him playing offense too."

You'll recall that Humphrey pitched five touchdown passes for the Rebels, with Stacy snagging three of 'em. In the Senior Bowl at Mobile last Saturday, the Humphrey-Stacy combine clicked on a 52-yard pass to set up a touchdown.

Hears Score Is OK Physically

STEWART, who scouts for Cleveland in the New England area, also will help with the development of rookies at Indiantown, Daytona Beach.

"I hear from Cleveland that Herb Score is doing some preliminary training and thinks his arm will be OK."

HERB SCORE

Stewart chuckled as he predicted a terrific battle for second place between Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit, explaining, "It seems to be fashionable to concede the pennant to the Yankees.

"However, the way Frank Lane has been changing things around, the Indians may be in position to take it all."

Stewart enjoyed himself immensely here and hated to head north — particularly as he'd heard it was cold up there.

Women Must Admit to 45 Years

IT IS remarkable that Mrs. Clara Spitz can make women admit to being 45 years, or older. This is one of the requirements for entering the Westview Women's Senior Tournament, March 9-10, and there'll be a large field . . . Wonder if Woody Laughinghouse's New Year's resolutions included not betting against the Yankees in the World Series . . . They're expecting a large turnout for Bill Tinder Day at the Biltmore . . . Barbara McIntire is one of the first entrants in the International Mixed Best Ball Tournament Jack McAuliffe will stage at Tequesta . . . Luke Morris says his plan for a new type golf course — a player hits three balls off the same tee to three different holes — has the approval of Herb Graffis, publisher of Golfdom magazine . . . Herb also wants to send the revolutionary course plans to the National Golf Foundation . . . George Dockerty, LaGorce, and Harry Elmore are doing a good job of handling the details at the Country Club of Florida golf matches.

Motion Picture Actor-Casino Host George Raft breezed into Miami from Havana Thursday night, a real revolution behind him and revolutionary boxing ideas ahead.

Raft, who recently extended a still-unaccepted offer of $400,000 to Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson for a title defense against Cuba's Nino Valdes in Havana, Thursday shoved forth two more prospective offers.

1. A $450,000 guarantee for Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson to fight Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore for the light-heavy title in Havana in March.

2. A 15-round match between Valdes and Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, with the winner claiming the heavyweight championship.

Raft said he would go to New York next week to discuss the offers with Robinson and Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager—but left no doubt he felt he could make one of the three fights.

"I'll just sort of toss the offers up," he said, "and see who grabs first."

Raft said a friend of his had contacted Robinson on the Sugar-Moore fight, and that he personally had talked to Miami's Doc Kearns, Moore's manager.

"Sugar likes the idea," he said. "Kearns likes the idea, I like the idea."

Raft, connected with a plush gambling casino in Havana, emphasized that he would try to make the Valdes-Johansson match only if Patterson refused to fight Valdes.

"And, if Patterson won't fight," he said, "I think we need another champion."

Raft said any of the matches, if made, would be held in Havana's Sports Palace, carried throughout the U.S. over Teleprompter (theater TV), and staged as a tribute to Cuba's new rebel regime (which has promised to stamp out gambling in Cuba).

"I haven't talked to the new government officials about a fight yet," he admitted. "But I'm sure they'll go along."

Bringing the people to Havana, Raft added, was his real interest in trying to promote a fight there.

"You know," he said, "there aren't many tourists there right now."

Too Much Talk For Lanky Mike

By LUTHER EVANS

Athletic directors of Northwestern and the University of Miami agreed Thursday in Cincinnati to let their basketball coaches thrash out who's entitled to have Mike McCoy, seven-foot cage prospect.

McCoy, himself, said any argument between Miami's Bruce Hale and Northwestern's Bill Rohr would be a waste of time and money—that he has a mind of his own.

Northwestern's Stu Holcomb earlier said he and Miami's Jack Harding agreed that Rohr and Hale "should get on the telephone and discuss the situation."

Said Hale, happy to have McCoy as a prospective Hurricane:

"I talked to Rohr on Tuesday and told him where he could contact McCoy by telephone if he wanted to try and get him back to Northwestern."

Said McCoy, happy to be away from Northwestern after playing freshman basketball there:

"Coach Rohr knows where I am. But he hasn't called me.

"All this arguing is useless. I don't think I'd go back to Northwestern under any circumstances.

"When I left, I thought all I'd have to do is come down and enroll. I hope it works out — I sure want to go to school here," McCoy added.

UM Cagers 'Ease Off,' 97-55

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Because Bruce Hale believes in compassion and warm international relations, his University of Miami basketball team licked the University of Toronto by only 42 points Thursday night, 97 to 55.

As facetious as that may sound, it's true.

If Hale hadn't resisted the temptation to have his Hurricanes increase their nation-leading scoring average with as many points as they could get, it would have been pure murder.

As it was with Hale clearing his bench, the point-hungry Miamians boosted their average output from 88.5 to 89.3 points.

A turnout of 1,150 at Beach Auditorium, including some who began imploring "get 100" in the game's first minute, saw the UM sophomores win for the seventh time in 11 contests.

It was the 11th consecutive defeat in the United States for the under-sized Canadians, dead-tired after playing three straight nights in as many cities.

"Thanks for having us," Toronto Coach John McManus told Hale at game's end, "That's the best we can do—we can't play with your ball club.

"Miami and Memphis State (96-57 conquerors of the Canadians) are the best we've seen in the states."

Superiority of the fast-breaking Halemen was evidenced early when they out-scored their guests 18 points to one to run a 9-6 advantage to 29-8.

With UM subs operating, Toronto cut the difference to 44-33 by halftime on the marksmanship of Center Ron Goldring, a good one.

In the second half, the 27-point underdogs, managed just one field goal while the UM was doubling their production at 74-37.

The Hurricanes, whose fast break directly netted 15 field goals, cut loose 93 FG attempts, many of them over-anxious efforts in the late stages. They bullseyed 35. Toronto made just 21 of 76 action shots.

Dick Hickox, 5-6 guard labeled by McManus as "too much for us to handle," topped UM scorers with 19 points. Four other sophomores were in double figures—Ron Godfrey (18), Bruce Applegate (17) and Harry Manushaw (15).

Mainrock's First Is Season's 'Best'

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Mainrock, a three-year-old and a maiden until Thursday, rocked the talent at Tropical Park when the High Lea-Vrondigelding won the fifth race at the juicy payoff of $269.10, $65.70 and $21.50 across the board.

Until Thursday Mainrock was credited with one second and a third in five starts but Trainer Hugh L. Fontaine, who did a pretty swell job with the famed Needles, had his charge in shape and Jockey Charley Burr did the rest. Mainrock had been idle since last May 31 at Delaware Park.

The fabulous price on Mainrock was the highest of the current meeting. Last year's top longshot came when Celtic Kid won on Dec. 12 and refunded $164.40. The record for Tropical is $571 paid by Escohigh on Dec. 19, 1937.

Shooting out of the No. 12 stall, Mainrock was well-placed by Burr and beat Flight Request by a nose with Florence H. third just a head away in a three-horse photo. Owned by Edward T. Sheehan, Mainrock was timed in 1:11 for the six furlongs.

* * *

BARDSTOWN and Nadir, the "big" horses in Saturday's $50,000 — added Tropical Park Handicap, were given final preparatory tests for their stakes engagement Thursday morning.

Nadir flew over half a mile in 46 4-5 seconds at Hialeah to the satisfaction of Trainer Moody Jolley. The Claiborne Farm star went the first quarter in 23 seconds and was clocked in 34 3-5 for three-eighths.

Trainer Jimmy Jones sent Bardstown over five furlongs in a final blow-out. Bardstown has retained the speed which enabled him to break the Tropical Park track record for 1 1-16 miles in the Orange Bowl Handicap. He covered the first half mile in 48 seconds and finished out five eighths in 1:01 2-5.

HAROLD O. SIMMONS has been elected executive secretary and treasurer of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association after resigning as president, a post he had held for several years.

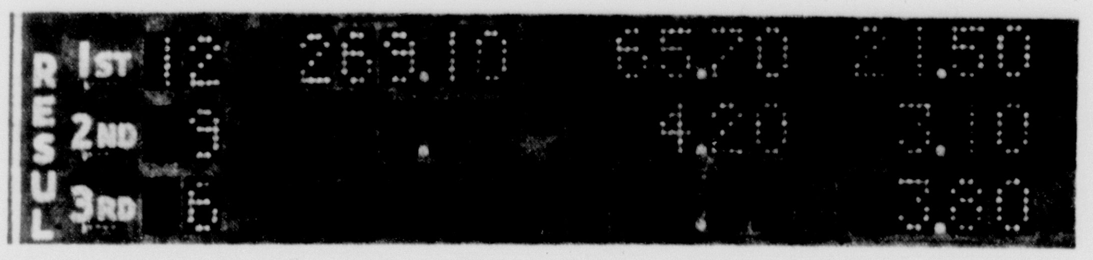
Tilyou C. Christopher of Miami has been named president and August (Serge) Swenke vice president. The HBPA executive committee is in the process of selecting a hotel for the organization's annual dinner dance here Feb. 24.

* * *

SAUL SILBERMAN, Tropical Park president, announced Thursday that he will add $5,000 to the overnight purses during the last six days of the meeting.

Silberman said another $7,500 will be added to purses during the first part of next year's meeting.

. . . He's Worth a Whopping $269.10



IT LOOKS LIKE two horses in the top photo, but it's three and the middle one, Mainrock, came through with the season's biggest payoff at Tropical Park: $269.10, $65.70 and $21.50. Trailing Mainrock in his first victory were Flight Request and Florence H.

35 Eye Hibiscus

Seven winners of nine stakes as juveniles are among the 35 nominations for the $20,000 Hibiscus Stakes, feature of the first Saturday of racing at Hialeah Jan. 17.

Also included among nominations for the six furlong spring for 3-year-old colts and geldings are 21 eligibles for the $100,000 Flamingo.

Garden 10 Tonight

Fighting Cop Gets Big Shot

NEW YORK—(AP)—Few men know in advance, like Eddie Dixon, the hour when their future will be decided. For the fighting patrolman from Newark, N.J., it will be between 10 and 11 p.m. tonight at Madison Square Garden.

Against the wishes of the Newark police director, Joseph Weldon, Dixon is going through with a bout with Gene (Ace) Armstrong, unbeaten Elizabeth, N. J., middleweight. It will be the first main event for the 25-year-old Korean veteran and father of two daughters.

TV FIGHT

The 10-round match will be carried on television (Ch. 7) starting at 10 p.m. Two judges and a referee will score the bout by rounds, using a supplementary point system in case of even rounds.

Orbea Holds Wide Lead In Jai Alai

Orbea, a winner of the World singles championship ninth game three nights in succession this week, is making a shambles of the race for that title at Miami Fronton.

The stocky, 22-year-old Basque has piled up a huge lead on the basis of the three-evening sweep, and now has a total of 48 points. That's 19 more than runnerup Isidoro.

Riviera Wins 'Country Club' Team Match at Indian Creek

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Riviera golfers scored a 50-22 victory over Coral Ridge in a resumption of the Country Club Golf League competition Thursday at Indian Creek.

The host club beat Tequesta, 40-32, but in matching cards with the LaGorce team, which played alone, Indian Creek lost, 51½ to 20½.

It was a big day for Fritz Leffingwell of LaGorce, who scored a 73, one over par to tie with four others for the low gross prize. Fritz' four handicap gave him a net 69 and a tie with Jim Raymond of Tequesta.

Leffingwell's bid for prizes continued as he and Harry Daumit of LaGorce, originator of this tournament, combined for a best ball of 64 to take the team prize.

Matching Leffingwell's 73 were Raymond, Bub Kurz, Riviera, and George Guy and Joe Mitchell of Coral Ridge. The latter missed a chance to take it all when he bogied two holes in succession.

The card matching between LaGorce and Indian Creek became necessary when the Country Club of Florida dropped out of the league after the first round.

First Landing Plus Arcaro: Hot Quiniela

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

First Landing isn't going to be allowed to sit around and take bows for his 1958 performances and high hat his equine pals because he was rated tops in the experimental handicap weights. J. H. (Casey) Hayes has plans for him.

Hayes trains the champion three-year-old for Christopher T. Chenery. He has a tentative schedule mapped out for him which won't give him much change to sunbathe in the cozy little private paddock at Hialeah.

As of now, Hayes plans to have the sleek thoroughbred run in the Everglades and the Flamingo at Hialeah, the Florida Derby at Gulfstream, the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, and the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

Hayes isn't surprised First Landing was given top weight of 128 pounds in the experimental ratings of Handicapper Frank E. (Jimmy) Kilroe, New York racing secretary.

"On his past performance as a two-year-old you have to put him on top," the stocky trainer says amiably. "He'll be favored in the six big races. I'm not sure about the Wood yet.

"He had a month's vacation in November, and has been in training about six weeks now. He's filling out nicely, has probably picked up 50-75 pounds.

"I had him breezing five-eighths of a mile Wednesday, and he was timed in 1:02 1-5. He'll run in the $25,000 Everglades Handicap at Hialeah, and I'd like to put him in an overnight prep race before that."

No Bed of Roses Awaits Tom Nugent

Two inescapable but largely overlooked facts creep back into the FSU's-Tom-Nugent-to-Maryland situation as the initial shock fades.

First, perhaps not even Nugent himself realizes the difficulty of his assignment at Maryland. The school's administration embarked three years ago on a stern downgrading of football. Item: Maryland last year gave less than 30 new football scholarships. North Carolina in the same Atlantic Coast Conference handed out 60 or so.

Second, and most ironically, Nugent's successor at Tallahassee could come up with a better 1959 record than any that Nugent left behind. Only four Seminole opponents are "big time" — Miami, Florida, Georgia and Wake Forest. A sweep of six lower-class games and an even break in the big four matches would bring an 8-2 record. Nugent's best at FSU was 7-3 last season.

Evvy Highest Paid?

JACK KRAMER'S tennis troupe, a hit its last time at Miami Beach, is coming back. Promoter Chris Dundee has booked it into Miami Beach Auditorium for March 21 . . . Quickly now, who's the highest paid football coach in America? Most agree it is Forrest Evashevski of Iowa, and Big Tenners who dropped in on our Shrine game insist he is well worth his $20,000 a year. "Evvy's head and shoulders above any coach in the midwest," said one observer — who isn't from Iowa . . . All those jokes about betting on the rabbit fell flat at Flagler the other evening. The dogs really caught the bunny, and proceeded to give it a splendid working-over. All bets were refunded.

Auto Racing? Skip It

EVERYTHING'S jake with at least two ex-Marlins in winter baseball. Pitcher Jim Owens leads Venezuelan play with a 9-2 record for former Miami Manager Kerby Farrell at Oriente, and Shortstop Jerry Snyder is hitting .325 for the same team . . . Meanwhile, new Marlin Rolf Scheel ranks as one of the top pitchers in Puerto Rican play . . . Bob Breitenstein, who shuttles between Orange Bowl duties and a boys' camp, has opened applications for the summer session of his Broadstone Lodge near Valle Crucis, N.C. University of Miami football players usually assist as counsellors . . . If you value your neck, skip automobile racing. Of the 11 top sports car and Grand Prix drivers of 1958, four are dead and two are injured to the extent they may not be able to race again and Champion Mike Hawthorn quit outright.

Men Behind USC Penalty In Trouble?

By The Associated Press

Because the University of Southern California is in trouble, so are the men who got it there, a newspaper said Thursday.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association slapped a two-year probationary period on the Trojans Wednesday for offering improper inducements to two athletes.

The Los Angeles Herald Express said the jobs of Nick Pappas, alumni field secretary, and Al Davis, assistant football coach, are in jeopardy.

"They are involved in the recruiting cases of Quarterback Ben Charles and Center Dave Morgan, believed to be the two athletes involved," the paper said.

* * *

THE POWERFUL NCAA Council served natice Thursday that it will not permit professional baseball clubs or other pro organizations to provide scholarships for college athletes.

And it also set up a policy by which coaches or other athletic officials involved in disciplinary cases should suffer the consequences.

This ruling was aimed directly at a proposal, first made by the Detroit Tigers, that pro clubs could give money to colleges for scholarships, with the understanding that baseball players would benefit.

Queen Mother Has Two Winners

Injury Sidelines Alex Olmedo; Harness Commission Slaps 2

By Herald Wire Services

A strained stomach muscle forced Alex Olmedo to the sidelines Thursday, leaving Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, and young Earl Buchholz of St. Louis to carry America's hopes for a singles title in the West Australian Tennis Championships at Perth.

Mackay and Buchholz will meet today for the right to go into the finals against Spain's Andres Gimeno, who advanced through Olmedo's default.

Olmedo, 22-year-old Peruvian who was the sensation of America's Davis Cup victory, had to quit after playing 12 games as Mackay's partner in doubles Thursday.

He said the pain was so severe he could not serve.

HORSE RACING: The New York State Harness Racing Commission revoked the owner's license of Benjamin Grosberg of Detroit, owner of a 10-horse stable, for "several false material statements" in his application for an owner's license in 1955. Grosberg's brother-in-law, Morris Robinson of Detroit, also was barred from any participation in harness racing, and will not be permitted to enter any New York track, even as a spectator . . . Queen Mother Elizabeth had two winners — Double Star and Sparkling Knight—at the Hurst Park, England meeting. She watched both races.

FOOTBALL: Pat Summerall, New York Giants' place-kicking star, said he will begin a daily sports broadcast Jan. 15 over Radio Station WGRO of Lake City. Thursday was "Pat Summerall Day" in Lake City by proclamation of Mayor Murray Hagan.

BOXING: Matchmaker George Parnassus leaves for Europe Saturday in an effort to sew up two championship fights for Los Angeles. Parnassus wants to get Featherweight Champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey to defend his title against top-ranked Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio on Feb. 25 instead of later in the year, and will confer with Bantamweight Champion Alphonse Halimi over the possibility of a defense against the winner of the Feb. 5 bout between Joe Becerra and Mario D'Agata . . . Miami's Jack Kearns has been named by the Boxing Writers Association for a special "in appreciation" award to be presented Jan. 15.

BASEBALL: Sam Jones, strikeout king of the National League, signed with the St. Louis Cardinals for a "substantial increase"—probably a $20,000 salary. But Outfielder Jim Rivera took a salary cut in becoming the first Chicago White Sox regular to sign for 1959.

SPORTS HASH: Official entry forms for the 43rd Indianapolis 500 were mailed out Thursday night . . . Russia's touring hockey team arrived in Colorado for games with Colorado College and Denver University, and Coach Anatoli Tarasov expressed concern over Colorado Springs' 6,000-foot altitude . . . A basketball game between Stetson and Mississippi Southern Thursday night was cancelled due to the death of Mrs. J. Ollie Edmunds, wife of Stetson's president . . . Bowling Clinic

Tailor Your Own Swing

By BILLY SIXTY

As they say, success speaks for itself, so it would be poor policy to deny that lifting the ball high, as shown in the drawing, hasn't merit. On the contrary, it pays off, like any of a dozen other styles, once you master it.

And former American Bowling Congress Champions Sykes Thoma and Herb Lange, and match king Don Carter, too, refute anything said against the high starting lift.

As we mentioned in an earlier article, Carter, a big man with muscle to spare, kinks his elbow in the backswing so that he works his arm with a piston-like motion. It's a movement he developed, and it is his alone. At least I've not yet seen anyone copy it exactly.

Thoma and Lange were full swingers. They were, as form goes, over-swingers. With Carter the exception, the long arc comes naturally with the push-away of the ball from shoulder height.

The high lift and big arc call for short, slow steps, should you want to try it. Give it a trial first with four steps, and then, if you can't time swing and footwork, allow for more distance to the foul line and go to six very short steps.

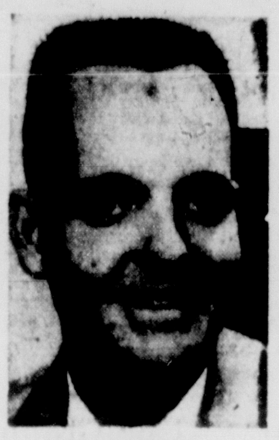
Time is the big factor. You've got to give the feet lots of time in order to catch the rhythm of the swinging ball. The first step should be merely a shuffle, as the ball is pushed away, and subsequent steps must also be short and slow. Hurry footwork just a wee bit and you'll find yourself awkwardly at the foul line, ahead of the ball.

More Kingfish Activity Looms With Calm Seas

FISHING with Vic Dunaway

Choppy seas, which have hindered ocean fishing activities through most of the week, appear to be waning slowly. Given operating conditions this weekend, South Florida's small boat fleet might make some fancy headway on kingfish.

Few open boats have ventured outside of late, but for charter boats, drift boats and other larger inboard craft, kingfish have cooperated in pretty fair fashion — and mostly in streaks.



DUNAWAY

On Wednesday, for example, the kings struck well during the morning, then tapered to an occasional fish in the afternoon. They needed a little special treatment, too. Those who collected the best bags drifted live fish near the edge of the Gulfstream.

Capt. Ollie Knittle's Riptide brought back four kingfish in the 20-lb. class, all taken on live pinfish. Live shrimp, strip baits and trolled spoons attracted mostly smaller fish.

To sum up the current kingfish situation, it's still hard work, long hours and low dividends for commercial men around Miami. But sports fishermen can logically expect a few fish and fair action.

Night kingfishing continues at a good level, according to Capt. Fred Daniels of the Fish Hawk, Pier 5, which hit a neat haul of 38 fish Tuesday night.

Mackerel Running in Waves

BISCAYNE BAY, still hopping with jacks and ladyfish for the benefit of anglers who seek fight more than food, also offers good weekend possibilities.

Mackerel are running in waves in South Bay waters, providing periods of fast strikes, but often with long waits in between. The same goes for bluefish.

Trout can be taken on the flats near Dinner Key, and also around Norris Cut. There are plenty of ladyfish and blue runners in the same territory.

A few pompano fisherman have been cashing in around Norris Cut and Government Cut. Tarpon in Government Cut are neither plentiful nor cooperative, yet a few have fallen victim to a drifting live shrimp or baitfish.

Panfish are striking well from the first small bridge on Rickenbacker Causeway (west) and from the Bear Cut span on the other end.

Some anglers have found tasty rabbitfish catches at MacArthur Causeway, with the big silver puffers biting best at the Miami side bridge.

Bonefishing Great at Key Largo

BUMPY WAVES haven't hurt fishing too badly in the Keys. Elaine Cadenhead at Mandalay Camp on Key Largo reports kingfish at their best level of the season, and running pretty big. There also has been a rash of wahoo out of Mandalay.

"So far no marlin catches," Elaine says, "but four have struck in the last week. Sailfish, however, are hitting around Molasses Light, and quite a few have been brought in."

Bonefishing on the Key Largo flats is tremendous right now when weather conditions permit proper fishing.

In the southern reaches of the Keys, kingfish are tearing loose full blast, so thick that anglers have cheerfully been bucking big seas to load up out of Marathon. Big reef fish are hungry also.

Bridge fishermen, concerned little over choppy waters, ought to take a swing toward the Keys over the weekend. Quite a few mackerel, as well as a spattering of kingfish, have been reported from Channel 5 and from Seven Mile Bridge.

No reports received from other bridges which are known to be productive, yet it's not unlikely that similar success can be found from any of the deepwater spans.

Variety's Word on Gulf Coast

VARIETY IS THE WORD in the Ten Thousand Islands area, although redfish and sheepshead fill the bulk of the bags.

Reports from the Everglades Rod and Gun Club list a mixed catch of 100 fish, 40 of them redfish, for George W. Cornell. The bag of Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldman of Miami, fishing with Capt. Marvin Lopez, included redfish, trout, ladyfish, grouper, sheepshead and jewfish.

With various species of schooling fish, that Gulf coast territory continually leads in release entries for the Herald-sponsored Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament.

Cavs, Stings, Raiders Test Jax Cage Powers Tonight

Coral Gables and Miami High visit a pair of "hot" Jacksonville quintets—Jackson and Landon—tonight while Edison tackles "rebuilding" Jax Lee in the first northern invasion by local Big Ten Conference members.

Miami Jackson will try to stop powerful Orlando Boone in another upstate Big Ten meeting.

Gables, 1-2 for the season, faces towering Jackson, 7-1, while Miami High's Stings take on a well-balanced Landon five, also 7-1. Landon's only defeat was by Daytona Seabreeze, a team that beat Miami High.

Games in Miami include Key West vs. Curley at Edison, Tech at Southwest and South Dade at Miami Beach.

South Broward and Fort Lauderdale will tangle in an important Gold Coast Conference tilt at Lauderdale. Stranahan visits Pine Crest, Melbourne at Vero Beach, Delray Beach at Lake Worth, Titusville at Fort Pierce, Pompano at Pahokee, Cocoa at Stuart and Belle Glade at Clewiston in other games.

Smith Course Chase

Parnell Mary Keys Beach Dog Field

Parnell Mary, a ground-saving greyhound with one victory and a second in two starts at the Miami Beach Kennel Club, takes on a strong field of Grade A dogs in the eighth race over the O. P. Smith Course tonight.

Her rivals tonight include recent Grade B winners Trans Silly and Love Melody; and Spango, who recently finished third behind Parnell Mary and Irish Mix.

Others in the field are Sandra Merrell, Mar Opera, Ed's Tab Hunter and Canadian Husky.

In the ninth race, also a Smith Course event for Grade A dogs, a three-way battle looms between Simply True, How New and Gable Gold. Simply True, in two previous races at the meeting, went off as favorite but failed to click.

'Heavyweights' Go at Beach

A pair of real "heavyweights" 601-pound Haystack Calhoun and 350-pound Willie Davis collide in tonight's feature wrestling bout at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Olympic weightlifting champ, Paul Anderson, will face Ike Eakins, Rita Cortez and Kitty Adams will take on Dot Dotson and Ella Waldek in a girls team match.

Hollywood Slates 2nd Spring Race

Hollywood Kennel Club tonight will stage its second race of the season over the 865-yard sprint course, while a quartet of races over the 3-8th mile marathon course also are scheduled.

In the sprint affair past performances of the eight entrants indicate a close finish. No one greyhound stands head and shoulders over the others.

11 Races On Slate At Flagler

Tonight Flagler presents the first of two big, 11-race weekend programs, highlighted by two Grade-A contests—one at the standard 5-16th mile distance and a finale over the longer Flagler Course.

The standard distance outing features Copied and Frontier Scout.

Copied is the O. K. Duke Jr. star who has taken seven winter wins, including the rich Tri-Distance Championship, while finishing in the money in 14 of his 17 starts.

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gino Marchetti, Baltimore's destructive defensive end, led the voting for the Associated Press' 1958 National Football League's All-Pro team, dominated by the champion Colts and the New York Giants.

Marchetti, an eight-year veteran from the University of San Francisco, was the only unanimous choice among the 41 writers who covered the NFL campaign this season. The 6-4, 240-pounder was one of six Colts named to the two units. The Giants placed five men.

Johnny Unitas, the great quarterback; offensive End Ray Berry, who teamed up with Unitas to lead the Colts to a 23-17 championship playoff victory over the Giants; Offensive Tackle Jim Parker; Defensive Tackle Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb and fleet Halfback Lenny Moore were the other Colts named.

Linebacker Sam Huff led the five Giants named to the All-Pro squad. The others were offensive Tackle Rosey Brown, Center Ray Weitecha, Defensive End Andy Robustelli and Safetyman Jimmy Patton.

Los Angeles placed three men on offense, Guard Duane Putnam, End Del Shofner and Halfback Jon Arnett.

Pittsburgh placed two, Defensive Tackle Ernie Stautner and Defensive Halfback Jack Butler.

Detroit's Lions also won two places on the all-star squad—Linebacker Joe Schmidt and defensive Halfback Yale Lary. Cleveland's sole representative was Jimmy Brown; who received all but two of the votes for fullback. Green Bay's honored player was Safetyman Bobby Dillon while Middle Guard Bill George was the Chicago Bears' man. Offensive Guard Dick Stanfel made it for Washington.

Unitas, who received all but one of the 41 votes, made the team for the first time.

Avoid Bruises With Vitamins

DETROIT —(AP)— Professional football players given citrus food derivatives in capsules three times a day came out of games with fewer bruises, a medical conference was told here Wednesday.

Dr. Thomas F. Dowd, physician to the Philadelphia Eagles professional team, gave the symposium sponsored by the Wayne County Academy of General Practice a report on how he prevented injuries.

Dr. Dowd said he noted a remarkably constant rate of bruising during the 10 years he has watched the Eagles.

So in 1956 he began giving players hesperidin and vitamin C in capsule form during training and playing seasons.

"On this regimen," he reported, "we now see large contused (bruised) areas in less than five per cent of our players at post-game examination; smaller areas of ecchymosis (black and blue spots) have been reduced to practical insignificance."

Dr. Dowd said it would appear that the vitamin combination strengthens the very small blood vessels that bruise easily.

One 26-year-old player who in five years of pro football suffered so many bruises it was difficult to get him in shape for the next game responded remarkably to the vitamin doses, the doctor said. His black and blue spots became negligible.

Leon Uris--A Tough Soft Guy

By BEVERLY PAULSON
Herald Staff Writer

Author Leon Uris could never teach Sunday School. His talk is too direct, earthy and liberally sprinkled with pithy four-letter exclamations.

He sounds, in fact, like one expects the author of Battle Cry and Exodus to sound.

Celebrity Parade

Still, it's not too surprising when a touch of the soft family man slips through the crust of the tough ex-Marine. His books show, too, that here is a new generation (he's 33) writer who has a heart.

Only "heart" wasn't a word that Uris used.

In talking about Battle Cry, his first book, he said he had "mellowed" in the few years between World War II and the time he wrote the book.

The mellowing process helped him write about the war as he had seen it, ignoring the popular post-war gimmick of tearing the services and officers apart.

"I respected my officers and I was pals with my pals," he said in trying to explain Battle Cry's success.

* * *

'Not a Fanatic With a Cause'

"ONE OF THE REASONS fiction has been so bad is that writers have been serving too many personal manias instead of causes," Uris declared in explaining the unprecedented research that went into Exodus, story of the birth of Israel released in September. "They're lazy."

Lazy Uris is not. Before he wrote Exodus he spent a year and a half in Israel taking notes, tape recordings and pictures.

From it came the 640-page noval now on the best seller list.

Though Uris talks about "causes," he doesn't like the word applied to himself. "It sounds fanatical," he said. "I simply have something to say."

He had something to say, he admitted, when he wrote Exodus.

"I had to try to communicate to the public—the non-Jewish people—the greatest event of the centuries. I had to try to change the misconceptions about Jewish people."

Running his hands through his graying hair, he pondered his latest success and said, "I think the thing that has astounded many is that a Jewish writer dared to stop to take a positive, aggressive stand on positive, aggressive people."

* * *

UNTIL HE STARTS his next work, Uris, who is staying at the Algiers Hotel, is using his research in Israel as the basis for his speeches.

He is in Miami to talk Wednesday night to the United Jewish Appeal. ("It's the same talk I always give, except in synagogues I take out the dirty jokes.")

His next work, he said, is to be a play about San Francisco. And he's thinking about a book set in West Berlin. "I have enough projects to last five or six years."

But there are two books he will never write.

First: "I'm a non-believer in sequels. A guy who searches for truth always expands his field of inquiries."

Second: "I've always said that I will never write a book on my childhood. I'm not like Tennessee Williams. I think my boyhood is my private affair."

In fact, he adroitly changed the subject when asked about childhood. Later he laughingly admitted he was being "sneaky" when he turned to talk about his children.

* * *

They Don't Know He's a Celebrity

AND WHEN HE TALKS about his wife and three children, this hard thinking, tough talking fellow becomes a tender guy.

Uris entered the Marines when he was 17—that much he tells of his boyhood—and after service in the Pacific was shipped back to the States with malaria.

He met and married a woman Marine sergeant. ("After serving at Guadacanal, I had to get my parents' permission to get married.")

Once out of the service he tried a number of "highly successful" jobs. "Everything I tried failed," he shrugged.

Finally, he took a job in the circulation department of a San Francisco newspaper—a job he quit to write Battle Cry. It leaped to the smash best seller lists.

* * *

THAT'S WHEN the life of the boy from Baltimore, Md., and his Iowa wife changed.

The transition from unknown writer to celebrity was hard, he admitted.

"Basic values don't change. But we found that friends who were friends one day changed their attitudes towards us. In some cases it actually hurt."

Now Uris, his wife and their children—a daughter, 12, and sons six and eight—live in California's San Fernando Valley in the midst of filmland greats.

"There's a tremendous amount of normalcy there," he said. "The wildest Hollywood party I have been to was a May Day party at school."

His children, he said, are unaware that he is a celebrity. He writes at home, and he freely interrupts his work to play with his children.

"My wife creates a home atmosphere that is ideal," he continued. "She frees me for my work. I travel all over the world and she lets me go."

Uris says he is a "sloppy writer" who has no set work hours and "creates no artificial deadlines" to push him in his work. But he has the pressures of completing his work, which mount as the book nears its end.

"When you finish a book, you just collapse. It's like a football player feels after a hard game.

"It's a good and bad feeling when the book is finished. It's all yours and you hate to let it go."

Pretty Cookware Is Tough; It's of Nose Cone Ceramic

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

A new cookware looks and feels like fine china, but goes directly from freezer to range without breaking, cracking, chipping or warping.

The cookware was introduced to home economists, press, radio and TV at a luncheon here Thursday.

Pyroceram, developed for missile nose cones to withstand extreme temperature changes in outer space, is the material of which the cookware is made. Pyroceram is glass heat-treated to form a tough, white ceramic.

In Thursday's demonstration, a saucepan was placed on a range top, allowed to boil dry 15 minutes, then plunged into ice water. There was nary a crack in the pan to show for this rough treatment.

You can bake, boil, fry or freeze in the cookware — and serve from the same dish.

A 10-inch square skillet and saucepans in three sizes are in the line. A detachable handle locks securely to each of the dishes for use in cooking. The skillet has a matching cover. The saucepans have covers of clear heat resistant glass.

Metal cradles are available for each dish for table serving.

The cookware is so hard it cannot scratch. But it can break if dropped from a height of if a child should use it for hammer practice.

Pyroceram holds heat longer than some other materials used in cookware, so cooking temperatures should be lower, about 25 degrees lower in the oven. Because it holds heat, the dishes keep food hot longer at the table.

The new cookware already is in some local stores and will be in most department, hardware and other stores which sell housewares within a few days.

It is in a price range similar to better quality cookware of other materials.

'Can Someone Help Me Stop Chewing My Fingernails?'

DEAR MRS. RICKER:

I have the problem of chewing my nails. I've tried many different "cures" but they don't seem to work.

Mrs. Ricker

I've chewed my nails for many years and, at times, my parents get so angry with me! They say, "You could stop if you really wanted to" but I just don't have the will power.

I envy other girls who have nice long finger nails and I am really ashamed of mine. I have faith in your advice and I believe you can tell me what to do. Please try.

AN ASHAMED TEEN

If you really want to stop biting your nails, perhaps this suggestion will help.

Buy a package of artificial finger nails (about 30 cents) at most any dime store. They come in small, medium and large sizes and a tube of adhesive for applying them is in the package.

Your mother or girl friend may have to help you put them on but I think it will be worth the time and effort.

Your own nails will be covered and have a chance to grow out. The artificial nails will be a reminder NOT to bite your nails and of course, they are not so easy to bite.

Dorothy Ricker

This column is conducted for teen-agers and their parents. Letters can be answered through the column only—as soon as time and space permit. Write your problems to Dorothy Ricker in care of The Miami Herald.

BUT IT'S NOT TRADITIONAL

You Can Have Elegance In Modern Furnishings

CHICAGO —(AP)— A Danish furniture designer said today talk of "return to elegance" in home furnishings is fine stuff —if everyone holds his idea of elegance.

Jens Risom made no apologies for being a modernist.

"Design today offers much more than ever before in terms of appearance, comfort and efficiency," he said at a conference at the International Home Furnishing Market.

Risom, now a New Yorker, predicted there will be no return of traditional applications to new design.

"Instead, elegance in contemporary furniture design will be achieved through additional refinements in construction, detailing, in craftsmanship."

Elegance, he said, is a word with which the public is confused. In contemporary furniture it should not mean rich brocades, figured damasks, swag draperies or the white sofa "to make your living room seem decorator designed."

Rather, Risom prefers the elegance of refinement, charm, skilled interpretation of the best in contemporary. It is that trend he feels is strongest — not the trend to add inlays, carvings and mouldings.

He welcomed new materials — foam rubber, polyethylene, spun glass — but said, "I don't believe that wood in furniture will ever be completely replaced.

"With contemporary architecture making more use of dead materials—plaster, metals and glass—the richness of wood, a live material, offers a psychological lift which cannot be found in synthetic materials."

With skill from both the designer and manufacturer, Risom said the consumer can expect better furniture which will last longer, be easier to maintain and perhaps even cost less.

Prize Dessert Recipes

An unusual layered dessert which can be made mostly in advance, Spiced Apple Trifles, wins first prize in the spicy desserts recipe contest. It is from Mrs. Patricia Beshiri.

Cinnamon Rice Cookies are rolled in a mixture of cinnamon and finely chopped pecans. This recipe, second prize winner, is from the files of Mrs. Linnea Yeager.

Mrs. Paul C. Cromer's apple pudding cake is spiced with cinnamon and nutmeg. Her recipe wins third prize.

SPICED APPLE TRIFLES
(First Prize, $5 in cash)

2 apples
¾ cup water
½ cup sugar
1 stick cinnamon
1 small piece whole ginger
1 small piece blade mace
4 whole allspice
3 whole cloves
8 macaroons
1 cup raspberry jam
1 to 1½ pints vanilla ice cream
Whipped cream

Peel, core and cut apples into ½-inch cubes. Simmer gently 10 minutes with water, sugar, cinnamon, ginger, mace, allspice and cloves. Remove from heat and chill, leaving spices in syrup.

To assemble desserts place a macaroon in the bottom of each of 8 sherbet glasses. Add 1 tablespoon of spiced apple syrup to each and let stand for about 1 hour.

At serving time complete each dessert by adding the following layers: 1 tablespoon raspberry jam, 1 scoop ice cream, 1 tablespoon cooked apples, a second tablespoon of jam and finally, whipped cream. Makes 8 servings.

CINNAMON RICE COOKIES
(Second Prize, $3 in cash)

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1½ cups cooked rice
½ cup grated coconut
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup chopped pecans

Cream together butter and sugar. Add egg and vanilla and mix well. Add flour, which has been sifted with baking powder. Add rice and coconut.

In another bowl mix together cinnamon and pecans. Form dough into balls and roll in the cinnamon-nut mixture. If the dough becomes too soft to be easily handled, chill in the refrigerator before shaping balls.

Place balls about 2 inches apart on ungreased cooky sheet. If large cookies are desired use large balls of dough and allow ample space between cookies. The dough spreads as the cookies bake. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 25 minutes. Remove and cool before storing. Makes 18 2½-inch cookies.

'They Said We Had Done a Terrible Thing'

Column with a Heart

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I am a bride of 17 and I would like to tell my story. I met my husband five months ago at the supermarket where we both worked. He is 19.

Our first date was on a Saturday night. We went to a movie, stopped for a snack afterwards and were home by midnight, my date deadline.

We had a beach date the next day, and on Monday night he met my parents. After my parents had gone to bed and we were watching TV, he proposed. I said yes. The time was 11:55 p.m.

One month later, at five minutes before midnight, we spoke the magic words that made us Mr. and Mrs. We had eloped.

To our parents, my minister and friends, we had done a terrible thing, but our marriage was not annulled. We were blissfully happy, yet we had our troubles.

My husband had left his job so we could leave the state to get married, and I had quit, mine.

It was nip and tuck for awhile, but we are finally on our feet.

Why am I writing this? I guess it's my way of saying, "I told you so" to a lot of people who told us our marriage would never last, and to the people who say thumbs down on teenage marriages.

My husband is working and I keep house in a two-room guest house. He studies at night to finish his last year of high school.

We would like to move, but it's hard to find a place, because most places that rent monthly want the first and last month's rent in advance. We now pay $20 a week. People should know all Miamians are not millionaires.

Have you any suggestions?

YOUNG HOUSEWIFE

If you were to go back to work, perhaps you could save enough for the two months' rent on a larger place.

It's true—not all teen-age marriages are affairs of disaster. But the lack of preparation, limited education and financial security that accompany so many of these young marriages can make the going pretty rough, even for two people very much in love.

Five months is just a whisper of "forever," as the older generation well knows. Good luck.

* * *

'Should I Tell My Parents?'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

We are two teenagers, a girl 16 and a boy 17. We have been dating three months, allowed to see each other once every two weeks.

Against my parents' wishes, I have been seeing the boy every week. He asked me to go steady, and I accepted. My parents are unaware of this, and I'm afraid they will find out.

We like each other very much. Do you have any suggestions?

TROUBLES

Yes. Stop sneaking behind your parents' back, for it is just a matter of time before you will be found out, and possibly have all your privileges revoked.

If you have been dating this boy three months, and your parents approve of him, perhaps they will agree to letting you see this boy every week, if you give them a chance.

Talk to your parents and straighten out this situation now. Remember—a clear conscience is your best friend.

Let's Make Old-Fashioned Fudge

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Dentists will hate us today. That is, unless they, too, can sink a well-filled tooth into samples of these fudge recipes.

READERS' EXCHANGE

Yes, ma'am, that's our topic for today — fudge. Friendly folk all up and down Florida were kind enough to send in answers to Mrs. E.C.'s query for no-nonsense fudge. And according to the response, it's not the Gold Coast we live in—it's chocolate covered.

Mrs. A.R.G. of West Hollywood sent a recipe which she's used for 30 years. She claims her fudge makes "good crunchy chewing."

REAL OLD-FASHIONED FUDGE

3 cups sugar
1 cup milk
2 squares shaved bitter chocolate or ½ cup cocoa
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts

Boil first three ingredients together for 11 minutes. Set aside to cool until hand can be held to bottom of pan.

Add butter, vanilla and nuts and beat until mixture starts to set. Turn quickly into buttered pan to set. Cut into 1-inch squares.

* * *

Play It Cool

MRS. B.K. of Miami Beach sent along a recipe, plus a fudge tip given to her by a junior high school teacher. Mrs. K. adds that "junior high days were quite a few years ago," but we'll not give away any secrets. Only fudge doings.

"Our different classes used to have candy sales and the teacher gave this advice to each class: after removing fudge mixture from the stove, let stand until absolutely cold."

Here is Mrs. K's recipe.

JUNIOR HIGH FUDGE

3 cups sugar
3 to 4 heaping tablespoons cocoa
1 tablespoon white corn syrup
1 cup milk

Blend well and cook to soft-ball stage. Remove from heat, add 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ¾ cup nuts. Or, omit vanilla and nuts and add 4 heaping tablespoons peanut butter.

Let stand until absolutely cold. After a few stirs it will be ready for the buttered pan.

And Mrs. K. adds: "Just remember you can stir it all you want while it is cooking, but when you remove from heat don't stir or beat until it is cooled. I often make it and allow it to stand for an hour or two while I go marketing."

* * *

Beat It Stiff

MRS. A. E. P. of Key West is in sympathy with Mrs. E. C. and her "complete disinterest in the new 'synthetic' fudge. Every so often my husband and I go on a fudge binge and this is the recipe I use."

FUDGE-ON-A-BINGE

Mix 6 tablespoons cocoa with 3 cups sugar (sometimes I use half brown and half white). Add 1 cup diluted evaporated milk. Stir well over fire until it begins to boil, add a pinch of salt and let mixture boil gently to the soft ball stage.

Remove from fire and let stand in cold water until cool. Add 1 tablespoon butter and beat. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and continue beating until mixture loses gloss and is almost too stiff to get out of the pan.

* * *

Try Molasses

MRS. R. C. of Hollywood uses molasses and cream in her fudge. Here's how she makes it.

SPECIAL FUDGE

Melt ¼ cup butter (½ stick) and set aside.

In a separate dish mix 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup light brown sugar, ¼ cup (scant) molasses and ½ cup cream. Add to melted butter and after it has come to a boil continue stirring rapidly for 2½ minutes.

Add 2 squares of chocolate or 2 heaping tablespoons of cocoa. Boil for 5 minutes longer stirring rapidly at first. Then add ½ cup chopped walnuts and 1 tablespoon vanilla. Pour into buttered pan.

* * *

Sample Was Good

MANY, MANY readers sent along family prize recipes, which we're passing on to Mrs. E. C. — everything from Grandmother's Beau Catcher to variations like Tutti Frutti Roll (to the chocolate fudge, add 1 cup chopped dates, ½ cup cherries and ½ cup raisins).

Mr. D. L. B. of Salerno even sent along samples with his recipe. Mine's gone already, but I'll send Mrs. E. C. hers — reluctantly.

Like to say a few more words, but I have to hurry home and make a batch of you know what.

This is a Sunday, Tuesday and Friday column for the Florida homemaker. Hints, questions and answers may be mailed with full name and address to Readers' Exchange, The Miami Herald, Miami, 30. The Herald is not responsible for the safety or efficiency of methods recommended by our readers.

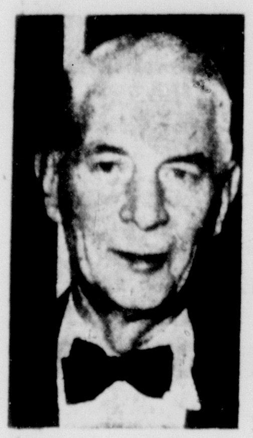
Far Off Places— Uganda, Kenya-- Beckon to Ed

By NORA OPHULS
Herald Staff Writer

Uganda, Tanganyika, Tasmania — these far-away names will become real places for Ed Goodnow this month as he launches his tour of the southern hemisphere.



Ed Goodnow

Ed flies from Miami Jan. 20, from New York Jan. 24. Between then and May 10 his travel diary will read something like this:

Uganda, Belgian Congo, Tanganyika, Kenya, Mauritius (a small island in the Indian Ocean off the east coast of Madagascar). Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, Hawaii and San Francisco.

The trip is a sequel to Ed's 1958 guided jaunt around the northern hemisphere — with a new twist. As a favor for the travel agent friend in New York with whom he traveled last year Ed is acting as guide for 15 tourists.

He's looking forward to decidedly un-touristy experiences such as his visit last year with five maharajahs and the tribal chiefs of the Khyber Pass. He is not looking forward to losing his charges' luggage and putting them on the wrong trains.

Frances Corwin, a distant cousin of Ed's from the same home town of Westfield, Mass., and her husband, Dr. Bill are inviting a couple dozen close friends to their Granada Blvd. home for a cocktail buffet and some non-Swahili conversation Saturday.

Among them are to be Pat and St. Julien Rosemond, Jim Wills, Peg and Wilton Adams, Ann and Bill Briggle, Marcia and Anita Pawley and George Campbell. Ed is escorting Marjory Stoneman Douglas.

16 New Members

There will be 16 new members this evening at University Club's family night buffet in the Urmey Hotel. The membership of a group that was started four years ago by four university men has gone hand over hand with lightning speed to its present 170.

New members are Bill Bailey, Bob Beckham, Jerry Billings, Vaughn Camp Jr., Jim Davis, E. B. Elliott, Pete Fay, Harry Fleming, Joe Gratton, Gene Hancock, Pete Harig, Jose Munoz, John Ross, Grant Stockdale, Ed Vining, Leo Wilson.

The four who founded University Club are its present prexy Dick Malloy, plus Dick Kowalske, Mike Davis and Ed Claughton Jr.

Karen Pryor's Arriving

The Phil Wylies' daughter Karen will be here this weekend to spend the next two weeks. Karen is Mrs. Taylor Allderdice Pryor and she, her husband and two children have been visiting the Samuel F. Pryors in Hobe Sound. But Tap has flown back to his marine biology studies at the University of Hawaii.

Karen Pryor

The Wylies had never seen year-old Mike until this winter and it had been a year and a half since they had seen Ted, now 3.

The young Pryors are so enthusiastic about life in Hawaii they have bought a home there.

Miami's Consular Corps is extending invitations to its Seventh Annual Reception Sunday Jan. 25. The formal reception will be held in the Sky Room of the Dupont Plaza.

Ponies Replace Patients

"The Boys of Box 153" is the collective nickname Tropical Parkers have given Dr. Arthur "Curley" Smith, Dr. Floyd Jones and Dr. Leon Hamilton. As sure as the sun rises these semi-retired medicine men are to be found eyeing the ponies daily.

Dr. Smith, who started his practice in 1912 with the Sioux Indians in South Dakota, hasn't missed a day this season. Nor did he miss one day at Tropical last year, and only two at Hialeah.

"I'll be missing a few more this year," said the doctor, who spends the warmer six months of the year in Elmira, N.Y. "Going to try and get in a little golf."

Wives To Be Honored

That severely all-male group, the Committee of One Hundred will honor members' wives Monday at a coffee in the Committee club house on Belle Isle.

Mrs. LaGorce

Actually wives will honor wives, for the coffee is given by the wives of the annual ball committee for the ladies of the chairman and co-chairmen Mrs. John Oliver LaGorce, Mrs. Edward S. Christiansen, Mrs. James Gerity Jr., Mrs. William J. Kappel and Mrs. Neil Miller.

Invitations have recently gone out to the annual ball, given the new name Bal Prestige, to be held at Indian Creek Jan.27. Club officers hope to limit reservatons to 400.

Sunday evening Indian Creek County Club holds its first buffet dinner dance of the season. They'll continue these dinner dances each Sunday throughout the season.

Back home to Redlands, Calif., goes Dorsey (Mrs. Tom) Raffington this weekend, but not for a west coast vacation. Her mother is not well so Dorsey doesn't know how long she'll be gone.

Frank Hausman, president of the Kiwanis Club, presented the award to Mrs. Ed Branam, president of the woman's club.

The club's many service projects in 1958 included sponsoring a concert by Roger Williams to raise money for a permanent dental clinic for Homestead, helping the migrants through the Far South Emergency Relief program, participating in the city beautification program, and entertaining foreign students.

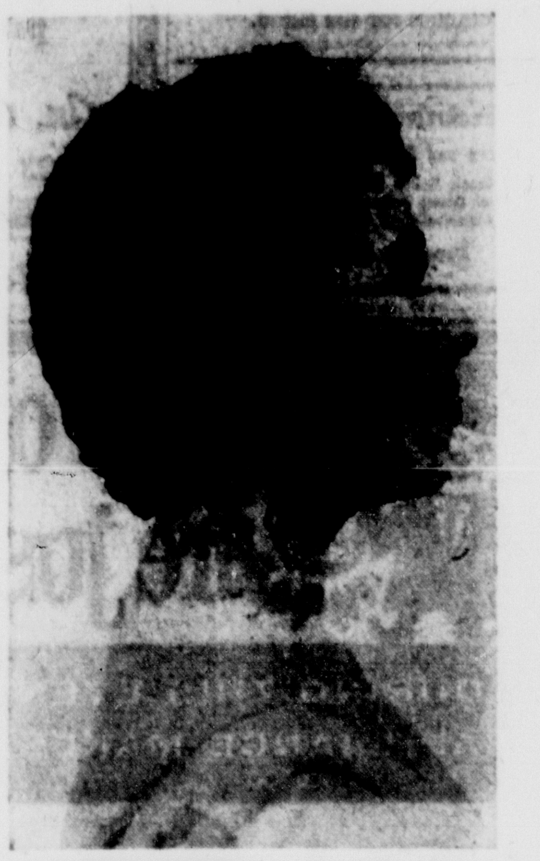
New Hairdo and Make-Up Lift Her Spirits

EMPIRE coiffure for Mrs. Wishful features tendrils to soften forehead. Pencil fills in brows, lower lip is minimized by going inside natural line with lipstick.



PROFILE VIEW reveals soft wave lines. This hair style is easy to care for, says stylist. Hair is now 1 to 3½ inches long.

—Herald Staff Photos by Ray Fisher

BEFORE GLAMOR. Note Mrs. Wishful's prominent forehead, sparseness of brow, too-full lower lip.

BEFORE profile hair line is most unflattering, to say the least! Hair was long, scraggly.

This is the sixth in a series of articles on Mrs. Wishful, 28-year-old mother of three who lost 10 pounds with the help of Glamor Clinic supervision.

By ELEANOR HART

Herald Galmor Clinic Editor

Getting your hair done is wonderful therapy, whether you're the size of a balloon or a toothpick. Ask Mrs. Wishful—she knows.

Glamor Clinic

Instead of waiting until the finale of her Glamor Clinic course, she had her hair styled at the beginning—to give her the impetus to really buckle down during the "lean" days to come.

"Everyone in the beauty shop exclaimed 'how beautiful,'" she says . . . "I felt like a princess. Still, it's hard for me to believe or trust anyone when they compliment me. I feel they are using psychology to make me lose weight."

Well, psychology or no, Mrs. Wishful went home a new person with courage to diet another day!

Before her Glamor Clinic training, Mrs. Wishful's powder and paint had consisted only of paint—lipstick, the one beauty aid which is used by 98 per cent of American women today. "I was afraid my skin would break out if I used make up," she says.

No need to fear make-up if you remember to remove it, she was told by the Glamor Clinic instructor, for when it comes to skin, cleanliness IS next to godliness. And that means cleansing your face when you go to bed as well as when you get up.

Mrs. Wishful learned to apply a protective cream to her face before adding her liquid foundation and a touch of powder. A darker shade of foundation applied to the sides of the nose, then covered with a lighter shade makes the nose appear smaller.

Because her brows do not line up with the tear ducts, her eyes have a "spread-apart" look. But eyebrow pencil, applied with light, feathery, natural looking strokes soon remedies this. And a light brown pencil line, drawn directly under the lashes, will make the eyes look larger.

Mrs. Wishful has beautiful long lashes. All she needs is to give them a twirl with an eyelash curler, add mascara and a touch of blue eyeshadow in the center of the upper lids for dramatic effect.

Her glamor hairstyle, the Empire line designed for homemakers, is casual and easy to manage, the stylist says. It features soft waves framing the sides, height on top which can be built up for formal occasions, and a turned-up mass of curls in back.

FR 9-3336

"My husband is thrilled with the new hair style, in fact, my whole appearance," Mrs. Wishful says happily, "so you know how I feel. I feel wonderful and sort of like a celebrity."

To learn name of hair stylist who styled Mrs. Wishful's hair, call Herald Shopping Service after 9:30 a.m. today. After 24 hours write for information to Shopping Service, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

For copy of Mrs. Wishful's diet and exercises, send stamped, addressed envelope to Glamor Clinic, Miami Herald.

SUNDAY: A Wish Comes True.

Dr. Jones Will Speak

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary, evangelist and author, will speak at the noon birthday luncheon today of Woman's Society of Christian Service of White Temple Methodist Church. Mrs. J. C. Wayman is chairman of the luncheon.

Custard Desserts Are So Nutritious

For nutritious eating, plan custard-type desserts. Milk and eggs, the principal ingredients for custards, furnish high-quality protein needed for growth and body maintenance and provide more adequate supplies of some minerals and vitamins than any other food.

Mrs. Joe Popp Will Head Decent Literature Unit

Mrs. Joe Popp, 7860 SW 115th St., is the newly elected president of the Decent Literature Council. Mrs. Popp succeeds Mrs. C. R. Addington, founding chairman of the council, who will continue as an adviser to the group.

Other new officers of the council, which has representatives from 85 Dade County organizations, are: Mrs. Ernest M. Collins and Mrs. Howard George, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Julian Eberle, secretary; T. D. Holliday, treasurer.

Warren Blackmon former chairman of the voluntary control, will continue as an adviser.

Purpose of the council is to prevent the purchase of obscene literature by children by enlisting the cooperation of news dealers and through legislation. During the coming year, meetings of the council will be held throughout the county to focus attention on local problems.

Wedding Gift

MADRID — (WNS) — In Spain the bride is always certain of one wedding present: a huge supply of olive oil. By custom the olive oil is donated by the bride's oldest aunt to insure good food from the new household's kitchen.

"Ring of Protection" Around PIMPLES
and ACNE

The best way to stop the spread of pimples is to treat them before and after they open up. So at the first sign of a pimple . . . QUICK! Apply CAMPHO-PHENIQUE! This soothing, antiseptic liquid forms a "ring of protection" around pimples to help prevent their spread and re-infection. Because CAMPHO-PHENIQUE doesn't stain the skin, it can be applied right under make-up. So don't give ugly pimples a chance to spread . . . prevent it with CAMPHO-PHENIQUE'S "ring of protection". Let your face heal faster, naturally.

Always keep a bottle of CAMPHO-PHENIQUE on hand ready for instant use. Get CAMPHO-PHENIQUE today! Only 35¢. —Adv.

Ike Talk To Be 'Global'

State of Union On Air Today

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today actually will be a state-of-the-world analysis keyed to the struggle against communism.

Much of the emphasis, the White House indicated Thursday, will be on the President's previously stated determination to maintain financial integrity at home while carrying on the battle for enduring global peace.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that Eisenhower also is determined to carry a fight for his legislative program and foreign policy proposals directly to the people — if the heavily Democratic new Congress balks at going along with administration plans.

The President will deliver his State of the Union message personally at a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m.

The 40-minute report will be telecast at 12:30 today by WTVJ (Ch. 4), WCKT (Ch. 7) and WPST-TV (Ch. 10). It will be broadcast on radio by WCKR, WGBS and WKAT.

Eisenhower canceled a National Security Council meeting which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, kept his other engagements to a minimum, and devoted much of the day to final work on the message.

"It will be not only a State of the Union message but a state of the world message," Hagerty said.

He added that Eisenhower will deal in broad terms with world and domestic problems, leaving most specific legislative recommendations for outline later in a series of special messages.

For example, his budget proposals will be put before the lawmakers Jan. 19. The White House already has announced the budget to be submitted for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and will call for spending about 77 billion dollars.

That is less by about two billion dollars than estimated spending this year. Some Democrats already have criticized the new lower figure as unrealistic and too little for adequate national defense.

The last of the President's three major messages, the economic report, will go to Congress the day after the budget, Jan. 20.

There will be messages later on specific subjects — quite likely one dealing with civil rights. Indications are the administration is preparing legislation bearing on school integration and related problems.

There probably will be another special message on the problem of ousting racketeers from the labor-management fields.

As to Eisenhower's plans to carry the fight for his program to the people if necessary, Hagerty said the President is ready to set forth his views through all media — newspapers, radio and television, magazines, theater newsreels and at news conferences.

"I would think that he would take occasion, every time he can, to discuss, to elaborate on these programs that he will be presenting, starting Friday," Hagerty said.

Asked about specific plans, Hagerty said those would be ready for announcement soon. He indicated the intensity of the Eisenhower effort would be governed by the reception his program gets in Congress.

Some indication of the reception among Democrats came in a start-of-the-session speech by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader. Johnson said the Eisenhower administration lacks boldness and freshness.

Iraq Pledges Neutrality

BAGHDAD, Iraq —(AP)— Prime Minister Abdel Karim Kassem says Iraq's foreign policy is based on "positive neutrality" bearing no links with East or West.

In a televised broadcast climaxing Army Day celebrations, Kassem said Iraq is an inseparable part of the Arab world and he pledged support for its national aims.

The premier also announced formation of a new division to bolster Iraq's defenses.

A Solemn De Gaulle Listens to Outgoing President Rene Coty
. . . the general wore great cordon of Legion of Honor at installation rites

De Gaulle Takes Office, Pledges a Stern Regime

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle became president of France Thursday and pledged to use his strong executive powers to keep the new Fifth Republic on the stern path he outlined as premier. He declared he would do what had to be done for the nation's good.

Immediately after historic inauguration ceremonies, De Gaulle set the new republic in motion. He named as premier Michel Debre, longtime Gaullist lawyer and an unbending nationalist.

There followed an unmistakable sign that De Gaulle intends to continue his strict control over French affairs. Debre said cabinet consultations would take place in De Gaulle's presidential palace, and the list of members should be ready today.

De Gaulle took office in the residential palace, then drove to the majestic Arch of Triumph.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the upper mile ov the broad Champs Elysees to cheer him. Standing in an open car with outgoing President Rene Coty at his side, De Gaulle retraced the triumphal path he followed as leader of the Free French when Paris was liberated in World War II.

Along with shouts of "Vive De Gaulle" were warm cheers for Coty, who drove off to semi-retirement in Le Havre. Crowds broke through police lines to surround the 76-year-old lawyer who played a major role in De Gaulle's return to political power.

Michel Debre
. . . the new premier

But this was De Gaulle's day, as the 68-year-old soldier-politician became France's most powerful chief of state since Emperor Napoleon III was deposed in 1870.

About 200 of France's top figures ringed the gilded Salon des Fetes in the presidential palace, where Coty proclaimed that "the first among Frenchmen is henceforth the first ranking man in France."

De Gaulle bowed his head to receive the gold-medaled neck chain of French presidents. Then, choking back his emotion and quieting his nervous gestures, he told the select inaugural gathering:

"I have the honor to give France, to impose if need be, what the public good demands. I bear witness that I won't fail."

Among the 200 were chiefs of governments of the 17 autonomous republics of which De Gaulle is also president.

'Human Transmitter' Arrested

Tropical Race Results Sent From the Seat of His Pants

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A "human radio transmitter" spotted illegally sending out race results from the seat of his pants was nabbed Thursday at Tropical Park.

Track authorities said the broadcaster, the first picked up this season, "undoubtedly belonged to a nationwide wire service which sent results to the bookies."

Picked up in the paddock area between the second and third races was John Quartrone, 31, of 1730 NW Second Ave.

Tropical Safety Director Henry Beardsley and Metro Detective Walter Seward said that Quartrone was found with a tiny, transistor-powered transmitter attached to the belt of his pants.

An aerial wire ran down his leg and was pinned to the inside of his pants cuff.

Investigators believe that Quartrone, using a dot-and-dash code system, was relaying the results to a confederate nearby in an automobile.

In such cases, the receiver forwards the information to a clearing house which distributes it by long distance telephone throughout the U.S.

It is illegal to transmit track results for a period of 30 minutes following a race. Bookmakers, however, often employ subterfuge to get the results to their clients faster.

Beardsley said that Quartrone was noticed Wednesday sitting on a bench in a lonely section behind the grandstand facing the parimutuel board.

"He was working in a sitting position with his hands in his lap," Beardsley related.

When Quartrone entered the track Thursday, investigators kept him under close surveillance. When he repeated his suspicious maneuvers during the first two races they placed him under arrest.

Efforts to track Quartrone's cohorts were unsuccessful.

Quartrone, who claims to come from New York, refused under questioning to implicate others in the wire service ring.

"We had information this was going on and were on the lookout for it," Beardsley commented.

Filibuster Vote Delayed

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate, after a day of bickering, Thursday unanimously put off until today a showdown vote on efforts to change its rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

It acted at the request of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas after it became apparent that debate on the bitterly-fought issue would last too long to permit a test vote before adjournment.

Johnson said he planned to offer a motion today to kill a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.) which would open all Senate rules for changes.

The vote will be the first key test in the drive by Senate liberals to change the rules to permit a majority of all senators to impose a limit on Senate debate and end talkathons.

Castro in Havana; Capital Goes Wild

City Takes Holiday to Greet Him

Plans for Trials Of Foes Pushed

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — Fidel Castro, 32-year-old rebel leader who ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista in a grueling two-year revolt, entered Havana in triumph Thursday to the salute of booming guns, pealing church bells and the cheers of hundreds of thousands.

Business, commercial and industrial establishments shut down throughout the city at 11 a.m. to enable their staffs to take part in the hero's welcome to Castro.

Guns at La Cabana fortress which dominates the entrance to Havana harbor boomed out a 21-gun salute and church bells throughout the city pealed out a hymn of triumph.

Castro marched into the city limits to the screams of the populace two hours later, as automobiles wheeled through the streets draped in Cuban flags and Castro's rebel red and black standard.

The bearded, long-haired rebel leader, who landed from Mexico in a small yacht Dec. 6, 1956, at the head of 82 men, 70 of whom were killed in the first encounter with Batista's troops, entered the city at the head of a two-mile long column of armored vehicles and troops.

Castro stood in an open jeep, four guards flanking him. Eight tanks and armored cars preceded the jeep. Warplances flew overhead.

As the triumphal march reached Havana's famous waterfront promenade, the Malecon, Castro got off the jeep and walked three blocks to the Presidential Palace, where he was greeted emotionally by Provisional President Manuel Urutia.

As he spoke to Urrutia at the palace, Castro held a tommygun in one hand and drank three bottles of soda pop with the other. The provisional president broke into a wide smile at Castro's evident thirst.

The rebel hero then stood combing out his wind-tossed beard in the palace's Hall of Mirrors where foreign diplomats traditionally present their credentials to the head of the Cuban state.

Castro later appeared on the balcony of the palace where Batista had made so many personal appearances.

Downtown Havana was a bedlam with scores of militiamen jubilantly firing weapons into the air.

A deafening uproar, punctuated by screams of "Viva Castro," followed along the youthful rebel leader's line of march.

Warships in the harbor boomed their guns in salute. Automobile horns were blown incessantly from one end of town to the other.

Castro Walks In Freedom

HAVANA, Cuba—The magic of Fidel Castro performed an emotional demonstration of Cuba's newly won freedom in front of the Presidential Palace here at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Speaking from the balcony of the palace overlooking the streets where Cubans were prohibited to walk during the dictatorship of Batista — Castro asked the thousands of Cubans below to open a lane for him to walk through.

The mob opened up a path and people cried and sang Cuba's national hymn while their liberator and Provisional President Manuel Urrutia walked through unprotected.

Balky Blonde Held In N.Y. Kidnaping

NEW YORK—(AP)—A blonde woman wearing a gray coat, black toreador pants and dark glasses was taken into custody for questioning Thursday in the Brooklyn kidnaping of a 2½-hour-old baby. At one point she reportedly attempted to flee from an officer who first spoke with her.

She also reportedly refused to answer any questions and threatened to sue police. She would not give her name.

She was taken to the Butler Street Station in Brooklyn, where high police officers were gathering. There was no further information immediately available.

A blonde woman of the same general description was believed to have taken infant Lisa Rose Chionchio from a crib in the nursery of St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn late last Friday night.

Police and other sources gave this account of developments Thursday:

Two youngsters spotted a blonde woman on a subway, muttering to herself and acting suspiciously. They thought she resembled a newspaper pen sketch of the woman thought to have done the kidnaping.

When she got off the subway at the St. George Hotel in Brooklyn they followed and spoke to Traffic Patrolman Thomas Sheridan who was on duty outside.

Sheridan approached the woman and sought to speak to her, but she balked and threatened to sue if she were arrested. She reportedly attempted to run away then.

No One Minding The Store

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — All the home folks except a few left-over Batista boys and their guards went to the wildest street party in Cuba's history Thursday.

Nobody was left to mind the stores — they were all closed.

And everybody tried to outdo everybody else in hailing their hero. If anyone wasn't sold on Fidel Castro, he did a good job of hiding it.

When the guest of honor—ruggedly handsome Castro — rode into view, the roar was like the take-off of flight screaming jets.

Black-eyed girls, wearing scarlet blouses and full skirts, surged around the ragged, bearded rebels, kissing their hands and feet and snatching at their patchwork uniforms.

A dozen tanks — prizes from Batista's army — crawled at the front of the parade, scattering hysterical Cubans.

Planes whipped through the skies and a maddening din of whistles from trains, boats and factories lent a shrill magnificence to the scene.

Daredevil rebel drivers with shrieking sirens darted in and out of the throng, occasionally knocking down a spectator.

The weary soldiers held their guns high and fired them with the abandon of children armed with cap pistols.

A dark-haired two-year-old ran with a flag, shouting his favorite word in a singsong rhythm: "Castro, Castro, Castro."

And everywhere in the city excited people laughed and sang and praised their hero.

Castro had come home from the hills.

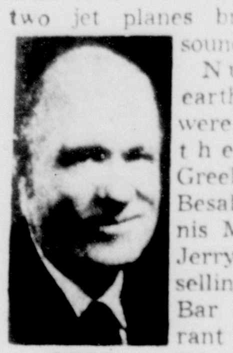
Anti-Soviet Pickets Fooled As Mikoyan Visits Detroit

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell



BELL

SCIENTISTS tried to surmise that the earth-shaking crash last week was caused by two jet planes breaking the sound barriers.

Nuts! The earth tremors were caused by the Three Greeks (Paul Besalernos, Dennis Maginas and Jerry Anninos) selling Biscayne Bar & Restaurant to the Three Jews (Ben Rubin, Saul Ettinger and Henry Hersh).

For 14 long years those Greeks have been running that restaurant. They had small tables 'n' chairs, small aisles, plenty of noise and four scurrying waiters: George, Chico, Al and Clyde, with Busboy Ralph filling in. 'Twas the only restaurant I know wherein the waiters pushed the bosses around. I sort of suspect the bosses got tired of taking orders.

The new owners kept the waiters 'n' cooks. The menu's unchanged — yet. Rubin and Ettinger formerly owned Harry's Bar in New York. Hersh is from Pittsburgh. "If we can keep the customers — ???" sighs Rubin hopefully.

He has lost one already. Eduardo Hernandez, Cuban consul under Batista, has been absent since Castro started marching through Cuba.

The show opens with a number called "Evolution of a Beat." It's Duke's music, starting with music of early savages and scenes to match and moving through to modern music.

Trapped in Bedroom With No Way Out

Woman, 15 Children Perish As Flames Devour Cottage

BOSWELL, Okla. — (UPI) — Flames devoured a four-room cottage here before dawn Thursday and a Negro mother, her 10 children and five nieces and nephews were burned to death as they huddled together in a bedroom without an outside door.

Bodies of the 15 youngsters were found piled atop one another near the body of the mother, indicating the children had rushed to her for protection. Her husband, Booker Gardner, 45-year-old farm laborer, was away on a coon-hunting jaunt.

Firemen blamed the tragedy on an ancient wood-burning heating stove, pending a check by state arson investigators. The fire had engulfed the house before neighbors discovered it, and the volunteer fire department of this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,000 population arrived too late to save the walls or roof.

Mrs. Aire Gardner, 40, had hugged new-born twins to her breast as she succumbed in the bedroom.

Funeral services for the mother and her children, the eldest a 15-year-old girl, were to be held at Oberlin, Okla., 13 miles south of Boswell near the Red River boundary with Texas.

In addition to Mrs. Gardner, dead were her children, Juanita, 15, Easter, 13, Isaac, 11, Louise, 9, Larry, 6, Joe 2, Omie, 3, Gwendolyn, 5, and six-month-old twins, Patricia Ann and Terresa Jan; three nieces, Bobbie Woolbright, 11, Peggy Sue Ward, 7, and Linda Ward, 4; and two nephews visiting from Oklahoma City, Freddie Webb, 13, and Herschel Frazier, 10.

Chester Stringer, arson division chief in the State Crime Bureau, Oklahoma City, sent two men to check the theory of Boswell City Marshal Stanley Shoemake, who blamed the fire on the stove.

Shoemake said Mrs. Gardner's body was found across the smoking remnants of a mattress, and it appeared at least 11 of the children had "piled on top of each other on the bed."

The Gardner house was three blocks past the town's last water main, and when the tank in the fire truck ran dry, the firemen had to drive back to town for a re-fill.

Gardner had planned to spend the night in the woods. He appeared at the home of Vernon Love, 12 miles south of Boswell, about 5 a.m. Two teenage hunting companions were with him.

Love said he drove Gardner back to Boswell by automobile. He said Gardner became suspicious as they near Boswell, and Love broke down with the story.

He said Gardner shook him by the shoulders and started repeating, "It can't be so, it can't be so . . ."

Casino Boss Lansky Subpenaed by Senate

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Meyer Lansky, a deposed baron of gambling in Cuba and a former major figure in gambling in this country, has been subpenaed by the Senate Rackets Committee for questioning late this month.

LANSKY

Lansky fled from Cuba after the collapse of the Batista regime. On landing in Miami Wednesday, he said he was going to his home in Hollywood, Fla., and had returned to this country for medical attention.

The rackets committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), disclosed that Lansky was served with a subpena last spring while he was visiting in New York City. It said he agreed at the time to testify any time the committee wanted him.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Lansky will be called as a witness in hearings the committee plans to start about Jan. 20 on alleged underworld influences in the juke box and vending machine industry.

Lansky reportedly has had extensive juke box operations around New York and Miami. He was one of those who came under investigation in the Senate Crime Committee hearings conducted by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) in 1950 and 1951. Lansky was described in them as a big-time gambler and an associate of New York and Brooklyn gangsters, including big shots in the old Murder Inc. mob.

Monitor to File Action To Have Hoffa Ousted

NEW YORK —(AP)— A petition aimed at ousting James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union will be submitted to Federal Court in Washington in about a month, Godfrey P. Schmidt, one of three court-appointed monitors for the union, said Thursday.

Schmidt disclosed plans for the move at a luncheon of the Young Republican Club.

He assailed the Teamsters Union as a "stern dictatorship." He deplored what he termed fear and lack of courage among most rank-and-file truckers, who, he said, were not protecting their rights.

"I am at present working on a petition which would oust Hoffa," Schmidt said.

He said that another aspect of the effort would be to "try to get a genuine receivership" to set up a fair election.

He told reporters that he would submit the petition to Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. Judge Letts has been sitting in the controversy between two factions of the union. The dispute led to the creating of the board of monitors.

Russian Slips Out Of Hangar

DETROIT —(UPI)— Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan preached peace on his arrival in Detroit Thursday for a quick tour of the motor capital. And at least the first part of his 25-hour visit was peaceable.

A group of 50 anti-Soviet pickets who had gathered at Willow Run Airport to demonstrate against Mikoyan on his arrival, never got a chance to jeer or wave their placards denouncing him.

While the pickets paraded in an airport parking lot, Mikoyan's plane taxied up to a huge hangar into which Mikoyan and his party of Soviet officials were escorted.

Mikoyan made a brief statement to newsmen, championing competition in peace between capitalism and Soviet socialism "to show which is the best way." And then the party stepped into automobiles inside the hangar.

The pickets never even caught a glimpse of the man they had come to jeer.

However, leaders of anti-Soviet nationality groups planned a bigger demonstration with pickets, placards and a coffin later when the Russians arrived at the Detroit Club for a reception and dinner. The coffin, according to demonstration leaders, was to symbolize "the wrongs committed by Russia against Hungarians and other freedom-loving people who have come under the Russian heel."

In Washington, President Eisenhower, disturbed by hostile demonstrations against Mikoyan at Cleveland Wednesday, and fearing new ones in Detroit and other cities Mikoyan is scheduled to visit, issued a plea for Americans to show the Russian No. 2 man "traditional courtesy" wherever he goes.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, relaying Eisenhower's request, said "the President wants Mr. Mikoyan to see the real America so that when he returns home, he will be able to convey an accurate picture of our good manners, as well as our strength, our confidence and determination in the cause of freedom and peace."

The first stop of the Soviet party after leavint the airport was at Ford's new $150,000,000 Engineering and Research Center which Mikoyan toured under the guidance of Dr. Andrew A. Kucher, Ford vice president of engineering and research.

He confided to newsmen there that on his last trip to Detroit many years ago, the late Henry Ford had conducted him around and had shown considerable enthusiam in telling him about his plant.

Headwaiter Is Shot in Cafeteria

By JAMES BUCHANAN

Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 terror-stricken customers in Davis cafeteria at 103 SE First Ave. ducked under tables Thursday as a former waiter shot the man who had fired him.

As the gunman, 45-year-old Frank Carter, patiently waited for arrest, the cafeteria's management kept a long line of customers filing past the victim, headwaiter David Burney, who was lying on the floor.

A girl cashier, however, burst into uncontrollable sobs as she stood beside the bleeding man and had to be replaced by a male employe.

Matthew Snell, another waiter and a witness to the shooting, said Carter entered the kitchen from an alley and stepped into the main cafeteria area where he confronted Burney, saying:

"I'm going to kill you. You mistreated me."

Carter fired two shots into Burney's stomach and arm, and then stood over the fallen man pulling the trigger of his 32 caliber revolver.

The gun failed to fire, however, and Carter retreated to the kitchen where he told employes, "I'm not going to run. Get the police."

Customers finally regained their composure and when officers and newsmen arrived were finishing their meals. The cafeteria complained to officers that many customers left without paying when they saw there had been a shooting.

Burney, who lives at 901 NW Second Ave., was said to be in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Carter, of 220 NW Eighth St., was held pending charges to be filed today.

Papers Reject Hearst's Bid

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Hearst Corp. announced Thursday that it had been unsuccessful in efforts to buy The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner and The Nashville Tennessean. The announcement said the offered price was more than 9½ million dollars.

The two newspapers are corporately and editorially separate, but operate otherwise under a joint agreement through a third corporation, of which James G. Stahlman is board chairman. He also is president and publisher of The Banner.

Injuries Fatal to Foisy

Suicide-Driving Attorney Is Dead

Miami Attorney Paul A. Foisy died Thursday afternoon in Dade County Hospital—never regaining sufficient consciousness to explain what police termed his suicide-crash.

His death marked the fourth traffic fatality recorded in Dade County in the first eight days of the new year.

The 33-year-old attorney, who lived with his mother at 2981 SW 12th St., gunned his car Tuesday into the path of another vehicle driven by Henry Newton Moore, 50, of 7401 NW Seventh Ave., Miami bridge tender. Moore was killed instantly.

Police found a suicide note in Foisy's pocket.

Echoes of Cuba

Hidden explosives, left behind when Miami-quartered Cuban rebels streaked for their Havana homes this week, are popping up everywhere, Miami police learned Thursday.

Lt. Charles Sapp of the Intelligence Unit said 12 cases of dynamite were found in a parked car at the rear of a service station at NW Seventh Ave. and 20th St.

Twelve cylinders of three-foot long high explosives were uncovered in the clothes closet of a home vacated Jan. 1 by Cubans living at 2290 NW Ninth St.

Two cases of dynamite, two cans of phosphorus, and a jar of potassium were picked up by police in bushes at NW 11th St. and 23rd Ave.

"We most likely will be coming across a whole lot more," Sapp said.

Baby Burned

A 17-month-old baby fell into a flaming can of paint preparation and burned both legs and her abdomen while toddling in her back yard Thursday afternoon.

Police said the condition of Linda McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLean, 1110 NW 141st St., is not serious at North Shore Hospital.

The child was being watched by her brother, Daniel Jr., 15. Police said the fire apparently was ignited by a discarded cigaret.

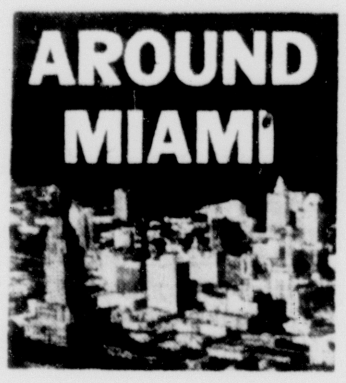
Collins Hopes

Florida is still optimistic about getting the national political party conventions in Miami Beach in 1960, Gov. LeRoy Collins said Thursday.



Collins, who traveled from New Orleans to Chicago to sell the Beach as a site for the conventions, said in Tallahassee he has received no information to make him less optimistic.

"It is impossible for me to evaluate how we stand at the present time," he said.

He said there is no reason to feel that the cause is lost, but if Miami Beach doesn't get the conventions it will not be because of lack of facilities or "because we didn't present our cause."

the island, from the jungles of Santiago to Havana was expected to last well into the morning hours.

Sharing the hero's welcome with Castro were his two chief lieutenants, Argentine-born Physician Ernesto (Che) Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, newly-appointed commander at Camp Columbia.

But behind the wild jubilation of the city were the grim realities of revolution's aftermath.

Urrutia's regime Thursday carried out plans for swift war crimes trials against followers of Batista, who has fled to exile in the Dominican Republic. He compared the promised trials to those at Nuremberg after World War II.

At least 20 police and military officers of the Batista regime already have been executed by the rebels following courts-martial. Another 20 Batista supporters have been reported executed by rebel militiamen without benefit of trial.

More than 1,300 persons suspected of loyalty to Batista now are being held in the Havana area alone for investigation.

Temperatures in the 70s warmed southern Florida at mid day and 60s were scattered to the South Carolina coast and westward to New Orleans but cooler northwesterly winds have been following in the wake of a low pressure system over Alabama.

With warm and cool air clashing, occasionally heavy rains developed over portions of northwestern Florida and along the Georgia, Alabama border. Over an inch of rain collected during the forenoon at Pensacola, Florida and a pattern of rains extended northward into Kentucky and Virginia.

The southern rain pattern will spread eastward ending along the coast from the Carolinas to Georgia during the day and continuing in central Florida with showers across the southern part of the state. Cold air crowding south and eastward will send freezing temperatures into the mid south Friday morning and give much colder weather in the Ohio Valley.

The cold air will continue snow shower activity through the Great Lakes to the northern Appalachians while maintaining fair weather through the northeastern states.

Fair weather from the western Great Lakes to the southern Rockies and West Texas will include 15 below readings in northern Wisconsin and warming during Friday afternoon in the western plains.

Tampa Play Off 75 Per Cent

Bolita Operations Dealt Heavy Blow By Revolt in Cuba

TAMPA, Fla. —(UPI)— The overthrow of the Batista regime in Cuba has dealt a blow to Hillsborough County bolita operations, officers said Thursday.

Sheriff Ed Blackburn and the chief of his vice squad, Deputy Ellis Clifton, estimated that bolita play has fallen off from 65 to 75 per cent since the revolutionary forces of Fidel Castro to okvhteoer ovgeetnrm n ary forces of Fidel Castro took over the government from President Fulgencio Batista.

Because of its cigar industry, Tampa has a large Latin population and Bolita, a Cuban numbers game, has been a major law enforcement problem for years.

Clifton pointed out that the local racket is based on the Cuban lottery and that players here are "leery of making purchases with Cuba's gambling situation uncertain."

While Batista supported the big gambling houses in Havana, the new government has expressed opposition to them.

But it is unknown what attitude it will take on the Cuban lottery, the heart of local bolita.

"With this uncertainty of whether the lottery will continue to be thrown every Saturday the numbers business here has naturally dropped off," Clifton said.

He added, however, if the lottery number is not drawn Saturday in Cuba, local operators could go elsewhere for a winning number. But he said "bolita is legal in Cuba and most people feel it cannot be fixed. Lottery ticket buyers would be leery of any other form."

Missile Test Center

Could a Bomber Slip in on Cape?

DAYTONA BEACH—(AP)—An armed B26 Cuban bomber flew within striking distance of the missile test center on Cape Canaveral to land here New Year's Day and never was challenged by U.S. air defense, the Daytona Beach morning Journal said Thursday.

"Apparently the Air Force doesn't believe the enemy would bomb the Cape," the newspaper quoted a federal aviation spokesman as saying.

The Pentagon in Washington began checking the report.

Two Cuban Air Force men fleeing after the downfall of President Fulgencio Batista's government landed the plane here, seeking asylum.

They told the morning Journal they flew into the United States without a flight plan and made no radio contact during the 300-mile trip up the coast until they called the tower at Daytona Beach municipal airport for landing instructions.

They said they knew how to fly the "U. S. airways," apparently meaning the authorized route up the east coast.

Elbert H. Chambers, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency (formerly the CAA) at the Daytona Beach Airport, said he understood the tower had no knowledge of the Cubans until they asked for landing instructions near Titusville, 47 miles south of here and about 17 air miles from Cape Canaveral.

Asked how the Cubans managed to fly so near the Cape unchallenged, Chambers said the areas immediately overhead and east of the Cape are restricted.

But he said the area west of the Cape is not restricted and not in a defense zone.

"Apparently the Air Force doesn't believe the enemy would bomb the Cape," Chambers said, "and therefore they haven't put it inside the air defense identification zone.

LAKELAND —(UPI)— The Florida Citrus Commission's legislative committee Thursday voted to seek continuation of the present advertising tax on oranges and grapefruit without the grapefruit rebate provision.

But the committee, headed by Key Scales Jr. of Weirsday, decided to subject the measure to consideration by the legislative committees of Florida Citrus Mutual and the Florida Canners Association and a public hearing Feb. 5 before sending it to the commission for passage to the Legislature.

The advertising tax, amounting to two cents per box of fruit, expires next July unless the Legislature extends it. The rebate provision allows persons who advertise grapefruit to be reimbursed $1 for each dollar they spend.

7 Batista Men Get U.S. Entry

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — The Immigration Service reported Thursday about $112,000 was found on two Cuban yachts anchored at Key West and carrying high dignitaries of the overthrown Batista regime.

The 38 men aboard the vessels claimed these were personal funds, and were permitted to keep this cash, officials said.

Immigration inspectors reported that only an "insignificant" sum was found in possession of Rolando Masferrer, accused by the new Cuban government of fleeing with 17 million dollars belonging to the Cuban people.

Masferrer, a Cuban senator and close friend of deposed President Fulgencio Batista, is owner of the Newspaper El Tiempo. The new Cuban government — officially recognized Wednesday by the United States — proposes to demand his return to Cuba.

The Immigration Service said the bulk of the money found on the two yachts was held by one individual, Rear Adm. Arturo Carbonell Fell, 42, who had approximately $85,000.

In reporting the outcome of its check into reports a great hoard of cash might be on the yachts, the Immigration Service also announced the processing of the passengers thus far has resulted in grants of admission to seven men.

The seven, who were taken to Miami, will be admitted to the United States on parole as political refugees. All are officers of the old Cuban Navy who arrived at Key West on the Marta III, once used by Batista as his personal yacht. Rear Adm. Fell is one of the seven.

The immigration service said that five other men aboard the Marta III, who have had preliminary examinations, have indicated they may withdraw their requests for entry.

Masferrer was aboard the second yacht, the Olo Kun II. Both yachts fled from Havana as the Batista regime was tumbling and put in at Key West on New Year's Day.

Earlier, the Immigration Service reported that 312 Cuban refugees have arrived in the United States since the Batista government fell. Officials said 229 have been granted admission as temporary visitors and 83 given parole pending further investigation.

The service said the 41-year-old Masferrer, whose full name is Rolando Masferrer Rojas, was accompanied by two brothers, a cousin, his bodyguard, chauffeur and five other personal servants.

The Masferrer party consists of Congressman Rudolfo Masferrer Rojas, 42 and Raimundo Masferrer Rojas, 38, listed as a railroad mechanic, both brothers of the senator; Antonio Leon Masferrer Rojas, a 44-year-old rancher cousin; Wilfredo Arias-Arias, 23, the bodyguard; Ramon Escobar Gorras, 21, the chauffeur; and these servants: Ramon Cobas Hechevarria, 19; Rafael Aguila Esteinger, 28; Carlos Fonseca Coronill, 25; Alcides E. Perez Bouza, 33, and Rolando J. Rojas Quevado, 19.

'Prince' Says He'll Enter Guilty Plea

TAMPA, Fla. — (UPI) — Edward Lee Woods, a 26-year-old Negro who posed as African royalty in six states, said Thursday he would plead guilty to a federal worthless check charge and was held under $5,000 bond.

Woods, a farm hand from the Macclenny community, admitted to U.S. commissioner Morrison Buck at his presentment hearing that he had posed as "a crown prince from Equatorial Africa."

Woods, alias Prince Nkabouri Kawama Mboyts of Ubangi-Sheri of Portuguese East Africa, was arrested at Fort Myers Monday when he tried to check into a hospital there.

Authorities spotted him as the same fake Ubangi prince who has received royal treatment in hospitals in six states for an alleged kidney ailment and then left without paying his bill.

After 5-Day Bird Binge

Tippling Parakeet Home Sober

By RICK TUTTLE
Herald Staff Writer

MIRAMAR—Some do, some don't.

Fletch does—excessively.

Fletch is a drinker, a problem drinker in fact.

He can't get enough.

Beer, bourbon, scotch, gin—it matters not to this two-year-old parakeet.

He flew off on a binge last Sunday and didn't come back until Thursday. It's gone that far, mind you.

His owner is Mrs. Maybelle Fink, 2736 Sunshine Blvd.

Fletch, sober at the time, darted out the front door into the rain Sunday morning.

"The Herald had a story about him in the Miami edition and I started getting calls from all over," Mrs. Fink said Thursday.

The area was filled with half-crocked parakeets, apparently.

Everybody was giving stray birds a slug or so to test their sobriety.

Bartenders were alerted, but they didn't mention it to their customers. Pink elephants and all that, you know. A man has to protect his job.

"I went on a lot of wild-goose chases, but I didn't find him until Thursday," Mrs. Fink said. "He was at a woman's house seven miles from here. I gave her $25."

Surprisingly, Fletch refused to drink at the finder's home.

"Maybe she didn't have his brand," Mrs. Fink said.

But Fletch probably didn't feel like drinking. He doesn't pay much attention to such complex matter as brands. Booze are booze.

Mrs. Fink said she didn't teach the bird to drink.

"He just hopped up on a beer can one day and started drinking," she said. "Ever since he has flown into our guest's drinks. He stands on ice cubes and soaks it up like a fiend."

When he is "high," Fletch flies to a mirror and stares at his disgraceful self.

His grip isn't too good, and he slides slowly down the mirror's edge.

He then waddles away on a very uneven keel to sober up.

Existing Revenue Must Do, He Says

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE—Gov. Leroy Collins said Wednesday the program he will recommend to the 1959 Legislature will not require new state taxes.

The governor also repeated an earlier statement that he will hold the Legislature in special session if it fails to reapportion in the 1959 regular session.

The governor said he would fulfill his constitutional obligation but "I don't like to presuppose that they (legislators) will fail to do their duty."

Collins told a news conference that reapportionment is a legislative responsibility and he had no reason to expect the Legislature would fail to reapportion. However, he said he had seen no specific signs of encouragement "that I could mention."

The constitution provides that when the Legislature fails to reapportion in regular session, the governor shall hold it in extraordinary session until it does the job.

The 1955 Legislature was held in intermittent session for 122 days without reaching a solution. In 1957 the Legislature approved a 45 senator-114-member house formula in the constitutional revision program.

The plan later was knocked out by the State Supreme Court because the entire revision was presented to the people in a package to be accepted in its entirety or turned down if only one article failed to meet public approval.

Collins said he hopes to meet with his constitutional advisory committee and constitutional amendments committees of the Senate and House before the Legislature convenes in an effort to achieve a united front on revision.

His own committee has set Feb. 1 as a target date for completion of its work. Bartow Attorney William A. McRae is chairman of the group.

Collins declared his intention to present a spending program to the 1959 Legislature that will not require additional state taxes.

He said he expects the Cabinet Budget Commission to recommend a program within the range of existing tax revenues.

He added that he expects his recommendations also would fall within that range.

The 1957 Legislature appropriated a record $701 million dollars and adopted an expanded tax program designed to raise an additional $100 million dollars.

But revenues fell short of authorized spending by more than $80 million dollars because of a severe winter and a business recession, forcing several proposed projects to be curtailed.

Collins said he believed many of the discrepancies in records of the Apalachee Correctional Institute, cited by State Auditor Bryan Willis, had been corrected. The governor said he believes much good has resulted from a policy of his office demanding explanations from officials whose performances are criticized in state audit reports.

Collins said he had not been given any reason to believe Miami Beach was out of the running as a contender to be host city for the 1960 national political conventions.

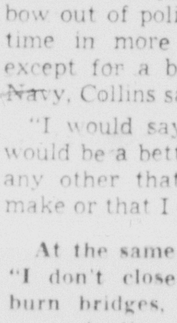
Collins Hedges on 1961 Plans

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday successfully parried newsmens' questions about his future political ambitions.



GOV. COLLINS

Collins did not say yes, no or maybe when asked if he plans to return to the role of private citizen when his term ends in January, 1961.

What he managed to convey was that he honestly does not know.

Asked if he will resume his private law practice here and bow out of politics for the first time in more than 25 years, except for a brief time in the Navy, Collins said:

"I would say now that that would be a better forecast than any other that anybody could make or that I could make."

At the same time, he added: "I don't close doors, I don't burn bridges, but I am just concentrating on this job I have to do now, and whatever the future will hold for me, I just don't know."

Political import, ranging up to a secret quest for the presidency, is read into almost every statement or action by Collins, whose position as chairman of the national governors conference and a "moderate" on the race issue occasionally places him in the national spotlight.

Latest event to set political tongues wagging is the projected visit to Russia next June of a group of governors, headed by Collins.

The Florida governor has always been credited with being a man who plans ahead.

But he said this is not true, politically.

He said he plans ahead with respect to the discharge of official duties and opportunities, but not in respect to personal ambitions of a political character.

Where's Gettis Lee?

Missing Man Lead Is Worth $25,000

BRADENTON — (AP) — A $25,000 reward offer may spur the search for information about the disappearance of a Parrish man and the murder of his wife.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lee, mother of Gettis Lee—Parrish cattleman and merchant who vanished in 1957—Wednesday raised her personal reward offer from $6,000 to $10,000. Lee's estate increased its reward from $1,000 to $15,000.

Lee, then 63, and his 60-year-old wife disappeared March 7, 1957. The woman's body, with three bullets in it, was found two days later in a creek three miles west of Parrish.

Lee was never found. His auto was discovered outside a supermarket in Palmetto, 10 miles south of Parrish. A hat with a bullet hole was found in the back seat. No one was ever charged with Mrs. Lee's murder.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. —(AP) — The search is over for two airmen from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., who took off in a light plane and headed into stormy weather.

Two Navajo Indians found the plane wreckage about 30 miles southeast of Gallup Wednesday and an Air Force flight surgeon identified the dead as the airmen missing since Dec. 29.

They were M. M. Warrick, the pilot, and Vincent Reese, his passenger.

FORT MYERS — (UPI) — The nine-day search for a 78-year-old retired woodsman ended Wednesday when the man's body was found in the Caloosahatchee River near here.

Flint wandered away from his home early on the morning of Dec. 30, touching off a widespread search.

High Court Asked to Disbar 3

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Board of Governors of the Florida Bar recommended Thursday that the State Supreme Court disbar three attorneys and suspend a fourth for 30 days for alleged unprofessional practices.

Recommended for disbarments were Elmer O. Roberts of Fort Lauderdale, William B. Dawson III of Jacksonville and Clarence Brown of Miami.

The Board recommended a 30-day suspension for Sidney Poller of Miami Beach.

The Board's recommendations become final unless the lawyers cited ask review of their cases by the Supreme Court by Feb. 6.

Roberts was charged with filing a divorce action for John F. Sachse and Anelise Rosemarie Armstrong under Florida's 90-day divorce law knowing at the time that they had not met residence requirements and inducing them to swear falsely that they had complied with residence requirements.

Dawson was charged with soliciting personal injury damage cases through a runner; with promising to bear expenses of litigation if the litigants lost their cases, and with intermingling clients' money with his own in a personal checking account.

The Board charged that Brown failed to account for funds received from four clients and refused to turn over to them amounts to which they were entitled.

Poller was charged with commingling trust funds of a client with his own funds and converting them to his personal use without consent of his client. The referee reported, however, that Poller eventually made full restitution of funds entrusted to him.

His Wife Totes Old Love Notes Around; So WHAT?

By ANN LANDERS

ANN

DEAR ANN: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flare-ups, but I don't thing we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a foot-locker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ash-trays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep your lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his seven-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof. I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes. Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude. — Mother of Three Fatherless Children

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deep-freeze. (What are your in-laws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted. He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again. He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you thing I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone?" And exactly what would you be showing them— that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

My Answer

Universe Is Evidence Of God

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: In my work I am daily thrown in contact with a man who is an athiest. He is so much better educated than I am and so much smarter that I cannot argue with him to do any good.

ANSWER: There are two arguments against which unbelievers cannot stand — a transformed life and the evidences of God in His creation. Some time ago an infidel was speaking in Hyde Park and he challenged his audience to give one argument for Christianity. A man arose and said, "Christ has made a new man out of me. Some of you here know how I was in the gutter from drink, how my life was impure and how every sentence I spoke was emphasized with an oath. My home was broken up, my business gone and I was a social outcast.

GRAHAM

"One night I accepted Jesus Christ as my Saviour and from that moment I have never had the desire to drink, nor do I take His name in vain. My family is reunited and I now have a good job. Christ did this for me."

The other evidence of God which all men can see is the universe and this world in which we live. These things did not just happen. They are not held together by the caprice of nature. The more we study nature the more we realize the infinite varieties and amazing laws which work in them. This is overwhelming evidence of an infinite wisdom and power behind them.

Let me suggest that you do not argue with this acquaintance but pray for him. Also ask God to give you the power to live before him in such a way that he must see Christ living in you. You may be used to lead him to God and His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. Remember you cannot drive him by human arguments, no matter how logical they may seem.

Fights for Policies

It's a 'State Of the Planet' Talk for Ike

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today actually will be a state-of-the-world analysis keyed to the struggle against communism.

Much of the emphasis, the White House indicated Thursday, will be on the President's previously stated determination to maintain financial integrity at home while carrying on the battle for enduring global peace.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that Eisenhower also is determined to carry a fight for his legislative program and foreign policy proposals directly to the people — if the heavily Democratic new Congress balks at going along with administration plans.

The President will deliver his State of the Union message personally at a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m.

(The 40-minute report will be telecast at 12:30 today by WTVJ (Ch. 4), WCKT (Ch. 7) and WPST-TV (Ch. 10). It will be broadcast on radio by WCKR, WGBS and WKAT.)

Eisenhower canceled a National Security Council meeting which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, kept his other engagements to a minimum, and devoted much of the day to final work on the message.

"It will be not only a State of the Union message but a state of the world message," Hagerty said.

He added that Eisenhower will deal in broad terms with world and domestic problems, leaving most specific legislative recommendations for outline later in a series of special messages.

For example, his budget proposals will be put before the lawmakers Jan. 19. The White House already has announced the budget to be submitted for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and will call for spending about 77 billion dollars.

That is less by about two billion dollars than estimated spending this year. Some Democrats already have criticized the new lower figure as unrealistic and too little for adequate national defense.

The last of the President's three major messages, the economic report, will go to Congress the day after the budget, Jan. 20.

There will be messages later on specific subjects — quite likely one dealing with civil rights. Indications are the administration is preparing legislation bearing on school integration and related problems.

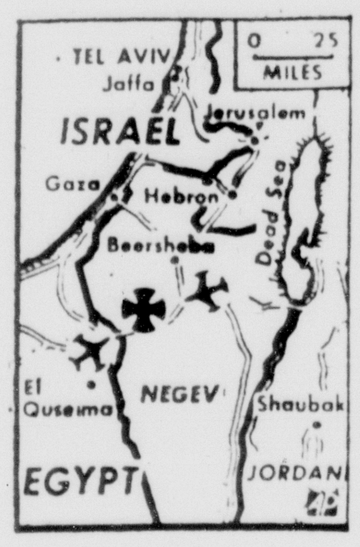
There probably will be another special message on the problem of ousting racketeers from the labor-management fields.

As to Eisenhower's plans to carry the fight for his program to the people if necessary, Hagerty said the President is ready to set forth his views through all media — newspapers, radio and television, magazines, theater newsreels and at news conferences.

"I would think that he would take occasion, every time he can, to discuss, to elaborate on these programs that he will be presenting, starting Friday," Hagerty said.

Asked about specific plans, Hagerty said those would be ready for announcement soon.

Some indication of the reception among Democrats came in a start-of-the-session speech by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader. Johnson said the Eisenhower administration lacks boldness and freshness.



Where Jets Clashed

Israeli, UAR Jets Slug Again

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Israeli and United Arab Republic jet fighters clashed Thursday for the second time within three weeks.

The U.A.R. claimed one Israeli plane was shot down and another damaged. Israel said all its planes returned safely.

An Isaeli army spokesman announced in Tel Aviv that Israeli pilots, flying French-built Mystere fighters, intercepted four Egyptian MIG17s 20 miles from Beersheba, in the Negev desert, and drove them off after a brief battle.

U.A.R. army headquarters in Cairo declared the fight took place over the Egyptian Sinai desert after six Israeli planes violated U.A.R. air space.

It was the second air clash between planes of Israel and the United Arab Republic in little more than three weeks.

Four Israeli fighters clashed with eight U.A.R. MIGs Dec. 20 and claimed they shot down one. Israel said the planes flew over the Negev desert. Cairo on the other hand, said the four Israeli jets had flown over the Sinai desert, were intercepted and forced to flee.

Star's Estate Disputed

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Tyrone Power's widow estimates his estate at $500,000, instead of the five million figured by ex-wife Linda Christian.

The $500,000 reckoning is in a petition by Power's widow, Debbie, for a family allowance for herself and her unborn child.

Miss Christian made the five million estimate in a petition last month for $650 a month support for her two daughters by Power.

"Believe me," said a representative of Power's estate, "the sum will be much closer to $500,000 than the larger estimate."

To Curb Racists

7 'Hate Bomb' Bills Readied for Senate

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Legislation to unleash the forces of the FBI against "hate bombers" of churches and integrated schools will be introduced in the Senate today.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republicans, said they would submit seven bills designed to curb "the activities of fanatics and racists trying to establish a reign of terror" against churches and integrated schools.

The legislation also would ban "hate mail" which promotes violence.

Keating and Javits said the legislation was the result of a series of conferences they held with community leaders and officials of three Southern cities where bombings occurred last year. The cities were Jacksonville Birmingham, and Atlanta.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the average citizen in the South is as deeply shocked and outraged by the nearly 70 bombings and attempted bombings report since 1954 as is the nation as a whole," Javits and Keating said.

"We found considerable support among Southern officials for a law such as we now propose."

Charles de Gaulle
. . . new president

Michel Debre
. . . the new premier

Stern Path Pledged by De Gaulle

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle became president of France Thursday and pledged to use his strong executive powers to keep the new Fifth Republic on the stern path he outlined as premier. He declared he will do what has to be done for the nation's good.

Immediately after historic inauguration ceremonies, De Gaulle set the new republic in motion. He named as premier Michel Debre, longtime Gaullist lawyer and an unbending nationalist.

There followed an unmistakable sign that De Gaulle intends to continue his strict control over French affairs. Debre said cabinet consultations would take place in De Gaulle's presidential palace, and the list of members should be ready today.

De Gaulle took office in the residential palace, then drove to the majestic Arch of Triumph.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the upper mile of the broad Champs Elysees to cheer him. Standing in an open car with outgoing President Rene Coty at his side, De Gaulle retraced the triumphal path he followed as leader of the Free French when Paris was liberated in World War II.

Along with shouts of "Vive De Gaulle" were warm cheers for Coty, who drove off to semi-retirement in Le Havre. Crowds broke through police lines to surround the 76-year-old lawyer who played a major role in De Gaulle's return to political power.

But this was De Gaulle's day, as the 68-year-old soldier-politician became France's most powerful chief of state since Emperor Napoleon III was deposed in 1870.

About 200 of France's top figures ringed the gilded Salon des Fetes in the presidential palace, where Coty proclaimed that "the first among Frenchmen is henceforth the first ranking man in France."

De Gaulle bowed his head to receive the gold-medaled neck chain of French presidents. Then, choking back his emotion and quieting his nervous gestures, he told the select inaugural gathering:

"I have the honor to give France, to impose if need be, what the public good demands. I bear witness that I won't fail."

Among the 200 were chiefs of governments of the 17 autonomous republics of which De Gaulle is also president.

Elvis Is 24: On 3-Day Pass

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany—(AP)—Pfc. Elvis Presley celebrated his 24th birthday Thursday.

He had a three-day pass from the Army as a sort of coincidental birthday present. All the men of his unit in the Third Armored Division got the pass in recognition of a high excellence rating received in training maneuvers. The pass is the first Elvis has received since arriving in Germany in early November.

Havana Takes Day Off As Castro Marches In

He Walks Unguarded In Throng

Foes Are Facing Swift War Trials

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — Fidel Castro, 32-year-old rebel leader who ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista in a grueling two-year revolt, entered Havana in triumph Thursday to the salute of booming guns, pealing church bells and the cheers of hundreds of thousands.

Business, commercial and industrial establishments shut down throughout the city at 11 a.m. to enable their staffs to take part in the hero's welcome to Castro.

Guns at La Cabana fortress which dominates the entrance to Havana harbor boomed out a 21-gun salute and church bells throughout the city pealed out a hymn of triumph.

Castro marched into the city limits to the screams of the populace two hours later, as automobiles wheeled through the streets draped with Cuban flags and Castro's rebel red and black standard.

The bearded, long-haired rebel leader, who landed from Mexico in a small yacht Dec. 6, 1956, at the head of 82 men, 70 of whom were killed in the first encounter with Batista's troops, entered the city at the head of a two-mile long column of armored vehicles and troops.

Castro stood in an open jeep, four guards flanking him. Eight tanks and armored cars preceded the jeep. Warplances flew overhead.

As the triumphal march reached Havana's famous waterfront promenade, the Malecon, Castro got off the jeep and walked three blocks to the Presidential Palace, where he was greeted emotionally by Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

As he spoke to Urrutia at the palace, Castro held a tommygun in one hand and drank three bottles of soda pop with the other. The provisional president broke into a wide smile at Castro's evident thirst.

The rebel hero then stood combing out his wind-tossed beard in the palace's Hall of Mirrors where foreign diplomats traditionally present their credentials to the head of the Cuban state.

Later Castro and Urrutia delivered brief addresses from the balcony to the roaring thousands massed in front of the palace.

Urrutia spoke first. He eulogized Castro as being "without dispute the most modest leader and combatant in history. After defeating the tyranny with an admirable effort, he has not taken power in his hands but instead put it into the hands of a man in whom he has faith."

"We vow to make ourselves worth of this gesture of this great leader," the president said.

In his reply, Castro said he had come to the palace—"a building which I have never liked—because I wanted to salute our president, offer him our respects and reiterate once more that he can count unconditionally on our support."

Castro then announced he intended to walk alone to Camp Columbia, for years the headquarters of Batista's unchallenged power.

"I want to ask the people of Havana to do something for me . . . Without a single soldier ahead of me, I am going to ask the people to open the way as I am going to demonstrate. I am going to walk alone, we are going to show the world . . . the disipline and civic spirit of the Cuban people. I am going to pass through you to demonstrate that not a single soldier is is needed to keep me from the public."

The massed throng opened a path, singing Cuba's national anthem, while Castro and Ur-

HAVANA, Cuba — All the home folks except a few left-over Batista boys and their guards went to the wildest street party in Cuba's history Thursday.

Nobody was left to mind the stores — they were all closed.

And everybody tried to outdo everybody else in hailing their hero. If anyone wasn't sold on Fidel Castro, he did a good job of hiding it.

When the guest of honor—ruggedly handsome Castro — rode into view, the roar was like the take-off of flight screaming jets.

Black-eyed girls, wearing scarlet blouses and full skirts, surged around the ragged, bearded rebels, kissing their hands and feet and snatching at their patchwork uniforms.

A dozen tanks — prizes from Batista's army — crawled at the front of the parade, scattering hysterical Cubans.

Planes whipped through the skies and a maddening din of whistles from trains, boats and factories lent a shrill magnificence to the scene.

Daredevil rebel drivers with shrieking sirens darted in and out of the throng, occasionally knocking down a spectator.

The weary soldiers held their guns high and fired them with the abandon of children armed with cap pistols.

A dark-haired two-year-old ran with a flag, shouting his favorite word in a singsong rhythm: "Castro, Castro, Castro."

And everywhere in the city excited people laughed and sang and praised their hero.

Castro had come home from the hills.

Filibuster Test Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate, after a day of bickering, Thursday unanimously put off until today a showdown vote on efforts to change its rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

It acted at the request of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas after it became apparent that debate on the bitterly-fought issue would last too long to permit a test vote before adjournment.

Johnson said he planned to offer a motion today to kill a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.) which would open all Senate rules for changes.

The vote will be the first key test in the drive by Senate liberals to change the rules to permit a majority of all senators to impose a limit on Senate debate and end talkathons.

JAKARTA — (AP) — Floods over vast areas of central Java have driven more than 100,000 persons from their homes in the last 10 days.

No casulaties have been reported but preliminary estimates put the damage at nearly $200,000.

The Surakarta area, 300 miles southeast of Jakarta, was the hardest hit.

Storms Tie Up Traffic in Italy

ROME — (AP) — Snow, hail and high winds Thursday disrupted air, sea and land transport in Italy and Sicily.

Alitalia, the national airline, canceled several flights. Shipping operations were halted at Leghorn, Trieste and other ports.

Hail and snow in the central Italian Appennines between Florence and Rome knocked out rail and road traffic.

Keys Tax Assessing Probe Is Requested

More State News, 1B, 4B, 5B, 7B

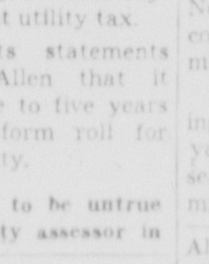
By HENRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST—Fred J. Dion, retired local businessman and former city assessor, has asked Gov. LeRoy Collins to look into tax assessing practices in this island-city.

Dion charges in a letter to the governor that local average assessments in many cases "are 50 per cent or less of fair values."

He charges County Tax Assessor Joe Allen with certifying two tax rolls "knowing the rolls were deficient with respect to commercial and pleasure boats."

"In most cases," Dion adds, "personal property in the expensive homes is not assessed at all."



DION

Dion, a former city official and owner of considerable land here, claims that a property tax roll would solve the city's financial problems and make unnecessary the recently-passed 10 per cent utility tax.

Dion discounts statements attributed to Allen that it would take three to five years to make a uniform roll for the city and county.

"This I know to be untrue because I, as city assessor in 1946 in cooperation with the county assessor, completed a new field assessment in seven months," Eion says.

As a result of this action, Dion says, the city's assessments were doubled and the millage rate reduced from 38 to 20 mills plus the bonded debt.

Dion tells Collins it is "distasteful" to have to call on him, but adds that "It is difficult to secure legal help to process the matter through the circuit court."

Mikoyan Visits Detroit, Outflanks 50 Picketers

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SCIENTISTS tried to surmise that the earth-shaking crash last week was caused by two jet planes breaking the sound barriers.

BELL

Nuts! The earth tremors were caused by the Three Greeks (Paul Besalernos, Dennis Maginas and Jerry Anninos) selling Biscayne Bar & Restaurant to the Three Jews (Ben Rubin, Saul Ettinger and Henry Hersh).

For 14 long years those Greeks have been running that restaurant. They had small tables 'n' chairs, small aisles, plenty of noise and four scurrying waiters: George, Chico, Al and Clyde, with Busboy Ralph filling in. 'Twas the only restaurant I know wherein the waiters pushed the bosses around. I sort of suspect the bosses got tired of taking orders.

The new owners kept the waiters 'n' cooks. The menu's unchanged — yet. Rubin and Ettinger formerly owned Harry's Bar in New York. Hersh is from Pittsburgh. "If we can keep the customers — ???" sighs Rubin hopefully.

He has lost one already. Eduardo Hernandez, Cuban consul under Batista, has been absent since Castro started marching through Cuba.

Duke Ellington and Sid Kullner have written a musical, "Jump for Joy." Duke wrote the music, Sid the lyrics and script — through long months of writing and re-writing. It goes into Copa City Jan. 20. Barbara McNair, Columbia records singing star, will sing the feminine lead.

The show opens with a number called "Evolution of a Beat." It's Duke's music, starting with music of early savages and scenes to match and moving through to modern music.

Duke, Miss McNair and others will give us a bit of it on the Cerebral Palsy Telethon the night of Jan. 17, Channel 7.

Trapped in Bedroom With No Way Out

Woman, 15 Children Perish As Flames Devour Cottage

BOSWELL, Okla. — (UPI) — Flames devoured a four-room cottage here before dawn Thursday and a Negro mother, her 10 children and five nieces and nephews were burned to death as they huddled together in a bedroom without an outside door.

Bodies of the 15 youngsters were found piled atop one another near the body of the mother, indicating the children had rushed to her for protection. Her husband, Booker Gardner, 45-year-old farm laborer, was away on a coon-hunting jaunt.

Firemen blamed the tragedy on an ancient wood-burning heating stove, pending a check by state arson investigators. The fire had engulfed the house before neighbors discovered it, and the volunteer fire department of this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,000 population arrived too late to save the walls or roof.

Mrs. Aire Gardner, 40, had hugged new-born twins to her breast as she succumbed in the bedroom.

Funeral services for the mother and her children, the eldest a 15-year-old girl, were to be held at Oberlin, Okla., 13 miles south of Boswell near the Red River boundary with Texas.

In addition to Mrs. Gardner, dead were her children, Juanita, 15, Easter, 13, Isaac, 11, Louise, 9, Larry, 6, Joe 2, Omie, 3, Gwendolyn, 5, and six-month-old twins, Patricia Ann and Terresa Jan; three nieces, Bobbie Woolbright, 11, Peggy Sue Ward, 7, and Linda Ward, 4; and two nephews visiting from Oklahoma City, Freddie Webb, 13, and Herschel Frazier, 10.

Chester Stringer, arson division chief in the State Crime Bureau, Oklahoma City, sent two men to check the theory of Boswell City Marshal Stanley Shoemake, who blamed the fire on the stove.

Shoemake said Mrs. Gardner's body was found across the smoking remnants of a mattress, and it appeared at least 11 of the children had "piled on top of each other on the bed."

The Gardner house was three blocks past the town's last water main, and when the tank in the fire truck ran dry, the firemen had to drive back to town for a re-fill.

Gardner had planned to spend the night in the woods. He appeared at the home of Vernon Love, 12 miles south of Boswell, about 5 a.m. Two teenage hunting companions were with him.

Love said he drove Gardner back to Boswell by automobile. He said Gardner became suspicious as they neared Boswell, and Love broke down with the story.

He said Gardner shook him by the shoulders and started repeating, "It can't be so, it can't be so . . ."

Casino Boss Lansky Subpenaed by Senate

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Meyer Lansky, a deposed baron of gambling in Cuba and a former major figure in gambling in this country, has been subpenaed by the Senate Rackets Committee for questioning late this month.

LANSKY

Lansky fled from Cuba after the collapse of the Batista regime. On landing in Miami Wednesday, he said he was going to his home in Hollywood, Fla., and had returned to this country for medical attention.

The rackets committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), disclosed that Lansky was served with a subpena last spring while he was visiting in New York City. It said he agreed at the time to testify any time the committee wanted him.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Lansky will be called as a witness in hearings the committee plans to start about Jan. 20 on alleged underworld influences in the juke box and vending machine industry.

Lansky reportedly has had extensive juke box operations around New York and Miami. He was one of those who came under investigation in the Senate Crime Committee hearings conducted by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) in 1950 and 1951. Lansky was described in them as a big-time gambler and an associate of New York and Brooklyn gangsters, including big shots in the old Murder Inc. mob.

Monitor to File Action To Have Hoffa Ousted

NEW YORK —(AP)— A petition aimed at ousting James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union will be submitted to Federal Court in Washington in about a month, Godfrey P. Schmidt, one of three court-appointed monitors for the union, said Thursday.

Schmidt disclosed plans for the move at a luncheon of the Young Republican Club.

He assailed the Teamsters Union as a "stern dictatorship." He deplored what he termed fear and lack of courage among most rank-and-file truckers, who, he said, were not protecting their rights.

"I am at present working on a petition which would oust Hoffa," Schmidt said.

He said that another aspect of the effort would be to "try to get a genuine receivership" to set up a fair election.

He told reporters that he would submit the petition to Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. Judge Letts has been sitting in the controversy between two factions of the union. The dispute led to the creating of the board of monitors.

He Parries Questions Cannily

DETROIT — (UPI) — Russia's versatile Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan ducked anti-Soviet demonstrators, engaged in repartee, and "rolled with the punch" on rough questions from businessmen in a whirlwind visit to Detroit Thursday.

He preached the peace theme hard, and blamed the U. S. for forcing continuance of the armaments race by ringing Russia with military bases.

A group of 50 anti-Soviet pickets, who gathered at Willow Run Airport to demonstrate against Mikoyan on his arrival, never got within shouting distance. The plane rolled up to a hangar, Mikoyan and his party went directly from the plane to the hangar, boarded automobiles inside, and then outflanked the pickets by more than 500 feet by swinging across the skirt of the airfield onto the expressway leading to Detroit.

The pickets did not even catch a glimpse of the man they had come to jeer.

In Washington, President Eisenhower, disturbed by hostile demonstrations against Mikoyan at Cleveland Wednesday, and fearing new ones in Detroit and other cities Mikoyan is scheduled to visit, issued a plea for Americans to show the Russian No. 2 man "traditional courtesy" wherever he goes.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, relaying Eisenhower's request, said "the President wants Mr. Mikoyan to see the real America so that when he returns home, he will be able to convey an accurate picture of our good manners, as well as our strength, our confidence and determination in the cause of freedom and peace."

After a quick trip to Dearborn, protected by police all the way, Mikoyan and his party toured the Ford assembly plant and its new 150-million-dollar engineering and research center before sitting down to a luncheon attended by leading Detroit industrialists and businessmen.

When introduced to General Motors President Frederic G. Donner, at a Ford luncheon, Mikoyan quipped, "I can see that you have 'coexistence' in America. Maybe that's because neither of you has an H-bomb."

In the question period that followed the luncheon, Mikoyan parried many "rough" questions from the businessmen.

He said Russia could not produce automobiles for all workers for a long, long time. But it would be speeded up if — as he put it — the U.S. would stop the armaments race.

Ford Board Chairman Ernest R. Breech asked why Russia thought the U.S. wanted to start war. Mikoyan replied — because the U.S. rings his country with military bases.

"You say we are wrong, we say you are wrong," he continued. "Solomon would probably decide to split the blame down the middle."

Crowd Gathers Outside Davis Cafeteria on SE First Ave.

. . . gunman waited patiently for police to arrest him

Headwaiter Is Shot in Cafeteria

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 terror-stricken customers in Davis cafeteria at 103 SE First Ave. ducked under tables Thursday as a former waiter shot the man who had fired him.

As the gunman, 45-year-old Frank Carter, patiently waited for arrest, the cafeteria's management kept a long line of customers filing past the victim, headwaiter David Burney, who was lying on the floor.

A girl cashier, however, burst into uncontrollable sobs as she stood beside the bleeding man and had to be replaced by a male employe.

Matthew Snell, another waiter and a witness to the shooting, said Carter entered the kitchen from an alley and stepped into the main cafeteria area where he confronted Burney, saying:

"I'm going to kill you. You mistreated me."

Carter fired two shots into Burney's stomach and arm, and then stood over the fallen man pulling the trigger of his 32 caliber revolver.

The gun failed to fire, however, and Carter retreated to the kitchen where he told employes, "I'm not going to run. Get the police."

Customers finally regained their composure and when officers and newsmen arrived were finishing their meals. The cafeteria complained to officers that many customers left without paying when they saw there had been a shooting.

Burney, who lives at 901 NW Second Ave., was said to be in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Carter, of 220 NW Eighth St., was held pending charges to be filed today.

Injuries Fatal to Foisy

Suicide-Driving Attorney Is Dead

Miami Attorney Paul A. Foisy died Thursday afternoon in Dade County Hospital—never regaining sufficient consciousness to explain what police termed his suicide-crash.

His death marked the fourth traffic fatality recorded in Dade County in the first eight days of the new year.

The 33-year-old attorney, who lived with his mother at 2981 SW 12th St., gunned his car Tuesday into the path of another vehicle driven by Henry Newton Moore, 50, of 7401 NW Seventh Ave., Miami bridge tender. Moore was killed instantly.

Police found a suicide note in Foisy's pocket.

Echoes of Cuba

Hidden explosives, left behind when Miami-quartered Cuban rebels streaked for their Havana homes this week, are popping up everywhere, Miami police learned Thursday.

Lt. Charles Sapp of the Intelligence Unit said 12 cases of dynamite were found in a parked car at the rear of a service station at NW Seventh Ave. and 20th St.

Twelve cylinders of three-foot long high explosives were uncovered in the clothes closet of a home vacated Jan. 1 by Cubans living at 2290 NW Ninth St.

Two cases of dynamite, two cans of phosphorus, and a jar of potassium were picked up by police in bushes at NW 11th St. and 23rd Ave.

"We most likely will be coming across a whole lot more," Sapp said.

The child was being watched by her brother, Daniel Jr., 15. Police said the fire apparently was ignited by a discarded cigaret.

Collins Hopes

Florida is still optimistic about getting the national political party conventions in Miami Beach in 1960, Gov. LeRoy Collins said Thursday.

Collins, who traveled from New Orleans to Chicago to sell the Beach as a site for the conventions, said in Tallahassee he has received no information to make him less optimistic.

"It is impossible for me to evaluate how we stand at the present time," he said.

He said there is no reason to feel that the cause is lost, but if Miami Beach doesn't get the conventions it will not be because of lack of facilities or "because we didn't present our cause."

rutia passed through unguarded.

The triumphal procession of tired grimy Castro troopers who had crossed four-fifths of the island, from the jungles of Santiago to Havana was expected to last well into the morning hours.

Sharing the hero's welcome with Castro were his two chief lieutenants, Argentine-born Physician Ernesto (Che) Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, newly-appointed commander at Camp Columbia.

But behind the wild jubilation of the city were the grim realities of revolution's aftermath.

Urrutia's regime Thursday carried out plans for swift war crimes trials against followers of Batista, who has fled to exile in the Dominican Republic. He compared the promised trials to those at Nuremberg after World War II.

At least 20 police and military officers of the Batista regime already have been executed by the rebels following courts-martial.

With warm and cool air clashing, occasionally heavy rains developed over portions of northwestern Florida and along the Georgia, Alabama border. Over an inch of rain collected during the forenoon at Pensacola, Florida and a pattern of rains extended northward into Kentucky and Virginia.

The southern rain pattern will spread eastward ending along the coast from the Carolinas to Georgia during the day and continuing in central Florida with showers across the southern part of the state. Cold air crowding south and eastward will send freezing temperatures into the mid south Friday morning and give much colder weather in the Ohio Valley.

The cold air will continue snow shower activity through the Great Lakes to the northern Appalachians while maintaining fair weather through the northeastern states.

Fair weather from the western Great Lakes to the southern Rockies and West Texas will include 15 below readings in northern Wisconsin and warming during Friday afternoon in the western plains.

'Critical' Situation Predicted in 18 Months

Brevard Facing High School Crisis Next

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — Although Brevard County school officials hope to be over the hump next year on providing adequate classroom facilities for the mushrooming lower grade enrollment, they expect high school building accommodations to be at a premium when these same students advance to that level in their formal education.

Dr. B. Frank Brown, county director of education, sees the high school classroom pinch coming in the next 18 months to two years. He expects the situation to be "critical" by that time.

The educator also points out that "it's harder to keep up with high school enrollment than lower grade growth, because you have to spend a quarter of a million dollars on high school plants before you begin building classrooms."

High schools, Brown explained, need science labs, shops, band and music rooms, home economic rooms and other similar facilities — plus equipment. "That's why these schools are so expensive."

In citing the new school crisis that this booming missile base county will face next, Brown produced figures concerning South Brevard's school enrollment, which he said was a typical example of the entire county picture.

Starting with sixth grade classes at Eau Gallie, Melbourne, Indialantic, Sea Park and Patrick Air Force Base elementary schools, there will be 697 students advancing to the junior high level in September.

South Brevard junior high classrooms currently house 1,692 students. Brown said 475 of these are in the ninth grade, and will leave this fall for high school. This leaves a junior high enrollment of 1,914 pupils.

But when a 20 per cent normal growth in new students is added, the junior high school population here will be about 2,300.

In September, South Brevard's two junior highs — one at Eau Gallie and a new one in Melbourne — will have a for 2,400 students, or about 100 seats above enrollment. "That is running pretty close," Brown commented.

At Melbourne High School serving the entire South Brevard area, there now are 1,005 students. In the spring some 224 will be graduated to cut the enrollment down to 781.

However, the ninth grades will dump 475 — better than double the graduating class — into the high school plant and boost its enrollment to a record 1,256 students.

And when a 10 per cent normal growth in students is added, the local high school should have a population of around 1,381 when it opens its doors for the 1959-60 term in September.

"The summer increase for high schools," Brown explained, "usually runs about 10 per cent, compared to 20 per cent for the lower grades. But both are conservative percentages — they could be slightly higher, depending on local conditions."

Brown said Melbourne High School has accommodations now for 1,200 pupils, but a new wing will be completed this year that will add 12 rooms and expand the library.

And next year, the school board plans to add a two-story wing to the high school building.

Brown feels these new classrooms will keep students from overflowing into the school yard during the next 18 months — "But the situation will be a nip and tuck one, and the real squeeze should start to be felt six months later."

After the high school's enrollment hits 1,600 there can be no more of the low-cost additions made to the present building and a new plant will have to be constructed.

Meanwhile, school officials are still struggling to keep up with student growth in the lower grades.

Brown said South and Central Brevard should get about 100 new classrooms each this year. In North Brevard there will be around 26 new classrooms built.

A 4.5 million dollar bond monies are providing about 11 million dollars for an already started three-year elementary school construction program.

That program is expected to permit the schools to keep up with elementary growth.

However, there are no estimates now on how large the high school construction program will have to be when these elementary students reach that level, authorities report.

County Opens Up Brevard Airport For Development

TITUSVILLE—Brevard County commissioners Thursday cleared the way for a commercial development of the county's central Brevard airport on Merritt Island which was built for mosquito control planes.

They voted to modify an airport lease held by the Merritt Island Flying Service — a chartering and air taxi service—so the firm can build several hangars, a maintenance shed and a terminal building on the unused south side of the runway.

The firm will be allowed to use the field for 10 years in return for maintaining it and keeping its lights and airport beacons in order.

The move also cleared the way for an expansion of the mosquito fighting facilities at the airport.

Both the mosquito control and the Merritt Island Flying Service are now crowded together on the north side of the grass runway.

Young men between 21 and 35 are eligible, and local residents are asked to send in nominations.

Rapid Growth

SATELLITE BEACH — This southern neighbor to Patrick Air Force Base had an impressive growth record during its first year, and 1959 is seen as being even better.

The beach town hit a total of $954,700 in new construction during its first year of incorporation, and during the first week of 1959, building permits came to $40,000 for residential dwellings.

Last year's figure was reached when residents spent $824,700 for new homes, repairs and additions, and business people invested $130,000 in commercial projects.

Foot Mangled

FORT PIERCE—A 27-year-old man identified as Harold Thomas Crawford of Bridgewater, Va., had his foot mangled in the FEC railway yard Wednesday night.

The police received a call from the railway yard asking them to get the man out of the area, for fear he would get hurt.

While officers were on their way, Crawford evidently crawled under a freight car.

The car move, running over one foot. Hospital officials said there was little hope that his foot could be saved.

TITUSVILLE — Funeral services will be held in Trenton for John Edgar Moomaw, 68, who died Monday.

Mr. Moomaw, a native of Trenton, had been a resident of Titusville for 10 years, but had been in business here as early as 1912.

He came here first to work for the Titusville fruit and land development Co., a firm which started construction of a canal connecting the Indian and St. Johns Rivers.

Part of the canal was built, but construction was abandoned when a heavy rock formation was encountered. Moomaw is survived by his wife, Gertrude, four daughters and a son.

Piper Expands Plant

2nd Building Set for Vero

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — The current expansion of Piper Aircraft's Vero Beach plant from development center into a production facility is a concrete expression of the company's satisfaction with this location, Howard Piper said Thursday.

Surveying began Thursday for a second building at the Piper plant at the air base.

It will contain 26,000 square feet of floor space, twice the size of the present building.

Housing a tooling and plastics department it will be the beginning of the production facility here.

Howard Piper, youngest of three sons of William T. Piper, president of the aircraft company, is vice president in charge of research and development.

His home and the home plant are at Lock Haven, Pa.

The company has found that the reasons it built its development center here in 1957 have been borne out with its experience so far.

"We like the size of the community; it's not difficult to get around. The location is convenient to the North. There appears to be ample labor and housing and it's a progressive community. The climate is important in aviation activities," Piper said.

The aircraft company will make certain about the climate inside its new building with air conditioning costing about $50,000.

That will be in addition to the $255,000 for the concrete-block building. William Hensick and Son of Vero Beach are contractors.

Commission, Board Set Meeting

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Maintenance of expensive municipal projects constructed by the Civic Improvement Board long has been a touchy subject between that organization and the City Commission, but there was new hope this week that the situation between the two parties finally would be straightened out.

A meeting between the pair has been scheduled for Tuesday at city hall, when the CIB and the commission will sit down and attempt to establish a policy on city acceptance of completed projects.

City hall sources explain that this subject has been kicked around ever since 1949, when the improvement board was first organized to spend money Melbourne received from a franchise with the Florida Power and Light Co.

It was also pointed out that neither board has ever sat down at a joint meeting to work out an acceptance and maintenance policy, but that the prevailing situation has often caused friction among members of the municipal family during the last 10 years.

The CIB has invested an estimated quarter-of-a-million dollars in numerous projects throughout the city.

3 Pilots Killed

PENSACOLA — (AP) — Three navy men were killed Thursday in the in-flight collision of two T28 training planes about 15 miles west of Pensacola.

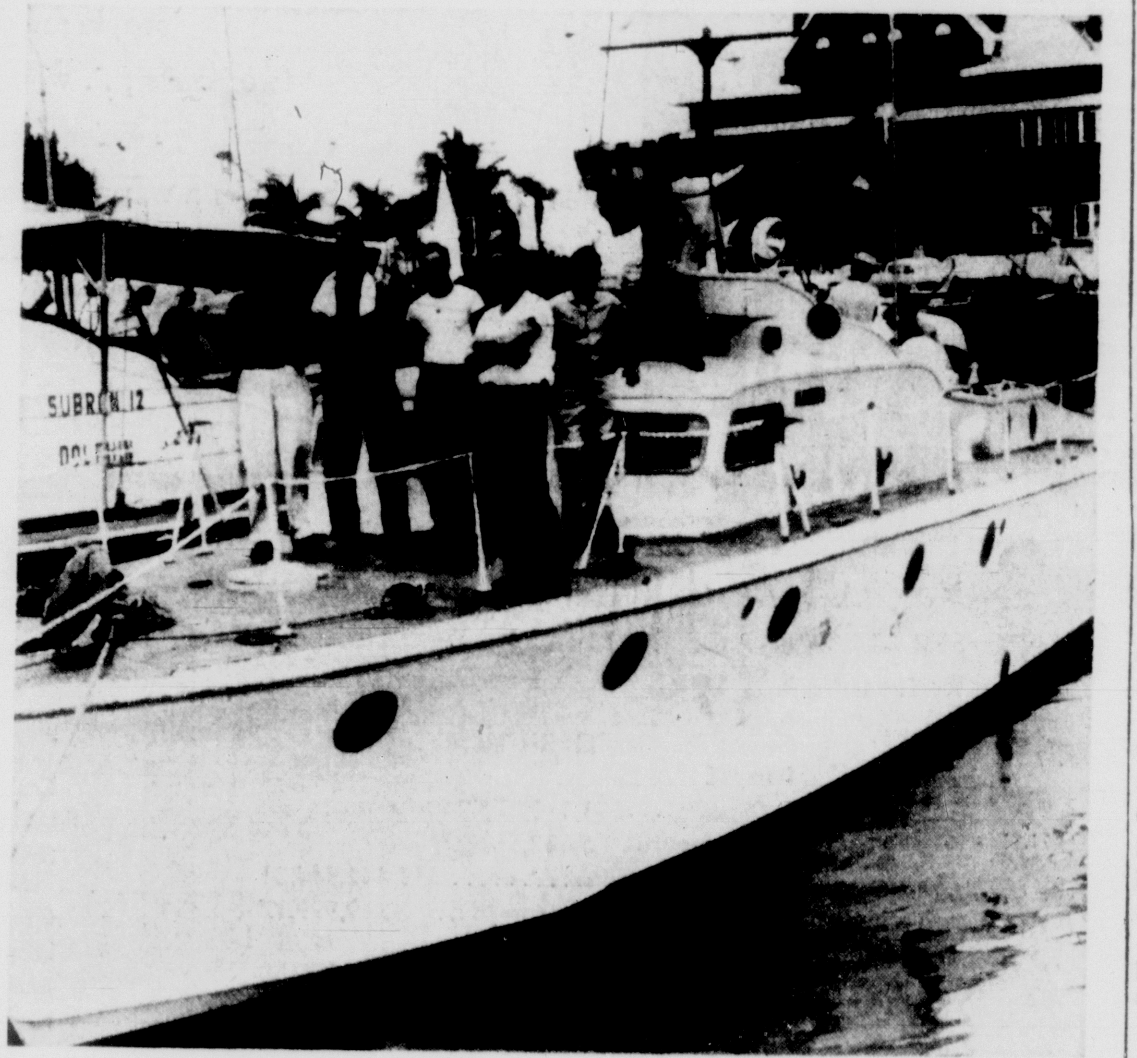
Foreign Bomber Slips Past Cape Undetected



The Long Wait

Twenty-six fugitives from the overthrow of Cuban President Fulgencia Batista are sweating-out their freedom aboard this converted PT-boat at Key West. The U.S. Navy has provided rations and other essentials to the crew, which includes Rolando Masferrer, a former senator accused of smuggling 17 million dollars out of Cuba.

Area Not 'Vital,' Air Force Says

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL—Air Force spokesmen Thursday admitted that enemy planes could approach this vital missile test base unchallenged.

But they said the Air Force isn't strict about approaching planes, for the test center "isn't a real super-duper target," like seaports and industrial centers. "Any pilot who passed up Jacksonville to hit the cape ought to be court-martialed," said a spokesman.

The comments came in the wake of reports a Cuban bomber flew by Cape Canaveral unchallenged on New Year's Day.

The bomber, a B-26 from the Air Force of ousted Cuban Dictator Fulgencio Batista, landed in Daytona Beach after an unrecorded flight from Havana.

Its Cuban pilots said they were unchallenged during the flight and that they made no contact with anyone until they radioed the tower at Daytona Beach from a position over Titusville.

The Air Force admitted the B26 landed without being detected by U.S. radar.

Earlier Thursday, Elbert H. Chambers, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency office at Daytona Beach, said the undetected plane could have turned east at Cocoa and bombed Cape Canaveral.

The plane apparently followed the intra-coastal waterway which is outside the Cape's restricted air space.

"Apparently," Chambers said, "the Air Force doesn't believe the enemy would bomb the Cape, and therefore hasn't put it inside an air defense identification zone."

At Dobbins AFB, Georgia, a spokesman for the 34th Air Division—which is charged with defending the southeastern U.S. — explained the Cuban plane was not detected because Cape Canaveral and most of Florida south of the Cape is not included in an Air Defense identification zone.

At Cape Canaveral, Major James Reid, a fighter pilot who is one of the test center information officers, explained Air Defense identification zones are set up to protect the "industrial heartland" of the U.S.

They are set up like fences around "vital target areas," he explained.

Although Cape Canaveral is America's most important missile test base, it has no industry and no combat forces and doesn't qualify as a vital target, the major indicated.

The southern boundary of the Air Defense zone nearest the Cape lies 80 miles north of Daytona Beach.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Pentagon announced Thursday the immediate expansion of the Atlantic Air Defense Identification Zone to include the entire coastline of Florida and adjacent areas of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Pentagon said extension of the defense zone was "in accordance with previous plans" and was possible because of increased air defense capability in the area.

Road Work Due Today In Brevard

Herald Bureau

TITUSVILLE — A contractor today will begin paving South Patrick, Drive, a road designed to help relieve Patrick Air Force Base traffic congestion, Brevard County commissioner Joe Wickham said Thursday.

The work will be completed in about three months, he said.

South Patrick Drive is to connect the base with the Eau Gallie Causeway. It will parallel State Rd. A1A, and is expected to relieve congestion on the two-lane state highway which now carries about 15,000 carloads of missile workers every day.

It will provide a direct link to Patrick for residents of several large subdivisions and the 999-home Air Force Capehart housing project which have grown up there within the last year.

At a Dec. 29 conference county commissioners and Brevard commissioners agreed construction of the road would be equivalent to four-laning A1A between the base and the Eau Gallie Causeway.

Vero Lists '59 Projects

Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — Projects for this year in Vero Beach municipal government were outlined Wednesday by Mayor Harry C. Offutt Jr.

Among them are the adoption of new techniques and acquisition of new equipment to improve efficiency of day-to-day operations; adoption of municipal subdivision regulations; completion of a police station incorporating a civil-defense control center; a pension plan for city employees.

Also, completion of fire station improvements; recodification of municipal ordinances; putting the airbase development plan into effect; and better street lighting.

A ten-year capital budget for community and city needs will be considered, the mayor said.

Eau Gallie Sets Expansion Goals

By BILL BUNGE
Herald Bureau

EAU GALLIE — Eau Gallie's goal this year will be to expand municipal facilities to insure continuation of the same rapid growth it experienced during 1958, city officials reported.

Pegged by officials as having the potential to become Brevard County's biggest city from a population standpoint, Eau Gallie racked up nearly nine million dollars worth of new construction last year — representing the largest dollar total in the county.

The city currently intends to spend at least 1.2 million dollars in 1959 to maintain this growth rate, which involved construction of new homes for missile base workers in the rapidly developing western section of Eau Gallie. Building Inspector J. J. Markart expects 4,000 homes to be built there before the boom ends.

City Manager Clark Maxwell said Eau Gallie will push a three-point program this year — streets, sewers and water.

Construction machinery has helped break down already tired streets, especially in the sprawling Loveridge Heights area. Within the next five months, Maxwell said, this populous southeast section will have sewer lines in, new streets an good drainage.

Murdock Construction Co. of Orlando will complete a $700,000 sewer project, and J. D. Manley Construction Co. of Leesburg will finish a $252,000 street repaving and drainage program.

With completion of sewer line construction there, Maxwell said "this will take care of everything south of Fifth Street, except Annie Laurie Gardens."

Next, Maxwell predicts another $250,000 street program, covering all streets throughout the city. This would include many dirt streets, he said.

Meanwhile, Eau Gallie will boost its rapidly diminishing water supply by either purchasing water in bulk amounts from nearby Melbourne or from a private well driller, who would erect a new treatment plant and drill a new well field.

"And then you can look forward to continued rapid building in Eau Gallie, probably equal to last year's almost nine million dollar high," declared Maxwell.

Flower Show Is Scheduled

FORT PIERCE — The St. Lucie County Federation of Garden Clubs has set the date for their annual flower show for March 4, the week of the Sandy Shoes Festival here.

Mrs. D. C. Huskey is general chairman and Mrs. R. D. Rooks, is co-chairman.

This year the flower show will be held in five homes instead of in an auditorium.

Max Rodes Re-Elected Chairman

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

TITUSVILLE—Brevard County commissioners Thursday reelected Max Rodes of Melbourne as commission chairman.

Also elected at the board's reorganization meeting was Joseph M. Wickham of Eau GALLIE, VICE CHAIRMAN.

Commissioners Lee Wenner of Sharpes and Fed Fisher of Merritt Island took their seats on the board for the first time.

Wenner replaces retiring commissioner Curt Barnes of Cocoa. Fisher replaces Dave Nisbet of Merritt Island whom he defeated in the November election.

In a related organization action, the board appointed Jack Salmela of Melbourne to the post of director of the Brevard County Mosquito control District.

Salmela, who had headed the South Brevard division of the Mosquito Control District for eight years, replaced Wenner who resigned last spring to run for his commission seat.

His Wife Totes Old Love Notes Around; So WHAT?

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flare-ups, but I don't thing we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

ANN

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a foot-locker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ash-trays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep your lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his seven-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof. I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes. Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude. — Mother of Three Fatherless Children

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deep-freeze. (What are your in-laws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted. He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again. He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you thing I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone?" And exactly what would you be showing them—that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

My Answer

Universe Is Evidence Of God

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: In my work I am daily thrown in contact with a man who is an athiest. He is so much better educated than I am and so much smarter that I cannot argue with him to do any good.

ANSWER: There are two arguments against which unbelievers cannot stand — a transformed life and the evidences of God in His creation. Some time ago an infidel was speaking in Hyde Park and he challenged his audience to give one argument for Christianity. A man arose and said, "Christ has made a new man out of me. Some of you here know how I was in the gutter from drink, how my life was impure and how every sentence I spoke was emphasized with an oath. My home was broken up, my business gone and I was a social outcast.

GRAHAM

"One night I accepted Jesus Christ as my Saviour and from that moment I have never had the desire to drink, nor do I take His name in vain. My family is reunited and I now have a good job. Christ did this for me."

The other evidence of God which all men can see is the universe and this world in which we live. These things did not just happen. They are not held together by the caprice of nature. The more we study nature the more we realize the infinite varieties and amazing laws which work in them. This is overwhelming evidence of an infinite wisdom and power behind them.

Let me suggest that you do not argue with this acquaintance but pray for him. Also ask God to give you the power to live before him in such a way that he must see Christ living in you. You may be used to lead him to God and His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. Remember you cannot drive him by human arguments, no matter how logical they may seem.

SEOUL, Korea — The rehabilitation phase of Korean recovery is over and with it the era of big U.S. spending.

BEECH

Both American and Korean officials agree on this point. Both hasten to add that many problems remain to be solved and that nobody knows when, if ever, Korea will be self-supporting.

Combined military and economic aid has been costing the U.S. about 750 million dollars a year, with the military getting the lion's share.

Economic aid, which reached a peak of 300 million dollars in 1957-58, will be down to 210 million in 1958-59. Main reason: Many basic, expensive reconstruction projects are completed or nearing completion.

Parallel efforts are being made to trim military aid by lopping about 90,000 men off the 650,000-man Republic of Korea army. The U.S. would make up the difference with increased firepower including atomic weapons already in Korea.

Naturally, the Koreans, who have been living off American aid since World War II, oppose cutting anything. However, critics of the Korean aid program who wanted to be shown something for their money would see plenty today.

Spanking new glass and cement plants, equipped with the best machinery that U.S. dollars can buy, are meeting Korea's needs.

Equally new and modern textile plants are producing more than enough for Korean requirements, leaving something to spare for export.

There is a new fish cannery, a new flour mill, a new paper mill, a new cattle ranch.

American GIs who fought over Korea's treeless hills would hardly recognize them in places. They're green with tens of tousands of seedlings.

What's more, it's a prison offense to cut down the trees. And the mass production of cheap coal briquets for cooking and heating has largely reduced the need for wood fuel.

Reforestation is a pet project of President Syngman Rhee, who on a visit to South Vietnam last year looked down on virgin forests and exclaimed:

"Just look at all those trees!"

Industrial production has risen 70 per cent since 1955. The power shortage, a tough nut to crack since most of South Korea's power sources lay in the Communist north, has been licked. Coal production has doubled.

Agricultural production is up 20 per cent, thanks to good weather, better distribution of fertilizer and better use of water resources.

Korean farmers have enjoyed two bumper rice crops in a row. Rice, which was once Korea's biggest earner of foreign exchange, could be again. But Korea hasn't exported any rice since 1950. It now has 200,000 tons for sale but no takers. Japan likes Korean rice but not Korean prices.

"We are ahead in all sectors except housing," says In Sang Song, 44, Korean Minister of reconstruction and perhaps the ablest man in the government.

As he sees it, now is the time for long-range planning, "to know our destination and how we are going to get there." The biggest bottleneck, according to Song, is the lack of a trained managerial class.

But that problem has at least been tackled. Today there are 2,300 Korean students in the U.S. at their own expense, another 400 at government expense. Forty are engaged in nuclear studies.

What is more encouraging is that there is a growing awareness among young Koreans that what their country needs most today is not men of letters or law, but men who can build and manage things.

Gov. Egan Has Surgery

JUNEAU, Alaska —(AP)— Gov. William A. Egan, who has spent most of his time as governor of this new state in the hospital, is resting comfortably after undergoing surgery.

Egan, 44, was inaugurated as the first governor of the new state of Alaska Saturday. After the ceremony he entered the hospital.

During a four-hour operation, surgeons removed his gall bladder and a gall stone.

Rebel Hoopers

TORONTO — (AP) — Fidel Castro's rebels control Cuba now but not long ago they were hula-hooping in the hills. Eric Durschmiet, a Canadian free-lance photographer who spent six weeks taking pictures of the rebels, said they captured a ship with a cargo of hula hoops and the fad spread like wildfire.

DISCOVERY!

Henry Clay about to be checkmated in old San Juan. Photograph by Tom Hollyman.

"I brought home a new chess defense from Puerto Rico—and good news about dry rum."

"It almost made up for the shellacking I had just taken when I was handed a daiquiri," reports Henry Clay of Shreveport, Louisiana. "And what a daiquiri.

"It was bright. Clear. Brilliant. And it had a dry quality that I will never forget.

"When I got home to Shreveport, I couldn't wait to tell my friends about Puerto Rican rum. We tried it in all sorts of different drinks.

"Rum Sours. Rum and tonic. Rum old fashioneds. Rum on the rocks. We even invented our own rum drinks. We've found you can't go wrong with the remarkable rums of Puerto Rico.

"And my chess defense has paid off, too."

Daiquiri Recipe: 1½ oz. white Puerto Rican rum—juice ½ lime or 1 lemon—¾ tsp. sugar. Shake well with ice and strain into cocktail glass or serve on the rocks. For free rum recipes, write: Rums of Puerto Rico, Dept. NM-13, 666 Fifth Ave., New York 19.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Players To Start New Drama Year With 'The Women'

By DORIS REYNOLDS
Herald Correspondent

NAPLES—Come next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Clare Booth Luce's "The Women" will be presented in Naples. The Naples Players, under the professional direction of Hugh Parker, will bring this comedy to the footlights after weeks of long, hard preparation. Special plaudits should go to Parker, who makes his home in Everglades. He'll have traveled well over 3,000 miles by the time the play is presented.

MRS. REYNOLDS

The plot of "The Women" is a familiar one; it was a Broadway hit and was made into a film. The characters are studies of women and each tends to exaggerate and point up certain female types. To me the character of "Mary" (portrayed by Patti Dozzi) is the epitome of the "wronged" woman.

But it all comes out in the wash when Mary tangles with the "other" woman (in this case "Crystal Allen," played by blonde Phyliss Jones). The ultimate results should be hilarious . . . and they are—as rehearsals indicate.

There are no men in the cast of "The Women" but they have an important part in the behind-the-scenes activity. George Lake is stage manager and Bob Frampton is assisting Parker in the director's post.

You'll see Lois Myers as the catty "Sylvia," who thinks she has her husband under control. Dede Frazier is perfect as the expectant mamma, who would just die before she'd tell Mary about her straying husband. Young Molly Reid, who spins a mean disc on WNOG in Naples, is doing a magnificent job as "Olga," the talkative manicurists, who tells all to everyone.

All in all, it's a merry tangle with each and every woman playing her role to the very hilt. Will Mary win Stephen back? Does Crystal get her just deserts? Can Miriam pull hair better than Sylvia? Will Mrs. Winston find out about Buck and Crystal? Will the Countess create a new motion picture star when she takes Buck to Hollywood? Well, all these questions and lots more about the weaker sex will be answered next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. at the high school auditorium. And, if you look real quick in scene 3 of act I, you'll catch a glimpse of D.R. portraying that heart rending character of "Ingird," the fat cook (she's been done wrong, too.)

Naples Visitors in Lively Arts

THEODORE ('THEO') GANIN, formerly the manager of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, and more recently president of Community Concerts at Miami Beach, is in Naples, doing some work for Caribbean Gardens. Ganin will be spending his time in both Miami and Naples temporarily.

His background in the musical world is fascinating, and he was closely associated with such stars as Lawrence Tibbett in the concert field, opera and ballet, later he went on to radio and television.

Ganin considers Renata Tibaldi the world's greatest singer, and is definitely not in the Callas camp at this point. At one point of his career he was a music critic in Washington, and is considered one of the more astute concert managers.

Also visiting in Naples this week was Mrs. Florence zer of New York City. Miss Manzer is a noted color photographer, and has one of the most unusual schools in the country. Combining a summer vacation in the New England mountans, photographers come to Miss Manzer's resort for instruction and criticism of their color work.

During the winter months she travels in warmer climes, taking pictures for use in her lectures. While in Naples she presented Joel Kuperberg, manager at Caribbean Gardens, an exquisite color closeup of one of the Gaden's orchids.

Also visiting in Naple this week was Mrs. Florence Seymour of Jacksonville. Mrs. Seymour is the new president of the Florida Federation of Art, and is making a trip throughout the state to visit the chapters of the federation.

The story hour will be held fom 10 a.m. to noon and is open to all children.

Tampa Play Off 75 Per Cent

Bolita Operations Dealt Heavy Blow

TAMPA, Fla. —(UPI)— The overthrow of the Batista regime in Cuba has dealt a blow to Hillsborough County bolita operations, officers said Thursday.

Sheriff Ed Blackburn and the chief of his vice squad, Deputy Ellis Clifton, estimated that bolita play has fallen off from 65 to 75 per cent since the revolutionary forces of Fidel Castro took over the government from President Fulgencio Batista.

Because of its cigar industry, Tampa has a large Latin population and Bolita, a Cuban numbers game, has been a major law enforcement problem for years.

Clifton pointed out that the local racket is based on the Cuban lottery and that players here are "leery of making purchases with Cuba's gambling situation uncertain."

While Batista supported the big gambling houses in Havana, the new government has expressed opposition to them.

But it is unknown what attitude it will take on the Cuban lottery, the heart of local bolita.

"With this uncertainty of whether the lottery will continue to be thrown every Saturday the numbers business here has naturally dropped off," Clifton said.

He added, however, if the lottery number is not drawn Saturday in Cuba, local operators could go elsewhere for a winning number. But he said "bolita is legal in Cuba and most people feel it cannot be fixed. Lottery ticket buyers would be leery of any other form."

She Wants to Marry a Cleric

Your Riches Don't Count, But Good You Did Does

Doris is being tortured at home and her parents should know better. As long as you earn an average American salary, you can enjoy the luxuries of kings in other lands. Test your job by seeing if it permits you to plant roses where thistles grew before. That's more important than the size of your income tax.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

DORIS F., 21, is the only child of wealthy parents.

"Dr. Crane, I am engaged to a theological student," she began with a happy smile.

"We love each other and plan to be married next month, for he will finish seminary then and be assigned a church.

"But my parents are very much opposed to my marriage. They say there is no financial future for a clergyman and we'll be poor all of our lives.

"Daddy has grown so bitter about it that he has even threatened to disown me. He has cut off my allowance and has even tried to get the police to keep my fiance away from our home.

"I am very upset about it all and I think my parents are very unfair. What should I do?"

★ ★ ★

A LOT of people who are loaded with cash must know they cannot carry it with them when they graduate from this earth.

"What you have, you leave here on earth at death," runs an ancient truism, "but what you give away, you carry with you."

So what we carry on to the next world will not be cash or mink coats or sports cars and luxurious homes, speed boats or stocks and bonds.

Life here on this planet is like a dance. We may pick a partner and stick together in marriage for 50 years while the music of the spheres is playing. But soon the dance is over.

A span of 50 more years seems long to a teen-ager. But in heaven, clocks may not measure time.

Thus, a young mother who dies in childbirth, may be greeted in the Beyond with the comment, "In a moment your husband and child will be here."

Meanwhile, her attention may be so preoccupied with the wonders of Heaven that it literally seems only a moment till her husband stands by her side. By our earthly clocks, it may have been 50 years before he arrived.

★ ★ ★

SO MEN like Doris' father should get a true perspective of this Cosmic School System in which Earth is but a single classroom.

"What shall it profit a man to gain the whole world," Christ warned, "and lose his own soul (or son and daughter)."

True, a clergyman may not average more than $5,000 a year in salary, plus parsonage rent and the wedding fees for his wife's "pin money."

But such a salary permits us Americans to surpass the luxurious living that kings enjoy abroad.

Millionaires and average Americans thus drink the same city water and pasteurized milk. We all eat the same bread and government-inspected meats.

We view the same movies and TV shows, for there is no special movie or TV channel alloted just for millionaires. We read the same newspapers.

Silvers' Spontaneity Puts Sgt. Bilko on a Treadmill

By JOHN CROSBY

CROSBY

I HAD A TALK with Phil Silvers the other day on that troublesome problem — longevity in TV. Sergeant Bilko has just rounded out his fourth year on TV and, as far as I'm concerned, he's as funny as ever.

This is not unprecedented but it is unusual. Comedians wear out their welcome awfully fast on television.

Silvers, I discovered, is less optimistic about the show than the CBS brass. "I wanted to get out, you know," he said. "I'm not a career man in the Army. But they told me, Phil, you can't really judge it. We're about two years closer to it than the viewers are.

"Nobody sees all our shows — not even my closest friends. If you're a performer it gets awfully easy to assume that everyone is as familiar with your show as you are.

"You get to thinking you have to be completely new and different every week. And you don't.

★ ★ ★

"OF COURSE, one reason for the continued freshness of the show is that we change our camp locale. Eventually we'll go to Europe. The show begs for it. It's a natural.

"We once did send a man to Europe to take a few hundred still shots because we have a great three-dimensional gimmick which makes the scenery look live.

"This guy shot everything, the Louvre, homes, the British Museum. The pictures, I heard, were great. But I never saw them. He took a ship home called the Andrea Doria."

★ ★ ★

THE SILVERS SHOW has no set policy on guest stars and that, he pointed out, was a great relief. "We have guest stars from time to time — but're not tyrannized by them. We don't have to have them. Guests come on as themselves — and they have a ball on our show."

Silvers has complete sway over the show, but he seldom exercises it. "They can't hire a page boy without my okay but I can't do it that way. I can't edit films. I don't know anything about lighting — beyond saying: that light's too bright.

"I do stay on scripts though. Sometimes I don't see the scripts until the last minute but I still change them. I always respect the writers but you've got to know the medium.

All the shows can't be great when you're working week to week. But I can promise you that every show will have five minutes in it that are good."

★ ★ ★

MOST OF THEM, in my opinion, have more than that. The Silvers show, week in week out, hits an awfully high level of genuine, fast-paced original comedy.

It's one of the few things left on television that the eggheads still speak of with great respect and affection.

Much of this is due to Silvers' own great grounding in burlesque and vaudeville. He keeps the ball spinning in midair even when there isn't much of a ball to keep spinning.

"I don't really know anything much about the Army," he explains. "I was in the USO. I don't really know the proper commands or the protocol of the Army. But I'm an impatient comedian. I can't stand a void."

Persons and Programs

One of the new shows definitely set for CBS-TV next season is a 90-minute, once-a-month program called "Biography." The series will dramatize the lives of famous Americans and probably will start in October.

Roncom, Perry Como's firm, will turn out a 60-minute special for NBC-TV Feb. 28 that'll star Marge and Gower Champion, Ginger Rogers, Louis Jourdan and Elaine and Mike.

It's tentatively titled "A Look at the Lighter Side of Love."

Keenan Wynn has been added to the cast of the Feb. 5 NBC-TV special, Berkeley Square.

CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan flew to Cuba Tuesday to record an interview with Fidel Castro for his Jan. 11 show.

The test film for a new TV series, "The Secret Life of James Thurber," will be shot in Hollywood on Jan. 12 with Arthur O'Connell as star — an independent outfit, Screen Gems, is backing it.

Margaret Truman will guest on ABC-TV's Peter Lind Hayes Show the week of Jan. 12 to 16.

Her father, Harry Truman, is ticketed in for a Jan. 14 appearance on NBC-TV's Today when that show marks its seventh birthday.

The Mariners, a quartet once given the heave-ho by Arthur Godfrey, have been quietly sneaked back on to Godfrey's morning CBS-TV show where they've been performing the past couple of weeks. Two of the original members, however, are no longer with the quartet.

CBS Radio will present a special 55-minute study of prostitution, "The Business of Sex," on Jan. 19 with Ed Murrow as narrator.

Collins Hedges on 1961 Plans

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Thursday successfully parried newsmens' questions about his future political ambitions.

Collins did not say yes, no or maybe when asked if he plans to return to the role of private citizen when his term ends in January, 1961.

COLLINS

What he managed to convey was that he honestly does not know.

Asked if he will resume his private law practice here and bow out of politics for the first time in more than 25 years, except for a brief time in the Navy, Collins said:

"I would say now that that would be a better forecast than any other that anybody could make or that I could make."

At the same time, he added: "I don't close doors, I don't burn bridges, but I am just concentrating on this job I have to do now, and whatever the future will hold for me, I just don't know."

He said he plans ahead with respect to the discharge of official duties and opportunities, but not in respect to personal ambitions of a political character.

No More Bingo In St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — Police Thursday announced a crackdown on bingo, which has flourished in this resort city for years.

Police Chief E. Wilson Purdy, said he will ask all bingo operators to shut down immediately because they are violating the law. He added that he expected all of them to comply.

Bingo has long played a part in tourism in this city, and the games have been a special attraction for the many older citizens who gather here. They have been sponsored by fraternal organizations, churches and trailer courts. In most cases, funds have been used for charitable purposes.

It has been the custom for many elderly persons to make the rounds, visiting a different bingo location each of the six nights of the week they operate. No organized games have been played on Sunday.

Detective Capt. Earl Newberry said an article that appeared last month in the Tampa Tribune prompted the action. The article told of busloads of Tampa residents traveling to St. Petersburg nearly every day to play bingo. Tampa Mayor Nick Nuccio shut down bingo in his city a few months ago.

Chief Purdy suggested that organizations which use Bingo funds for charitable purposes ask the legislature for a law legalizing the game for this reason.

Where's Gettis Lee?

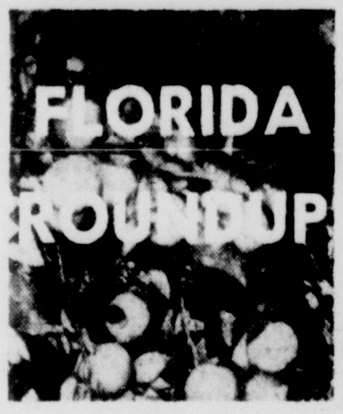
Missing Man Lead Is Worth $25,000

BRADENTON — (AP) — A $25,000 reward offer may spur the search for information about the disappearance of a Parrish man and the murder of his wife.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lee, mother of Gettis Lee—Parrish cattleman and merchant who vanished in 1957—Wednesday raised her personal reward offer from $6,000 to $10,000. Lee's estate increased its reward from $1,000 to $15,000.

Lee, then 63, and his 60-year-old wife disappeared March 7, 1957. The woman's body, with three bullets in it, was found two days later in a creek three miles west of Parrish.

Lee was never found. His auto was discovered outside a supermarket in Palmetto, 10 miles south of Parrish. A hat with a bullet hole was found in the back seat. No one was ever charged with Mrs. Lee's murder.



Airmen Dead

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. —(AP)— The search is over for two airmen from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., who took off in a light plane and headed into stormy weather.

Two Navajo Indians found the plane wreckage about 30 miles southeast of Gallup Wednesday and an Air Force flight surgeon identified the dead as the airmen missing since Dec. 29.

They were M. M. Warrick, the pilot, and Vincent Reese, his passenger.

Fights for Policies

It's a 'State Of the Planet' Talk for Ike

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today actually will be a state-of-the-world analysis keyed to the struggle against communism.

Much of the emphasis, the White House indicated Thursday, will be on the President's previously stated determination to maintain financial integrity at home while carrying on the battle for enduring global peace.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that Eisenhower also is determined to carry a fight for his legislative program and foreign policy proposals directly to the people — if the heavily Democratic new Congress balks at going along with administration plans.

The President will deliver his State of the Union message personally at a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m.

(The 40-minute report will be telecast at 12:30 today by WTVJ (Ch. 4), WCKT (Ch. 7) and WPST-TV (Ch. 10). It will be broadcast on radio by WCKR, WGBS and WKAT.)

Eisenhower canceled a National Security Council meeting which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, kept his other engagements to a minimum, and devoted much of the day to final work on the message.

"It will be not only a State of the Union message but a state of the world message," Hagerty said.

He added that Eisenhower will deal in broad terms with world and domestic problems, leaving most specific legislative recommendations for outline later in a series of special messages.

For example, his budget proposals will be put before the lawmakers Jan. 19. The White House already has announced the budget to be submitted for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and will call for spending about 77 billion dollars.

That is less by about two billion dollars than estimated spending this year. Some Democrats already have criticized the new lower figure as unrealistic and too little for adequate national defense.

The last of the President's three major messages, the economic report, will go to Congress the day after the budget, Jan. 20.

There will be messages later on specific subjects — quite likely one dealing with civil rights. Indications are the administration is preparing legislation bearing on school integration and related problems.

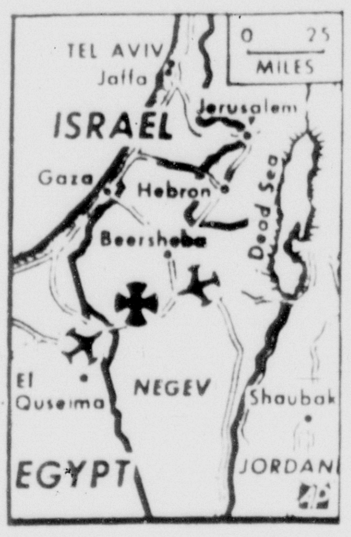
There probably will be another special message on the problem of ousting racketeers from the labor-management fields.

As to Eisenhower's plans to carry the fight for his program to the people if necessary, Hagerty said the President is ready to set forth his views through all media — newspapers, radio and television, magazines, theater newsreels and at news conferences.

"I would think that he would take occasion, every time he can, to discuss, to elaborate on these programs that he will be presenting, starting Friday," Hagerty said.

Asked about specific plans, Hagerty said those would be ready for announcement soon.

Some indication of the reception among Democrats came in a start-of-the-session speech by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader. Johnson said the Eisenhower administration lacks boldness and freshness.



Where Jets Clashed

Israeli, UAR Jets Slug Again

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Israeli and United Arab Republic jet fighters clashed Thursday for the second time within three weeks.

The U.A.R. claimed one Israeli plane was shot down and another damaged. Israel said all its planes returned safely.

An Isaeli army spokesman announced in Tel Aviv that Israeli pilots, flying French-built Mystere fighters, intercepted four Egyptian MIG17s 20 miles from Beersheba, in the Negev desert, and drove them off after a brief battle.

U.A.R. army headquarters in Cairo declared the fight took place over the Egyptian Sinai desert after six Israeli planes violated U.A.R. air space.

It was the second air clash between planes of Israel and the United Arab Republic in little more than three weeks.

Four Israeli fighters clashed with eight U.A.R. MIGs Dec. 20 and claimed they shot down one. Israel said the planes flew over the Negev desert. Cairo on the other hand, said the four Israeli jets had flown over the Sinai desert, were intercepted and forced to flee.

Star's Estate Disputed

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Tyrone Power's widow estimates his estate at $500,000, instead of the five million figured by ex-wife Linda Christian.

The $500,000 reckoning is in a petition by Power's widow, Debbie, for a family allowance for herself and her unborn child.

Miss Christian made the five million estimate in a petition last month for $650 a month support for her two daughters by Power.

"Believe me," said a representative of Power's estate, "the sum will be much closer to $500,000 than the larger estimate."

To Curb Racists

7 'Hate Bomb' Bills Readied for Senate

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Legislation to unleash the forces of the FBI against "hate bombers" of churches and integrated schools will be introduced in the Senate today.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republicans, said they would submit seven bills designed to curb "the activities of fanatics and racists trying to establish a reign of terror" against churches and integrated schools.

The legislation also would ban "hate mail" which promotes violence.

Keating and Javits said the legislation was the result of a series of conferences they held with community leaders and officials of three Southern cities where bombings occurred last year. The cities were Jacksonville, Birmingham, and Atlanta.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the average citizen in the South is as deeply shocked and outraged by the nearly 70 bombings and attempted bombings report since 1954 as is the nation as a whole," Javits and Keating said.

"We found considerable support among Southern officials for a law such as we now propose."

Charles de Gaulle
... new president

Michel Debre
... the new premier

Stern Path Pledged by De Gaulle

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle became president of France Thursday and pledged to use his strong executive powers to keep the new Fifth Republic on the stern path he outlined as premier. He declared he will do what has to be done for the nation's good.

Immediately after historic inauguration ceremonies, De Gaulle set the new republic in motion. He named as premier Michel Debre, longtime Gaullist lawyer and an unbending nationalist.

There followed an unmistakable sign that De Gaulle intends to continue his strict control over French affairs. Debre said cabinet consultations would take place in De Gaulle's presidential palace, and the list of members should be ready today.

De Gaulle took office in the residential palace, then drove to the majestic Arch of Triumph.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the upper mile of the broad Champs Elysees to cheer him. Standing in an open car with outgoing President Rene Coty at his side, De Gaulle retraced the triumphal path he followed as leader of the Free French when Paris was liberated in World War II.

Along with shouts of "Vive De Gaulle" were warm cheers for Coty, who drove off to semi-retirement in Le Havre. Crowds broke through police lines to surround the 76-year-old lawyer who played a major role in De Gaulle's return to political power.

But this was De Gaulle's day, as the 68-year-old soldier-politician became France's most powerful chief of state since Emperor Napoleon III was deposed in 1870.

About 200 of France's top figures ringed the gilded Salon des Fetes in the presidential palace, where Coty proclaimed that "the first among Frenchmen is henceforth the first ranking man in France."

De Gaulle bowed his head to receive the gold-medaled neck chain of French presidents. Then, choking back his emotion and quieting his nervous gestures, he told the select inaugural gathering:

"I have the honor to give France, to impose if need be, what the public good demands. I bear witness that I won't fail."

Among the 200 were chiefs of governments of the 17 autonomous republics of which De Gaulle is also president.

Guns Salute and Bells Ring Out

Havana Takes Day Off As Castro Marches In

He Walks Unguarded In Throng

Foes Are Facing Swift War Trials

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — Fidel Castro, 32-year-old rebel leader who ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista in a grueling two-year revolt, entered Havana in triumph Thursday to the salute of booming guns, pealing church bells and the cheers of hundreds of thousands.

Business, commercial and industrial establishments shut down throughout the city at 11 a.m. to enable their staffs to take part in the hero's welcome to Castro.

Guns at La Cabana fortress which dominates the entrance to Havana harbor boomed out a 21-gun salute and church bells throughout the city pealed out a hymn of triumph.

Castro marched into the city limits to the screams of the populace two hours later, as automobiles wheeled through the streets draped with Cuban flags and Castro's rebel red and black standard.

The bearded, long-haired rebel leader, who landed from Mexico in a small yacht Dec. 6, 1956, at the head of 82 men, 70 of whom were killed in the first encounter with Batista's troops, entered the city at the head of a two-mile long column of armored vehicles and troops.

Castro stood in an open jeep, four guards flanking him. Eight tanks and armored cars preceded the jeep. Warplances flew overhead.

As the triumphal march reached Havana's famous waterfront promenade, the Malecon, Castro got off the jeep and walked three blocks to the Presidential Palace, where he was greeted emotionally by Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

As he spoke to Urrutia at the palace, Castro held a tommygun in one hand and drank three bottles of soda pop with the other. The provisional president broke into a wide smile at Castro's evident thirst.

The rebel hero then stood combing out his wind-tossed beard in the palace's Hall of Mirrors where foreign diplomats traditionally present their credentials to the head of the Cuban state.

Later Castro and Urrutia delivered brief addresses from the balcony, to the roaring thousands massed in front of the palace.

Urrutia spoke first. He eulogized Castro as being "without dispute the most modest leader and combatant in history; After defeating the tyranny with an admirable effort, he has not taken power in his hands but instead put it into the hands of a man in whom he has faith."

"We vow to make ourselves worth of this gesture of this great leader," the president said.

In his reply, Castro said he had come to the palace—"a building which I have never liked—because I wanted to salute our president, offer him our respects and reiterate once more that he can count unconditionally on our support."

Castro then announced he intended to walk alone to Camp Columbia, for years the headquarters of Batista's unchallenged power.

"I want to ask the people of Havana to do something for me . . . Without a single soldier ahead of me, I am going to ask the people to open the way as I am going to demonstrate. I am going to walk alone, we are going to show the world . . . the disipline and civic spirit of the Cuban people. I am going to pass through you to demonstrate that not a single soldier is is needed to keep me from the public."

The massed throng opened a path, singing Cuba's national anthem, while Castro and Ur-

Swarming Habaneros Roar Out Welcome for Conquering Fidel Castro
... revolutionary leader (arrow) parades through Cuban capital

No One Was Left To Mind the Store

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — All the home folks except a few left-over Batista boys and their guards went to the wildest street party in Cuba's history Thursday.

Nobody was left to mind the stores — they were all closed.

And everybody tried to outdo everybody else in hailing their hero. If anyone wasn't sold on Fidel Castro, he did a good job of hiding it.

When the guest of honor—ruggedly handsome Castro—rode into view, the roar was like the take-off of flight screaming jets.

Black-eyed girls, wearing scarlet blouses and full skirts, surged around the ragged, bearded rebels, kissing their hands and feet and snatching at their patchwork uniforms.

A dozen tanks — prizes from Batista's army — crawled at the front of the parade, scattering hysterical Cubans.

Planes whipped through the skies and a maddening din of whistles from trains, boats and factories lent a shrill magnificence to the scene.

Daredevil rebel drivers with shrieking sirens darted in and out of the throng, occasionally knocking down a spectator.

The weary soldiers held their guns high and fired them with the abandon of children armed with cap pistols.

A dark-haired two-year-old ran with a flag, shouting his favorite word in a singsong rhythm: "Castro, Castro, Castro."

And everywhere in the city excited people laughed and sang and praised their hero.

Castro had come home from the hills.

Filibuster Test Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate, after a day of bickering, Thursday unanimously put off until today a showdown vote on efforts to change its rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

It acted at the request of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas after it became apparent that debate on the bitterly-fought issue would last too long to permit a test vote before adjournment.

Johnson said he planned to offer a motion today to kill a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.) which would open all Senate rules for changes.

The vote will be the first key test in the drive by Senate liberals to change the rules to permit a majority of all senators to impose a limit on Senate debate and end talkathons.

100,000 Flee Java Floods

JAKARTA — (AP) — Floods over vast areas of central Java have driven more than 100,000 persons from their homes in the last 10 days.

No casulaties have been reported but preliminary estimates put the damage at nearly $200,000.

The Surakarta area, 300 miles southeast of Jakarta, was the hardest hit.

Storms Tie Up Traffic in Italy

ROME — (AP) — Snow, hail and high winds Thursday disrupted air, sea and land transport in Italy and Sicily.

Alitalia, the national airline, canceled several flights. Shipping operations were halted at Leghorn, Trieste and other ports.

Hail and snow in the central Italian Appennines between Florence and Rome knocked out rail and road traffic.

Keys Tax Assessing Probe Is Requested

More State News, 1B, 4B, 5B, 7B

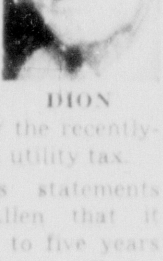
By HENRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST—Fred J. Dion, retired local businessman and former city assessor, has asked Gov. LeRoy Collins to look into tax assessing practices in this island-city.

Dion charges in a letter to the governor that local average assessments in many cases "are 50 per cent or less of fair values."

He charges County Tax Assessor Joe Allen with certifying two tax rolls "knowing the rolls were deficient with respect to commercial and pleasure boats."

"In most cases," Dion adds, "personal property in the expensive homes is not assessed at all."



DION

Dion, a former city official and owner of considerable land here, claims that a property tax roll would solve the city's financial problems and make unnecessary the recently-passed 10 per cent utility tax.

Dion discounts statements attributed to Allen that it would take three to five years to make a uniform roll for the city and county.

"This I know to be untrue because I, as city assessor in 1946 in cooperation with the county assessor, completed a new field assessment in seven months," Eion says.

As a result of this action, Dion says, the city's assessments were doubled and the millage rate reduced from 38 to 20 mills plus the bonded debt.

Dion tells Collins it is "distasteful" to have to call on him, but adds that "It is difficult to secure legal help to process the matter through the circuit court."

Mikoyan Visits Detroit, Outflanks 50 Picketers

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SCIENTISTS tried to surmise that the earth-shaking crash last week was caused by two jet planes breaking the sound barriers.

BELL

Nuts! The earth tremors were caused by the Three Greeks (Paul Besalernos, Dennis Maginas and Jerry Anninos) selling Biscayne Bar & Restaurant to the Three Jews (Ben Rubin, Saul Ettinger and Henry Hersh).

For 14 long years those Greeks have been running that restaurant. They had small tables 'n' chairs, small aisles, plenty of noise and four scurrying waiters: George, Chico, Al and Clyde, with Busboy Ralph filling in. 'Twas the only restaurant I know wherein the waiters pushed the bosses around. I sort of suspect the bosses got tired of taking orders.

The new owners kept the waiters 'n' cooks. The menu's unchanged — yet. Rubin and Ettinger formerly owned Harry's Bar in New York. Hersh is from Pittsburgh. "If we can keep the customers — ???" sighs Rubin hopefully.

He has lost one already. Eduardo Hernandez, Cuban consul under Batista, has been absent since Castro started marching through Cuba.

Trapped in Bedroom With No Way Out

Woman, 15 Children Perish As Flames Devour Cottage

BOSWELL, Okla. — (UPI) — Flames devoured a four-room cottage here before dawn Thursday and a Negro mother, her 10 children and five nieces and nephews were burned to death as they huddled together in a bedroom without an outside door.

Bodies of the 15 youngsters were found piled atop one another near the body of the mother, indicating the children had rushed to her for protection. Her husband, Booker Gardner, 45-year-old farm laborer, was away on a coon-hunting jaunt.

Firemen blamed the tragedy on an ancient wood-burning heating stove, pending a check by state arson investigators. The fire had engulfed the house before neighbors discovered it, and the volunteer fire department of this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,000 population arrived too late to save the walls or roof.

Mrs. Aire Gardner, 40, had hugged new-born twins to her breast as she succumbed in the bedroom.

Funeral services for the mother and her children, the eldest a 15-year-old girl, were to be held at Oberlin, Okla., 13 miles south of Boswell near the Red River boundary with Texas.

In addition to Mrs. Gardner, dead were her children, Juanita, 15, Easter, 13, Isaac, 11, Louise, 9, Larry, 6, Joe 2, Omie, 3, Gwendolyn, 5, and six-month-old twins, Patricia Ann and Terresa Jan; three nieces, Bobbie Woolbright, 11, Peggy Sue Ward, 7, and Linda Ward, 4; and two nephews visiting from Oklahoma City, Freddie Webb, 13, and Herschel Frazier, 10.

Chester Stringer, arson division chief in the State Crime Bureau, Oklahoma City, sent two men to check the theory of Boswell City Marshal Stanley Shoemake, who blamed the fire on the stove.

Shoemake said Mrs. Gardner's body was found across the smoking remnants of a mattress, and it appeared at least 11 of the children had "piled on top of each other on the bed."

The Gardner house was three blocks past the town's last water main, and when the tank in the fire truck ran dry, the firemen had to drive back to town for a re-fill.

Gardner had planned to spend the night in the woods. He appeared at the home of Vernon Love, 12 miles south of Boswell, about 5 a.m. Two teenage hunting companions were with him.

Love said he drove Gardner back to Boswell by automobile. He said Gardner became suspicious as they neared Boswell, and Love broke down with the story.

He said Gardner shook him by the shoulders and started repeating, "It can't be so, it can't be so . . ."

Casino Boss Lansky Subpenaed by Senate

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Meyer Lansky, a deposed baron of gambling in Cuba and a former major figure in gambling in this country, has been subpenaed by the Senate Rackets Committee for questioning late this month.

LANSKY

Lansky fled from Cuba after the collapse of the Batista regime. On landing in Miami Wednesday, he said he was going to his home in Hollywood, Fla., and had returned to this country for medical attention.

The rackets committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.), disclosed that Lansky was served with a subpena last spring while he was visiting in New York City. It said he agreed at the time to testify any time the committee wanted him.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Lansky will be called as a witness in hearings the committee plans to start about Jan. 20 on alleged underworld influences in the juke box and vending machine industry.

Lansky reportedly has had extensive juke box operations around New York and Miami. He was one of those who came under investigation in the Senate Crime Committee hearings conducted by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) in 1950 and 1951. Lansky was described in them as a big-time gambler and an associate of New York and Brooklyn gangsters, including big shots in the old Murder Inc. mob.

Monitor to File Action To Have Hoffa Ousted

NEW YORK —(AP)— A petition aimed at ousting James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union will be submitted to Federal Court in Washington in about a month, Godfrey P. Schmidt, one of three court-appointed monitors for the union, said Thursday.

Schmidt disclosed plans for the move at a luncheon of the Young Republican Club.

He assailed the Teamsters Union as a "stern dictatorship." He deplored what he termed fear and lack of courage among most rank-and-file truckers, who, he said, were not protecting their rights.

"I am at present working on a petition which would oust Hoffa," Schmidt said.

He said that another aspect of the effort would be to "try to get a genuine receivership" to set up a fair election.

He told reporters that he would submit the petition to Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. Judge Letts has been sitting in the controversy between two factions of the union. The dispute led to the creating of the board of monitors.

He Parries Questions Cannily

DETROIT — (UPI) — Russia's versatile Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan ducked anti-Soviet demonstrators, engaged in repartee, and "rolled with the punch" on rough questions from businessmen in a whirlwind visit to Detroit Thursday.

He preached the peace theme hard, and blamed the U. S. for forcing continuance of the armaments race by ringing Russia with military bases.

A group of 50 anti-Soviet pickets, who gathered at Willow Run Airport to demonstrate against Mikoyan on his arrival, never got within shouting distance. The plane rolled up to a hangar, Mikoyan and his party went directly from the plane to the hangar, boarded automobiles inside, and then outflanked the pickets by more than 500 feet by swinging across the skirt of the airfield onto the expressway leading to Detroit.

The pickets did not even catch a glimpse of the man they had come to jeer.

In Washington, President Eisenhower, disturbed by hostile demonstrations against Mikoyan at Cleveland Wednesday, and fearing new ones in Detroit and other cities Mikoyan is scheduled to visit, issued a plea for Americans to show the Russian No. 2 man "traditional courtesy" wherever he goes.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, relaying Eisenhower's request, said "the President wants Mr. Mikoyan to see the real America so that when he returns home, he will be able to convey an accurate picture of our good manners, as well as our strength, our confidence and determination in the cause of freedom and peace."

After a quick trip to Dearborn, protected by police all the way, Mikoyan and his party toured the Ford assembly plant and its new 150-million-dollar engineering and research center before sitting down to a luncheon attended by leading Detroit industrialists and businessmen.

When introduced to General Motors President Frederic G. Donner, at a Ford luncheon, Mikoyan quipped, "I can see that you have 'coexistence' in America. Maybe that's because neither of you has an H-bomb."

In the question period that followed the luncheon, Mikoyan parried many "rough" questions from the businessmen.

He said Russia could not produce automobiles for all workers for a long, long time. But it would be speeded up if — as he put it — the U.S. would stop the armaments race.

Ford Board Chairman Ernest R. Breech asked why Russia thought the U.S. wanted to start war. Mikoyan replied — because the U.S. rings his country with military bases.

"You say we are wrong, we say you are wrong," he continued. "Solomon would probably decide to split the blame down the middle."

Crowd Gathers Outside Davis Cafeteria on SE First Ave.

. . . gunman waited patiently for police to arrest him

Headwaiter Is Shot in Cafeteria

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 terror-stricken customers in Davis cafeteria at 103 SE First Ave. ducked under tables Thursday as a former waiter shot the man who had fired him.

As the gunman, 45-year-old Frank Carter, patiently waited for arrest, the cafeteria's management kept a long line of customers filing past the victim, headwaiter David Burney, who was lying on the floor.

A girl cashier, however, burst into uncontrollable sobs as she stood beside the bleeding man and had to be replaced by a male employe.

Matthew Snell, another waiter and a witness to the shooting, said Carter entered the kitchen from an alley and stepped into the main cafeteria area where he confronted Burney, saying:

"I'm going to kill you. You mistreated me."

Carter fired two shots into Burney's stomach and arm, and then stood over the fallen man pulling the trigger of his 32 caliber revolver.

The gun failed to fire, however, and Carter retreated to the kitchen where he told employes, "I'm not going to run. Get the police."

Customers finally regained their composure and when officers and newsmen arrived were finishing their meals. The cafeteria complained to officers that many customers left without paying when they saw there had been a shooting.

Burney, who lives at 901 NW Second Ave., was said to be in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Carter, of 220 NW Eighth St., was held pending charges to be filed today.

Papers Reject Hearst's Bid

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Hearst Corp. announced Thursday that it had been unsuccessful in efforts to buy The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner and The Nashville Tennessean. The announcement said the offered price was more than 9½ million dollars.

The two newspapers are corporately and editorially separate, but operate otherwise under a joint agreement through a third corporation, of which James G. Stahlman is board chairman. He also is president and publisher of The Banner.

Injuries Fatal to Foisy

Suicide-Driving Attorney Is Dead

Miami Attorney Paul A. Foisy died Thursday afternoon in Dade County Hospital—never regaining sufficient consciousness to explain what police termed his suicide-crash.

His death marked the fourth traffic fatality recorded in Dade County in the first eight days of the new year.

The 33-year-old attorney, who lived with his mother at 2981 SW 12th St., gunned his car Tuesday into the path of another vehicle driven by Henry Newton Moore, 50, of 7401 NW Seventh Ave., Miami bridge tender. Moore was killed instantly.

Police found a suicide note in Foisy's pocket.

Echoes of Cuba

Hidden explosives, left behind when Miami-quartered Cuban rebels streaked for their Havana homes this week, are popping up everywhere, Miami police learned Thursday.

Lt. Charles Sapp of the Intelligence Unit said 12 cases of dynamite were found in a parked car at the rear of a service station at NW Seventh Ave. and 20th St.

Twelve cylinders of three-foot long high explosives were uncovered in the clothes closet of a home vacated Jan. 1 by Cubans living at 2290 NW Ninth St.

Two cases of dynamite, two cans of phosphorus, and a jar of potassium were picked up by police in bushes at NW 11th St. and 23rd Ave.

"We most likely will be coming across a whole lot more," Sapp said.

Baby Burned

A 17-month-old baby fell into a flaming can of paint preparation and burned both legs and her abdomen while toddling in her back yard Thursday afternoon.

Police said the condition of Linda McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLean, 1110 NW 141st St., is not serious at North Shore Hospital.

The child was being watched by her brother, Daniel Jr., 15. Police said the fire apparently was ignited by a discarded cigaret.

Collins Hopes

Florida is still optimistic about getting the national political party conventions in Miami Beach in 1960, Gov. LeRoy Collins said Thursday.

Collins, who traveled from New Orleans to Chicago to sell the Beach as a site for the conventions, said in Tallahassee he has received no information to make him less optimistic.

"It is impossible for me to evaluate how we stand at the present time," he said.

He said there is no reason to feel that the cause is lost, but if Miami Beach doesn't get the conventions it will not be because of lack of facilities or "because we didn't present our cause."

It's Cheers For Castro

rutia passed through unguarded.

The triumphal procession of tired grimy Castro troopers who had crossed four-fifths of the island, from the jungles of Santiago to Havana was expected to last well into the morning hours.

Sharing the hero's welcome with Castro were his two chief lieutenants, Argentine-born Physician Ernesto (Che) Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, newly-appointed commander at Camp Columbia.

But behind the wild jubilation of the city were the grim realities of revolution's aftermath.

Urrutia's regime Thursday carried out plans for swift war crimes trials against followers of Batista, who has fled to exile in the Dominican Republic. He compared the promised trials to those at Nuremberg after World War II.

At least 20 police and military officers of the Batista regime already have been executed by the rebels following courts-martial.

Temperatures in the 70s warmed southern Florida at mid day and 60s were scattered to the South Carolina coast and westward to New Orleans but cooler northwesterly winds have been following in the wake of a low pressure system over Alabama.

With warm and cool air clashing, occasionally heavy rains developed over portions of northwestern Florida and along the Georgia, Alabama border. Over an inch of rain collected during the forenoon at Pensacola, Florida and a pattern of rains extended northward into Kentucky and Virginia.

The southern rain pattern will spread eastward ending along the coast from the Carolinas to Georgia during the day and continuing in central Florida with showers across the southern part of the state. Cold air crowding south and eastward will send freezing temperatures into the mid south Friday morning and give much colder weather in the Ohio Valley.

The cold air will continue snow shower activity through the Great Lakes to the northern Appalachians while maintaining fair weather through the northeastern states.

Fair weather from the western Great Lakes to the southern Rockies and West Texas will include 15 below readings in northern Wisconsin and warming during Friday afternoon in the western plains.

WARMONGER: The man who fights the man who fights for peace.

To Move County Seat

Two Hurdles For Jaycees On Petition

Herald Bureau

NAPLES—Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are going ahead with efforts to obtain signatures on the petition calling for a vote on moving the county seat. Increased Jaycee activity will be in the face of two substantial discouragements.

The group has received legal advice it should obtain 3,000 signatures on the petitions, instead of the first estimated 1,500, so that legal requirements will be met even if many names are thrown out.

And the Collier County Citizens Research Inc., a taxpayers' group,, has announced opposition to the move following the statement of Mayor W. Roy Smith that insufficient thought has been given the project,

A committee has already been appointed by the Naples Civic Assn., parent of the CCCR, to find out costs of the movement. The committee is headed by Tom Truesdale.

Jaycees on Wednesday night heard a suggestion that aid in circulating the county seat petition be sought from the Naples merchants, realtors and lawyers.

Discussion of the project brought a suggestion also that increased costs of moving a courthouse and jail to Naples might be met in part by savings in material costs here and savings on piling required in the soft Everglades ground.

The CCCR took a large ad in the Collier County News deploring the possible shift of the county seat as "not beneficial to this fast growing city."

"It is just as certain," the ad said, "that the citizens of Naples are not anxious to have large groups of prisoners released in the city every Monday morning — which is the case at Everglades or any other county seat."

The ad estimated the moving cost at a minimum of 1.4 million dollars to be paid by taxpayers with the only result for Naples holding of court and jailing of prisoners here.

The CCCR urged voters not to sign the petition if opposed to the change and suggested they might have their names removed if they had already signed.

The County Board already is considering moving prisoners from the county seat, wherever it may be, to a county stockade where they would be better able to work on the roads.

The charge that prisoners are released "in large groups" has been repeatedly met by the Sheriff's Department with the word that such prisoners are always escorted to the city limits.

Naples Notes

Relocation Is Hottest Issue Now

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

LET'S NOT pussyfoot around on this one.

The proposal to move the county seat from Everglades to Naples will undoubtedly be the hottest county political item since the days of the Marco Island War" in 1925.

MORGAN

And it will be almost impossible to give a clear-cut answer on whether the proposal is good or bad.

Everglades has disadvantages. It is low — barely above high tide in spots — so that as the gag goes, "When the tide's in, the mullet eat the shrubbery around the Courthouse."

That means construction costs are pushed up by the need for shipping in material and then putting buildings on piling.

Everglades has one great advantage. It is a going county seat with a recently improved and expanded Courthouse that would have to be replaced elsewhere.

Some advocates of the move say the cost will be met by construction and maintenance savings at a site on firmer ground nearer to supplies. They claim, without talking to school authorities, that present county buildings can replace needed school construction at a further saving.

* * *

Still in Favor

OTHERS ADD, if the county seat moves then Everglades will die away so no more schools will be needed. Both sayings may be extreme.

The Civic Association committee to investigate costs may give the first facts on the question.

The discussion has had one unusual result already. It has lined up Mayor W. Roy Smith, the Collier County Citizens Research Inc. and the Collier County News on the same side of an issue.

* * *

JOHNNY SMITH, the mayor's son, has taken considerable exception to "derogatory remarks in The Herald" which he said implied he dropped out of the Jaycee Committee backing the petition because of pressure from his father.

"I was called to duty," said Johnny, a second lieutenant Army intelligence with seven years of service.

"I have to take a reserve training course in Fort Myers every Wednesday night and that interfered with my Jaycee attendance. I had no choice. I'm still in favor of the petition."

City Revises Billboard Restrictions

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — A new sign ordinance for study by the Zoning Board and council was submitted Thursday. It was prepared by Paul Pittman of the city building department in an effort to end some of the continuing fuss over signs which has plagued this city for many years.

Basically the same as the old ordinance, the new law would include a maximum limitation of two signs of each variety at any location which the old law never had.

Another addition to the size limitation above 60 square feet in commercial and industrial zones allows an extra square foot for every foot of building frontage over 60 feet. The maximum area would be 120 square feet.

Signs over 25 square feet would have plans signed by a registered architect or engineer and be erected by a licensed contractor or sign contractor.

$204,340 Found Aboard

7 Batista Officers Stay As Yacht Sails for Havana

It's A Long Wait Aboar Olo Kun II
. . . for 26 refugees "tied up" at Key West

Cubans Retained All Cash

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY and HARRY CAICEDO
Herald Staff Writer

Seven naval officers of the fallen Fulgencio Batista regime, off the dictator's plush yacht, Martha, III, at Key West were granted political asylum in the Miami area Thursday. Shortly afterward the Martha sailed from Key West with five Cubans aboard.

The immigration service reported about $204,340 was found on the Martha III and the Olo Kun II, two Cuban yachts which put in at Key West with dignitaries of the overthrown regime.

District Director Joseph Savoretti of the Immigration Service here said the seven from the Martha were provessed in the Miami area and granted parole.

The Martha was formerly used by the dictator as his personal yacht.

Still aboard the Martha were Captain Sancho Rodriguez and four crew members who decided not to seek refuge in the United States, immigration officials said. The five said they were going back to Cuba.

Among the seven admitted here under parole were a pair of admirals. Officials said an investigation is underway to determine their permanent status.

Immigration inspectors reported only an "insignificant sum" was found in possession of Rolando Masferrer, accused by the new Cuban government of fleeing with approximately $17 million aboard the Olo Kun II.

Masferrer, a Cuban senator and close friend of Batista, is owner of the newspaper El Tiempo. The new Cuban government — officially recognized Wednesday by the U. S. — proposes to demand his return to Cuba.

Immigration service spokesmen said $85,000 of the money found on the yachts was held by Rear Adm. Arturo Carbonell Fell, 42. He was one of the seven paroled here.

Thirty-eight men aboard the two yachts claimed all funds found by immigration officials when they checked reports large sums were aboard, were personal funds. They were permitted to keep the cash, officials said.

The service said Masferrer whose real name is Rolando Masferrer Rojas, was accompanied by two brothers, a cousin, his bodyguard, chauffer and five other personal servants.

Before Batista's yacht and its five passengers departed immigration service investigators searched it thoroughly, just as they had searched the Olo Kun, without finding a trace of sums the Cuban government suspected were aboard.

In addition to Admiral Sell, the second high ranking officer aboard the Martha was Rear Adm. Jose Rodriguez Hernandez, chief director of the Cuban Navy under Batista.

Earlier, the Immigration Service reported that 312 Cuban refugees have arrived in the United States since the Batista government fell. Officials said 229 have been granted admission as temporary visitors and 83 given parole pending further investigation.

The service said the 41-year-old Masferrer, whose full name is Rolando Masferrer Rojas, was accompanied by two brothers, a cousin, his bodyguard, chauffeur and five other personal servants.

The Masferrer party consists of Congressman Rudolfo Masferrer Rojas, 42 and Raimundo Masferrer Rojas, 38, listed as a railroad mechanic, both brothers of the senator; Antonio Leon Masferrer Rojas, a 44-year-old rancher cousin; Wilfredo Arias-Arias, 23, the bodyguard; Ramon Escobar Gorras, 21, the chauffeur; and these servants: Ramon Cobas Hecheyarria, 19; Rafael Aguila Esteinger, 28; Carlos Fonseca Corodill, 25; Alcides E. Perez Bouza, 33, and Rolando J. Rojas Quevado, 19.

Foreign Bomber Slips Past Cape

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL—Air Force spokesmen Thursday admitted that enemy planes could approach this vital missile test base unchallenged.

But they said the Air Force isn't strict about approaching planes, for the test center "isn't a real super-duper target," like seaports and industrial centers. "Any pilot who passed up Jacksonville to hit the cape ought to be court-martialed," said a spokesman.

The comments came in the wake of reports a Cuban bomber flew by Cape Canaveral unchallenged on New Year's Day.

The bomber, a B-26 from the Air Force of ousted Cuban Dictator Fulgencio Batista, landed in Daytona Beach after an unrecorded flight from Havana.

Its Cuban pilots said they were unchallenged during the flight and that they made no contact with anyone until they radioed the tower at Daytona Beach from a position over Titusville.

The Air Force admitted the B26 landed without being detected by U.S. radar.

Earlier Thursday, Elbert H. Chambers, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency office at Daytona Beach, said the undetected plane could have turned east at Cocoa and bombed Cape Canaveral.

The plane apparently followed the intra-coastal waterway which is outside the Cape's restricted air space.

"Apparently," Chambers said, "the Air Force doesn't believe the enemy would bomb the Cape, and therefore hasn't put it inside an air defense identification zone."

At Dobbins AFB, Georgia, a spokesman for the 34th Air Division—which is charged with defending the southeastern U.S. — explained the Cuban plane was not detected because Cape Canaveral and most of Florida south of the Cape is not included in an Air Defense identification zone.

At Cape Canaveral, Major James Reid, a fighter pilot who is one of the test center information officers, explained Air Defense identification zones are set up to protect the "industrial heartland" of the U.S.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Pentagon announced Thursday the immediate expansion of the Atlantic Air Defense Identification Zone to include the entire coastline of Florida and adjacent areas of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Pentagon said extension of the defense zone was "in accordance with previous plans" and was possible because of increased air defense capability in the area.

High Court Asked to Disbar 3

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Board of Governors of the Florida Bar recommended Thursday that the State Supreme Court disbar three attorneys and suspend a fourth for 30 days for alleged unprofessional practices.

Recommended for disbarments were Elmer O. Roberts of Fort Lauderdale, William B. Dawson III of Jacksonville and Clarence Brown of Miami.

The Board recommended a 30-day suspension for Sidney Poller of Miami Beach.

Roberts was charged with filing a divorce action for John F. Sachse and Anelise Rosemarie Armstrong under Florida's 90-day divorce law knowing at the time that they had not met residence requirements and inducing them to swear falsely that they had complied with residence requirements.

Dawson was charged with soliciting personal injury damage cases through a runner; with promising to bear expenses of litigation if the litigants lost their cases, and with intermingling clients' money with his own in a personal checking account.

Poller was charged with comingling trust funds of a client with his own funds and converting them to his personal use without consent of his client. The referee reported, however, that Poller eventually made full restitution of funds entrusted to him.

Developer Promises Drainage and Roads In Twin Lakes Area

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — A drainage solution for Twin Lakes residents and completion of roads in that subdivision after nearly two years of delay has been promised by developers.

HESS

The promise was made to County Engineer Harmon Turner on Wednesday by James M. Hess, president of the Neapolitan Land Co. of Miami.

The work would end a disastrous sanitary condition resulting from flooded yards and streets, pointed out in The Miami Herald several months ago. At that time over a foot of water was backed up over septic tanks which residents had opened to allow sewage to escape.

Turner met with the developers after the county had worked out drainage plans along the subdivision edge which would carry off excess rain in a railroad canal. The program was delayed, Turner told the County Baord, because it was impossible to locate those responsible for the developing corporation.

Twin Lakes residents had said months ago they had difficulty reaching Hess and finally his phone had been removed. The county located the land company stockholder with the aid of the Secretary of State of Florida. Hess was a candidate for city commissioner in Coral Gables two years ago and his real estate-insurance firm is located there.

Turner said as a result of the conference at the subdivision the developers agreed to resubmit a drainage plan offered 18 months ago and go ahead with the development, including building of roads and repair of damages.

During the recent dry period the subdivision has been free of water.

Four-Lane Trail Has New Delay

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — The Tamiami Trail four-laning project may not be completed before October despite unofficial estimates setting August for the completion of the highway thourgh the center of Naples.

Councilman Archie Turner said Thursday "The bridge contractor is having more difficulty than he anticipated; if he's out by October he'll be happy."

Two bridges are being built across Gordon River paralleling present spans. A pile driver has had to be floated in on a barge to handle the jobs and has apparently met rock problems on the river bottom.

Council approved installation by Florida Power and Light Co. of 39 lights of 20,000 lumen power along the new section of the Trail at a cost of $3,498. Present lights are 6,000 lumens.

The lights will be maintained by FP&L and will be mounted on steel poles at the sides of the road instead of in the central dividing strip as originally planned.

Manager Fred Lowdermilk said State Road Department officials had found central mounting resulted in frequent accidents.

Better Policing for Upper Keys

Substation Nearly Ready at Plantation

By CAROLYN V. COHEN
Herald Correspondent

UPPER KEYS — The new sheriffs sub-station on Plantation Key, now nearing completion, will be placed in operation as soon as installation of radio and other special equipment is completed.

The attractive green and white building with ample parking space was constructed by Miller and Rhodus and has state approved detention cells. It will be manned on a 24 hour basis.

Sheriff John Spottswood has always been sympathetic to this area's need for such a station which will improve efficiency of his department. The Upper Keys covers 60 miles of Overseas Highway plus countless side roads on eight keys. Secondary and private roads are increasing rapidly along with growth.

Law enforcement officers in this area will no longer have to travel hundreds of miles after making an arrest, when it is necessary to take a prisoner to jail. Key West is now the nearest point where a jail is maintained.

When the sub-station is put into service it will no longer be necessary for residents to call the Marathon Highway Patrol Station or Key West to secure assistance in emergencies.

Members of the volunteer fire departments in Tavernier, Islamorado and Key Largo and volunteer ambulance drivers have met and agreed on a central emergency telephone number to be located in the station. This will do away with several private and business numbers now in use.

This year the flower show will be held in five homes instead of in an auditorium.

DEAR ANN: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flare-ups, but I don't thing we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

ANN

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a footlocker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ashtrays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep your lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his seven-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof. I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes. Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude. — Mother of Three Fatherless Children

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deep-freeze. (What are your in-laws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted. He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again. He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you thing I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone?" And exactly what would you be showing them—that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

My Answer

Universe Is Evidence Of God

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: In my work I am daily thrown in contact with a man who is an athiest. He is so much better educated than I am and so much smarter that I cannot argue with him to do any good.

ANSWER: There are two arguments against which unbelievers cannot stand — a transformed life and the evidences of God in His creation. Some time ago an infidel was speaking in Hyde Park and he challenged his audience to give one argument for Christianity. A man arose and said, "Christ has made a new man out of me. Some of you here know how I was in the gutter from drink, how my life was impure and how every sentence I spoke was emphasized with an oath. My home was broken up, my business gone and I was a social outcast.

GRAHAM

"One night I accepted Jesus Christ as my Saviour and from that moment I have never had the desire to drink, nor do I take His name in vain. My family is reunited and I now have a good job. Christ did this for me."

The other evidence of God which all men can see is the universe and this world in which we live. These things did not just happen. They are not held together by the caprice of nature. The more we study nature the more we realize the infinite varieties and amazing laws which work in them. This is overwhelming evidence of an infinite wisdom and power behind them.

Let me suggest that you do not argue with this acquaintance but pray for him. Also ask God to give you the power to live before him in such a way that he must see Christ living in you. You may be used to lead him to God and His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. Remember you cannot drive him by human arguments, no matter how logical they may seem.

NAPLES —(AP)— Margarita Betteili, 27, sails this week for Venezuela to become a bride in a romance that began with a note in a bottle cap.

A year ago Margarita wrote the note, saying she would like to visit Venezuela. She put it in the bottle cap at the plant where she worked. Two months later she received a letter from Franco Mule, a tailor in Maraciabo. He had found her note. Correspondence and plans for the wedding followed.

LONDON —(AP)— Outer Mongolia's Montsame News Agency denied reports of armed uprisings in that Soviet puppet state.

The agency, quoted by Radio Moscow, called the reports "a crude invention from start to finish and a piece of foul slander against the Mongolian People's Republic."

The Chinese Nationalists on Taipei said last week a revolt that began in the highlands of Tibet has swept across northwest China to Outer Mongolia.

Fights for Policies

It's a 'State Of the Planet' Talk for Ike

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today actually will be a state-of-the-world analysis keyed to the struggle against communism.

Much of the emphasis, the White House indicated Thursday, will be on the President's previously stated determination to maintain financial integrity at home while carrying on the battle for enduring global peace.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that Eisenhower also is determined to carry a fight for his legislative program and foreign policy proposals directly to the people — if the heavily Democratic new Congress balks at going along with administration plans.

The President will deliver his State of the Union message personally at a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m.

(The 40-minute report will be telecast at 12:30 today by WTVJ (Ch. 4), WCKT (Ch. 7) and WPST-TV (Ch. 10). It will be broadcast on radio by WCKR, WGBS and WKAT.)

Eisenhower canceled a National Security Council meeting which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, kept his other engagements to a minimum, and devoted much of the day to final work on the message.

"It will be not only a State of the Union message but a state of the world message," Hagerty said.

He added that Eisenhower will deal in broad terms with world and domestic problems, leaving most specific legislative recommendations for outline later in a series of special messages.

For example, his budget proposals will be put before the lawmakers Jan. 19. The White House already has announced the budget to be submitted for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and will call for spending about 77 billion dollars.

That is less by about two billion dollars than estimated spending this year. Some Democrats already have criticized the new lower figure as unrealistic and too little for adequate national defense.

The last of the President's three major messages, the economic report, will go to Congress the day after the budget, Jan. 20.

There will be messages later on specific subjects — quite likely one dealing with civil rights. Indications are the administration is preparing legislation bearing on school integration and related problems.

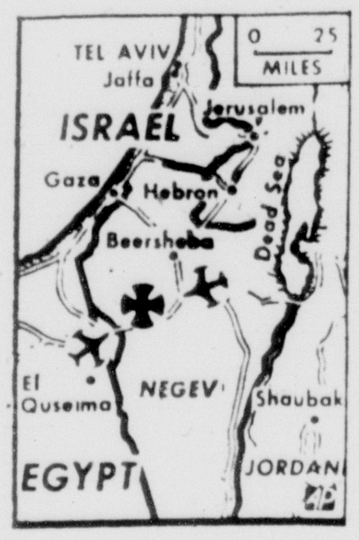
There probably will be another special message on the problem of ousting racketeers from the labor-management fields.

As to Eisenhower's plans to carry the fight for his program to the people if necessary, Hagerty said the President is ready to set forth his views through all media — newspapers, radio and television, magazines, theater newsreels and at news conferences.

"I would think that he would take occasion, every time he can, to discuss, to elaborate on these programs that he will be presenting, starting Friday," Hagerty said.

Asked about specific plans, Hagerty said those would be ready for announcement soon.

Some indication of the reception among Democrats came in a start-of-the-session speech by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader. Johnson said the Eisenhower administration lacks boldness and freshness.



Where Jets Clashed

Israeli, UAR Jets Slug Again

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Israeli and United Arab Republic jet fighters clashed Thursday for the second time within three weeks.

The U.A.R. claimed one Israeli plane was shot down and another damaged. Israel said all its planes returned safely.

An Isaeli army spokesman announced in Tel Aviv that Israeli pilots, flying French-built Mystere fighters, intercepted four Egyptian MIG17s 20 miles from Beersheba, in the Negev desert, and drove them off after a brief battle.

U.A.R. army headquarters in Cairo declared the fight took place over the Egyptian Sinai desert after six Israeli planes violated U.A.R. air space.

It was the second air clash between planes of Israel and the United Arab Republic in little more than three weeks.

Four Israeli fighters clashed with eight U.A.R. MIGs Dec. 20 and claimed they shot down one. Israel said the planes flew over the Negev desert. Cairo on the other hand, said the four Israeli jets had flown over the Sinai desert, were intercepted and forced to flee.

Star's Estate Disputed

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Tyrone Power's widow estimates his estate at $500,000, instead of the five million figured by ex-wife Linda Christian.

The $500,000 reckoning is in a petition by Power's widow, Debbie, for a family allowance for herself and her unborn child.

Miss Christian made the five million estimate in a petition last month for $650 a month support for her two daughters by Power.

"Believe me," said a representative of Power's estate, "the sum will be much closer to $500,000 than the larger estimate."

To Curb Racists

7 'Hate Bomb' Bills Readied for Senate

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Legislation to unleash the forces of the FBI against "hate bombers" of churches and integrated schools will be introduced in the Senate today.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republicans, said they would submit seven bills designed to curb "the activities of fanatics and racists trying to establish a reign of terror" against churches and integrated schools.

The legislation also would ban "hate mail" which promotes violence.

Keating and Javits said the legislation was the result of a series of conferences they held with community leaders and officials of three Southern cities where bombings occurred last year. The cities were Jacksonville Birmingham, and Atlanta.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the average citizen in the South is as deeply shocked and outraged by the nearly 70 bombings and attempted bombings report since 1954 as is the nation as a whole," Javits and Keating said.

"We found considerable support among Southern officials for a law such as we now propose."

Charles de Gaulle
. . . new president

Michel Debre
. . . the new premier

Stern Path Pledged by De Gaulle

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle became president of France Thursday and pledged to use his strong executive powers to keep the new Fifth Republic on the stern path he outlined as premier. He declared he will do what has to be done for the nation's good.

Immediately after historic inauguration ceremonies, De Gaulle set the new republic in motion. He named as premier Michel Debre, longtime Gaullist lawyer and an unbending nationalist.

There followed an unmistakable sign that De Gaulle intends to continue his strict control over French affairs. Debre said cabinet consultations would take place in De Gaulle's presidential palace, and the list of members should be ready today.

De Gaulle took office in the residential palace, then drove to the majestic Arch of Triumph.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the upper mile of the broad Champs Elysees to cheer him. Standing in an open car with outgoing President Rene Coty at his side, De Gaulle retraced the triumphal path he followed as leader of the Free French when Paris was liberated in World War II.

Along with shouts of "Vive De Gaulle" were warm cheers for Coty, who drove off to semi-retirement in Le Havre. Crowds broke through police lines to surround the 76-year-old lawyer who played a major role in De Gaulle's return to political power.

But this was De Gaulle's day, as the 68-year-old soldier-politician became France's most powerful chief of state since Emperor Napoleon III was deposed in 1870.

About 200 of France's top figures ringed the gilded Salon des Fetes in the presidential palace, where Coty proclaimed that "the first among Frenchmen is henceforth the first ranking man in France."

De Gaulle bowed his head to receive the gold-medaled neck chain of French presidents. Then, choking back his emotion and quieting his nervous gestures, he told the select inaugural gathering:

"I have the honor to give France, to impose if need be, what the public good demands. I bear witness that I won't fail."

Among the 200 were chiefs of governments of the 17 autonomous republics of which De Gaulle is also president.

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany—(AP)—Pfc. Elvis Presley celebrated his 24th birthday Thursday.

He had a three-day pass from the Army as a sort of coincidental birthday present. All the men of his unit in the Third Armored Division got the pass in recognition of a high excellence rating received in training maneuvers. The pass is the first Elvis has received since arriving in Germany in early November.

Havana Takes Day Off As Castro Marches In

He Walks Unguarded In Throng

Foes Are Facing Swift War Trials

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — Fidel Castro, 32-year-old rebel leader who ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista in a grueling two-year revolt, entered Havana in triumph Thursday to the salute of booming guns, pealing church bells and the cheers of hundreds of thousands.

Business, commercial and industrial establishments shut down throughout the city at 11 a.m. to enable their staffs to take part in the hero's welcome to Castro.

Guns at La Cabana fortress which dominates the entrance to Havana harbor boomed out a 21-gun salute and church bells throughout the city pealed out a hymn of triumph.

Castro marched into the city limits to the screams of the populace two hours later, as automobiles wheeled through the streets draped with Cuban flags and Castro's rebel red and black standard.

The bearded, long-haired rebel leader, who landed from Mexico in a small yacht Dec. 6, 1956, at the head of 82 men, 70 of whom were killed in the first encounter with Batista's troops, entered the city at the head of a two-mile long column of armored vehicles and troops.

Castro stood in an open jeep, four guards flanking him. Eight tanks and armored cars preceded the jeep. Warplances flew overhead.

As the triumphal march reached Havana's famous waterfront promenade, the Malecon, Castro got off the jeep and walked three blocks to the Presidential Palace, where he was greeted emotionally by Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

As he spoke to Urrutia at the palace, Castro held a tommygun in one hand and drank three bottles of soda pop with the other. The provisional president broke into a wide smile at Castro's evident thirst.

The rebel hero then stood combing out his wind-tossed beard in the palace's Hall of Mirrors where foreign diplomats traditionally present their credentials to the head of the Cuban state.

Later Castro and Urrutia delivered brief addresses from the balcony to the roaring thousands massed in front of the palace.

Urrutia spoke first. He eulogized Castro as being "without dispute the most modest leader and combatant in history; After defeatin, the tyranny with an admirable effort, he has not taken power in his hands but instead put it into the hands of a man in whom he has faith."

"We vow to make ourselves worth of this gesture of this great leader," the president said.

In his reply, Castro said he had come to the palace—"a building which I have never liked—because I wanted to salute our president, offer him our respects and reiterate once more that he can count unconditionally on our support."

Castro then announced he intended to walk alone to Camp Columbia, for years the headquarters of Batista's unchallenged power.

"I want to ask the people of Havana to do something for me . . . Without a single soldier ahead of me, I am going to ask the people to open the way as I am going to demonstrate. I am going to walk alone, we are going to show the world . . . the disipline and civic spirit of the Cuban people. I am going to pass through you to demonstrate that not a single soldier is is needed to keep me from the public."

The massed throng opened a path, singing Cuba's national anthem, while Castro and Ur-

Swarming Habaneros Roar Out Welcome for Conquering Fidel Castro
. . . revolutionary leader (arrow) parades through Cuban capital

No One Was Left To Mind the Store

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — All the home folks except a few leftover Batista boys and their guards went to the wildest street party in Cuba's history Thursday.

Nobody was left to mind the stores — they were all closed.

And everybody tried to outdo everybody else in hailing their hero. If anyone wasn't sold on Fidel Castro, he did a good job of hiding it.

When the guest of honor—ruggedly handsome Castro — rode into view, the roar was like the take-off of flight screaming jets.

Black-eyed girls, wearing scarlet blouses and full skirts, surged around the ragged, bearded rebels, kissing their hands and feet and snatching at their patchwork uniforms.

A dozen tanks — prizes from Batista's army — crawled at the front of the parade, scattering hysterical Cubans.

Planes whipped through the skies and a maddening din of whistles from trains, boats and factories lent a shrill magnificence to the scene.

Daredevil rebel drivers with shrieking sirens darted in and out of the throng, occasionally knocking down a spectator.

The weary soldiers held their guns high and fired them with the abandon of children armed with cap pistols.

A dark-haired two-year-old ran with a flag, shouting his favorite word in a singsong rhythm: "Castro, Castro, Castro."

And everywhere in the city excited people laughed and sang and praised their hero.

Castro had come home from the hills.

Filibuster Test Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate, after a day of bickering, Thursday unanimously put off until today a showdown vote on efforts to change its rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

It acted at the request of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas after it became apparent that debate on the bitterly-fought issue would last too long to permit a test vote before adjournment.

Johnson said he planned to offer a motion today to kill a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.) which would open all Senate rules for changes.

The vote will be the first key test in the drive by Senate liberals to change the rules to permit a majority of all senators to impose a limit on Senate debate and end talkathons.

JAKARTA — (AP) — Floods over vast areas of central Java have driven more than 100,000 persons from their homes in the last 10 days.

No casulaties have been reported but preliminary estimates put the damage at nearly $200,000.

The Surakarta area, 300 miles southeast of Jakarta, was the hardest hit.

Storms Tie Up Traffic in Italy

ROME — (AP) — Snow, hail and high winds Thursday disrupted air, sea and land transport in Italy and Sicily.

Alitalia, the national airline, canceled several flights. Shipping operations were halted at Leghorn, Trieste and other ports.

Hail and snow in the central Italian Appennines between Florence and Rome knocked out rail and road traffic.

Broward Attorney Has 30 Days

Roberts' Disbarment Urged by Lawyers

More Broward News, 1B, 7B

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — The board of governors of the Florida Bar Thursday recommended the disbarment of Attorney Elmer O. Roberts.

Unless Roberts files a petition for review of his case with the Florida Supreme Court within 30 days, he will automatically be disbarred.

His difficulties began June 5, 1957, when he was cited for contempt and sentenced to 20 days in jail for attempting to obtain divorces for two persons with false affidavits which bore forged signatures.

The two persons for whom he acted intended to marry each other and were in a hurry to get divorced, they testified. Their mates discovered the scheme and reported it to the court.

Roberts staved off serving his term for nearly a year.

The contempt citation was the beginning of a series of troubles for Roberts. He was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on a charge of accepting an excessive fee from a mother for helping her get a dead son's National Service Life Insurance money.

She accused him of forcing her to pay him $500. Federal law sets a maximum fee of $10 for the service. He has not been tried on this charge.

He also was arrested for speeding and his license was revoked, but he got it back.

Formerly one of the most active attorneys in defending accused persons in Criminal Court, he is now seldom seen in the courthouse. He could not be reached Thursday at his home in Plantation.

Boys Admit Bomb Calls

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — (AP) — Two 17-year-old boys have pleaded guilty to telephoning false bomb threats to Central High School last month and have been given temporarily suspended sentences to the State Training School.

Juvenile Court Judge Burrell W. Barker ordered Ray Duncan and Ralph Hodges committed until they are 21, but he suspended the order for two weeks pending conferences "to consider whether or not to carry out these committals."

Police had accused the pair of conspiring to deliver the threats to the school, Chattanooga's largest, on Dec. 16 and 18. The school was evacuated as a result of one call.

Detroit Eggs, Snowballs Fly at Russia's Mikoyan

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SCIENTISTS tried to surmise that the earth-shaking crash last week was caused by two jet planes breaking the sound barriers.

BELL

Nuts! The earth tremors were caused by the Three Greeks (Paul Besalernos, Dennis Maginas and Jerry Anninos) selling Biscayne Bar & Restaurant to the Three Jews (Ben Rubin, Saul Ettinger and Henry Hersh).

For 14 long years those Greeks have been running that restaurant. They had small tables 'n' chairs, small aisles, plenty of noise and four scurrying waiters: George, Chico, Al and Clyde, with Busboy Ralph filling in. 'Twas the only restaurant I know wherein the waiters pushed the bosses around. I sort of suspect the bosses got tired of taking orders.

The new owners kept the waiters 'n' cooks. The menu's unchanged — yet. Rubin and Ettinger formerly owned Harry's Bar in New York. Hersh is from Pittsburgh. "If we can keep the customers — ???" sighs Rubin hopefully.

He has lost one already. Eduardo Hernandez, Cuban consul under Batista, has been absent since Castro started marching through Cuba.

Music by Duke

Duke Ellington and Sid Kullner have written a musical, "Jump for Joy." Duke wrote the music, Sid the lyrics and script — through long months of writing and re-writing. It goes into Copa City Jan. 20. Barbara McNair, Columbia records singing star, will sing the feminine lead.

The show opens with a number called "Evolution of a Beat." It's Duke's music, starting with music of early savages and scenes to match and moving through to modern music.

Duke, Miss McNair and others will give us a bit of it on the Cerebral Palsy Telethon the night of Jan. 17, Channel 7.

Trapped in Bedroom With No Way Out

Woman, 15 Children Perish As Flames Devour Cottage

BOSWELL, Okla. — (UPI) — Flames devoured a four-room cottage here before dawn Thursday and a Negro mother, her 10 children and five nieces and nephews were burned to death as they huddled together in a bedroom without an outside door.

Bodies of the 15 youngsters were found piled atop one another near the body of the mother, indicating the children had rushed to her for protection. Her husband, Booker Gardner, 45-year-old farm laborer, was away on a coon-hunting jaunt.

Firemen blamed the tragedy on an ancient wood-burning heating stove, pending a check by state arson investigators. The fire had engulfed the house before neighbors discovered it, and the volunteer fire department of this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,000 population arrived too late to save the walls or roof.

Mrs. Aire Gardner, 40, had hugged new-born twins to her breast as she succumbed in the bedroom.

Funeral services for the mother and her children, the eldest a 15-year-old girl, were to be held at Oberlin, Okla., 13 miles south of Boswell near the Red River boundary with Texas.

In addition to Mrs. Gardner, dead were her children, Juanita, 15, Easter, 13, Isaac, 11, Louise, 9, Larry, 6, Joe 2, Omie, 3, Gwendolyn, 5, and six-month-old twins, Patricia Ann and Terresa Jan; three nieces, Bobbie Woolbright, 11, Peggy Sue Ward, 7, and Linda Ward, 4; and two nephews visiting from Oklahoma City, Freddie Webb, 13, and Herschel Frazier, 10.

Chester Stringer, arson division chief in the State Crime Bureau, Oklahoma City, sent two men to check the theory of Boswell City Marshal Stanley Shoemake, who blamed the fire on the stove.

Shoemake said Mrs. Gardner's body was found across the smoking remnants of a mattress, and it appeared at least 11 of the children had "piled on top of each other on the bed."

The Gardner house was three blocks past the town's last water main, and when the tank in the fire truck ran dry, the firemen had to drive back to town for a re-fill.

Gardner had planned to spend the night in the woods. He appeared at the home of Vernon Love, 12 miles south of Boswell, about 5 a.m. Two teenage hunting companions were with him.

Love said he drove Gardner back to Boswell by automobile. He said Gardner became suspicious as they neared Boswell, and Love broke down with the story.

He said Gardner shook him by the shoulders and started repeating, "It can't be so, it can't be so . . ."

Monitor to File Action To Have Hoffa Ousted

NEW YORK —(AP)— A petition aimed at ousting James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union will be submitted to Federal Court in Washington in about a month, Godfrey P. Schmidt, one of three court-appointed monitors for the union, said Thursday.

Schmidt disclosed plans for the move at a luncheon of the Young Republican Club.

He assailed the Teamsters Union as a "stern dictatorship." He deplored what he termed fear and lack of courage among most rank-and-file truckers, who, he said, were not protecting their rights.

"I am at present working on a petition which would oust Hoffa," Schmidt said.

He said that another aspect of the effort would be to "try to get a genuine receivership" to set up a fair election.

He told reporters that he would submit the petition to Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. Judge Letts has been sitting in the controversy between two factions of the union. The dispute led to the creating of the board of monitors.

Reporters And G-Man Are Struck

DETROIT —(UPI)— Some Some 500 angry pickets hurled eggs, snowballs and insults at Russia's deputy premier, Anastas Mikoyan, and his party for about 45 minutes Thursday night.

Two demonstrators were arrested but released without charges as a State Department security agent and several newsmen were struck by eggs aimed at Mikoyan.

The crowd of pickets surged forward as the Soviet Union's No. 2 man stepped from a limousine to enter the exclusive Detroit Club where he was feted at a reception and dinner. But police reinforcements, called earlier when the pickets began to mass, held firm.

Once Mikoyan was inside, the pickets crowded the streets chanting, "Butcher go home," "Remember Budapest" and other insults.

Earlier Mikoyan engaged in repartee, and "rolled with the punch" on rough questions from businessmen in a whirlwind visit to Detroit.

He preached the peace theme hard, and blamed the U. S. for forcing continuance of the armaments race by ringing Russia with military bases.

In Washington, President Eisenhower, disturbed by hostile demonstrations against Mikoyan at Cleveland Wednesday, and fearing new ones in Detroit and other cities Mikoyan is scheduled to visit, issued a plea for Americans to show the Russian No. 2 man "traditional courtesy" wherever he goes.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, relaying Eisenhower's request, said "the President wants Mr. Mikoyan to see the real America so that when he returns home, he will be able to convey an accurate picture of our good manners, as well as our strength, our confidence and determination in the cause of freedom and peace."

After a quick trip to Dearborn, protected by police all the way, Mikoyan and his party toured the Ford assembly plant and its new 150-million-dollar engineering and research center before sitting down to a luncheon attended by leading Detroit industrialists and businessmen.

When introduced to General Motors President Frederic G. Donner, at a Ford luncheon, Mikoyan quipped, "I can see that you have 'coexistence' in America. Maybe that's because neither of you has an H-bomb."

In the question period that followed the luncheon, Mikoyan parried many "rough" questions from the businessmen.

He said Russia could not produce automobiles for all workers for a long, long time. But it would be speeded up if — as he put it — the U.S. would stop the armaments race.

Ford Board Chairman Ernest R. Breech asked why Russia thought the U.S. wanted to start war. Mikoyan replied — because the U.S. rings his country with military bases.

"You say we are wrong; we say you are wrong," he continued. "Solomon would probably decide to split the blame down the middle."

Crowd Gathers Outside Davis Cafeteria on SE First Ave.

. . . gunman waited patiently for police to arrest him

Headwaiter Is Shot in Cafeteria

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 terror-stricken customers in Davis cafeteria at 103 SE First Ave. ducked under tables Thursday as a former waiter shot the man who had fired him.

As the gunman, 45-year-old Frank Carter, patiently waited for arrest, the cafeteria's management kept a long line of customers filing past the victim, headwaiter David Burney, who was lying on the floor.

A girl cashier, however, burst into uncontrollable sobs as she stood beside the bleeding man and had to be replaced by a male employe.

Matthew Snell, another waiter and a witness to the shooting, said Carter entered the kitchen from an alley and stepped into the main cafeteria area where he confronted Burney, saying:

"I'm going to kill you. You mistreated me."

Carter fired two shots into Burney's stomach and arm, and then stood over the fallen man pulling the trigger of his 32 caliber revolver.

The gun failed to fire, however, and Carter retreated to the kitchen where he told employes, "I'm not going to run. Get the police."

Customers finally regained their composure and when officers and newsmen arrived were finishing their meals. The cafeteria complained to officers that many customers left without paying when they saw there had been a shooting.

Burney, who lives at 901 NW Second Ave., was said to be in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Carter, of 220 NW Eighth St., was held pending charges to be filed today.

Suicide-Driving Attorney Is Dead

Miami Attorney Paul A. Foisy died Thursday afternoon in Dade County Hospital—never regaining sufficient consciousness to explain what police termed his suicide-crash.

His death marked the fourth traffic fatality recorded in Dade County in the first eight days of the new year.

The 33-year-old attorney, who lived with his mother at 2981 SW 12th St., gunned his car Tuesday into the path of another vehicle driven by Henry Newton Moore, 50, of 7401 NW Seventh Ave., Miami bridge tender. Moore was killed instantly.

Police found a suicide note in Foisy's pocket.

Hidden explosives, left behind when Miami-quartered Cuban rebels streaked for their Havana homes this week, are popping up everywhere, Miami police learned Thursday.

Lt. Charles Sapp of the Intelligence Unit said 12 cases of dynamite were found in a parked car at the rear of a service station at NW Seventh Ave. and 20th St.

Twelve cylinders of three-foot long high explosives were uncovered in the clothes closet of a home vacated Jan. 1 by Cubans living at 2290 NW Ninth St.

Two cases of dynamite, two cans of phosphorus, and a jar of potassium were picked up by police in bushes at NW 11th St. and 23rd Ave.

"We most likely will be coming across a whole lot more," Sapp said.

Collins Hopes

Florida is still optimistic about getting the national political party conventions in Miami Beach in 1960, Gov. LeRoy Collins said Thursday.

Collins, who traveled from New Orleans to Chicago to sell the Beach as a site for the conventions, said in Tallahassee he has received no information to make him less optimistic.

"It is impossible for me to evaluate how we stand at the present time," he said.

He said there is no reason to feel that the cause is lost, but if Miami Beach doesn't get the conventions it will not be because of lack of facilities or "because we didn't present our cause."

The triumphal procession of tired grimy Castro troopers who had crossed four-fifths of the island, from the jungles of Santiago to Havana was expected to last well into the morning hours.

Sharing the hero's welcome with Castro were his two chief lieutenants, Argentine-born Physician Ernesto (Che) Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, newly-appointed commander at Camp Columbia.

But behind the wild jubilation of the city were the grim realities of revolution's aftermath.

Urrutia's regime Thursday carried out plans for swift war crimes trials against followers of Batista, who has fled to exile in the Dominican Republic. He compared the promised trials to those at Nuremberg after World War II.

At least 20 police and military officers of the Batista regime already have been executed by the rebels following courts-martial.

National Summary

Temperatures in the 70s warmed southern Florida at mid day and 60s were scattered to the South Carolina coast and westward to New Orleans but cooler northwesterly winds have been following in the wake of a low pressure system over Alabama.

With warm and cool air clashing, occasionally heavy rains developed over portions of northwestern Florida and along the Georgia, Alabama border. Over an inch of rain collected during the forenoon at Pensacola, Florida and a pattern of rains extended northward into Kentucky and Virginia.

The southern rain pattern will spread eastward ending along the coast from the Carolinas to Georgia during the day and continuing in central Florida with showers across the southern part of the state. Cold air crowding south and eastward will send freezing temperatures into the mid south Friday morning and give much colder weather in the Ohio Valley.

The cold air will continue snow shower activity through the Great Lakes to the northern Appalachians while maintaining fair weather through the northeastern states.

Fair weather from the western Great Lakes to the southern Rockies and West Texas will include 15 below readings in northern Wisconsin and warming during Friday afternoon in the western plains.

Lost Weekend Over, Fletch Tanks Up Anew
. . . his troubles started when he got sober

After 5-Day Bird Binge

Tippling Parakeet Home Sober

By RICK TUTTLE
Herald Staff Writer

MIRAMAR—Some do, some don't.

Fletch does—excessively.

Fletch is a drinker, a problem drinker in fact.

He can't get enough.

Beer, bourbon, scotch, gin—it matters not to this two-year-old parakeet.

He flew off on a binge last Sunday and didn't come back until Thursday. It's gone that far, mind you.

His owner is Mrs. Maybelle Fink, 2736 Sunshine Blvd.

Fletch, sober at the time, darted out the front door into the rain Sunday morning.

"The Herald had a story about him in the Miami edition and I started getting calls from all over," Mrs. Fink said Thursday.

The area was filled with half-crocked parakeets, apparently.

Everybody was giving stray birds a slug or so to test their sobriety.

Bartenders were alerted, but they didn't mention it to their customers. Pink elephants and all that, you know. A man has to protect his job.

"I went on a lot of wild-goose chases, but I didn't find him until Thursday," Mrs. Fink said. "He was at a woman's house seven miles from here. I gave her $25."

Surprisingly, Fletch refused to drink at the finder's home.

"Maybe she didn't have his brand," Mrs. Fink said.

But Fletch probably didn't feel like drinking. He doesn't pay much attention to such complex matter as brands. Booze are booze.

Mrs. Fink said she didn't teach the bird to drink.

"He just hopped up on a beer can one day and started drinking," she said. "Ever since he has flown into our guest's drinks. He stands on ice cubes and soaks it up like a fiend."

When he is "high," Fletch flies to a mirror and stares at his disgraceful self.

His grip isn't too good, and he slides slowly down the mirror's edge.

He then waddles away on a very uneven keel to sober up.

To Offer Aid, Advice

Permanent Committee On Migrants Studied

FORT LAUDERDALE — A permanent committee to offer aid to migrant workers will be formed at a meeting here Jan. 20.

Its aim will be to provide a continuing service to help migrants better their standard of living.

A planning group under the chairmanship of Mrs. F. Peter Clements of the Community Service Council met Thursday to hear a resume of work performed by similar organizations elsewhere.

Mrs. Thelma Harper of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor and a member of the President's Committee on Migrant Labor, was the speaker.

The local committee is an outgrowth of the joint effort made by several agencies to provide aid to workers during last year's emergency situation when cold weather left the workers without work of food.

"As you go on, you will find that your work is concerned less with emergency needs and more with helping the migrants become more adequate and resourceful," Mrs. Harper said.

She said the need for training migrant workers is becoming more acute as mechanization decreases their job opportunities, particularly in the north.

Among services offered migrants are courses in first aid, home nursing, adult education, and housekeeping and employment skills, Mrs. Harper said.

At Belle Glade, the U.S. Children's Bureau and the state are cooperating on a five-year health project including a clinic and health education, she said.

The need for day nurseries was emphasized. Migrants also face problems in transportation, local and interstate, in housing, and in meeting educational and health requirements in various states, it was pointed out.

Organizations represented at Thursday's meeting included the Community Service Council, Red Cross, Florida State Employment Service, the county agent, state and county welfare departments, Salvation Army and the county attorneys' office.

Miss Ethel McLane, director of the Community Service Council, said the Broward County Health Department also will join the group.

Invitations have been extended to the Florida Highway Patrol and the Sheriff's Department, The Board of Education, the South Florida Vegetable Growers Association, the Farmers State Advisory Committee and the Hotel and Restaurant Commission.

Funds remaining from those donated to help the migrants last year will give the committee its first working capital, Miss McLane said.

School Zones Are Flouted

Every parent of a school child should have had an opportunity to hear a frank little talk that Ken Paulson, the school safety officer for the Fort Lauderdale Police Department, delivered to the PTA at the new Bayview School the other night.

In substance, it pointed out that parents are the worst violators of school safety regulations.

They drive too fast in the 15-mile-an-hour zone when bringing their children to school or leaving it. They let youngsters out of the car on the wrong side of the street, and when picking them up they stop on the wrong side and beckon the children to cross. They may be quite conscious of the 15-mile zone at the school which their own children attend, but disregard the zones at other schools.

Ken delivered the sermon in a friendly manner, of course, and the parents took it in the same way . . .

Planning Board Makes Sense

THE MOST SIGNIFICANT STEP taken by the still new Broward County League of Municipalities since it was organized is its proposal for a regional planning board. As Fort Lauderdale City Manager Bill Veeder told the City Commission when he presented it Tuesday, "nothing is potentially more important."

The proposal may run into opposition from some people who seem to be constitutionally opposed to organized planning of any sort; other efforts of this kind have been beaten down in the past. This time, however, the fact that the idea has come from an organization of cities should carry enough weight to put it over.

In its present form, the proposed bill gives the planning board authority to levy a tax of .15 of a mill, or 15 cents on $1,000. This would raise about $81,000, on the basis of the current county non-exempt tax roll, and give the board the money it will need to hire the technicians necessary for the successful operation of anything of this kind.

The way things have been going around here in recent years, the board could save the county $80,000 by the wise purchase of one school site or one piece of highway right of way a year or so in advance of the need. Board members, it should be emphasized, will serve without pay . . .

Vegetable Market Hits New High

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The vegetable marketing outlook at the State Farmers Market here looks brighter than at any time since the first vegetables started coming in from the fields in October.

Market Manager G. B. Hogan reports supply and demand are more nearly in balance now than at any time during the season on all crops except peppers. That situation is expected to improve, he said.

The volume of produce has increased, with the shipment last week of 109 carlot equivalents of produce — the greatest volume for any single week since the season began.

The volume is good, but so is the demand, and the price situation has improved considerably over what it has been.

Most Don't Know Rights in Arrest

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—Frank Thomas leaned back in his chair, scratched his head, and drawled:

"I really don't know. I've never been arrested."

Thomas, a retired General Motors employe, had just been asked if he knew what legal rights he'd be entitled to if arrested.

He didn't.

But hes' not alone.

A survey by The Herald Thursday showed that nine out of 10 persons don't know they can demand an immediate hearing before a committing magistrate if arrested.

Clara Nellis
. . . "laws to protect"

Frank Thomas
. . . "can't win"

Bruce Holcomb
. . . "be jail for me"

The lone exception was Carl Johnson, a tourist. And he didn't know before reading of the law in The Herald early this week.

Told that Broward County doesn't have a committing magistrate, Thomas replied:

"It doesn't surprise me. Everything's gone to pot. A fellow can't win anymore. Too much politics. I haven't met a statesman in years."

John Springer, 603 NE Second Ave., didn't know the law either, but was aware that one can usually post a bond to keep from going to jail.

"That's what I'd do," he said. "I could afford it. A lot of people can't. I'm not up on the law, but if I'm ever arrested, the arresting officer had better be right."

Springer said there were magistrates in the northern city where he lived before moving here.

Bruce Holcomb, 1713 Miami Rd., hadn't heard of the law.

"I guess I'd do whatever I was told," he said. "If I didn't have money to post bond, I guess I'd have to sit in jail until they let me out."

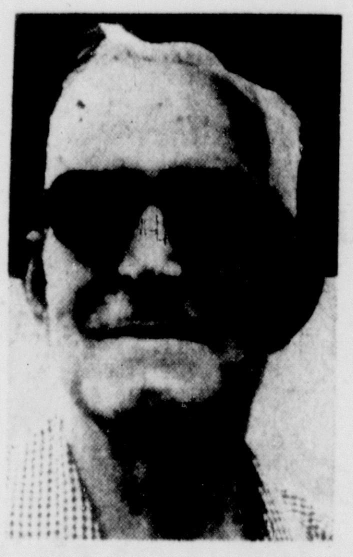
Kay Warren, 1025 SW 44th Ave., hadn't heard either.

"It sounds like Russia," she said. "Why do we have laws if they aren't enforced? It sounds like a poor system to me."

Mrs. Eunice Boff, 15 NE Sixth St., was surprised too.

"I suppose the first thing I'd do is call an attorney," she said. "But I understand some police departments don't even permit that.

"I don't know how the law reads, but I know things aren't done here like they are other places."



John Springer
. . . "different at home"

Kay Warren
. . . "sounds like Russia"

Eunice Boff
. . . "it's a shame"

Mrs. Clara Nellis, 1601 NW 16th St., commented:

"I think it's terrible! I believe a person should be considered innocent until proved guilty. I also believe laws were made to protect people as well as prosecute offenders."

Ted David, a former state legislator, doubted that one per cent of the people know their rights.

"I'm very much in favor of a magistrate," he said. "I don't say we should have one on duty 24 hours a day—that would be too expensive—but I think a person should be kept in jail longer than overnight.

"He should be informed of his rights by an impartial judge or a court-appointed representative at the earliest time possible."

Sheriff Will Put Burden on Judges

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—The right of police to hold suspects without a magistrate's hearing was successfully challenged Thursday.

Sheriff's department officials said the ruling will mean a significant change in their procedures.

At habeas corpus hearing for Donald (Porky) Baines and Guido Di Bona, Judge Lamar Warren ruled that the two men were held illegally when they were not given a magistrate's hearing "within a reasonable time."

The judge thus set a precedent for the sheriff's office.

The failure of county police to bring suspects before magistrates, as provided for in Florida statute 901, has been a hotly debated issue in recent days among attorneys and judges here.

"As far as we're concerned, this means that in the future when we make arrests we'll have to call out a magistrate," said Ben Grigsby, chief criminal investigator of the sheriff's office.

"We're going to assume this was a test case. We just wanted to know what they expect of us. If they expect magistrates' hearings, we'll have them."

"It's going to put us in a heck of a fix if we don't get more magistrates," Sheriff J. A. Lloyd said. "What are we going to do when we pick up about 50 or 60 people on a weekend?"

Another Circuit Judge, Otis Farrington, said, "The only answer is to enlarge the judiciary."

In the cases of Baines and Di Bona, Judge Warren ruled that even though they were picked up on a Saturday morning (Jan. 3), a magistrate should have been called out to give them a hearing that day. Judges here usually have weekends off.

Baines and Di Bona have both been charged with receiving stolen property, and Di Bona with additional charges of breaking and entering and arson.

Grigsby said his department would pick judges at random for magistrates' hearings.

"I guess they'll just have to share the burden equally," he said.

Under statute 901, persons arrested are entitled to the right of being taken "without unnecessary delay" before a magistrate.

It is the duty of the magistrate to inform the suspect of his rights and decide if there is sufficient reason to hold him.

The policy here has been to "file information" (list charges) on the suspect rather than to hold magistrates' hearings.

Lionel Seeks Permit

W. Hollywood Buses May Roll Monday

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

WEST HOLLYWOOD — A West Hollywood to Miami bus service is expected to be back in operation Monday, the owner said Thursday night.

Lionel Bus Lines, with 15 daily trips between this area and Miami, was ordered Tuesday by the Florida Railroad and Utilities Commission to cease operations because of an insurance technicality.

Lione Aselton Jr. of North Miami, the owner, said he will fly to Tallahassee today to seek a temporary permit.

Aselton said his license was revoked because an insurance company failed to record the company's insurance as required by the state.

Meanwhile, some 150 persons who have been using the line each week, were forced to find other means of transportation.

The Chamber of Commerce reported Thursday it had received some 40 calls from commuters.

The Southeastern Greyhound Lines, with two daily stops here, is the area's only other direct service to Miami.

The commission revoked Lionel's certificate Dec. 4 but did not enforce the issue until Wednesday.

Aselton said he was charged with failure to comply with an order after one of his drivers continued to pick up passengers Wednesday.

"I was unable to reach the man before he began the morning run," Aselton said.

He said he has now removed tags from all three of his buses.

Attorneys said the difficulty is a result, in part, of the death of the manager and co-owner, Lionel Aselton Sr., who died Nov. 26.

Aselton said a member of the Railroad Commission has indicated Lionel's certificate could be reinstated within a week.

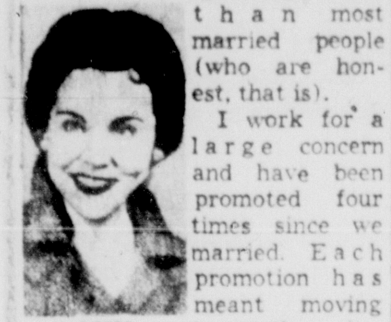
His Wife Totes Old Love Notes Around; So WHAT?

By ANN LANDERS



ANN

DEAR ANN: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flare-ups, but I don't thing we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a footlocker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ashtrays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep your lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his seven-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof. I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes. Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude. — Mother of Three Fatherless Children

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deepfreeze. (What are your inlaws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted. He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again. He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you thing I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone?" And exactly what would you be showing them—that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

My Answer

Universe Is Evidence Of God

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: In my work I am daily thrown in contact with a man who is an athiest. He is so much better educated than I am and so much smarter that I cannot argue with him to do any good.

GRAHAM

ANSWER: There are two arguments against which unbelievers cannot stand — a transformed life and the evidences of God in His creation. Some time ago an infidel was speaking in Hyde Park and he challenged his audience to give one argument for Christianity. A man arose and said, "Christ has made a new man out of me. Some of you here know how I was in the gutter from drink, how my life was impure and how every sentence I spoke was emphasized with an oath. My home was broken up, my business gone and I was a social outcast.

"One night I accepted Jesus Christ as my Saviour and from that moment I have never had the desire to drink, nor do I take His name in vain. My family is reunited and I now have a good job. Christ did this for me."

The other evidence of God which all men can see is the universe and this world in which we live. These things did not just happen. They are not held together by the caprice of nature. The more we study nature the more we realize the infinite varieties and amazing laws which work in them. This is overwhelming evidence of an infinite wisdom and power behind them.

Let me suggest that you do not argue with this acquaintance but pray for him. Also ask God to give you the power to live before him in such a way that he must see Christ living in you. You may be used to lead him to God and His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. Remember you cannot drive him by human arguments, no matter how logical they may seem.

Rehabilitation Phase of Battered Country Believed Over

U.S. Plans to Reduce Its Cash Help to Koreans

By KEYES BEECH

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

SEOUL, Korea — The rehabilitation phase of Korean recovery is over and with it the era of big U.S. spending.

BEECH

Both American and Korean officials agree on this point. Both hasten to add that many problems remain to be solved and that nobody knows when, if ever, Korea will be self-supporting.

Combined military and economic aid has been costing the U.S. about 750 million dollars a year, with the military getting the lion's share.

Economic aid, which reached a peak of 300 million dollars in 1957-58, will be down to 210 million in 1958-59. Main reason: Many basic, expensive reconstruction projects are completed or nearing completion.

Parallel efforts are being made to trim military aid by lopping about 90,000 men off the 650,000-man Republic of Korea army. The U.S. would make up the difference with increased firepower including atomic weapons already in Korea.

Naturally, the Koreans, who have been living off American aid since World War II, oppose cutting anything. However, critics of the Korean aid program who wanted to be shown something for their money would see plenty today.

Spanking new glass and cement plants, equipped with the best machinery that U.S. dollars can buy, are meeting Korea's needs.

Equally new and modern textile plants are producing more than enough for Korean requirements, leaving something to spare for export.

There is a new fish cannery, a new flour mill, a new paper mill, a new cattle ranch.

American GIs who fought over Korea's treeless hills would hardly recognize them in places. They're green with tens of tousands of seedlings.

What's more, it's a prison offense to cut down the trees. And the mass production of cheap coal briquets for cooking and heating has largely reduced the need for wood fuel.

Reforestation is a pet project of President Syngman Rhee, who on a visit to South Vietnam last year looked down on virgin forests and exclaimed:

"Just look at all those trees!"

Industrial production has risen 70 per cent since 1955. The power shortage, a tough nut to crack since most of South Korea's power sources lay in the Communist north, has been licked. Coal production has doubled.

Agricultural production is up 20 per cent, thanks to good weather, better distribution of fertilizer and better use of water resources.

Korean farmers have enjoyed two bumper rice crops in a row. Rice, which was once Korea's biggest earner of foreign exchange, could be again. But Korea hasn't exported any rice since 1950. It now has 200,000 tons for sale but no takers. Japan likes Korean rice but not Korean prices.

"We are ahead in all sectors except housing," says In Sang Song, 44, Korean Minister of reconstruction and perhaps the ablest man in the government.

As he sees it, now is the time for long-range planning, "to know our destination and how we are going to get there." The biggest bottleneck, according to Song, is the lack of a trained managerial class.

But that problem has at least been tackled. Today there are 2,300 Korean students in the U.S. at their own expense, another 400 at government expense. Forty are engaged in nuclear studies.

What is more encouraging is that there is a growing awareness among young Koreans that what their country needs most today is not men of letters or law, but men who can build and manage things.

U.S. Rackets Probers Want Lansky to Testify

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Meyer Lansky, bigtime New York-Florida gambler who shifted operations to Cuba but fled with the Batista regime, will be called as a witness by the Senate rackets committee, it was learned Thursday.

Lansky arrived back in Florida last night as the new Cuban government of Fidel Castro clamped a lid on Havana gambling. Lansky said he was going to his Hollywood, Fla., home and "see a doctor."

He expressed some hope the new Cuban government would reopen casinos, at least for tourist gambling.

Lansky, who gained his experience as a long-time member of the U.S. Syndicate, had been instrumental in setting up the lucrative gambling enterprise in Havana under Batista. He had the concession at the National Hotel.

His name has been added to a long list of well-known mobsters and racketeers scheduled to appear before the rackets committee when its investigation of gangster infiltration in the juke box industry opens late this month. It was understood Lansky was subpenaed before the Cuban revolt.

Commitee sources said Lansky was linked to the juke box rackets in New York during the old Kefauver Crime Committee hearings several years ago.

He also figured in recent testimony before the rackets committee as a friend of Teamster Barney Baker.

Baker testified that he once borrowed $4,000 from an official of the Colonial Inn at Hollywood, Fla., which was controlled by Lansky and Joe Adonis.

Boys Sent Back to School

Bomb Throwers Going to Classes

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE—Three youngsters who threw a bomb at the home of their school dean were ordered back to class Thursday.

School Supt. Raymond Maxwell said the trio probably will return to Sunrise Junior High Monday.

School Board members ordered them back on the recommendation of their attorney, Ted David.

AROUND BROWARD

David told the board that Juvenile Judge Dorr Davis sentenced the youth who threw the bomb to 90 days in the state boys' correctional institution, and gave the other two 60 days.

Davis suspended the sentences, however, and placed the boys on probation.

Maxwell said the youths lost approximately 20 days of school.

More Portable Schools Demanded by PTA

Herald Bureau

WEST HOLLYWOOD—Demands for additional portable classrooms were made Thursday by a group of West Hollywood mothers who said 20 new families are moving into the area every week.

Mrs. Frank Druda, president of the Boulevard Heights Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association, told the School Board four new portables are needed desperately.

She said the entire school will be on half-way sessions if relief isn't brought immediately. The first four grades are now on double sessions.

"We think our problem is much worse than the one at Margate," she declared. "They've just started double sessions there, and only in the first two grades."

Parents at Margate asked for more portables earlier this week.

Board members promised Mrs. Druda relief, but didn't say when or how many portables the school would get.

Ex-Dale Man Held By FBI

Special To The Herald

CHICAGO — Michael R. Hill, 30, formerly of 6010 SW 39th St., West Hollywood, was arrested late Tuesday by the FBI and charged with altering a $1.54 check to $1,540.

Former employe of the King Car and Truck Rental Co., Fort Lauderdale, Hill, now a clerk for a Chicago paint firm, was traced through St. Louis to Chicago where he moved last June, according to the FBI.

Richard D. Auerbach, chief of the FBI's Chicago office, said Hill was sent the $1.54 check by General Motors Acceptance Corp. by mistake. The money was a refund due another person.

Hill altered the check and deposited it May 26, 1958, in Citizens Bank of Broward County, West Hollywood, where he had an account, according to Auerbach.

The following day he withdrew $1,583.50, and shortly afterward moved from the Florida city with his wife, Betty, and two children, a boy, 6 and girl, 2.

Council to Request Two Junior Colleges

FORT LAUDERDALE — County school officials were smiling Thursday.

They had just learned that the State Advisory Council on Education had voted to ask the Legislature to build two junior colleges here in the next two years.

The council recommended that the Legislature allocate $1,005,000 for the colleges. One would be for Negroes, the other for white students.

"We're very pleased with the recommendation," said Dr. Thord Marshall, assistant county school superintendent in charge of education.

Dr. Marshall served on a local committee which met with the Council in December.

Officials hope a junior college can be established in temporary quarters here next fall.

A permanent site has been offered west of Pompano Beach.

New Charges Weighed in Bookie Cases

Herald Bureau

HALLANDALE—County Solicitor Thomas M. Coker said Thursday he expects to confer with Police Chief Robert Aiken on possible further prosecution in connection with recent bookmaking arrests here.

Three of eight men arrested three weeks ago were convicted at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday after a marathon Municipal Court trial which started Monday afternoon.

John L. Caldwell, 39, of Gulfstream Trailer Park, and Raleigh Martin, 59, of Hollywood, were ordered to pay $500 fines each or spend 90 days in jail. They posted $750 appeal bonds.

Alfred Capazzo, 53, of 266 N. Federal Hwy., paid a $50 fine.

City Judge Fred Ward dismissed charges against Frank Sestito, 53, of Hollywood, and William Reibley, 51, of 215 S. Federal.

Frank Oliveri, 62, of 219 Federal; Leon Poniki, 47, of 215 N. Federal, and Sam H. Williams, 37, of Hollywood, received directed verdicts of not guilty.

Bar Near School Gets Nowhere

FORT LAUDERDALE — A man who wants to have a cocktail lounge near Parkway Junior High School was told Thursday he should look elsewhere.

School Board members were told the proposed location is 2,135 feet from the W. Broward Blvd. school. The minimum distance established by law is 2,500 feet.

Donald Hulmes, assistant school attorney, did not identify the applicant, but said the person plans to ask the County Commission to grant a zoning variance Tuesday.

The School Board authorized a letter informing the county of its disapproval.

'Soft' Hollywood Blvd. To Be Paved by State

HOLLYWOOD — The State Road Department will repave the portion of Hollywood Blvd. where gasoline and oil from cars has made the asphalt soft, City Engineer Jarrett White said Thursday.

The road department's chief laboratory technician met with White Thursday to discuss the problem.

The boulevard was freshly paved only a month ago. Soggy spots in the 2000 block developed within two weeks.

"The largest area is about three square feet," White said.

The boulevard paving was the state's share of a $75,000 face-lifting which included installation of pink sidewalks and planting of palm trees and shrubbery.

Happier Times

The family of ousted Cuban Dictator Fulgencio Batista is shown in a large painting hanging on the yacht Martha 111, which brought high Cuban dignitaries to Key West Thursday. The Immigration Service reported $112,000 was found on the vessel and another yacht, the Olo Kun 11. Key figure on the boats was Cuban Senator Rolando Masferrer, charged by the new government with fleeing with 17 million dollars.

Sewer Plan 4 Months Off

AROUND BROWARD

DANIA city commissioners met Wednesday with their consulting engineers and fiscal agent on the proposed $2,050,800 sanitary sewer system.

It will be four months before the engineers have a detailed report ready for the job, City Manager Charles Peters said. Commissioners are not sure yet how the project will be financed.

13-Year-Old Boy First Polio Victim

FORT LAUDERDALE — A 13-year-old boy in critical condition at Variety Childrens' Hospital in Coral Gables became Broward County's first polio case of 1959.

Joe Copowich entered the hospital Monday with bulbar polio. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Copowich, 6221 NW 30th St., West Hollywood.

A 22-year-old Fort Lauderdale woman, Miss Patricia Arbor, 2933 Cortez St., was stricken in December and is at Variety.

The county had a total of 11 cases last year, March of Dimes headquarters announced.

At McNab Elementary

Grading System Is Not Well-Liked

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH—An overwhelming number of McNab Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association members feel the county's report card grading system should be overhauled, at least in the third-grade area.

In response to a questionnaire, 283 of 303 members said they'd like to see the grading procedure for the second semester of third grade changed so they'd get "a full picture of how their child is progressing."

The system now calls for only an N (satisfactory) or U (unsatisfactory) grading code for first, second and third grades.

When students enter fourth grade, they are marked with an A, B, C, D, or F.

It's the sudden "shock" of the transition that the parents don't like.

They say it's a bit unnerving to have a child get all Ns for his third year, then end up with Cs or Ds in the first part of the fourth grade.

McNab Principal Neal Keaton defended the system with the explanation that the "general feeling is that we don't want to enforce competition for grades among the children at such an early age."

Robert C. Fuller, president of the PTA, said the matter will be aired at a Jan. 26 meeting when results of the survey will be discussed and recommendations made.

Fuller said the grading system was one of the questions uppermost in the minds of most members.

County Elementary School Supervisor William Drainer will be on hand to explain the system.

Fuller said the PTA's main objective is to explain the system thoroughly to parents, so they won't feel "left in the dark."

Fights for Policies

It's a 'State Of the Planet' Talk for Ike

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today actually will be a state-of-the-world analysis keyed to the struggle against communism.

Much of the emphasis, the White House indicated Thursday, will be on the President's previously stated determination to maintain financial integrity at home while carrying on the battle for enduring global peace.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that Eisenhower also is determined to carry a fight for his legislative program and foreign policy proposals directly to the people — if the heavily Democratic new Congress balks at going along with administration plans.

The President will deliver his State of the Union message personally at a Senate-House session at 12:30 p.m.

(The 40-minute report will be telecast at 12:30 today by WTVJ (Ch. 4), WCKT (Ch. 7) and WPST-TV (Ch. 10). It will be broadcast on radio by WCKR, WGBS and WKAT.)

Eisenhower canceled a National Security Council meeting which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, kept his other engagements to a minimum, and devoted much of the day to final work on the message.

"It will be not only a State of the Union message but a state of the world message," Hagerty said.

He added that Eisenhower will deal in broad terms with world and domestic problems, leaving most specific legislative recommendations for outline later in a series of special messages.

For example, his budget proposals will be put before the lawmakers Jan. 19. The White House already has announced the budget to be submitted for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be balanced and will call for spending about 77 billion dollars.

That is less by about two billion dollars than estimated spending this year. Some Democrats already have criticized the new lower figure as unrealistic and too little for adequate national defense.

The last of the President's three major messages, the economic report, will go to Congress the day after the budget, Jan. 20.

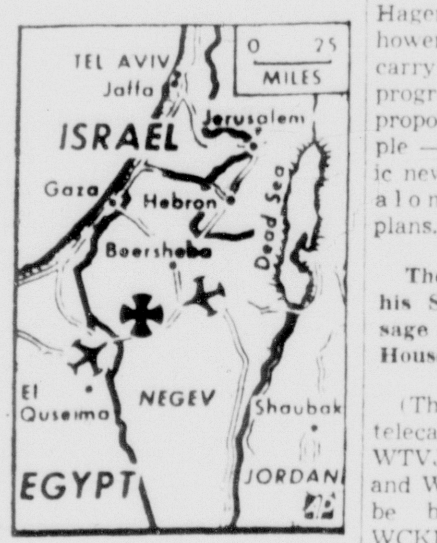
There will be messages later on specific subjects — quite likely one dealing with civil rights. Indications are the administration is preparing legislation bearing on school integration and related problems. There probably will be another special message on the problem of ousting racketeers from the labor-management fields.

As to Eisenhower's plans to carry the fight for his program to the people if necessary, Hagerty said the President is ready to set forth his views through all media — newspapers, radio and television, magazines, theater newsreels and at news conferences.

"I would think that he would take occasion, every time he can, to discuss, to elaborate on these programs that he will be presenting, starting Friday," Hagerty said.

Asked about specific plans, Hagerty said those would be ready for announcement soon.

Some indication of the reception among Democrats came in a start-of-the-session speech by Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader. Johnson said the Eisenhower administration lacks boldness and freshness.



Where Jets Clashed

Israeli, UAR Jets Slug Again

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Israeli and United Arab Republic jet fighters clashed Thursday for the second time within three weeks.

The U.A.R. claimed one Israeli plane was shot down and another damaged. Israel said all its planes returned safely.

An Isaeli army spokesman announced in Tel Aviv that Israeli pilots, flying French-built Mystere fighters, intercepted four Egyptian MIG17s 20 miles from Beersheba, in the Negev desert, and drove them off after a brief battle.

U.A.R. army headquarters in Cairo declared the fight took place over the Egyptian Sinai desert after six Israeli planes violated U.A.R. air space.

It was the second air clash between planes of Israel and the United Arab Republic in little more than three weeks.

Four Israeli fighters clashed with eight U.A.R. MIGs Dec. 20 and claimed they shot down one. Israel said the planes flew over the Negev desert. Cairo on the other hand, said the four Israeli jets had flown over the Sinai desert, were intercepted and forced to flee.

Star's Estate Disputed

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Tyrone Power's widow estimates his estate at $500,000, instead of the five million figured by ex-wife Linda Christian.

The $500,000 reckoning is in a petition by Power's widow, Debbie, for a family allowance for herself and her unborn child.

Miss Christian made the five million estimate in a petition last month for $650 a month support for her two daughters by Power.

"Believe me," said a representative of Power's estate, "the sum will be much closer to $500,000 than the larger estimate."

To Curb Racists

7 'Hate Bomb' Bills Readied for Senate

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Legislation to unleash the forces of the FBI against "hate bombers" of churches and integrated schools will be introduced in the Senate today.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republicans, said they would submit seven bills designed to curb "the activities of fanatics and racists trying to establish a reign of terror" against churches and integrated schools.

The legislation also would ban "hate mail" which promotes violence.

Keating and Javits said the legislation was the result of a series of conferences they held with community leaders and officials of three Southern cities where bombings occurred last year. The cities were Jacksonville, Birmingham, and Atlanta.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the average citizen in the South is as deeply shocked and outraged by the nearly 70 bombings and attempted bombings report since 1954 as is the nation as a whole," Javits and Keating said.

"We found considerable support among Southern officials for a law such as we now propose."

Charles de Gaulle
. . . new president

Michel Debre
. . . the new premier

Stern Path Pledged by De Gaulle

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle became president of France Thursday and pledged to use his strong executive powers to keep the new Fifth Republic on the stern path he outlined as premier. He declared he will do what has to be done for the nation's good.

Immediately after historic inauguration ceremonies, De Gaulle set the new republic in motion. He named as premier Michel Debre, longtime Gaullist lawyer and an unbending nationalist.

There followed an unmistakable sign that De Gaulle intends to continue his strict control over French affairs. Debre said cabinet consultations would take place in De Gaulle's presidential palace, and the list of members should be ready today.

De Gaulle took office in the residential palace, then drove to the majestic Arch of Triumph.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the upper mile of the broad Champs Elysees to cheer him. Standing in an open car with outgoing President Rene Coty at his side, De Gaulle retraced the triumphal path he followed as leader of the Free French when Paris was liberated in World War II.

Along with shouts of "Vive De Gaulle" were warm cheers for Coty, who drove off to semi-retirement in Le Havre. Crowds broke through police lines to surround the 76-year-old lawyer who played a major role in De Gaulle's return to political power.

But this was De Gaulle's day, as the 68-year-old soldier-politician became France's most powerful chief of state since Emperor Napoleon III was deposed in 1870.

About 200 of France's top figures ringed the gilded Salon des Fetes in the presidential palace, where Coty proclaimed that "the first among Frenchmen is henceforth the first ranking man in France."

De Gaulle bowed his head to receive the gold-medaled neck chain of French presidents. Then, choking back his emotion and quieting his nervous gestures, he told the select inaugural gathering:

"I have the honor to give France, to impose if need be, what the public good demands. I bear witness that I won't fail."

Among the 200 were chiefs of governments of the 17 autonomous republics of which De Gaulle is also president.

Guns Salute and Bells Ring Out

Havana Takes Day Off As Castro Marches In

He Walks Unguarded In Throng

Foes Are Facing Swift War Trials

'Loot' Counted, Page 1B

HAVANA, Cuba — (UPI) — Fidel Castro, 32-year-old rebel leader who ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista in a grueling two-year revolt, entered Havana in triumph Thursday to the salute of booming guns, pealing church bells and the cheers of hundreds of thousands.

Business, commercial and industrial establishments shut down throughout the city at 11 a.m. to enable their staffs to take part in the hero's welcome to Castro.

Guns at La Cabana fortress which dominates the entrance to Havana harbor boomed out a 21-gun salute and church bells throughout the city pealed out a hymn of triumph.

Castro marched into the city limits to the screams of the populace two hours later, as automobiles wheeled through the streets draped with Cuban flags and Castro's rebel red and black standard.

The bearded, long-haired rebel leader, who landed from Mexico in a small yacht Dec. 6, 1956, at the head of 82 men, 70 of whom were killed in the first encounter with Batista's troops, entered the city at the head of a two-mile long column of armored vehicles and troops.

Castro stood in an open jeep, four guards flanking him. Eight tanks and armored cars preceded the jeep. Warplances flew overhead.

As the triumphal march reached Havana's famous waterfront promenade, the Malecon, Castro got off the jeep and walked three blocks to the Presidential Palace, where he was greeted emotionally by Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

As he spoke to Urrutia at the palace, Castro held a tommygun in one hand and drank three bottles of soda pop with the other. The provisional president broke into a wide smile at Castro's evident thirst.

The rebel hero then stood combing out his wind-tossed beard in the palace's Hall of Mirrors where foreign diplomats traditionally present their credentials to the head of the Cuban state.

Later Castro and Urrutia delivered brief addresses from the balcony to the roaring thousands massed in front of the palace.

Urrutia spoke first. He eulogized Castro as being "without dispute the most modest leader and combatant in history; After defeating the tyranny with an admirable effort, he has not taken power in his hands but instead put it into the hands of a man in whom he has faith."

"We vow to make ourselves worth of this gesture of this great leader," the president said.

In his reply, Castro said he had come to the palace—"a building which I have never liked—because I wanted to salute our president, offer him our respects and reiterate once more that he can count unconditionally on our support."

Castro then announced he intended to walk alone to Camp Columbia, for years the headquarters of Batista's unchallenged power.

"I want to ask the people of Havana to do something for me . . . Without a single soldier ahead of me, I am going to ask the people to open the way as I am going to demonstrate. I am going to walk alone, we are going to show the world . . . the disipline and civic spirit of the Cuban people. I am going to pass through you to demonstrate that not a single soldier is is needed to keep me from the public."

The massed throng opened a path, singing Cuba's national anthem, while Castro and Ur-

Swarming Habaneros Roar Out Welcome for Conquering Fidel Castro
. . . revolutionary leader (arrow) parades through Cuban capital

No One Was Left To Mind the Store

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — All the home folks except a few left-over Batista boys and their guards went to the wildest street party in Cuba's history Thursday.

Nobody was left to mind the stores — they were all closed.

And everybody tried to outdo everybody else in hailing their hero. If anyone wasn't sold on Fidel Castro, he did a good job of hiding it.

When the guest of honor—ruggedly handsome Castro —rode into view, the roar was like the take-off of flight screaming jets.

Black-eyed girls, wearing scarlet blouses and full skirts, surged around the ragged, bearded rebels, kissing their hands and feet and snatching at their patchwork uniforms.

A dozen tanks — prizes from Batista's army — crawled at the front of the parade, scattering hysterical Cubans.

Planes whipped through the skies and a maddening din of whistles from trains, boats and factories lent a shrill magnificence to the scene.

Daredevil rebel drivers with shrieking sirens darted in and out of the throng, occasionally knocking down a spectator.

The weary soldiers held their guns high and fired them with the abandon of children armed with cap pistols.

A dark-haired two-year-old ran with a flag, shouting his favorite word in a singsong rhythm: "Castro, Castro, Castro."

And everywhere in the city excited people laughed and sang and praised their hero.

Castro had come home from the hills.

Filibuster Test Vote Due Today

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate, after a day of bickering, Thursday unanimously put off until today a showdown vote on efforts to change its rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

It acted at the request of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas after it became apparent that debate on the bitterly-fought issue would last too long to permit a test vote before adjournment.

Johnson said he planned to offer a motion today to kill a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.) which would open all Senate rules for changes.

The vote will be the first key test in the drive by Senate liberals to change the rules to permit a majority of all senators to impose a limit on Senate debate and end talkathons.

Wife Goes on Trial For Firing at Mate

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A 44-year-old woman went on trial here Thursday on charges of assault with intent to kill her husband and a blonde beautician she claimed to have caught him with.

The defendant is Mrs. Gertrude Grenscia Sinks. Blonde herself, she sat near her counsel, Uhal S. Ives, during the first day of the Criminal Court trial and animatedly consulted with him.

The state charged that Mrs. Sinks — home unexpectedly from a trip North—opened fire with a pistol when she found her husband, Thomas, 39, and Claudia Morgan McCoy, 39-year-old divorcee, in a bedroom of the Sinks residence at Marlborough Pl. in September.

Sinks himself took the stand to testify that he was struck in one foot by pieces of lead from the shot. He said he was clad in trousers and a T-shirt. Mrs. McCoy, he said, had on shorts and a blouse.

Mrs. McCoy was unhurt. She testified she was sitting on the bed when Mrs. Sinks entered.

Police testified that Mrs. Sinks told them she wanted to shoot Mrs. McCoy, and that the pistol in her hand was hidden underneath a towel wrapped around it.

Judge E. G. Newell adjourned the case until Friday morning with the state still calling witnesses.

Police had accused the pair of conspiring to deliver the threats to the school, Chattanooga's largest, on Dec. 16 and 18. The school was evacuated as a result of one call.

Detroit Eggs, Snowballs Fly at Russia's Mikoyan

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

SCIENTISTS tried to surmise that the earth-shaking crash last week was caused by two jet planes breaking the sound barriers.

Nuts! The earth tremors were caused by the Three Greeks (Paul Besalernos, Dennis Maginas and Jerry Anninos) selling Biscayne Bar & Restaurant to the Three Jews (Ben Rubin, Saul Ettinger and Henry Hersh).

For 14 long years those Greeks have been running that restaurant. They had small tables 'n' chairs, small aisles, plenty of noise and four scurrying waiters: George, Chico, Al and Clyde, with Busboy Ralph filling in. 'Twas the only restaurant I know wherein the waiters pushed the bosses around. I sort of suspect the bosses got tired of taking orders.

The new owners kept the waiters 'n' cooks. The menu's unchanged — yet. Rubin and Ettinger formerly owned Harry's Bar in New York. Hersh is from Pittsburgh. "If we can keep the customers — ???" sighs Rubin hopefully.

He has lost one already. Eduardo Hernandez, Cuban consul under Batista, has been absent since Castro started marching through Cuba.

Trapped in Bedroom With No Way Out

Woman, 15 Children Perish As Flames Devour Cottage

BOSWELL, Okla. — (UPI) — Flames devoured a four-room cottage here before dawn Thursday and a Negro mother, her 10 children and five nieces and nephews were burned to death as they huddled together in a bedroom without an outside door.

Bodies of the 15 youngsters were found piled atop one another near the body of the mother, indicating the children had rushed to her for protection. Her husband, Booker Gardner, 45-year-old farm laborer, was away on a coon-hunting jaunt.

Firemen blamed the tragedy on an ancient wood-burning heating stove, pending a check by state arson investigators. The fire had engulfed the house before neighbors discovered it, and the volunteer fire department of this southeastern Oklahoma town of 1,000 population arrived too late to save the walls or roof.

Mrs. Aire Gardner, 40, had hugged new-born twins to her breast as she succumbed in the bedroom.

Funeral services for the mother and her children, the eldest a 15-year-old girl, were to be held at Oberlin, Okla., 13 miles south of Boswell near the Red River boundary with Texas.

In addition to Mrs. Gardner, dead were her children, Juanita, 15, Easter, 13, Isaac, 11, Louise, 9, Larry, 6, Joe 2, Omie, 3, Gwendolyn, 5, and six-month-old twins, Patricia Ann and Terresa Jan; three nieces, Bobbie Woolbright, 11, Peggy Sue Ward, 7, and Linda Ward, 4; and two nephews visiting from Oklahoma City, Freddie Webb, 13, and Herschel Frazier, 10.

Chester Stringer, arson division chief in the State Crime Bureau, Oklahoma City, sent two men to check the theory of Boswell City, Marshal Stanley Shoemake, who blamed the fire on the stove.

Shoemake said Mrs. Gardner's body was found across the smoking remnants of a mattress, and it appeared at least 11 of the children had "piled on top of each other on the bed."

The Gardner house was three blocks past the town's last water main, and when the tank in the fire truck ran dry, the firemen had to drive back to town for a re-fill.

Gardner had planned to spend the night in the woods. He appeared at the home of Vernon Love, 12 miles south of Boswell, about 5 a.m. Two teenage hunting companions were with him.

Love said he drove Gardner back to Boswell by automobile. He said Gardner became suspicious as they neared Boswell, and Love broke down with the story.

He said Gardner shook him by the shoulders and started repeating, "It can't be so, it can't be so . . ."

Monitor to File Action To Have Hoffa Ousted

NEW YORK —(AP)— A petition aimed at ousting James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union will be submitted to Federal Court in Washington in about a month, Godfrey P. Schmidt, one of three court-appointed monitors for the union, said Thursday.

Schmidt disclosed plans for the move at a luncheon of the Young Republican Club.

He assailed the Teamsters Union as a "stern dictatorship." He deplored what he termed fear and lack of courage among most rank-and-file truckers, who, he said, were not protecting their rights.

"I am at present working on a petition which would oust Hoffa," Schmidt said.

He said that another aspect of the effort would be to "try to get a genuine receivership" to set up a fair election.

He told reporters that he would submit the petition to Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington. Judge Letts has been sitting in the controversy between two factions of the union. The dispute led to the creating of the board of monitors.

Reporters And G-Man Are Struck

DETROIT —(UPI)— Some Some 500 angry pickets hurled eggs, snowballs and insults at Russia's deputy premier, Anastas Mikoyan, and his party for about 45 minutes Thursday night.

Two demonstrators were arrested but released without charges as a State Department security agent and several newsmen were struck by eggs aimed at Mikoyan.

The crowd of pickets surged forward as the Soviet Union's No. 2 man stepped from a limousine to enter the exclusive Detroit Club where he was feted at a reception and dinner. But police reinforcements, called earlier when the pickets began to mass, held firm.

Once Mikoyan was inside, the pickets crowded the streets chanting, "Butcher go home," "Remember Budapest" and other insults.

Earlier Mikoyan engaged in repartee, and "rolled with the punch" on rough questions from businessmen in a whirlwind visit to Detroit.

He preached the peace theme hard, and blamed the U. S. for forcing continuance of the armaments race by ringing Russia with military bases.

In Washington, President Eisenhower, disturbed by hostile demonstrations against Mikoyan at Cleveland Wednesday, and fearing new ones in Detroit and other cities Mikoyan is scheduled to visit, issued a plea for Americans to show the Russian No. 2 man "traditional courtesy" wherever he goes.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, relaying Eisenhower's request, said "the President wants Mr. Mikoyan to see the real America so that when he returns home, he will be able to convey an accurate picture of our good manners, as well as our strength, our confidence and determination in the cause of freedom and peace."

After a quick trip to Dearborn, protected by police all the way, Mikoyan and his party toured the Ford assembly plant and its new 150-million-dollar engineering and research center before sitting down to a luncheon attended by leading Detroit industrialists and businessmen.

When introduced to General Motors President Frederic G. Donner, at a Ford luncheon, Mikoyan quipped, "I can see that you have 'coexistence' in America. Maybe that's because neither of you has an H-bomb."

In the question period that followed the luncheon, Mikoyan parried many "rough" questions from the businessmen.

He said Russia could not produce automobiles for all workers for a long, long time. But it would be speeded up if — as he put it — the U.S. would stop the armaments race.

Ford Board Chairman Ernest R. Breech asked why Russia thought the U.S. wanted to start war. Mikoyan replied — because the U.S. rings his country with military bases.

"You say we are wrong, we say you are wrong," he continued. "Solomon would probably decide to split the blame down the middle."

Crowd Gathers Outside Da vis Cafeteria on SE First Ave.

. . . gunman waited patiently for police to arrest him

Headwaiter Is Shot in Cafeteria

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 terror-stricken customers in Davis cafeteria at 103 SE First Ave. ducked under tables Thursday as a former waiter shot the man who had fired him.

As the gunman, 45-year-old Frank Carter, patiently waited for arrest, the cafeteria's management kept a long line of customers filing past the victim, headwaiter David Burney, who was lying on the floor.

A girl cashier, however, burst into uncontrollable sobs as she stood beside the bleeding man and had to be replaced by a male employe.

Matthew Snell, another waiter and a witness to the shooting, said Carter entered the kitchen from an alley and stepped into the main cafeteria area where he confronted Burney, saying:

"I'm going to kill you. You mistreated me."

Carter fired two shots into Burney's stomach and arm, and then stood over the fallen man pulling the trigger of his 32 caliber revolver.

The gun failed to fire, however, and Carter retreated to the kitchen where he told employes, "I'm not going to run. Get the police."

Customers finally regained their composure and when officers and newsmen arrived were finishing their meals. The cafeteria complained to officers that many customers left without paying when they saw there had been a shooting.

Burney, who lives at 901 NW Second Ave., was said to be in fair condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital. Carter, of 220 NW Eighth St., was held pending charges to be filed today.

Papers Reject Hearst's Bid

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Hearst Corp. announced Thursday that it had been unsuccessful in efforts to buy The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner and The Nashville Tennessean. The announcement said the offered price was more than 9½ million dollars.

The two newspapers are corporately and editorially separate, but operate otherwise under a joint agreement through a third corporation, of which James G. Stahlman is board chairman. He also is president and publisher of The Banner.

Injuries Fatal to Foisy

Suicide-Driving Attorney Is Dead

Miami Attorney Paul A. Foisy died Thursday afternoon in Dade County Hospital—never regaining sufficient consciousness to explain what police termed his suicide-crash.

His death marked the fourth traffic fatality recorded in Dade County in the first eight days of the new year.

The 33-year-old attorney, who lived with his mother at 2981 SW 12th St., gunned his car Tuesday into the path of another vehicle driven by Henry Newton Moore, 50, of 7401 NW Seventh Ave., Miami bridge tender. Moore was killed instantly.

Police found a suicide note in Foisy's pocket.

Echoes of Cuba

Hidden explosives, left behind when Miami-quartered Cuban rebels streaked for their Havana homes this week, are popping up everywhere, Miami police learned Thursday.

Lt. Charles Sapp of the Intelligence Unit said 12 cases of dynamite were found in a parked car at the rear of a service station at NW Seventh Ave. and 20th St.

Twelve cylinders of three-foot long high explosives were uncovered in the clothes closet of a home vacated Jan. 1 by Cubans living at 2290 NW Ninth St.

Two cases of dynamite, two cans of phosphorus, and a jar of potassium were picked up by police in bushes at NW 11th St. and 23rd Ave.

"We most likely will be coming across a whole lot more," Sapp said.

Baby Burned

A 17-month-old baby fell into a flaming can of paint preparation and burned both legs and her abdomen while toddling in her back yard Thursday afternoon.

Police said the condition of Linda McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLean, 1110 NW 141st St., is not serious at North Shore Hospital.

The child was being watched by her brother, Daniel Jr., 15. Police said the fire apparently was ignited by a discarded cigaret.

Collins Hopes

Florida is still optimistic about getting the national political party conventions in Miami Beach in 1960, Gov. LeRoy Collins said Thursday.

Collins, who traveled from New Orleans to Chicago to sell the Beach as a site for the conventions, said in Tallahassee he has received no information to make him less optimistic.

"It is impossible for me to evaluate how we stand at the present time," he said.

He said there is no reason to feel that the cause is lost, but if Miami Beach doesn't get the conventions it will not be because of lack of facilities or "because we didn't present our cause."

It's Cheers For Castro

rutia passed through unguarded.

The triumphal procession of tired grimy Castro troopers who had crossed four-fifths of the island, from the jungles of Santiago to Havana was expected to last well into the morning hours.

Sharing the hero's welcome with Castro were his two chief lieutenants, Argentine-born Physician Ernesto (Che) Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, newly-appointed commander at Camp Columbia.

But behind the wild jubilation of the city were the grim realities of revolution's aftermath.

Urrutia's regime Thursday carried out plans for swift war crimes trials against followers of Batista, who has fled to exile in the Dominican Republic. He compared the promised trials to those at Nuremberg after World War II.

At least 20 police and military officers of the Batista regime already have been executed by the rebels following courts-martial.

National Summary

Temperatures in the 70s warmed southern Florida at mid day and 60s were scattered to the South Carolina coast and westward to New Orleans but cooler northwesterly winds have been following in the wake of a low pressure system over Alabama.

With warm and cool air clashing, occasionally heavy rains developed over portions of northwestern Florida and along the Georgia, Alabama border. Over an inch of rain collected during the forenoon at Pensacola, Florida and a pattern of rains extended northward into Kentucky and Virginia.

The southern rain pattern will spread eastward ending along the coast from the Carolinas to Georgia during the day and continuing in central Florida with showers across the southern part of the state. Cold air crowding south and eastward will send freezing temperatures into the mid south Friday morning and give much colder weather in the Ohio Valley.

The cold air will continue snow shower activity through the Great Lakes to the northern Appalachians while maintaining fair weather through the northeastern states.

Fair weather from the western Great Lakes to the southern Rockies and West Texas will include 15 below readings in northern Wisconsin and warming during Friday afternoon in the western plains.

Expert Sees Trips to Moon In 40-50 Years

By ROSE ALLEGATO
WPB Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — All aboard for the moon. First call. Passenger service to the moon is in the offing in 40 to 50 years.

"It'll be like flying to Miami," says a short enthusiastic rocket man of V-2 vintage. Krafft A. Ehricke, whose blue eyes brighten perceptibly when he talks of a "cosmic civilization of which we can now only dream," says, "Life on the moon can be very exciting."

In a lively rush of words, he went on: "You only weigh one-sixth your weight. Think of ballet on the moon. I would like to see it. There is so much more possibility to float around before you come down."

He can also envision "many new sports" and video telephone service to the earth. "And I can think of places to build a lunar hotel where the view would be fantastic," he said.

Moon travel will be very much a part of life in a 100 years, according to Ehricke, with initial lunar tourism starting in 40 to 50 years.

The first exploratory expedition to the moon will set off into outerspace sometime between 1964 and 1968. "It is hard to pin down," he said.

The Soviet, he added, has a great propaganda incentive to land its first expedition on the moon in 1967, the 50th anniversary of the October Revolution. "We don't have that incentive, and we can't wait until 1976 either!"

Back to his view of life on the moon, Ehricke pointed out that big TV stations and enormous telescopes could be erected there.

"For the first time we would be able to see planets of other suns," the rocket man said.

With no atmosphere to hamper telescopic probes, men on the moon could discover other solar systems, Ehricke said.

"There is no second earth in this solar system, and fairly definitely no second humanity. We have to look for other intelligences in other solar systems," he went on.

In short, the moon has "enormous potential."

Will Ehricke get to the moon? "Ah, it is the greatest dream of my life. But I'm afraid I will be too old."

RAF Gets 'Chunk' Of Florida Land

LONDON—(AP)—Britain found out today that its Royal Air Force owns a piece of property in Florida. But it will have a hard time putting it to use.

The Palm Beach property was presented to the RAF Central Flying School by U.S. Air Force Maj. Richard A. F. Emmons, formerly of the 48th Technical Fighter Wing stationed here.

Before returning home, Emmons indicated he would make arrangements for the school to establish itself in the United States if it was ever compelled to change its headquarters. And he said he would provide the property.

Now the school has received an impressive warranty deed. It records the fact that Palm Beach Landowners Inc. grants the school an undivided interest to "a certain tract of land" together with "riparian rights" (water rights) bordering Lake Worth and adjacent to several world famous hotels.

But the school isn't planning to move to Florida, nor is it planning to build a hotel on its property.

The land is only one square inch in area — what's more it's understood to be below the water line.

Sudsy Cypress Session

Herald Bureau

CYPRESS GARDENS — Florida will be six feet deep in soap suds Saturday as the world's largest washing machine goes into operation.

Fifty lovely bathing beauties plan to do all of the laundry in the state.

Whoah. Put down those dirty duds and read on.

It's all part of a stunt for a network television program. There really will be 50 pretty girls pouring liquid detergent, and, in a sense, they will be doing "all the laundry in the state."

However, in this case the "state" will be Cypress Garden's swimming pool, which is built in the shape of the state of Florida.

Ed Pickard, publicity director at Cypress Gardens, said over a ton of laundry will be dumped into the pool as outboard motors agitate the water to create suds.

As an added bit of fluff, TV Star Bert Parks, master of ceremonies of "County Fair," will be on hand to pass out some $10,000 worth of prizes to husband and wife teams who will take part in the televised stunt.

2 Cops Quit In Protest

BOYNTON BEACH — Two policemen, Sgt. James A. Erwin and Patrolman Pat M. Murphy, announced Thursday they were resigning from the force in protest over the firing of Police Chief A. C. Carver.

Erwin, who has been with the department for 3½ years, said he could receive no "satisfaction in working for an administration so intolerant to a fellow human being."

Carver was one of half dozen victims of a city hall purge that followed the installation of a new City Commission Monday. He had been chief for 13 years.

Paddy Lists Sugar Ray With Greats

'No. 1 Fight Fan' Likes Gentleman Jim

BY PETE WEITZEL
WPB Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The "number one prize fight fan in America for the past 55 years."

This title is claimed by one Joseph Patrick "Paddy" White, a fascinating Irishman with just a bit of a brogue.

Paddy also claims the title of world's champion clam opener, a popular sport in bygone days. He earned the distinction when he broke apart 100 clams in 3 minutes 29 seconds.

As a youth, he parlayed the title plus schooling at several of New York's finest restaurants into one of Gotham's famous eateries, Paddy's Clam House.

Now 76, Paddy spends the winter months here in a comfortable home at 215 W. 34th St.

And given the chance, he'll keep you listening for hours about the good old days, seafood, philosophy, business or what-have-you.

Mention boxing and he's off, stopping only a couple of minutes for a between round breather.

"I guess I've seen them all, great ones and the not so great," he says, recalling the champions of the past with melancholy.

"Today, they don't seem to want to fight. Look at Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson, he fights only once a year," he shakes his head.

Paddy started his career as a fight fan back in the 1890s. Gentleman Jim Corbett, "the greatest scientific boxer in history, just a picture to watch" was his idol. He went to every Corbett fight he could.

"When Gentleman Jim lost the title he had wrested from the great John L. Sullivan, Paddy's "heart was broken for a month."

But it made him a fight fan and since then, he has witnessed nearly every heavyweight title fight and many championship bouts in the other divisions.

In Paddy's eye, the greatest fighter was Jack Dempsey, and the greatest fight, Dempsey vs. Jess Willard.

Against Willard, he feels, Dempsey was at his peak, "the greatest fighting machine ever." The challenger couldn't come out for the fourth round. "Willard swears that Jack had horseshoes in his gloves that day," Paddy chuckles.

Only one fighter still active in the ring rates in Paddy's critical view as among the top ten of all time — Sugar Ray Robinson.

He recalls the astonishment of a sportswriter when he picked Robinson to beat Carmen Basilio in a return match for the middleweight title.

"But Basilio beat him the first time," the writer declared.

"So did five other boxers," Paddy replied, "and they didn't win the second time around either."

Besides Robinson, the top ten include Heavywieghts Jack Dempsey, James Jeffries, Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Johnson, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano; Middleweight Mickey Walker; and Lightweight Joe Gans.

Nugent Assistant Resigns

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — County Solicitor Charles A. Nugent Thursday announced the resignation of Ralph J. Mabie, 31, his third assistant, effective Feb. 1, to enter private law practice.

MABIE

Mabie will become a member of the law firm of Fulton, Sullivan and Burns, in the Comeau Bldg. here.

A 1956 graduate of the University of Florida Law School, Mabie was appointed to the $7,000-a-year third assistant post by Nugent when Harry L. Michaels, his first assistant, left to join a Tallahassee firm Jan. 1, 1958.

Mabie is the third attorney to resign from the solicitor's staff since Nugent took over the office. Attorney Thomas Johnson resigned from the staff earlier to join a Riviera Beach firm.

Nugent said that Mabie, in submitting his resignation, agreed to remain in office through January so the staff would not be shorthanded while the solicitor is in Bartow this month prosecuting the retrial of former State Senator Harry King on perjury charges.

He said he had no successor in mind but would ask both the senior and junior divisions of the Bar Association to assist in filling the vacancy.

By 3 to 2 Vote

Riviera Cancels Manager Election

Herald Bureau

RIVIERA BEACH—The town of Riviera Beach is calling off its referendum on a town manager.

The referendum tentatively set for next week is being bypassed by a 3 to 2 vote of the Town Council.

The town's charter already provides for the appointment of a manger by the council. The proposed charter amendment would have enumerated the duties of a town manager.

Under existing provisions, the council is not required to appoint a manger. At present there is no town manger.

Councilman Foster Brown is the most vigorous advocate of the town manager referendum. He campaigned on the promise the town manager form of government would be put to a vote of the people.

Brown has received some support from Councilman H. N. Wells.

However, other councilmen took the position that the referendum would not be binding on the council and would not serve any useful purpose.

City Clerk Rose B. Geradi has been autorized to solicit applicants for the town manager's job from the City Managers Assn.

Tears Melt Trooper

New Pup to Console Lynn

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—"She cried so hard I felt sorry for her."

State Trooper R. L. McGhee was talking about 10-year-old Lynn Marie Johnson, who Wednesday afternoon lost her best friend, Sandy, a mongrel advanced in years.

The girl, of 51 Grace Dr., was fishing with her father, Milan, near a dirt road east of the Sunshine Turnpike when she and Sandy took a notion to go exploring.

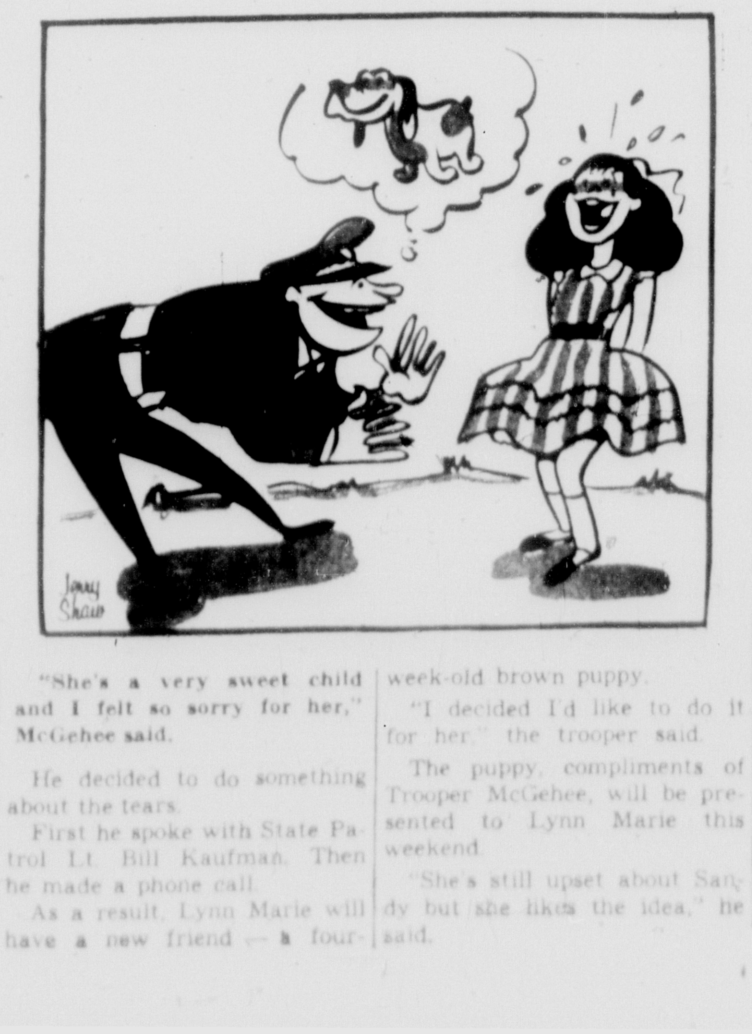
They made their way to the pike and ambled along the road shoulder while traffic whizzed by.

Sandy wandered into the roadway and little Lynn Marie looked on helplessly as a car bore down on her best friend.

Trooper McGehee was summoned to the scene and found Lynn Marie in tears.

"She was hysterical about the dog. She was so upset she could hardly talk. All she could say was the dog ran in front of a car," the trooper said.

He was touched by the tears.



"She's a very sweet child and I felt so sorry for her," McGehee said.

He decided to do something about the tears.

First he spoke with State Patrol Lt. Bill Kaufman. Then he made a phone call.

As a result, Lynn Marie will have a new friend — a four-week-old brown puppy.

"I decided I'd like to do it for her," the trooper said.

The puppy, compliments of Trooper McGehee, will be presented to Lynn Marie this weekend.

"She's still upset about Sandy but she likes the idea," he said.

9 Bus Drivers To Get $23,673 For Discharges

Rehiring Injunction Not Issued

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH—Circuit Judge James R. Knott Thursday awarded $23,673.55 in damages to nine union bus drivers whom he ruled were "wrongfully discharged" by Florida Cities Bus Co.

He declined, however, to issue a mandatory injunction reinstating the drivers becauee the contract with the bus lines on its face had expired and they had other avenues of recourse.

The final decreee climaxed litigation that began in 1956 when the bus company refused to restore O. L. Brown and Harry Varnadore to their jobs when the returned from sick leave.

Refusal of the bus lines to restore the union men to their jobs brought threats of a strike by the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, of which they were members.

The union itself was a party to the suit which consisted of individual suits brought by the discharged employes and consolidated by the court.

When the strike threats erupted in the hassle over two employes, the bus company went into court and asked for and obtained an injunction, holding arbitration was provided in the contract with the union.

Later several other union bus drivers claimed they were discharged without cause by Mrs. Helen Combes, president of Florida Cities, who they charged was trying to "break the union."

These various facets of the case were outlined in the final decree handed down by the court, which stated:

"The bus company successfully invoked the jurisdiction of this court to enforce the arbitration provisions of the contract as against the union, requiring the union to arbitrate, and obtained an injunction prohibiting a strike pending arbitration proceedings.

"The bus company then repudiated and renounced the arbitration provisions, refused to arbitrate and declined to recognize the award of the arbitration board" which had ruled for reinstatement of the drivers."

The decree went on to say, "The court finds the individual plaintiff employes were wrongfully discharged and are entitled to be reinstated."

It left the way open for the discharged employes to seek other legal redress.

Russell J. McIntosh, counsel for the union drivers indicated that action had already been taken.

The damage awards to the drivers were:

Homer Wood, $1,637; R. C. Denny, $1,883; M. M. Smith, $3,438; T. E. Morgan, $2,081; C. E. Thompson, $2,730; Henry Carver, $1,821; Harry Varnadore, $3,616; O. L. Brown, $4,278, and Ernest Friedel, $2,104, plus recovery of $64 costs from the defendant bus co.

It could not be determined immediately whether the bus company plans an appeal.

Martin Hits Lake Water Discharge

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Martin County commissioners Friday will renew their protests to the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Board against the discharge of fresh water through the St. Lucie canal.

The protest will be contained in a resolution which will be taken up at the regular monthly meeting of the board of governors.

There is nothing new about the opposition of Martin County to the practice of sending Lake Okeechobee overflow waters into the ocean via the canal.

Martin County interests have been declaring for years that the procedure ruins fishing, deposits silt and otherwise damages the St. Lucie inlet at Stuart.

ANN

DEAR ANN: We've been married 10 years. My wife and I have had some flare-ups, but I don't thing we fight more than most married people (who are honest, that is).

I work for a large concern and have been promoted four times since we married. Each promotion has meant moving to another city.

The first time we moved I noticed my wife had a footlocker filled with old love letters, pictures, souvenirs and junk from previous boy friends. She collected ashtrays from restaurants every time she had a date. They are all labeled. She has dancing shoes (also labeled) from 1945. The foot locker weighs about 100 pounds.

I used to be irked at having the stuff around but I never said a word. I no longer care, but I'm tired of hauling it around the country. Now would be an ideal time to get rid of it but I hate to look like a jealous husband. Shall I say something? — SPHINX

Dear Sphinx: This "junk" belongs to your wife. If she wants to haul it all over the world for the next hundred years, let her. You've been a real shrewdie to keep your lip zipped. Don't spoil it now.

When your wife matures she'll be able to throw the stuff out of her own accord. So long as she wants to drag it around, it means she needs support for a sagging ego.

DEAR ANN: I read in your column recently about a father who never showed his seven-year-old daughter any affection. What do you think about a father who has three lovely children and ignores them all?

The only time the children know for sure they have a father is when they do something he doesn't like. He's right there to dole out the punishment. Otherwise you wouldn't know he lived under the same roof. I've never known him to give one of his children a compliment since they've been born.

Don't suggest professional help. He knows more than the experts. Just print this letter so he can see how he looks through someone else's eyes. Maybe if he sees this in the newspaper it may get through to his peanut brain that something's wrong with his attitude. — Mother of Three Fatherless Children

Dear Mother: That hunk of ice you're living with was probably raised in a deep-freeze. (What are your in-laws like?)

The dad who functions only as a punitive agency had better prepare for a lonesome old age.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I am 17 years old. Two years ago I went with a fellow who ruined my reputation. He was three years older and my parents warned me that he was bad medicine.

I didn't get into serious trouble, fortunately, but he spread the word all over that I was an easy mark.

The thing that hurt me most was his telling everyone he gave me the air. This was not true. I was the one who broke it off. It took me six months to get over the hurt.

Last week I ran into this guy at the roller rink. He was so attentive I almost fainted. He said I had grown more beautiful than ever and that he'd like to take me out again. He hasn't called yet but I'm sure he will. I'd love to go out with him just to show everyone. Don't you thing I've got this coming? — GRETCHEN

So you'd like to go out with "Bad Medicine" to "show everyone?" And exactly what would you be showing them—that you can get hit by a truck twice?

The only good thing about a bad experience is that we sometimes learn from it. Stay away from this character who caused you so much grief. He could do it again.

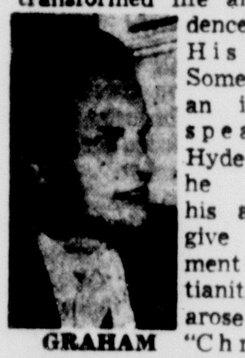
My Answer

Universe Is Evidence Of God

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: In my work I am daily thrown in contact with a man who is an athiest. He is so much better educated than I am and so much smarter that I cannot argue with him to do any good.

ANSWER: There are two arguments against which unbelievers cannot stand — a transformed life and the evidences of God in His creation. Some time ago an infidel was speaking in Hyde Park and he challenged his audience to give one argument for Christianity. A man arose and said, "Christ has made a new man out of me. Some of you here know how I was in the gutter from drink, how my life was impure and how every sentence I spoke was emphasized with an oath. My home was broken up, my business gone and I was a social outcast.



GRAHAM

"One night I accepted Jesus Christ as my Saviour and from that moment I have never had the desire to drink, nor do I take His name in vain. My family is reunited and I now have a good job. Christ did this for me."

The other evidence of God which all men can see is the universe and this world in which we live. These things did not just happen. They are not held together by the caprice of nature. The more we study nature the more we realize the infinite varieties and amazing laws which work in them. This is overwhelming evidence of an infinite wisdom and power behind them.

Let me suggest that you do not argue with this acquaintance but pray for him. Also ask God to give you the power to live before him in such a way that he must see Christ living in you. You may be used to lead him to God and His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. Remember you cannot drive him by human arguments, no matter how logical they may seem.

Missions Hit In Africa

JOHANNESBURG — (AP) — The Catholic bishops conference reports 24 Roman Catholic mission schools for Africans have had to close since the passing of the Bantu Education Act in 1953.

Battle Leads To Marriage

NAPLES — (AP) — Margarita Bettelli, 27, sails this week for Venezuela to become a bride in a romance that began with a note in a bottle cap.

A year ago Margarita wrote the note, saying she would like to visit Venezuela. She put it in the bottle cap at the plant where she worked. Two months later she received a letter from Franco Mule, a tailor in Maraciabo. He had found her note. Correspondence and plans for the wedding followed.

It's a Pleasure

LONDON —(UPI)— Robert Barker, 63, prosecuted by Jennifer A. Lavender, 25, for illegal street trading, was fined $1.40 after observing "it's the first time I've ever been prosecuted by such a charming young lady."

Mongolians Deny Uprisings

LONDON — (AP) — Outer Mongolia's Montsame News Agency denied reports of armed uprisings in that Soviet puppet state.

The agency, quoted by Radio Moscow, called the reports "a crude invention from start to finish and a piece of foul slander against the Mongolian People's Republic."

The Chinese Nationalists on Taipei said last week a revolt that began in the highlands of Tibet has swept across northwest China to Outer Mongolia.
